WORK ON AIRPORT IS STARTED

Local CWA Payroll Over $9,000 Weekly

CLUB HOUSES FOR COMMUNITY USE PLANNED

Made Possible Through CWA Funds; Work On Four May Start Soon

Plans are being formulated through the CWA program in the county for the possible construction of several community clubhouses throughout the county, according to information from Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent, who has been active in the campaign for the club centers.

Surveys are being conducted in fifteen communities in all sections of the county, in an effort to determine the approximate amount of materials that may be donated in each section for the purpose of constructing clubhouses; and the work of erection will be done through the CWA program, it is understood.

At present, it is hoped that work may begin immediately on four of the proposed buildings—one in each commissioners district—and others are to be built about these centers, according to the present plans.

Members of the Clanton Pilot Club are taking an active interest in the proposed building at Clanton. Efforts are being made to construct this building from field stone. R. A. Bridges, CWA engineer for Chilton county, has drafted several types of buildings for these clubhouses, from stone and logs.

These buildings are to be used for 4-H club meetings, home demonstration work, and for general community use. Plans call for 44 by 28 feet outside dimensions, housing an ample assembly room, a kitchen, and a cloak room.

Rev. J. T. Nelson Will Celebrate 101 Birthd'y

Today is an important day—a very important day—for the Rev. J. T. Nelson, venerable Baptist minister, who is celebrating his 101st. birthday.

Celebrating the first birthday on the second century, the venerable minister has the appearance of being little more than 70; and were it not for the handicap of being almost blind, he would be able to get about with much more sprightness than can be shown by many a half-century younger.

Last year thousands of persons traveled miles to join in the celebration of his 100th. anniversary. Again this year, he cordially invites his friends and acquaintances to attend the dinner that will be given in his honor. This year his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Waites, 78, will come from Kernes, Texas, to be with him.

Clanton, Alabama

Dear Mr. Smith:

Looking back upon one year and forward to another, I am prompted to express through your paper my deep gratitude and sincere appreciation to the good people of Chilton County for the friendly spirit of co-operation given me and their Reemployment Organization, since I have been here.

We admit we have experienced some dissatisfaction caused through misconception or misunderstanding, but such cases have been few. I shall appreciate a continuation of that co-operative spirit through the New Year, in our work for a common cause.

Yours very truly,
C. G. STOKES, Manager
National Reemployment Service for Chilton County.

Adopt Resolution Asking The Governor To Call For Special Session

Declaring that unless a special session of the Legislature is convened to provide funds for the continuance of the schools, lack of funds will necessitate the closing of their doors within the next few weeks. Thousands of pupils will face the tragedy of not being able

BUILDING OF BRIDGE OVER COOSA NEARER

Data Of Costs Of Material And Labor Is Being Gathered Now

The possibilities for the construction of a bridge spanning the Coosa River, at a point just below Mitchell Dam, and connecting Coosa and Chilton counties seems a bit more favorable this week, according to Judge Reynolds.

Members of the commissioners court and Judge Reynolds, with several citizens interested in the promotion of the project, held a consultation with State highway authorities, last Wednesday, in regard to the probabilities of constructing the bridge.

Although it seems impossible to construct the bridge according to plans first outlined, and discussions held indicate a general disfavor toward a toll bridge, Judge Reynolds expressed the belief that there is a possibility of working out a plan whereby the Federal and State appropriations may be used for materials and the bulk of work taken care of under the CWA allotment to the county.

Data of the costs of materials and labor for the construction of the approximately 800 foot span is being assembled, and it is expected that further plans will be formulated at an early date, it was indicated.

Girl Injured In Accident Last Sunday

Miss Nellie Grant, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Grant, of Cooper, is in the Central Alabama Hospital, Clanton, where she is being treated for a broken jaw and severe lacerations about the neck and face, sustained when she fell from a truck on the highway, near Clanton, Sunday afternoon.

Enroute to Clanton to attend the singing at the court house, she is said to have been thrown from the flat bed of the truck when she attempted to stand; and suffered a broken jaw and severe lacerations about her face and neck—one cut under the chin being several inches long and necessitating several stitches.

She was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital, where aides said Monday that it is not believed that she suffered any internal injuries.

COLORED SINGERS RECEIVE APPRECIATION OF PEOPLE

Much comment, pleasing comment, has been heard in Clanton since Christmas Eve night on the splendid singing by a group of colored singers who made a round of Clanton singing Christmas carols on that night.

Many of those who heard them possibly never knew from whom rose that good singing, and investigation showed that Benjamin Anderson, who is the vocational agriculture teacher at the colored county training school, was in the group.

Many people of Clanton have commented favorably on this serenade and wish to express their thanks to Benjamin and his singers for the manner in which they brought out the true Christmas spirit in their carols.

Local merchants and business men declared this week that business in Clanton during the Christmas season totalled a higher figure than the combined business of the past three years.

With a CWA payroll in the county of nearly $10,000 per week, the possibilities loom bright for the most prosperous year that Chilton County has

GOVERNMENT APPROPRIATES OVER $20,000

Air Enthusiasts Realize Their Dream Of Preparing For Coming Years

LARGE HANGAR TO BE BUILT ON AIRPORT

Fifty men began work Tuesday morning on Chilton County's new airport, clearing away trees and other debris in preparation for grading and leveling the sixty-acre site for a landing field. Under the supervision of R. A. Bridges, CWA engineer, and T. J. Arledge, county engineer, the work got off to a good start.

With an appropriation from the Federal Government to exceed $20,000 for the improvement of the contour of the site and for the construction of hangars and other buildings, the new airport promises to be one of the best small aviation fields in the entire State.

Situated on the proposed passenger and airmail route from Nashville to Montgomery, and possibly to Miami, the progress of the Clanton field is being eagerly watched by aeronautic authorities throughout the country. For some time the government has been interested in maintaining a field here, because of the central location between

Dr. Baker Has Made Survey Of Jr. Schools

Upon the invitation of Superintendent of Education Luther E. Little, Dr. N. R. Baker, of the State Department of Education, recently made a survey of the 11 schools in Chilton county that are doing junior high school work; and his report is being eagerly awaited by teachers and educational authorities in the county.

Since the inauguration of the junior high school idea in Alabama, eleven years ago, only 65 schools doing junior high work have been approved by the State Department of Education as meeting the qualifications.

Although Chilton's schools are doing efficient work, Mr. Little expressed fear that inadequate equipment may prevent the State Department's approval.

SCHOOLS MAY CLOSE DOORS UNLESS AIDED

Supt. Little Expresses Hope It May Be Possible To Complete Grades

Approximately 7,000 school children trekked back to recitations, and began preparation for mid-term examinations in the sixty-five schools in Chilton county, Monday, following the Christmas holiday season.

Too, some one hundred-eighty-nine teachers resumed the task of imparting knowledge to these 7,000 youngsters. Again the schools became places of excitement as the pupils described various pranks in which they participated during the holidays, the youngsters enthusiastically comparing notes on the generosity of Santa Claus, and all lamenting the necessity of banning everything from their thoughts—in a united preparation for "mid-terms."

School authorities, this week, were unable to say definitely just how long the schools will be able to continue this year; but Supt. Luther E. Little has expressed hopes that it will be possible to make the terms of necessary length to allow pupils to complete grades.

Thoughts Of Jerusalem

As Christmas passes and the old year gives way to the new, thoughts of Jerusalem, the Holy Land, appear in thousands of minds—and the sentiments those thoughts express are etched in thousands of hearts. No place in the world, not even those imagined places beyond the atmosphere of the world we know, has exerted so strong and unfailing an influence on the imaginations of mankind as has the Cradle of Christianity.

In Jerusalem, practically unchanged through nineteen hundred years, are the scenes that Christ knew. The age-old hills of Judea remain through time, as do the green pastures and still waters of Biblical significance. The Garden of Gethsemane is there, and the Cradle of Jesus. The River Jordan, by its name the mightiest of all the rivers of the world, flows on as ever, serenely to the sea. And in quiet Palestine are the streets and buildings that were old before the Christian calendar began. The Plain of Sharon is still fruitful, and the rose of which Solomon sang in the most majestic of all poetry, blooms profusely. And there is Cana of Galilee, scene of the wedding feast, and Nazareth, where the carpenter who was to change all the civilized world, grew to manhood. Not an inch of earth but is rich in history, and in the lore of ages. Not a scene but brings to mind some stirring passage from the Testaments.

No journey offers the traveler so much in historical importance, in the pleasures of meditation and study. It is a strange fact that but one in two hundred of the ministers who preach the gospel in this country, have ever visited Palestine. But one in thousands of their congregations have set foot on the ground that the prophets trod. Palestine is beside creed, beside denominations—it embraces them all, and its history belongs to all. Those who are so fortunate as to go to it, once, twice or a dozen times, are to be envied.

Costly Ventures With Fire

The man who heard the fleas could be eliminated from his home by spreading a thin layer of dry hay under the building and setting it afire, probably was blood-relation to those persons who persist in setting fire to fields in order to "enrich the land."

The man who had been troubled by fleas saw his home destroyed and frequently similar destruction follows the fires that are started in fields or woods. Flames are easy to start but frightfully hard to stop on occasions.

There are more fires in winter than at other seasons because more persons resort to flames in attempting to destroy dead things, such as grass, leaves and undergrowth. All such ventures are fraught with peril and, if undertaken at all, should be undertaken with the greatest care and under conditions where the spread of the fire to home or other valuable property will be impossible.

Not only is great monetary loss imposed by carelessness in these matters, but the annual toll of human life is great, and the importance of care cannot be too strongly emphasized. —Tuscaloosa News.

"$1,000,000 For Alabama Schools"

One million dollars for Alabama schools is the heading of an advertisement appearing in this issue of the News from the Alabama Power Company.

The Alabama Power Company again shows its big heart and gladly comes forward with checks for its taxes in advance of the payment date in order that many teachers over Alabama could receive their salary checks.

Quoting the power company, "The total annual payment for Taxes and Licenses of this Company will amount to almost $2,200,000 for 1933. Of this amount more than $1,000,000 goes directly and indirectly to the support of State, County and Municipal educational institutions."

This is quite a large sum, especially when it is so badly needed by our schools and the News feels a most friendly attitude toward the power company for its interest in our educational system to the extent of paying its enormous amount of taxes in advance.

Will Our City School Close Right Away?

Will our city school in Clanton close its doors with a six months school this year, for the lack of a small amount of funds with which to run seven and a half months?

It is being talked around town, so the News understands, that it might be possible to get the City to supplement the school funds and enable a seven and a half months school this year. It is also estimated that it will only take between twelve hundred and thirteen hundred dollars to do this.

Now that our city officials have been economical enough to show a great decrease in indebtedness and are apparently on the upward road to progress, may the News suggest that they attempt to make some arrangements through which this amount could be had for the grammar school?

Heretofore, in past years, the city has been able to assist financially in the operation of the grammar school, and it would certainly show up well if they could come to the rescue of the school this year in an amount slightly exceeding twelve hundred dollars.

The Modern Small Home

The small home of the future will be a very different sort of a place than that of the past. It will offer, at a very moderate price, advantages, conveniences and comforts that were unknown even in the mansions of another time. It will be more attractive to the eye, and offer infinitely greater possibilities for originality in design and treatment. And, most important of all perhaps, it will provide the maximum of protection against fire, tornadoes, hurricanes and other destructive elements.

The objectives to be attained in the modern home, are low first cost, low depreciation, low maintenance and long-time economy. And for three and four or five thousand dollars, distinctive homes embracing all these features, may be had.

In the not-too-distant future there is going to be a residential building boom in this country. America is "short" thousands of homes—population drift, coupled with fire and obsolescence and other destroyers, have continued to increase the housing need at a time when building of all kinds has been at the absolute bottom. The wise home builder, using modern materials and methods, is going to get more for what he spends than the home builder of the past imagined would ever be possible.

"Old Kimbro" Retires

Newspapers in Alabama will learn wth regret that J. L. Kimbro has sold his Opp Weekly News and that he has no immediate plans for re-entering newspaper work. Mr. Kimbro is a salty and forceful writer, and an honest man who does not hesitate to declare the faith that is in him wherever any proper public question is involved. We dare say that one who loves journalism as Mr. Kimbro does will not forever deny himself the pleasure of editing a newspaper.

Mr. William T. Benson, a young business man of Opp, has bought The Weekly News. He comes of excellent family and is a capable business man. It does not appear that he has before been identified with newspaper work, but, being a youngster, he may quickly demonstrate a faculty for that calling. The Advertiser wishes both the outgoing editor and the incoming editor all possible success. —Montgomery Advertiser.

No Open Saloons

President Roosevelt has appealed, indirectly of course, because a Federal officer must be careful about interfering in State matters, to the Legislature of Missouri to guard against enactment of liquor control legislation which would permit the return of the open saloon.

In a telegram to the chairman of the Democratic State Committee he declared he had "great confidence that our party leaders will respect pledges made to the electorate and will provide legislation that will make impossible the return of the open saloon and all its attendant evils."

That is one of the fights of those who led and those who jumped on the wet bandwagon. And it is the especial duty of those who led in the fight for repeal to help guard against the return of an open saloon evil.

—Montgomery Advertiser.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

Recently I sat in the pew of a beautiful church and seeing a large rugged nail as it was driven about half up in the polished wainscoating, I called attention to it. The friend sitting by me made reply, "I would suppose that the nail was driven there to commemorate the coming of some member of this church, with the promise to draw it out when he came again." Then both of us said, "Eviedntly he has never been back." I have never understood how some folks can get their consent to drive jagged nails and tacks into polished church walls, or furnishings, unless it is to celebrate the coming of some folks to worship. If such church members would come and observe how badly such things look in polished walls, they would certainly return and have the nails pulled. How many rusty nails are in your church wall waiting for you to return so that they may be pulled?

I stood on the road side and watched a wrecker as it was pulling a car out of the mire. A large chain was used. The chain seemed to have the strength to pull any car from any position, but evidently there was a weak link. When the power was turned on, the car moved a little and "Snap" went the chain. There were fifty other strong links to that chain, but they were powerless because of the one link that was weak. When the link had broken the garage man replaced it with a new link and then the car came out of the mire. If you are a Christian you are a link in God's chain that He is using to lift the world out of sin. If you are a weak Christian, you are likely to break at the very moment when the lifting of a soul is to be done. It is tragic for you and for the lost soul when you break under the power of God as He pulls a soul toward Himself. Be as strong as new steel when God applies His power, and be certain that your link will not break.

Many a time have I stood by the miller and watched him as he ground the community meal. I have observed him as he would place his hand under the spout and test the meal between his fingers. If the meal was too fine or too coarse, he would move his rock so as to make it right. This man knew his customers and he was loved and trusted by all. He did his best to see that each customer had the quality of meal that was needed. Some folks seem to think that God set His rock of Providence in the beginning of time and that He has never had anything more to do with it. Like that community miller, God is standing by the hopper and is grinding out the things that we most need. He is ever adjusting the mill rock of His Providences so that we will receive just the things that will serve us best. God's universe is a great machine, but it is still under the close supervision of the One who keeps watch over His own. Nothing comes to us until it has gone between the testing fingers of our God.

I was invited into the office of the train master of a railroad. This man knew his business. For hundreds of miles the steel stretched itself and on that steel there were many passenger trains and freight trains moving in opposite directions. That train master knew every moment where all the trains were, and he guided each one so as to avoid danger of collisions. He issued the orders that would put one train on the side track and that would let another go by. It was great to sit beside this master of trains and see him as he directed each train from the touch of his finger. Up in heaven there is a Trainmaster of the Universe, God knows where we are and if we will obey orders, He will be able to guide us. Have you not felt some times that God had put you in the hole and let someone else go by? God knows what is best. It is God who is doing His best to direct us so that we can run into the station on high without a wreck. Obey the orders from your Train-Master.

I saw a freight engine pulling a grade with forty loaded cars. Just as the engine reached the top of the grade the valve lifted and there was the escape of steam. That mogul had sufficient power to pull the grade and then a surplus when the hard pull was over. How many church members stall on the grades? A hard pull always means a lot of wheezing and sneezing. Fire up my friends and get a good head of religious steam, and then you can climb any grade and be shouting happy when the test of strength is behind you. Blessed is the man who can shout when he reaches the top of the hill.

The New Year

By Mrs. L. C. Williams

The morning was bright and cold, and while I slept a new guest came all muffled in furs and wound about with heavy robes, and too, she came without many of us thinking of the wondrous changes she brings. In thinking of the many changes she brings, it calls my attention to the scripture: "The time and place that know us now will soon know us no more."

To how many of us is the New Year a welcome visitor? And too, how many of us have done our duty to the dead year that has passed forever? How many are ready and can truly say that I did my best to make 1933 a success and are ready to clasp hands with 1934, and say, "Welcome, delightful morn"? If we do our part in left and truly and willingly fill the places assigned us, the flight of time is not unwelcome, and when God shall see fit to call us we will be willing and ready to go. The young with a long life seeming before them, the year seems long and full of sunshine; to the old who have but a few days left, it seems indeed short, yet life is not measured by years alone, but by golden deeds and thoughts, by this standard some who live to be three score and ten do not live as long as others who die in early youth. How necessary then is it for us to live an honest, upright, useful life. We may easily lengthen our days by living a refined, serviceable life. What can one regret more, when the noon-tide of life has passed, than a misspent life? Do you suppose that Dives when he realized his deplorable condition in a burning hell thought of a misspent life? Now we should each of us, think of the fleeting golden moments that God has given us, and utilize the time to our advantage and His glory. So here is a New Year wish for all: May we keep growing, you and I, learning sweet truths in sweetest way, living in sunshine every day.

IN MEMORY OF MR. J. H. CARTER

On December 29th at the break of day our Almighty God called dear grandfather and he made his earthly departure, going out of our midst to his heavenly home.

He was born in Autauga county on May 18th, 1854. Having spent his childhood days there, and at the age of nineteen, he was united in marriage to Miss Laura Josephine Spigener. There were ten children born in the family and eight are living.

In 1899, they made their home in Chilton county for twenty-eight years, later returning to Billingsley in Autauga county in 1927. Remaining there until his death.

He had been ill for only a short while, but all was done for him that was in the power of earthly hands. Do not weep, dear friends and relatives, although we are suffering a great loss, but it is his eternal gain. There is a vacant place in our hearts that can never be filled for we know all that knew him, loved him and cherished him for his kind and tender words and his loving sympathy. He was a loyal Christian, believing in the Lord Jesus Christ and he had often remarked that he was "ready" and that his work on earth was complete.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Laura Carter, three sons and five daughters: Mr. T. H. Carter of Birmingham, Mr. W. J. Carter of Tararnt, Mr. J. F. Carter of Fairfield, Mrs. B. H. Wallace of Birmingham, Mrs. G. L. Giles of Birmingham, Mrs. C. P. Jones of Clanton, Mrs. E. J. Jackson of Clanton, and Mrs. W. W. Fox of Billingsley, one brother, Mr. Andrew Carter, of Birmingham. There were twenty grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The pallbearers were six of his grandsons: Mr. J. B. Gaines of Birmingham, Mr. Leon Carter of Birmingham, Mr. J. W. Giles of Birmingham, Mr. Rubert Giles of Birmingham, Mr. Tommie Carter of Fairfield, and Mr. Johnnie Fox of Billingsley.

He was laid to rest at Big Springs, with Rev. G. G. Williams conducting the services, also Rev. J. W. Giles, a grandson, who is a young minister, spoke a few comforting words to our saddened and heavy hearts. Martin & Sons were in charge of the burial.

—Written by his loving granddaughter, [illegible]

Baker School News

We are starting on a New Year now and let's everybody strive to do better than we ever have.

We have just gotten back in school from spending our Christmas holidays. Everyone seemed to have had a nice time during Christmas and when they came back to school just went right to work like they had not missed a day.

Our Musical Concert on Friday night before Christmas was really a success, and I am sure everyone who came really saw their dime's worth. At least I believe everyone would tell you that. We surely hope so anyway.

We have just received a new supply of library books. I think we all will enjoy these.

Tread Contour Changes Add To Tire Mileage

Goodyear Truck Pneumatic Have Greater Road Contact for Load Distribution

Rapid strides in highway transportation have caused many changes in equipment during the past five years and among thees improvements refinements in truck tires have played an important part.

"One of the interesting developments has been the change in contour of the truck tire," according to Dief's Service Station, local Goodyear dealers. "For a number of years the tread contour of Goodyear truck tires has been undergoing a change until the truck operator is now assured of the utmost in mileage.

"Former contour included a somewhat high shoulder with the tread surface narrower than now provided by Goodyear," it was stated. "Tread shape on a truck tire is highly important, as it must be flat enough and wide enough to wear long and evenly and to distribute the load over the widest possible area to prevent separation of tread and carcass.

"Of course the fabric in a tire flexes millions of times an hour during operation, and the truck tire must not be so wide or so flat that localized flexing at the edge or shoulder will cause fabric or shoulder break. In this regard Goodyear has a decided advantage in its use of Supertwist cord which, due to its difference in construction, is able to stretch, compress and flex to a far greater extent than ordinary cord, preventing fabric breaks and adding mileage to the tire.

"Through this and other improvements the truck operator now gets more for his money when he buys tires," Mr. Dief concluded.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

Back, ready for the old grind again after a week of Christmas celebration. Monday was the first day of the year and the time for resolutions and here's hoping everyone will keep the resolutions he made. We are coming back to school looking forward to a full term. Are we going to be disappointed? Are those Seniors who have been looking forward to their day of graduation for the past twelve years going to be denied the chance to graduate this year from their ole Alma Mater? No! Our citizens will not see their successors beaten down without any chance at all. The future of Clanton, of Chilton County and of the State of Alabama rests upon the shoulders of the boys and girls in the schools of this state. The state that has the schools, has the future. We students ask for a full term. Prospects for a full term are bright, however, and it is generally thought that we will be given the golden opportunity of a full term of school.

Mid-term review is now underway, everyone is preparing for the crucial days, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. On these three days the mid-term examinations will be given. The periods for test will be one hour and a half in length. The examinations will be taken on the regular examination pads used by the University of Alabama, and most high schools of the state.

Watch out in the near future for an announcement from the Senior Class in regard to their first play. Remember that the Senior Class of this year is the same Junior Class of last year that staged that well remembered "Girl Shy". Everyone recalls that play and the crowded house it was presented to. Enough said.

Due to lack of space the brief biography of members of our faculty will be continued until next week.

It was Dixie Johnson last week in Who Am I? Try this one. It won't be so easy: I am a Senior High student, very attractive, a brunette, like to dance, considered to be an intelligent student, love to have a good time, like caramel candy. Of course I am a girl.

The members of the faculty of the Chilton County High School were the guests of Mrs. Hugh Jones, President of the local P.-T. A., at a lovely tea on Monday afternoon of this week.

Chilton will play her first basketball game tomorrow, Friday, night when she meets Billingsley at Billingsley.

Where the members of the faculty spent the holidays:

Miss Clyde Smilie, Fitzpatrick, Ala., Miss Margaret Kendrick, Luverne, Miss Sarah Colley, Troy, Miss Josephine Martin, Birmingham, Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, Billingsley, Miss Frances Gulledge, Verbena, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Vaughn, Frisco City, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Searcy, Jr., Clayton and Gadsden, Mr. J. B. Varnell, Chattanooga, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Warr, remained in Clanton.

Basketball practice under Coach Searcy is coming along splendidly. Watching our boys go through practice in the afternoons will cause one to expect a winning team this year.

All the students are busy preparing term papers and other book reports for the closing of the first semester. This will not be a difficult task, thanks to our wonderful library, with its shelves of books, picked for their educational value and also the efficient corps of librarians.

Side Quit Hurting, Got Stronger, Well; CARDUI Helped Her

WOMEN! Get rid of the handicaps of a weak, debilitated condition with the assistance of Cardui.

Mrs. R. L. West, of Huntsville, Ala., writes: "I was weak and run-down. I had a pain in my side, and I kept losing weight. I grew nervous over my condition — this was unusual for me, for I am very cheerful when I am well and don't easily get nervous. I knew I ought to take something. My aunt told me I ought to try Cardui, which I did. I began to feel better. I kept it up until I had taken three or four bottles. My side quit hurting and I was soon feeling strong and well."

F. Loyd Tate Enters Circuit Judge Race

The political show in this section continues to promise entertainment for voters. In the arena appears another candidate this week.

With the announcement from Judge F. Loyd Tate, circuit judge from the circuit composed of Chilton, Elmore and Autauga counties, that he will make the race to succeed himself, the political scope widens.

To the people of this section, Judge Tate needs no introduction, having served the citizenship of this circuit in several official capacities through the past twenty years—he is one of the most prominently known, and most popular men in this section of the state.

Admitted to the bar in Elmore County more than twenty-five years ago, Judge Tate has been closely connected with all civic movements in his and surrounding counties for sometime. Serving this circuit for twelve years as circuit solicitor, he built for himself the reputation of an uncompromising but fair law enforcement officer.

He also served for some time as supernumerary judge, filling capacities where vacancies occurred over the State. Too, he served this circuit as a special judge for one term, while a vacancy existed.

Elected two years ago to fill the unexpired term of Judge George F. Smoot, Judge Tate asks the citizenship of the three counties to re-elect him.

SPECIAL SESSION

to make their grades, thus wasting another year

The petition further states that only in the Governor is vested the power to call a special session; and a special plea is made that he consider the disaster likely to result from ignoring this condition, and convene the body with special instructions to take up only emergency school problems.

Following is the resolution verbatim:

WHEREAS, unless prompt and effective measures are taken, nearly all of the public schools in Alabama will within the next sixty days close their doors for lack of operating funds; and

WHEREAS, the only means by which such funds can be provided is through a Special Session of the Legislature, and

WHEREAS, we cannot but believe that the Governor, in whom alone is vested the authority, would call such a Special Session if assured that the schools of the State would thereby be saved and that the Legislative Session would not be unduly prolonged; and

WHEREAS, other American Legion Posts throughout the State are taking similar action to this common purpose:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Chilton County Post of the American Legion, that we do earnestly request the members of the State Legislature from this County to pledge themselves that in the event the Governor should issue a call for an extraordinary session of the Legislature, they will vote for such legislation as they conscientiously believe to be for the best interests of the State, for the purpose of keeping our schools open, that they will not introduce nor vote for any bills not included in the Governor's call, and that, having attended to such necessary business as expeditiously as possible, they will vote for an adjournment of such extraordinary session.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Post Adjutant forward a copy of this Resolution to each member of the Legislature from this county, with the respectful but earnest request for a prompt and definite reply.

Attempted Suicide Victim To Leave Hopital

Stewart Armstrong, 25-year-old youth of Clanton, who fired a bullet into his chest little more than a week ago in an effort to end his life, was reported by aides at the Central Alabama Hospital, Wednesday, to be "getting along fine," and is expected to be dismissed some time this week if his condition continues favorable.

Shot through the left lung, barely missing the heart, little hope was held for his recovery, when he was rushed to the hospital little more than a week ago, after he had placed the muzzle of a 32-calibre pistol against his chest and pulled the trigger.

Armstrong has been an employe of The Union-Banner for some time; and is said to have often threatened to shoot himself.

AIRPORT

Maxwell Field in Montgomery, and Roberts Field, in Birmingham.

Local aviation boosters have been interested for some time in the promotion of a locally-owned field in the vicinity of Clanton; and recently when the Federal Government made an extensive appropriation for the promotion of aviation, these men began at once to obtain an appropriation for Clanton—with the result that local authorities have recently been notified that more than $20,000 has been appropriated to this project.

Dr. V. J. Gragg, Clanton physician and surgeon—and a candidate on the Democratic ticket for senator from this district, has been one of the foremost workers for the Clanton field. Through his efforts, W. C. Hoppin, airport expert of Washington, D. C., was sent here to study possible sites for a landing field, selecting the site on which the field is to be located. Later, Dr. Gragg was instrumental in getting Major Smith, chairman of the American Legion Aeronautics committee, to come before the county commissioners court and explain the advantages of a county-owned aviation field.

In addition to the permanent value to be received by the county from the prestige and convenience of its airport, hundreds of men will be given employment during its construction, it was explained.

One of the outstanding features will be a steel hangar, ample to house three planes. Too, it is believed that Clanton will receive one of the three big beacon lights that are being installed in Alabama airports.

CWA PROJECTS

made to county property through the program.

At present 19 projects are underway, including surveys intended to beautify homes and public buildings and the grounds; eight road projects; an airport; several bridges; and several draining projects that will provide better health conditions for hundreds of families. Several new projects have been approved and work on some of these is expected to begin at an early date.

One of the outstanding features of the program is a plan whereby several clubhouses are to be built throughout the county, to be used as community centers.

Another commendable group of projects is the erecting and remodeling of three school buildings in the county. At Cooper, an entirely new building of field stone is being erected, housing four classrooms and an auditorium. Malcolm Manning, one of the best builders in the county, is in charge of this project and work is being afforded for ten skilled men and 18 unskilled men. Other school projects are renovations and additions to Collins Chapel Junior High and the Enterprise Junior High buildings.

In each of these projects Superintendent Little explained that an emergency hazard is being overcome, providing for more efficient training of the student bodies.

ever known. There exists an optimism in the minds of the people that has been absent since the first slump that led to the depression that held the country in its throes for four years.

No longer does the man in the street greet his friends with some allusion to the "depression," or some stock phrase regarding the hard times, but everyone seems to be facing the future with renewed hope and a determination to make this year a successful one.

Inaugurating the new year with this spirit will mean much toward the writing of its history. Time has proved that all conditions affecting the progress of the human race are largely mental.

Should '34 stride over its predecessor as did '33, another year will wipe out all traces of a depression. Looking back over some of the important evolutions that have taken place during 1933, it is hard to conceive that so much distress could be relieved in twelve months.

On another page in this issue of the Chilton County News is carried an extensive chronology of important events of the past year, which shows that 1933 surpassed any year in peace-time history in the making of front page headlines.

OUTLOOK FOR SCHOOLS BRIGHTER

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

The political pot in Chilton County has reached the boiling point, and from what we can hear—there's danger to quite a few skins. The adage, 'a burnt child dreads the fire' seems to enjoy an exception where politics are concerned. There's an ego in the make-up of a politician that seems to make it next to impossible for him to "see himself as others see him." But perhaps this is an advantage in keeping down the suicide and homicide records.

This week we bring to you the announcement of J. Lee Smith, Mayor of Clanton, who recently filed papers entering the race for probate judge of Chilton County. Mayor Smith declares that he is the in the race to win. That's the spirit that makes the old fight interesting.

As mayor of Clanton, Mr. Smith shows figures of the reduction of the Town's debts some $28,000 during the hardest years of the depression. Both he and Dr. P. T. Hinkle are candidates on the Democratic ticket; still no Republican has announced.

The question that holds a place of paramount importance in the minds of a great many people is, 'when is Judge Reynolds going to make his announcement?' That's a case where your guess is just about as good as any other person's; but if wanted to lay a foundation as a prognostigator, we'd say just wait—it's coming.

Friends of the Judge aver that he hasn't made up his mind yet whether or not to run—but there's such a thing as running without donning shorts and getting on a race track. Others say that he will run as the only salvation of the Republican Party in Chilton County.

J. R. Hardy, chief of police of Clanton, is expected to make formal announcement next week of his intention to make the race for Sheriff of Chilton County. Mr. Hardy is far from unpopular, and any one who wears the shoes of an opponent won't find any path of roses, is our prediction.

Our sympathy still goes out to the county commissioners. They have had many tough breaks—not the least of which is some little entanglement which stopped their pay. Not many weeks ago they nodded their heads the right way and got one month's salary, but since then they evidently shook the old hat rack in the wrong direction and had to be punished again.

The boys have been doing some mighty good work lately—the airport, road improvement, draining work, sponsoring the move to build clubhouses over the county—all under the direction of the CWA, but they, too, have done their bit; and it seems a shame that the Attorney-General doesn't rush up that decision a bit so they can get a little money.

What's this we hear about a country clubhouse out at the airport? Pretty soon there won't be any argument forthcoming when it is mentioned that Clanton is one of the best little cities in Alabama. With an airport, a clubhouse that, if built in accordance with the proposed plans, will be a credit to much larger and more wealthy cities than our little metropolis, and many other civic improvements, it seems that the map is going to have to be enlarged just for us.

The Rev. J. T. Nelson, of near Clanton, venerable Baptist minister, celebrated his 101st. birthday last week and is more agile than many at half his age. What puzzles us most though about how this man has managed to survive for two average lifetimes is, that he served for many years as a county commissioner — but it wasn't in Chilton County, so maybe that explains it.

PHYSICIANS OF COUNTY ADOPT NEW RULINGS

Those Who Have Not Paid Doctor Bills To Find Doctors Are "Out"

Those persons who have been availing themselves of the services of the several practicing physicians and surgeons of Chilton county, and have failed to make proper arrangements for paying their doctor bills will soon find that the "doctor is out" when they call him, according to a statement published in the News this week and signed by the physicians and surgeons of the county.

The doctors of the county have joined together in a determined battle, so it seems, to put a stop to the giving of their services over a long period of time to those persons who are able to pay and will not pay.

"On and after March 1, 1934, we hereby pledge ourselves not to visit any one who owes either of the undersigned doctors, whose names appear on the delinquent list except for cash in advance for services" reads a part of the statement. The statement will be found elsewhere in the News this week.

WOMAN'S CLUB ENJOYS A FINE MEETING HERE

Judge Louise O. Charlton Tells Women Of Their Places In Gov't

The second meeting of the newly organized Woman's Democratic Club of Chilton County, held at the Wilson Hotel in Clanton last Friday afternoon, was unusually well attended by women from all parts of the county.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman and following a listing of those present, the speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. Louise O. Charlton, of Birmingham, United States Commissioner of the Northern District of Alabama and also a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee, was introduced.

In her charming manner, which is easily and appropriately fitted to any occasion, Mrs. Charlton, who is one of the most outstanding women in Alabama, told the meeting of the great place the women of the country are taking, and must take in the government of the country. She impressed on them the importance of registering, keeping poll taxes paid and voting.

"You should demand of your candidates their opinions on matters that will affect you and your children," Mrs. Charlton told the meeting. "You must

The voters in this circuit are talking extremely favorable for him, being impressed by his straightforwardness, his frankness and his manner of conducting his campaign. CWA OFFICIAL HAS STATEMENT TO EMPLOYEES

Makes Statement To Clarify Misunderstandings Of Removals, Etc.

Because of a general misunderstanding in regard to the continuance of the CWA program in Chilton county and the transferring of men from one project to another, Mr. R. L. Pittman, director of CWA work in the county, issued the following statement this week:

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 9, 1934.

"To the Press:

"The director of the local Civil Works Administration desires that all people who are now directly employed on C. W. A. Projects know that it is the intention of the Federal Civil Works Administration to keep them continually employed during the life of the Civil Works Administration.

"This ruling should not be construed to apply to those illegally employed, or those who have proved to be inefficient, or unsuitable for the job. Nor is it to be understood to be applied to those under contract such as teams, trucks, etc.

R. L. PITTMAN,
Acting Director."

Mr. Pittman explained that it will be the policy of his office to transfer all eligible people from one project to another at the completion of a project; and no one will be taken off of work, where it can be avoided, until the entire program has ended.

Thirty-five projects have been approved to date and a weekly payroll exceeding $10,000 is being paid to approximately 900 employes.

Several new projects have been approved, including the graveling of fifty blocks of Clanton streets; the con-

ALL TEACHERS RECEIVE PAY ON DATES DUE

Conditions This Year Are Much Better Than Seen During Last Year

SUPT. LITTLE STRIVING FOR BETTER SYSTEM

That spirit of protection and rejuvination that characterizes the New Deal has spread into the field of education in Chilton County. School children and school teachers are sharing with the "forgotten man," in the resurrection of the golden rule.

At a special meeting Tuesday afternoon, members of the County Board of Education and Supt. Luther E. Little formulated plans whereby schools in Chilton County may have six and eight months sessions.

Under the provisions of the program inaugurated, accredited high schools throughout the county will be enabled to continue their terms for eight months; and elementary schools will have six months sessions. In both types of schools, it was explained that pupils will be able to make their grades; and arrangements have been made with the Southern Association of Colleges and Universities, whereby high school students may be given a full year's credit for this particular year of eight months.

This is a vast improvement over the conditions that existed a year ago when the doors of almost every school in the county were closed because of lack of funds: Children lost a half-year's [illegible] it, and teachers were inconvenienced because they could not get paid for their work.

Another story is being written this year, with eight months terms for the high schools, and six months for the elementary -and all on a cash basis. Every teacher's salary has been paid the day it became due, all of which is evidence that the New Deal has spread into our school system in Chilton county.

Members of the board attending the special meeting were: C. C. Conway, chairman, S. M. Yates, Jr., W. L. Sanders, and C. L. Wilkins, and Supt. Luther E. Little.

In discussing the action of the board of education in regard to the program for the continuance of the schools for terms of sufficient length to permit pupils to make their grades, Mr. Little paid tribute to its members and expressed his appreciation for their cooperation for the progress of Chilton County's schools.

Nation Needs Real Temperance

In a recent statement to the press, Seton Porter, president of National Distillers' Products Corporation, said that his organization would stand for temperance as opposed to excess, and added, "We clearly recognize that the American people are not voting liquor in; they are voting prohibition out."

The eighteenth amendment was not repealed in order to provide the means for a legal national drunk—it was repealed because the great bulk of American citizens had come to believe that it was inimical to the cause of temperance. They had seen political corruption arise under it, which was as bad and often worse than that of the old days. They had seen an unprecedented increase in crime, made possible by the vast amounts of money that illegal liquor brought into underworld pockets. They had seen the speakeasy flourish, to the point where, in most large cities, it ran almost as openly as the legal saloon once did, and was even less subject to social control.

The National Distillers have been running newspaper advertisements asking the public to cooperate with the manufacturers and sellers of liquor to prevent rowdyism and to promote common sense. If the public fails in that, or if the liquor manufacturers and sellers fail in their duty of keeping the goal of temperance everlastingly in mind, repeal of prohibition will be a poor victory indeed. The solid citizens of this country demand that the age-old alliance between politics and liquor be broken, that the law control the liquor business and not the liquor business the law. Every patriotic and thoughtful manufacturer should be the first to echo those demands—every retailer should work to keep his end of the business above reproach.

The United States has tried "wide open" liquor policies, and they have failed. It has tried absolute prohibition, and it has failed. Now it is attempting to steer a middle course that avoids excess on the one hand and fanaticism on the other. Whether it is to fail or succeed depends on the public, which decides all great questions.

The "High Cost" Of Gasoline Taxation

Gasoline, by comparison with 1913 price levels, is one of the cheapest commodities on the American market, even in this time of bankrupt prices.

A good many motorists may give that statement a Bronx cheer, but it's a fact, as the commodity cost indices will prove. When we attack the high cost of gasoline, we are misnaming it—it should be called the high cost of gasoline taxation.

In the average state, at the moment, the gas tax accounts for six to eight cents of the cost of each gallon. In some states it comes to appreciably more than that. And the gas sales tax isn't the end of the matter by a long shot. Every operation and product of the oil industry is taxed in one way or another. The industry pays two taxes to the Federal government, 68 to state governments, and 19 to municipalities.

When the motorist buys a dollar's worth of gasoline he gets perhaps half or two-thirds as much as he would if the tax collector was not so busy bailing out the bank. Once, to be sure, gas tax revenue was spent on roads, but that day is past. The motorist now pays for roads and he pays for fisheries and schools and a lot of other things —things which should be paid for by all taxpayers, and not one class.

The oil industry is offering cheap gasoline. The tax boosters are making it extremely expensive gasoline. That's where matters stand—and where they will continue to stand until the motorist rebels at paying exorbitant tax tribute.

The CCC And Crime

Attorney-General Tyler McLain, of Tennessee, commented recently on the decrease of crime in and around Memphis. Mr. McLain attributes the drop in crime to the President's Civilian Conservation Corps projects

"It used to be," he says, "that every Monday and Wednesday there would be two or three boys sitting in the second row with the negroes for arraignment, but you hardly ever see them in criminal court any more."

Mr. McLain thinks "there must be lots of good in the President's program," as thousands of young men without work have been taken from the streets and removed from the possibility of a life of crime, which might have followed unemployment.

The Civilian Conservation Corps was one of the immediate needs. This phase of the President's relief program could not have been begun too soon, and Administration officials realized it.

Thousands of young men, eager to work, had never found gainful employment. They were becoming desperate.

One does not hear as much about the CCC work now that so many other Federal agencies are in the spotlight. But thousands of boys who would be homeless and jobless, hungry and desperate, are now gainfully employed in a wholesome, healthful work, building bodies and mind so that they may take useful places in a world that will need those healthy bodies and healthy minds.

"Democratic Principles"

The following editorial comment from the able pen of the able editor of the Alabama Journal, Montgomery, is so full of sound, common sense that we could not fail to pass on this reasoning to our readers:

"Judge J. P. Mitchell, editor of the Wiregrass Farmer at Headland, found the text for a thoughtful editorial in the recent declaration of the state Democratic executive committee that 'those who believe in the principles of the Democratic party' will be invited to vote in next year's primary. He is moved thereupon to ask, what are the principles of the Democratic party?

"Can Al Smith and Carter Glass, and Secretary Wallace and Secretary Ickes believe in the same set of principles? Of course it is easy to see that nationall new party alignments are being made and that the tendency is for hidebound conservatives of both parties—what the president calls Tories—to group themselves into the old Republican party, and for the liberals and progressives to become aligned with the Democratic party under the leadership of President Roosevelt. That is so plain that he who runs may read.

"With reference to the new alignments of liberals and progressives under the Roosevelt leadership the Wiregrass Farmer proceeds:

> That the president is succeeding in his efforts to effect a measurable redistribution of wealth and to give the farmer, as contrasted with the manufacturer, a fairer share of the wealth he produces, we believe is now evident. But in order to effect these changes, Mr. Roosevelt has had to go considerably beyond any plan or platform ever devised by a Democratic convention. Hence, getting back to the state committee: What is a Democrat, and what are the principles of the Democratic party?
> This is our answer, and one which will probably be yours also: A Democrat is a follower of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the principles of the Democratic party consist in any and all things that are or may be needed to restore business and farming to a sane and normal way of life.
> If you can nod your head affirmatively to these conditions, however badly stated, we should say that you can qualify as a Democrat and a liberal. By the same process, if you shake your head, then that puts you on the other side, and you become, under the new classification, a conservative or, as the president has said, a Tory.
> This is a New Day indeed.

"After all the safest plan in defining Democratic is to do as Franklin D. Roosevelt has done: Follow the principles originally set down by Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic party and adapt them to our modern conditions. Chief among these comes "Equal rights to all; special privileges to none." Other great enunciations in the first inaugural address of President Jefferson urge a "wise and frugal government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another," and which "shall not take from labor the bread it has earned."

"It is important for Democrats who believe profoundly in the Jeffersonian and Rooseveltian principles to assert themselves at the polls and to keep the direction of party affairs in the hands of those of kindred beliefs."

The Democratic Ticket

Voters in Chilton County will not be in need of some good men to whom they may throw their support in the coming elections this year, judging from the men who have already announced as candidates on the Democratic ticket, and from those who will likely be candidates.

The News this week is carrying the official announcements of J. B. Atkinson, for Circuit Judge, Dr. V. J. Gragg for Senator, J. Lee Smith for Probate Judge, F. Loyd Tate for Circuit Judge.

All these men who are making known their intentions at this early date are leaders in their communities; real, true-blue straightforward men whose names will grace the Democratic ticket in Chilton County along with others who will announce later.

There is one exception that the News will make for a good reason which all citizens of Chilton County also have. We will make a little difference in the race for Circuit Judge, and the choice of our candidate, even though they are both Democrats. That is in the case of J. B. Atkinson and F. Loyd Tate.

Mr. Tate is a good Democrat, conducts himself properly at all times. Chilton County stood behind him when he was elected before and placed him in the chair, giving Elmore County another Circuit Judge from their own citizenship.

But the picture is different this time. We have a Chilton County man whose life ambition is to become Circuit Judge. A man from the citizenship of OUR county, and a man who has conducted himself at all times fittingly for the position he is seeking. J. B. Atkinson will be the choice of the News for Circuit Judge. He is a Chilton County man, brought up in Coosa County as a "sorghum-sopping, resin-chewing hill billy" and a man who can fill that office in every respect.

We admire Mr. Atkinson for the clean-cut campaign he has outlined and will carry out. We admire him for his vast knowledge of law, his keen ability to distinguish between right and wrong, his earnest endeavor to be fair with those whom he has dealings with. Yes, the News will support Mr. Atkinson, endorse him and recommend him to the people for the next Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit.

Homes For Recovery

There is a growing feeling that, in the course of governmental efforts to stimulate employment and increase purchasing power, greater stress should be laid upon small home building. That view was recently endorsed by Dr. O. M. Sprague, formerly advisor to the Bank of England and to the United States Treasury.

In this country at present there is a definite shortage of homes—due to population changes, to obsolescence and destruction, and to the almost complete lack of building of this character during the past few years. "Doubling up" of families has become a commonplace. Thousands of structures, which are little more than unhealthy and unsightly fire-traps, are in use and should be eliminated. Thousands of others are going down hill rapidly because of inattention.

A federally sponsored, aggressive home building drive would thus serve a double purpose. It would provide tremendous amounts of employment, both in building homes themselves and in industries supplying materials. It would be a stimulus to the paint, cement, transport, steel, lumber and other basic industries. It would put money in the hands of local merchants and bring the breath of recovery to every town. And it would be providing something essential and permanently valuable.

Build now—and recovery will come sooner. Statistics demonstrate the truth of that.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I bought a second hand car and it was not long before I had a flat tire. On removing the casing from the rim I found that the inner tube was literally covered over with patches. The collection of patches showed that the tube had been up against rough travel and its looks was ruined. I remarked to a friend, "This may have been a good tube at one time, but it has been punctured and patched until its looks is spoiled and I am afraid to risk it on the road ahead." On the road of life many of us allow ourselves to be punctured with evils deeds. To be sure we repent and get ourselves all patched up, but we are spoiled for looks and service. Blessed is the man who has but few punctures to be patched.

After a bloody battle Napoleon had a simple medal engraved and struck for each surviving soldier. It was not much for looks, but it carried this statement, "I Was There." These medals were given to his veterans and no amount of money would induce them to dispose of it. The name of the battle and the statement, "I Was There," made out the shield of honor that distinguished every living soldier. The question is not whether you were on the winning side, but whether you were on the right side. You may have been on the losing side for prohibition, for right ideals in your church and school and for a political purity that will support our civilization, but if you were there and fighting for the right, that is honor enough. Can you look back to the battles for right in the past and say, "I Was There"?

I met a little boy on the road carrying a bucket of nice berries. He was very proud of them and seeing that he was holding to them for a special purpose I said, "Sammie, where did you get such fine berries and what are you going to do with them?" He replied, "I picked these berries out of the middle of the briar patch and they are for my mother. Gee, won't she be proud of them!" Sammie said nothing about the suffering that had come to him in the picking of those berries, but I noted that his bare legs were bleeding and that his fingers were full of thorns. Sammie was picking berries for one whom he loved, and it mattered not if he met with suffering. When you love Jesus Christ and work for Him as you should, you are going to meet with suffering. You may get thorns in your flesh and you may even shed some blood, but why should it matter? When we really love we forget the hurt. However, there are some workmen for Jesus who go about bellowing all the time about the thorns they get and the scratches that come to them.

In a certain Alabama town there was a poor widow who could not pay her rent. She went to her pastor and with tears she related her condition. The pastor induced a wealthy man to pay the rent for her. One day this man with a sympathetic heart called at the home of the widow to give her the rent money. He knocked upon the door, he rattled the window shutters and even called the name of this woman. There was no answer to his call. He had to return to his store without performing his deed of charity. The woman was at home, but on hearing the knocks and the called she remained silently hid, thinking that it was the sheriff who had come to throw her out. Many a time has Jesus come to your heart to benefit you and to bless you with just the thing that you need, but often have you refused to hear His call. Remember this: "When Jesus knocks He always has something good to give."

I was sitting in an audience and the speaker unrolled a beautiful painting. He took the picture by each corner and held it up between him and the audience. He had nothing to say about himself, but he talked beautifully about the picture. Soon the audience forgot the man behind the picture and was devoting its attention to the picture alone. I soon saw that the man had accomplished what every preacher should do. The man in the pulpit should lift Christ up before his congregation, and he should talk so beautifully and so interestingly about Him until the listener will forget that there is a man in the pulpit. What a blunder when a minister calls attention to the man behind the picture.

AID FOR CRIPPLES

Among the many humanitarian activities which engage the support of benevolent societies and individuals, the restoring of crippled children to health and happiness is one of the most commendable.

The work of modern surgeons in this connection is effective almost beyond belief. At a recent convention of the International Society for Crippled Children it was stated that "modern science has healed all manner of diseases and we are happy to say today that practically every type of malformation, if taken in early childhood, can be cured."

Among the organizations which have given special attention to crippled children, the Shriners have been particularly active, each member of the order contributing regularly to the maintenance of homes for these unfortunate little ones, who would otherwise go through life with deformed bodies and limbs. Other societies are doing a similar service.

The hearty encouragement and support of this labor of love should be extended by every person who is in a position to lend a hand.

Letters To The Editor

MR. JACKSON AND THE LEGISLATURE

Lomax, Ala., Jan. 6, 1934.
Editor, Chilton County News:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to reply to the Editor of The Union-Banner squawking about me suggesting that Mr. Jackson run for legislator.

After reading Mr. Jackson's letter of last week I feel that there is nothing left to say to that fellow on "Banner Square" but here goes just a word or two.

Mr. Banner man, what have you got against Mr. Jackson? Oh, he turned against the Republican party. Well, why did he do that? Come on now, get the stump water out of the old dome, for I want to ask you a few more questions. Tell the truth, now didn't Mr. Jackson have a reason for pulling out? And don't you know the reason? Of course you do, Mr. Banner man, but no doubt you will keep it well under your shirt. I had the pleasure of meeting one of the leading Republicans of Chilton county the other day and where do you suppose the meeting took place? Right in the heart of Lomax with Mr. Jackson making the introduction. Yes sir! I had the pleasure of hearing him give Mr. Jackson 199 2-3% credit for the rural rate reductions. Imagine that Mr. Banner Man. But let me tell you something else, he is a man that politics hasn't run crazy. So in spite of your haughty remarks, sir, I still say that if Mr. Jackson runs for legislator, and is elected to the legislature, the people of Chilton County will be well represented.

EARL A. CROWDER.

ABOUT PARTIALITY IN THE CARRYING OUT OF THE CWA

January 8, 1934.
Editor, Chilton County News:

This communication, if you decide to publish it, is not intended to offend any one, but is more rather seeking information.

Being a taxpayer I think I am entitled to know some things which have come to me from various persons whom I regard as reliable and I would like to have them cleared up.

When the RFC campaign was launched we were told "there is no politics in this." Being a Democrat I naturally resent the actions of someone who selected overseers all, or practically all, Republicans. Some of my best friends are Republicans and they resent just as much as anyone, just this sort of procedure. Call it by any name you wish and so far as we are informed the same rule has governed selection of those working under the CWA arrangement, and it was easy to transfer RFC to the CWA.

It does not seem possible that out of a bunch of 60 or more men that 90 percent would be voters of either party when there is so little difference in the voting strength of the two parties in this county.

No accident about this and if some one who might be looking for votes or paying debts, or punishing some one for not voting to his or their liking, does not keep a close watch, there might be a reaction.

Chilton County people without regard to politics, believe not only in a New Deal, but also in a square deal. Is this progress for Chilton county people, or for those from other counties who are sojourning here?

Yours truly,
H. B. OLIVER.

IN MEMORY OF DEWEY MIMS

On December 27th, about 5:00 p.m. God called away my beloved husband to that Happy Home above. He was born in Chilton county on December 15, 1904. Having spent all of his life in this county except about 7 years he worked with the Dixie Construction Co.

About 3 years ago he came back here to make his home and here we were married. We were married only 14 months when God called him to that Happy Home above.

He was sick only three days. All was done that loving hands could do.

There's a vacant place in our hearts, but he had many stars in his crown. It is our loss but Heaven's gain. He always wore a smile and spoke a good word to everybody.

He left to mourn his loss a wife, Mrs. Leila Carroll Mims, a father, W. Elijah Mims, four brothers, Willie, Jesse, and Clifton of Clanton, and Tom Jeff of Jasper; 2 sisters, Mrs. Tuskin Nelson, Miss Alma Mims.

His mother passed on to that Happy Home above about seven years ago.

Weep not, dear ones, for all was done that loving hands could do, and all that we can do is to be ready to meet him when God calls us to that Heavenly Home above.

He was laid to rest at Providence church with Rev. J. W. Hightower conducting the service. Martin & Sons were in charge.

—Written by Mrs. Dewey Mims.

THE FIRST CONGRESS

The first United States Congress was to open on March 4, 1789, but on that day only 21 members were present, eight Senators and 13 Representatives, not a quorum for either House.

Day after day, week after week, the members present met in Federal Hall, which had been fitted up for their accommodation. But it was not until the first day of April that any business could be transacted, because a quorum was lacking. On that day, 30 members of the House having answered to their names, the body was organized and General Frederick Muhlenberg was chosen speaker.

The Senate did not get down to business until April 6, when a quorum was finally mustered. A temporary presiding officer, whose sole duty it was to open and count the electoral votes, was elected. George Washington had the vote of every elector, which was generally known before hand, for President. The second votes of electors were widely scattered. John Adams was elected Vice-President, although he did not get a majority of the whole number of electors appointed. It was two weeks before General Washington could be apprised of his election and reach the seat of government.

It is difficult to realize in this day, when Senators and Representatives arrive by airplane, train and motor, what an achievement a journey to the capital was in the days of the first United States Congress.

A JAPANESE PRINCE

Great rejoicing throughout Japan followed the birth of a son to the emperor and empress a few days ago, which gave the island empire an heir to the throne for which the country had prayed.

The new prince is the fifth child of the young royal couple, the four being girls. In Japan succession to the throne is confined to the male line, and in the absence of a crown prince the heir-apparent has been the emperor's brother.

If the baby prince lives to succeed his father he will be the 124th emperor of the present dynasty, which claims continuous succession for 2,600 years. He may have to wait quite a while, however, for his father, the present Emperor Hirohito, is only 32 years old.

Hirohito, born April 29, 1901, became regent in 1921 because of his father's ill health, and succeeded to the throne upon the latter's death in 1926. His coronation ceremonies, held in Kyoto during a five-day period in November, 1928, were most brilliant, and attended by dignitaries from all over the world.

Because of Japan's aggressive policies in the Far East, the empire is morally in bad repute among the nations just now. Many believe the Japanese attitude may bring on another major war. The little crown prince, happily for him, does not know what a turbulent world he has been born into.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

Where lies the ownership of Alabama Power Company?

"Up there in Wall Street", says the politician when he wants to conjure up a spectre of vast wealth and money power reaching out to control Alabama's destinies.

To those who are more interested in facts than phantoms, we'd like to say that ownership of Alabama Power Company does not lie in Wall Street but in Main Street.

Alabama Power Company is owned by just three classes of investors: Bondholders, preferred stockholders and common stockholders.

The bondholders hold $97,000,000 worth of bonds. These bonds bear interest at either 4½% or 5%. These bondholders paid close to par for their bonds. They do not share in any profits, when profits are made. They include many thousand individuals and a large number of institutions, more than 300 of which are insurance companies and many of which are savings banks. We will talk to you about these insurance companies in a later letter.

Sixteen thousand preferred stockholders, about three-fourths of whom are Alabama citizens, hold 367,000 shares of preferred stock. Less than half this stock bears a dividend of $7 annually, the balance $5 or $6. The average holding of Alabama investors in preferred stock is about sixteen shares, the average return for these investors less than $100 yearly. These preferred stock investors, 51 per cent of whom are women, constitute as truly representative, intelligent and patriotic a body of Alabama citizens as may be found within the borders of our state.

The common stock of Alabama Power Company, consisting of 3,775,000 shares without par value, is owned by The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation. Many thousands of Alabamians own the stock of The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation.

Such are the facts. They make a vastly different story from the fairy tales that politicians like to tell the public.

Very truly yours,

President.

OAK GROVE

We had a wonderful sermon rendered to us Sunday morning, also Sunday night. We feel like that every one who heard these sermons received a wonderful blessing. It rained out preaching Saturday night. But I am sure that our prayers were there anyway. We cordially invite everyone to come and be with us in our B. Y. P. U. work, but especially on our preaching dates. We certainly have a good pastor, and everyone can't help receiving a good blessing from his sermons.

We had a real good singing here last Sunday afternoon. We invite everyone who sings (and those who don't) to come and be with us every first Sunday afternoon in every month.

Last Sunday night we could see new faces all over the house. No one can ever know just how glad it makes us feel to see all these new faces. We certainly hope that we can see those faces there every night. Our B. Y. P. U. is going to really work now. We have been asleep on the job now long enough. So "Members" let's really get that B. Y. P. U. spirit in our hearts and work harder than ever. If we at first don't suceed, we will try, try again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lessley spent a few days with relatives at Thorsby the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cobb had as their dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cobb and two children, Miss Hazel Glass, Mrs. Flora Martin and little daughter, Margie Nell, Mr. Lloyd Baggett and Charles Nix.

Miss Irene Lessley returned home Saturday after a few days visit with friends in Kentucky. She reports a very nice time.

Miss Avis Cofer has as her guest for the week Miss Mary Bush of Birmingham.

Miss Hazel Glass of Minooka was the week end guest of Miss Gladys Cobb.

Mr. and Mrs. Moody entertained the younger set of this place with a house party Saturday night. A large crowd shared a good time. Games were enjoyed until a late hour.

For the past month, our interest of B. Y. P. U. has fallen greatly. Sunday night following a splendid program by six senior girls, a large crowd entered upon a new covenant for B. Y. P. U. cooperation. We hope to have a training school for all departments in a few weeks. By this school, we intend to push toward our goal very fast. We ask your prayers that we may make a better record these following months than ever before. Your attendance at our weekly meetings will be appreciated very much. So here's to a very successful year for every B. Y. P. U. "Let's get that B. Y. P. U. spirit deeply down in our hearts, down in our hearts, down in our hearts, let's get that B. Y. P. U. spirit deeply down in our hearts, down in our hearts to stay."

We thank every person that contributed to the successful singing at Oak Grove Sunday evening. We invite visitors to attend our monthly singing every first Sunday. Next Sunday is the day to meet at Providence church. Let's join the crowd every Sunday afternoon and attend these singings. There's a blessing in them if we would only seek to find!

Miss Mary Jim Sutley had as her guests Sunday Misses Dorothy Dees, Gladys Satterwhite and Nannie Sammons.

Miss Pinola Middlebrooks, who was visiting Mary Jim Sutley last week, has returned to her home in Autaugaville.

Mr. Van Glass dined with Mr. Russell Sutley Sunday.

The P.-T. A. will hold its regular meeting Wednesday evening, January 17th, at 6:30 o'clock. The change in time of meeting is for the convenience of those parents who work during the day. An interesting program is being arranged and we plan to have an outside speaker with us. Every member and parent may contribute something to this meeting and that is your presence. Take it upon yourself to come and bring someone with you. Remember, parents, you are one of us and we are counting on you. Without your help and cooperation we can do nothing. Let's have at least seventy-five or a hundred present. Come and find out what a P.-T. A. is and its value.

In addition to the splendid work of the P.-T. A. the school is doing some fine work. In a few weeks we hope to present for your entertainment a play that will surpass all others. Watch for further announcements.

Fascinating Facts of NATURE

In the shadow of the Andes Mountains, Nature stored the world's supply of Chilean Natural Nitrate.

Nature is your friend. She made your land. She makes your seeds. She created the three plant foods that are the sinew of farming in the South — potash, phosphate, CHILEAN NATURAL NITRATE, the one and only natural nitrate fertilizer.

CHILEAN NITRATE WAS FIRST USED BY SOUTHERN FARMERS WHEN ANDREW JACKSON (OLD HICKORY) WAS PRESIDENT (1829-1837)

CHILEAN NITRATE IS ONE OF FEW THINGS IN THE WORLD THAT EXCELS BECAUSE OF ITS IMPURITIES. REASON — "IMPURITIES" SUCH AS IODINE, POTASSIUM, SODIUM, CALCIUM, BORON, MAGNESIUM ARE NATURAL PLANT FOODS IN THEMSELVES

Chilean NATURAL NITRATE
The only nitrogen that comes from the ground.

Airplane Crashed Near Here Friday

Lieut. Julian B. Hadden, 39-year-old flying instructor for Roberts Field, Birmingham, suffered severe injuries last Friday morning, when his plane crashed in a corn field in the Mineral Springs community about eight miles north of Clanton.

At the Central Alabama Hospital, where he received treatment before being taken to a Montgomery hospital, it was reported that he had suffered possible injury to his left eye, which may result in blindness, severe lacerations to his face, and two broken ribs.

The accident occurred when the ring cowling on the motor gave way, incapacitating the plane and causing a forced landing. It was reported that the mishap to the motor caused him to lose control of the machine, which went into a nose dive.

He was extricated from the wreckage by Martin Gore, J. W. Heflin, and Dovard Gilmore, who were passing along a nearby road. Watching the plane they declared they noticed that something was wrong, and when it crashed they rushed the injured man to the hospital; and Maxwell Field authorities were notified immediately.

Lieutenant Hadden has been in active service for the past 17 years. Little more than four months ago he was married to Miss Carolyn Brame, of Montgomery.

Stanton Wins, Four In A Row Recently

The Stanton cagers have won their last four games with very impressive margins. Last Monday afternoon they encountered the Plantersville Independents and as the last quarter ended the Stanton boys were the victors by a score of 35 to 12. McCormack Bearden and Irby Harrison were the high point men. Houston also did some fine work at guard.

The Stanton fans were given a nice bargain last Friday night. There were three games played on their court. Two visiting teams played each other. Plantersville and Maplesville, Maplesville being the victor. Then the Stanton cagers stepped on the Isabella quintet by the score of 26 to 9. Outstanding features of the game, was the fine defense which was almost impossible to penetrate by the visitors. McCormack ay and Carter were the high point men, but their success was largely due the fine defense work of the Harrion brothers.

After this game the Stanton subs. again conquered the Plantersville team with some help of the varsity squad.

Last Saturday night they took the Bull by the horns and defeated Bull ittleton's powerful Thorsby Independent team by a score of 29 to 11. They rounced the mighty Bull into complete submission by letting him have two points in the whole game. McCormack f the visitors was the high point man aving at the end of the game a total f 14-points. Gay and Carter tied for e second honors with four points iece. The feud between these two ms will be renewed Saturday night, nuary 13. One of their best men was sent from the line up last Saturday ght, but will be present when they rive in Stanton. The Stanton fans e wondering if their boys can still ndle the Bull with this other man on e team. Now the best way to find t is to come out and see, as it will rhaps be one of the best games of e season, and will only cost a dime.

Resolutions of Respect

Silently, ruthlessly, death moves among us. It is with sadness that we report the death of one of our Eastern Star members, Brother John Henry Goddard, age 89 years, 4 months, whose death occurred Dec. 10, 1933.

Brother Goddard was a faithful member, even though for the past ten years he was unable to attend the meetings of the Chapter. He was always ready and willing to do his part in any Eastern Star duties.

Therefore, be it resolved that Thorsby Chapter No. 154 Order of the Eastern Star express their sorrow and love in the loss of their faithful member.

Be it further resolved, that our chapter express our brotherly and sisterly love and sincere sympathy to the family in their bereavement.

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this be sent to each of the county papers, a copy sent to the family, and a copy be placed on file in this chapter.

To The Patrons Of The Undersigned Doctors Who Have Forgotten Or Disregarded Their Obligations

We wish to call attention to the fact that the undersigned doctors have not received sufficient compensation for services rendered their patrons for the past four years to pay expenses incurred in practicing our profession.

It is not desired to mistreat any one or neglect our duty, to humanity, but it is impossible for us to carry our burdens longer under the existing circumstances. We wonder how many patrons would work for us for three or four years, or even one year without pay. We are just plain human beings and if you will put yourself in our place you will readily see that it is impossible for us to do our best when our minds are burdened with financial difficulties.

From past experiences we have every reason to believe we will be treated in the future as we have been in the past without taking some steps to prevent it. With this in view, we have adopted the following plan which we hope will not work a hardship on any one and we believe will be a great help to us in meeting our own obilgations.

On and after March 1, 1934 we hereby pledge ourselves not to visit any one who owes either of the undersigned doctors, whose names appear on the delinquent list except for cash in advance for services. This does not apply to our patrons who have been fair to us and put forth their best efforts to meet their obligations with us, but will be adhered to strictly with the ones who change their doctors to settle their accounts.

If you want to stay in good standing, we advise you to call on your doctor and settle or arrange your account satisfactory, so that you will not be listed as a delinquent and you be deprived of the consideration shown you in the past.

Prices On New 1934 Chevrolet Announced

New Yor, Jan. 6—Prices on the new 1934 "knee-action" Chevrolet were announced here today by William E. Holler, general sales manager of the company, upon his arrival from Detroit for the New York Automobile Show.

Prices on the new line of cars are: Five-window coupe, $565; sport coupe with rumble seat, $605; coach, $585; sedan, $645; town-sedan with built-in trunk, $615, sport roadster with rumble seat, $545, and cabriolet with rumble seat, $665.

These prices represent an average increase of $70 in list price over the list prices of the 1933 Chevrolet line.

This increase is directly in line with the recent prediction of Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, that automobile prices for 1934 would advance approximately 15 per cent; however, due to cooperation between Chevrolet and its 10,000 dealers, the actual increase in the cost to the purchaser is only 8 per cent.

Actually, Mr. Holler points out in his statement, Chevrolet's delivered prices throughout the United States generally, would show an average increase of only 8 per cent over the delivered prices which prevailed in 1933. This is made possible by the Chevrolet dealer organization's admirable cooperation with the factory in sharing with the factory reduction in profits.

"Delivered prices," said Mr. Holler, "are what the public is interested in because it represents the cost of an automobile standing in front of the purchaser's home. List, or advertised prices, are the prices f.o.b. the factory.

"It is particularly fitting at this time, when the buying public is constantly being reminded to carefully weigh values before making any purchase, to emphasize delivered rather than list prices. Naturally, delivered prices will vary in various parts of the country, due to the difference in freight charges alone, but the average delivered price will show an increase of approximately 8 per cent."

Citing the decided increases in material and labor costs during the past few months, together with the long list of improvements on the 1934 cars, as factors necessitating the price increase, Mr. Holler said: "I cannot emphasize too strongly the appreciation of Chevrolet officials toward our 10,000 dealers for their splendid cooperation in making possible the low delivered prices of the new 1934 Chevrolet."

It has been officially announced that Chilton County High School will continue as a public school until April 20. January 11, and only one more day in this semester of this school term. Tomorrow, Friday, will end a two-day series of mid-term examinations. The grade one receives on his tests averaged in with the fourth monthly grades will determine whether he has passed his half years work and received a half credit. Monday we begin the second semester. One should remember that although the first semester is a thing of the past, and can not be improved on, yet he might make the second semester such a one as to redeem weaknesses of the first semester. It's never too late to do better.

The biology students are learning many strange and interesting facts about animal life. Oddities that Mother Nature creates are proving to be interesting subjects for study. They have discovered that there is an animal that does not have either parents or children. That animal is the amoeba.

Mr. Varnell, their commendable instructor, took a trip to the Atlantic Coast in South Carolina during the past summer and brought back with him a number of specimens of deep sea life. Among these valuable objects for practical study in the biology department, are: several star fish, a conk shell, a number of shrimp, a bladder fish, silver eels and a few fiddler crabs. A brief account of this trip will be published next week. It has several facts of historical value also.

With the biography of Mr. J. B. Vaughn this week the writer concludes his series of brief biographies of the members of the faculty. These were written on the writer's own accord in order to better acquaint the students and the patrons of the school with our fine faculty.

Mr. Vaughn is a native Alabamian, born to Mr. and Mrs. John W. Vaughn on a farm near Huntsville. His first step in education was at the Wills and Taylor School at Huntsville where he graduated in 1921. This was a private school which doesn't run now. In 1927 he finished at Howard College in Birmingham with an A. B. Degree. While in college Mr. Vaughn majored in history and minored in mathematics. Mr. Vaughn has also had one year of extension work at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, this was in 1928. He is in the history department here and also in charge of the manual training for boys. Before coming to C. C. H. S. in 1933, to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Walker, he had taught several years in various schools; also spent several years in other businesses. In 1927 and 1928 he taught at the Waterloo High School at Waterloo, Ala. From 1928 to 1929 he held a position as teacher in the high school at Ardmore, Tenn. Mr. Vaughn was with the Gulf Refining Company at Port Arthur, Texas from 1929 to 1930. Following this he was an employee of the Tennessee Rail and Iron Company for one year. In 1931 he went to Brundidge, Ala., where he taught for two years before becoming a member of our faculty. The students and other members of the faculty are proud to speak of the faculty having such a sterling man as Mr. Vaughn as one of its members. Though he has been with us for only a few months, we have learned to appreciate his fine qualities as a gentleman and a teacher.

Vermont Jr. High School News

Due to no mail delivery on Monday we failed to get the school news in last week's issue of the county papers.

Everyone seems to have spent a most pleasant Christmas season. Most all are back in school, anxious to complete the last half years work in a most satisfactory manner.

The piano was placed in our building the week before Christmas. We are mighty proud of this addition and, too, we are highly grateful to Mrs. T. B. Minor in assisting us in purchasing it. Mrs. Minor has made several worthy contributions to our new school and we are taking this opportunity to express our gratitude and thanks to her for such unselfish loyalty and genuine school spirit. We hope that she may live to see many more New Years and to see the benefits of her generous contributions to the cause of education.

Mr. Johnson spent the past week end at home with his mother; his sister, Mrs. A. S. Van Hoose, from Euba; and Mrs. N. L. Duffee, from Birmingham; two brothers, J. G. and W. M., were also present.

We regret to lose our beloved class- and school-mate, Lucinda Sansom, who was married during the holidays to Garland Deason, but the student body and faculty extend to them many kind personal wishes for a long, happy life together. Lucinda was a Jr. 3 student, and star center on our girls basket ball team.

Our boys basket ball team is being re-organized this week. Some of the players have married, others have moved away, until only two of our regular team remain. We will be compelled to withhold several of our scheduled games until our new team can get organized and some practice together.

Our P.T. A. meets tonight, Thursday, at 6:30 at the school building. We again urge all members to be present as several matters of vital interest are to be discussed. Refreshments will be served by the committee. Our P.-T. A. members went to Isabella High School last Monday night to a rally given in honor of the membership of both associations.

The program given by Tom Frank Teel and his group of Merry Fun Makers was thoroughly enjoyed by a large crowd. The writer has been requested to state that due to their inability to get away from their work on that particularly busy afternoon just before the holidays, they were delayed in opening the program just as had been advertised. We regret this delay very much and will assure the public that all future programs will be opened on time. We hope to have the Liberty Hill Quartet to present their program in about two more weeks. Watch for later announcements.

The Jr. III Civics class is in the midst of preparing and presenting several debates. The first one will be this week. The question is: Resolved that roads are a greater asset to a community than the telephone. Mary Jo Chandler and Edna Sims are upholding the affirmative side while T. J. Ratliff and Mary Owen are supporting the negative.

Miss Adell Scott, member of the Jr. II class, won the prize of one dollar for turning in the greatest number of sales in our recent turkey contest. Mr. Elton Ousley of Pletcher was presented the turkey.

We are proud to learn that there is a strong probability of 6 months for our school. This will mean that by a little more effort and study on the part of the students that a full grade can be made. We really need such a term, for most of the boys and girls have lost one year already by not being convenient to a school last year.

The Mt. Pleasant girls are expected to return our game of basket ball on Friday evening, January 19.

Those pupils who are absent for fear of development of an epidemic of measles are requested to re-enter their class work as all danger seems to have passed. Conditions like these should be remedied as early as possible, and we feel that such has been done, and wish everyone back in school in order not to get so far behind in their studies, that their chances for making a full grade will be damaged.

Mr. J. N. Baker from the State Department of Education, Montgomery, visited our school recently, checking up on the course of study, the new equipment added to our school, care of the building, general progress of the school, etc.

We have been requested to announce that a box supper will be given at the school building on next Saturday night, January 13. Proceeds will be used for paying on piano for Antioch church. Everyone is invited and urged to come and take a part in this worthy move.

South Is Leading Nation's Recovery

The South is leading the Nation's drive toward recovery, according to dispatches and editorials appearing in the metropolitan newspapers throughout the country. General improvement in conditions and a much happier feeling about the immediate future are reported by all who travel through the cotton belt. That here is ample basis for this optimism is shown in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's report, recently issued, that 1933 crop values are up 42 per cent. The farm value of the 1933 cotton crop was nearly $620,000,000 compared with less than $375,000.000 in 1932.

In planning for 1934, people are deeply impressed by these visible evidences of the establishment of a new economic order. Their response has been prompt and generous, as revealed by reports of a widespread trend back to normal buying habits, especially among farmers. Compelled by the adverse conditions of recent years to buy sparingly, at the cheapest price, and without regard to quality, farmers are being greatly encouraged to find that in many lines, quality merchandise is offered at prices well within their ability to pay. An example is to be found in the case of Chilean natural nitrate, a fertilizer of south-wide importance which has been used in the United States for more than 100 years. In this case, farmers can satisfy their preference for a high standard of balanced quality without paying anything extra for it, even though the presence of a number of valuable impurities in the natural nitrate gives it a position of distinguished usefulness among the rather large number of other materials, not of natural origin.

The real significance of this and similar instances of improved conditions in our agricultural sections is to be fully appreciated only by those who know how complete has been the change in the farmers' frame of mind during the past years. He is beginning again to think in terms of the future, a future that holds for him the promise of constructive and profitable enterprise in partnership with Mother Nature.

Make Home Survey Alabama Counties

A survey of rural housing conditions in six Alabama counties is being made by the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute to obtain a representative picture of the farm home needs in this state.

The work is part of a nation-wide survey of the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture with a view to instituting a program for the improvement of rural homes and the installment of modern conveniences in rural districts.

Miss Nell Pickens, extension specialist in home improvement, who is in charge of the survey in Alabama, said that the program will be based largely on the increased buying power of farmers that is resulting from various AAA crop adjustment programs.

Farm people, she said, have been producers all along, but in recent years they have not been consumers, due to the smallness of their incomes. The government is now wishing to help guide them in the improvement of their homes as well as assist them in the financing of the improvements. For this reason, she said, the enumerators working in the six counties are seeking accurate data on all phases of present rural housing conditions.

The enumerators were recruited from the ranks of the unemployed and are being paid with CWA funds, Miss Pickens said.

"New rooms or porches, repairs, electrical devices, and labor-saving machinery are among things included in improvements being contemplated," she added.

The six Alabama counties in which the survey is being made are Cullman, Marshall, Perry, Monroe, Tallapoosa and Houston.

More Food, Feed, Soil Improvement

In adapting Alabama farming to 1934 conditions and acreage adjustments, farmers should keep their eyes on one goal—that of living and living more abundantly, said Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in writing in The Progressive Farmer-Ruralist.

"Fewer acres in cotton should mean more food in our smokehouses and pantries and on our tables," he said. "It should also mean that our hens and cows and cattle and hogs and workstock will be better fed. And, perhaps of most importance in the long run, it should mean that we will devote more time and attention to enriching our soils."

He called attention to the fact that one section of the cotton adjustment contracts provides that the rented acres shall be used only for food and feed crops for home use and for soil-improving and erosion-prevening crops.

"This is the most important section of the contract," he declared.

"More food, more feed, more soil-building—and the greatest of these is soil building, because in many cases our soils are so poor that it is practically impossible for us to produce sufficient food and feed for home needs," he continued. "In only a limited number of cases are our soils rich enough."

To improve soils the farm leader advocates terracing and liberal use of both summer and winter legumes.

A TONIC Laxative

CONSTIPATION, with the annoying symptoms that usually come with it, cuts down organic force and disturbs normal health and well-being. A thorough cleansing of the digestive tract is of great assistance in the removal of sickening constipation symptoms.

When excessive accumulated waste matter disturbs and strains the muscles of the large intestines, rendering them temporarily unable to perform their wave-like evacuating movements, Thedford's Black-Draught is useful in stimulating them to activity, which, again started, should continue regularly until some future disturbance interferes. In this way, Thedford's Black-Draught is one of the TONIC laxatives, tending, as it does, to establish a regular habit of evacuation.

REV. J. T. NELSON RECEIVES HUNDREDS OF FRIENDS ON 101ST BIRTHDAY

Despite the dismal weather that prevailed last Thursday, more than two hundred friends and acquaintances from several states, thronged to the home of the Rev. J. T. Nelson, near Clanton, to join him in the celebration of his 101st. birthday.

Celebrating the first birthday on the second century, the venerable Missionary Baptist minister was the center of attraction as he delivered a brief welcome address and thanked his friends for the tribute that their presence paid him.

Several other brief addresses were made during the day; and because of the inclemency of the weather, dinner was spread in the house instead of in the oak grove in front of the house, as is the usual custom.

For several years, the celebration of Chilton County's oldest citizen's birthday has been an annual fete. Last year, when he reached the century mark, approximately a thousand people threaded their way to the humble little cottage and joined in the celebration.

Although he has lived two average lifetimes, the venerable minister declared that he is eagerly lookng forward to celebrating another birthday with his friends.

Born January 4, 1833, few men have seen as much history made as has the Rev. Nelson; too, he has shared in the making of history.

Serving throughout the Civil War in the ranks of the Gray, he saw the beginning and the end of this Nation's darkest hour. Standing within a few feet of Gen. Robert E. Lee when he handed his sword to General Grant, he shared in a privilege that few men now living knew.

For the past sixty years, he has served as a leader in the Army of Christianity, having become an ordained minister shortly after the end of the war. Too, he has been a leader in Masonic circles. In Weogufka, in Coosa county, where he made his home for many years, he was one of the charter members of the Weogufka Masonic Lodge—and for years it held its sessions in an upstairs room over his blacksmith shop.

Today the man who already lived two average lifetimes, continues active. He still insists on doing the chores about his home, and were it not for the handicap of being partially blind, he would be able to exhibit much more spryness than many men a half-century younger.

J. LEE SMITH ENTERS RACE

didate for the office of Probate Judge. Several weeks ago, Dr. P. T. Hinkle announced his intention of seeking this place; since that time, he, too, has filed necessary papers with the probate office.

Mayor Smith is well known throughout Chilton County, having served as mayor of Clanton for two terms; and prior to 1932 was engaged in retail and wholesale mercantile business in the county.

In a discussion with a News reporter, the Clanton mayor declared that he is in the race to win. "If I can defeat my opponent in the primary, then I'll be ready for a real battle in the general election," were the expressed sentiments of the new candidate.

During his tenure of office as mayor of Clanton, Mr. Smith has reduced the Town's debt from $105,000 to $77,000, according to figures from the records. Prior to his election as mayor, Mr. Smith served Clanton as a member of the Council for several months.

Born in Coosa county, he removed with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley W. Smith, to Chilton county at the early age of three years; and has made his home here since that time, except for a brief stay in Oklahoma.

Work will be begun on these projects as soon as some of the present projects are completed, he explained.

Joseph McKay of Evanston, Ill., honor student in high school, has admitted the robbery of 70 homes. Among those robbed were homes of teachers he disliked.

The will of John Sporting, a farmer of Peetz, Colo., contained the provision for $1 with which a brother and sister could purchase ropes to "hang yourselves."

J. LEE SMITH HAS STATEMENT FOR CITIZENS

In Behalf Of His Candidacy For Office Of Probate Judge Of County

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 6, 1934.

To the Citizens of Chilton County:

I want to take this opportunity in behalf of my candidacy for the office of Judge of Probate of Chilton County to give you some of my qualifications and to state in a brief way what I stand for.

I was born in Coosa County, but have spent the greater part of my life here in Chilton County. I have always been a democrat and have rendered what services I could for the best interest of the party. In 1914 I opened up a retail grocery store in Clanton and remained in that business until 1919 when I became connected with the Smith-Downs Wholesale Grocery Company. In 1922 I severed my relations with the Smith-Downs Grocery Company to go into the wholesale grocery business for myself. I remained in that business until 1931 when I sold out to the Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company. In September 1930 I was elected Mayor of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, and reelected in 1932, for which office I still hold.

During the time I was in business I always endeavored to serve my customers honestly and fairly and I believe they will bear me out in that statement. When I assumed the office of Mayor, the Town was heavily involved in debt, owing approximately $105,000.00. Since that time, with the able assistance and cooperation of the Town Council, we have reduced the Town's indebtedness down to approximately $77,000.00, and at the same time met our current obligations. We have practiced rigid economy with the Town's affairs and are proud of our accomplishments.

This is the first time I have asked the citizens of Chilton County to favor me with an office, and if permitted to serve you as Probate Judge, I will endeavor at all times to act fairly, honestly and without regard to party affiliation when in the performance of my official duties. I stand wholeheartedly behind President Roosevelt, and will at all times assist in any way that I can to further his recovery program which has meant so much to the people of this county. I solicit your vote on my record and will appreciate any assistance given my candidacy for the office for which I seek.

Yours truly,
J. LEE SMITH.

AIRPORT FOR COUNTY TAKING SHAPE; ROAD BADLY NEEDED

Commissioner C. D. Duke Is Pushing Work For The Benefit Of County

SITE TO BE SPOT OF BEAUTY NEAR HERE

One of the most progressive steps shown in connection with the selection of projects for the CWA work in Chilton county is the proposal to erect a country club house on the site of the new Chilton County Airport, about a mile northeast of Clanton.

Plans have been formulated for the construction of a building that will be a credit to a much larger and more wealthy city. Blue prints are being drafted for the proposed project and it is hoped they may be submitted within the next few days for the approval of the CWA authorities in Montgomery.

Tentative plans for the structure call for a building of native field stone, outside dimensions to be approximately 40 by 100 feet—housing a ballroom 30 by 50 feet; a dining room 20 by 30 feet; an ample kitchen; a living room, or club room, 20 by 30 feet; and a lounge for both men and women, equipped with lockers and other fixtures.

The proposed clubhouse will greatly add to the beauty of the airport, and in addition will serve a much needed purpose in Clanton and surrounding territory. It has been explained by those who are interested in the promotion of the building that it may be used by all local civic organizations in conducting their programs and for general community use.

Under the Civil Works Administration program, it is understood that the labor for the construction of the building may be had from the regular CWA quota. Materials would necessarily be furnished by the community.

A committee composed of Dr. J. E. Edgar, Grady Reynolds, Miss Ruth Pardue and several others, recently made a study of clubhouses in Montgomery and Birmingham in the interest of formulating plans for Clanton's most recent show of progress.

One of the outstanding features of the clubhouse project is the installation of golf links around the perimeter of the landing field, which it is believed will provide an up-to-date eighteen hole course. Clanton has long needed a good golf course, where business men may retire in the afternoons for a bit of healthy recreation. Too, the greens will add much in the way of beauty to the landing field.

The work on the airport, too, is well underway. Fifty men were assigned to this project little more than a week ago and the clearing, pulling stumps, and grading is showing much progress; but one of the outstanding needs in connection with the airport, clubhouse, and community center, of which Chilton County is going to have reason to feel proud, is the improvement of a short piece of road through the Reynolds Addition—leading into the landing field. This will be one of the county's best pieces of workmanship and a monument to progress, so the road should be such as will invite as many visitors as possible..

The commissioners are to be complimented on their vision in grasping this opportunity to give to Chilton county a scenic center which will arouse the envy of counties far advanced over Chilton in a financial way. Especially is Commissioner C. D. Duke to be given credit for the perpetuation of this project, being in his district—he also was one of the first persons in the county to grasp its significance.

Deserted five days after her marriage, Mrs. Dorothy Noles of London wedded another man and was sentenced to two days imprisonment for bigamy.

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

Seemingly a question that might be worthy of the consideration of these political candidates is, 'just how dumb is the public?' Since this is the year of the big baloney feast, apparently it wouldn't be a bad idea to arrive at some estimation of how much the voters will be able to digest. It's a waste of time and energy to dish it out if they won't eat it.

Surprising is that candidates still persist in that old phrase, 'if we are drafted—we'll serve; when people know that their one motive for getting in the race is utter selfishness. A few days ago, I heard this answer to an inquiry relative to a prospective candidate entering the race for a certain county office —"I don't care for the place, but if a large enough delegation solicit my entrance, then, of course, I'll do my best for the Party." If office-holders could only remember that the taxpayers and citizens comprise the Party they are supposed to serve, then we would have better government.

The Executive Committees of both parties held meetings Monday. Candidates will soon begin springing up like weeds after a Spring shower. The Battle Royal will soon be underway. However, some candidates who have been running for years are having a hard time making up their minds, but if the inconsiderate people of Chilton County continue nagging them—without a doubt they'll exhibit that well-known characteristic patriotism.

If you haven't seen the Chilton County Airport, you've cheated yourself of a pleasure. Completed in accordance with the present program, it will do more than any other one feature to rank the county with the best; besides gradually developing into one of the most serviceable pieces of county property. The outlook for the new country clubhouse seems favorable, according to information from those promoting the scheme. Equipped with one of the best clubhouses in this State, an eighteen-hole golf course, a swimming pool, perhaps a tennis court, and many other features, it will afford a recreational center of which to be proud.

From an educational standpoint, Chilton County is ranking this year with the few counties in the State that will be able to continue their terms of sufficient length to permit the promotion of the pupils.

At a district meeting in Selma last Saturday, it was shown that only three of the fourteen counties in this district have such a bright outlook; three of the number have already closed their doors; three others will close within the next ten days, and the probability is that the remaining six will be closed within thirty days.

A year ago, Chilton County's school system faced an identical situation. Schools were closed, teachers were not paid, and perhaps even worse—pupils were unable to make grades.

For this miraculous change someone is due credit—and since other schools throughout the State are not so favored, it must be county leadership. Our County Superintendent and County Board of Education are to be commended.

In this age when people seem money mad, it was something of a pleasant surprise to have M. D. Dickey, Clanton Route 7, to come into the News office a few days ago and ask the best method of finding the owner of a sum of money he found recently. Although a man who could use some cash, Mr. Dickey declared he knows honesty to be the best policy—and the owner may have the money by identifying it.

Mrs. Glennie Phillips has as her guest this week, her daughter, Mrs. A. L. Duncan, of Prattville.

ARTHUR MARTIN SEEKS OFFICE OF TAX ASSESSOR

Successful Farmer, Business Man Asks Voters For Their Support

In writing an article about Mr. Arthur D. Martin as a candidate for the office of Tax Assessor of Chilton County, one would not have to call on one's imagination. Mr. Martin is the type of man whose past life speaks exceedingly well for him.

In the News this week will be found the official announcement from Mr. Martin denoting his candidacy for the above office. Mr. Martin was urged by his many friends to seek election to this important office and after careful consideration, he consented to offer his services to the people as Tax Assessor.

Mr. Martin is a successful farmer, residing west of Clanton in the Isabella community, one of the most progressive communities in the county. He is a man of high ideals and has no enemies. His family of five children and a charming wife would set an example of perfect happiness to anyone.

Mr. Martin is not a political campaigner. He does not make promises, but shoots straight from the shoulder, fair and square with anyone he has dealings with. He is admired for this and his strong belief in the Golden Rule. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Martin, members of one of the older families and highly respected families in the county.

Mr. Martin is seeking the office of Tax Assessor with no promises other than that he will conduct that office in an unquestionable manner, being courteous to all. He is full competent to hold such an office, being well educated and backed by experience. Mr. Martin is the first to announce for this office in Chilton County and is to be congratulated.

Maplesville Bank Endorses Program

Following is a letter received by County Agent Fant relative to the Government's cotton acreage reduction plan:

"Maplesville, Ala., Jan. 10, 1934.

"Mr. J. W. Fant, County Agent,
Clanton, Ala.,
Dear Mr. Fant:

"Realizing the great benefits that have come to the farmers in the price of their cotton, we are in hearty sympathy with the plan of Agriculture Department, at Washington, to reduce the cotton acreage this year, and we tender this as our endorsement of the plan.

Yours very truly,
—Bank of Maplesville."

GROUP OF COMEDIANS TO BE AT JACKSON'S CHAPEL SOON

Tom Frank Teel and his group of Fun Makers will be a part of the entertaining program at the Jackson Chapel school Saturday night, January 27. An entertaining program, including negro ministrel acts, comics of every description, tap dancing and many other features of interest will be given.

Admission will be small and will be used in buying seats for the school, it was stated.

FACTS ABOUT COTTON PLAN ARE LISTED

County Agent Gives Out Important Points On Acreage Reduction

Below will be found some interesting facts regarding the Government's cotton acreage reduction plan, as given out by County Agent Fant. These facts should be studied carefully by anyone intending to participate in this program.

1. No contract will be taken for less than two acres.
2. You may reduce 35%-45% from the 1928-32 average acres.
3. The contract may be signed by: Owner, cash tenant and managing share tenants.
4. Managing share tenants sign with landlord.
5. Owner signs with cash tenant with one year lease.
6. Tenants that work on halves do not sign contract.
7. Do not increase total acres of crop in 1934 over 1932 or 1933.
8. Rented acres may be planted to food and feed crops to be used at home, or soil building crops.
9. Landowners should sign all their farms cultivated by them and half tenants under one contract.
10. Rent is paid at the rate of 3½c per pound of lint cotton for the average yield (1928-1932).
11. Parity payment of not less than 1c per pound will be made on 40% of the average production per year 1928-1932.
12. Payment will be made: One-half of the rent in March and April; balance of the rent in August and September, and parity December of this year.

F. L. Harris Is CWA Disbursing Officer

F. L. Harris has been appointed to succeed Frank J. Callen as disbursing officer for Chilton County. His appointment was made through Commissioners Court in cooperation with the State CWA authorities in Montgomery.

Mr. Harris is well qualified for this position, having worked with the First National Bank of Clanton for five years. He is a graduate of the Chilton County High School. The appointment was made final at a special meeting of the Court Tuesday afternoon.

DEADLINE SET FOR SIGNING COTTON PLAN

January 31st Is Last Day To Sign On Acreage Reduction Plan

The deadline for signing 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction contracts has been set for January 31, according to J. W. Fant, County Agent.

Every farmer in Chilton County should think seriously about this program and act quickly in order that we may put this program over before the time is up.

Each farmer should do the following before the committeeman arrives:

1. Get the number of acres for each year 1928-1932.
2. Get the number of bales for same period.
3. Get the average weight of bales.
4. Fill out the survey card.

The cotton history for the period 1928-32 for the land you are cultivating in 1934 is what we want, not what you grew on some other land during this period.

Give as accurate information as possible. Don't run your average yields too high. This is liable to kill the program.

During the past few days 3,500 or more farmers have had the program explained to them. Get the information asked for, sign the contract and let the committeeman go to he next man. Hurry this thing along and let's be the first county to put this program over.

ADDITIONAL WORKMEN TO GET CWA JOBS

All Employees Get A Cut In Hours; 800 More To Be Given Work

Approximately 800 additional workmen are being selected this week for the various CWA projects in Chilton County. Cooperating with the State organization, R. L. Pittman, county director of CWA, announced this week that all employes, except those in administrative capacity, will be limited to fifteen hours per week. The new schedule becomes effective after this week, he stated.

In an effort to spread the work to as many persons and families as possible, Thad Holt, State director, issued orders Monday, to become effective January 19, to reduce the hours of work for each person to fifteen per week, and to add additional employes to keep the payroll quota unchanged.

Mr. Pittman stated that work in Chilton County will be divided into two shifts of two seven and one-half hour days each.

School Survey To Study Short Term

A survey of the conditions in Chilton County's school system is being made this week by Mrs. Delphine Thomas, of Auburn, who is connected with the Tennessee Valley Authorities, in an effort to determine just to what extent educational activities suffered as a result of the short term last year.

A petition has been filed with Congress to give aid to the schools over the country, and this survey, which is being extended into several states is for the purpose of compiling information to determine the advisability of a National appropriation to succor schools.

The News will endeavor to carry a synopsis of the survey when it is completed.

HOPE TO PLACE UNEMPLOYED IN COUNTY IN JOBS

Stokes Plans A Canvass Of Private Employers To Place Jobless

Perpetuating the idea that has characterized the Governmental work programs since the inauguration of President Roosevelt, almost a year ago, Cecil G. Stokes, manager of the Chilton County office of The National Re-Employment Service, has announced that he intends to make a thorough canvass of all potential and prospective employers in this section within the near future—in an effort to re-employ as many persons as is possible in private industry.

Declaring that the Governmental programs are only temporary and serve in much the same capacity as the starter on an automobile, Mr. Stokes said that he is anxious to cooperate with private employers in securing desirable workingmen. With 4,500 persons registered, the office is in position to furnish any number of employes in almost any line of work, it was pointed out. "Of course," Mr. Stokes said, "We can only recommend employes to private industry." The Chilton County office of the National Re-Employment Service is also in touch with other Governmental programs throughout the country, including the PWA and PWS.

This is necessary due to DeMabel having received instructions from her doctor to take a rest on account of her health. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery, and anxiously await her return to her popular shop here.

CHILTON LOSES SCHOOLS IN A NEW SET-UP OF FUNDS

Under the new apportionment of the funds for the Adult Schools, Chilton County lost three schools. With the present set-up funds are apportioned according to population, where formerly the apportionment was made according to the number of applications received from each county in the State.

At present twelve adult schools are being conducted in Chilton County. Several pupils have written letters, or made personal calls to Mr. Little's office assuring him that much good is being accomplished in the various communities in which the schools are being conducted.

22 Arrests Made During Past Week

Violators of the prohibition laws went on a rampage in Chilton County during the past week, judging from the record of arrests in Sheriff W. H. Gillespie's office. During the past week twenty-two persons were arrested, of this number eighteen were liquor law violators. Two were for assault with intent to commit murder and two for cruelty to animals.

There were fourteen persons in jail Tuesday afternoon. Sheriff Gillespie declares that a decided increase in liquor law violations have been noted since the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

THORSBY GETS GOV'T WATER WORKS FUNDS

No Definite Date Is Set To Begin Work; Citizens Are Elated Over Funds

Work is expected to begin within the next thirty days on the installation of an approximately $30,000 waterworks system for the Town of Thorsby, according to information from the local office of the National Re-Employment Service, which will have charge of the selection of the men to work on the project.

The Thorsby waterworks project does not come under the supervision of the CWA, Mr. Stokes explained, but under the Public Works Administration. The local office of the National Re-Employment Service, however, will be directly in charge of the selection of the men for this project, he stated.

Thorsby citizens and J. B. Atkinson, attorney for the town, who were instrumental in making application for a $28,500 loan under the PWA for the purpose of installing an up-to-date system, were notified this week by Senator Hugo Black that the application had been approved and the funds will be available within a short time.

Plans have been under consideration for the construction of a waterworks system in Thorsby for several months, according to E. R. Piper, town clerk, who enumerated the many advantages

POSSIBILITIES OF CLUBHOUSE ARE FAVORABLE

Final Plans Are Drafted For Building On County Airport Site

The probabilities of the construction of the magnificent country clubhouse on the site of the Chilton County Airport continue favorable, according to information from those who have been interested in securing this civic improvement for Clanton and the county.

At a special meeting that was held Monday night, a committee, composed of Dr. J. E. Edgar, Grady Reynolds, John D. Armstrong, and T. J. Arledge, county engineer, was appointed to draft final plans for the construction of the building and to make estimates of the cost of the materials.

According to tentative plans that have been drafted, the structure will be one of the best buildings in the State. Built of native stone and housing a ball room, living room, dining room, kitchen, lounges for both men and women, showers and other features of improvement—the clubhouse will greatly enhance the beauty of Chilton County's airport, which is said by aeronautic authorities to be one of the best and most important landing fields in the State. Located on the proposed air mail route from Nashville to Montgomery, the field has long held the attention of Government flying authorities—and the site was selected by W. C. Hoppins, flying expert for the United States Government.

Another feature of the airport and civic center is the proposal to build an eighteen-hole golf course to encircle the field. It has been explained, too, that there is ample space for tennis courts and a swimming pool.

1934 Tips For Drivers

As 1933 ends, early reports indicate that there was an increase in motor vehicle fatalities and injuries over 1932 in spite of the fact that fewer cars were operating during the year. The last quarter was especially bad.

Predictions are that fatalities will approach 30,000 and injuries, 1,000,000. This is a record that certainly should not be repeated.

A set of New Year's resolutions for the motorist, prepared by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, is a good starting point for a safe 1934:

1. Drive at speeds suited to traffic conditions; slowly, in the city, moderately, on the open highway.
2. Use better judgment in passing. Wait until there is 500 feet of clear distance ahead before attempting to maneuver.
3. Slow down at intersections.
4. Obey traffic signals.
5. Watch out for pedestrians.

These are the five most neglected rules of the road. Obedience to them would have saved a majority of the lives and limbs lost during 1933. Remember them in 1934.

Birthday Of The President

Testimonial dinners, dances and other entertainments will be featured the nation over on January 30, the anniversary of the birth of President Roosevelt, the purpose being to provide an endowment for Warm Springs.

Here is a movement in which this city should have part, not only because of the honor to which the president is entitled by reason of his services to the nation, but because of the appealing nature of the work it is sought to aid.

President Roosevelt, himself a victim of infantile paralysis, has done a great work at Warm Springs in behalf of those suffering from similar afflictions, and in this laudable service he deserves the support of the nation.

Much of what has been done at Warm Springs is the result of personal activities of the president, in cooperation with his friends, and the care of the work has rested largely upon him. As matters stand, he has duties and responsibilities enough as president of the United States and should be relieved of the tax upon his resources imposed by this work in behalf of humanity.

An endowment fund will furnish the needed relief, and the nation-wide movement looking to this end should enlist the sympathy and support of all.

In addition to aiding a most worthy cause, the observance of the president's fifty-second birthday anniversary affords an excellent opportunity for paying tribute to him for the great work he has done and is doing to restore the prosperity of the nation. It is an opportunity that should not be neglected. —Tuscaloosa News.

Frank P. Glass

In the medium which he so loved—printer's ink—the press of Alabama this week mourns the death of a stalwart, a battler of the old editorial school, a master of the editorial pen—Frank P. Glass.

The death of Mr. Glass removes not only one of the finest newspapermen that Alabama has ever produced, but one of the nation's finest as well. For more than half a century, since he first launched into the editorial battle in Centerville as a young man, Mr. Glass has imprinted upon the state a courageous type of thought which can never be erased.

Wherever he went, he made the bitterest of enemies as well as the staunchest of friends, and this fact today stands as the best testimony to his unceasing search for truth with a virile pen as the means.

Mr. Glass had a genius as a writer, he had a clear mind as a thinker, he had courage as a battler, he had integrity as a truth-seeker and he had the force of character which permitted him to kowtow to no one when a principle was at stake. These things, combined with a dominant personality, conspired to place him at the top in the editorial ranks. —Tuscaloosa News.

Aristocrats

The old Greeks maintained an aristocracy of culture. Their hearts thrilled at the sight of a chunk of marble well chiseled or at paint smeared with ingenuity. The artist was the real aristocrat in that day.

Rome gave us the aristocracy of power, particularly military power. All honor, said the Romans, to the man who can put his heel on the neck of a savage army.

Early America, the colonies, gave us an example of an aristocracy of patriotism. George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, John Adams, the patriots, were the aristocrats of their day.

Today we have an aristocracy of achievement. The man who does things is the real aristocrat. The man who will cure cancer will be honored. The man who has action, ideas, gets results, is the man of our day.

Anyone doubting this, think of Franklin Roosevelt, the doer. He is the aristocrat of America today, and thus we honor him. —McComb, Miss., Enterprise.

Thank Somebody For The Alabama Power Company

If we knew who to thank, we would go immediately with outstretched hands and sincere expressions of thanks for the Alabama Power Company, and we might include the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, for their extensive tax-paying properties in our county.

Without these two large concerns with their holdings in our county, we are afraid our county could not boast of being one of the better off counties, financially, in the state. We are afraid that without these two large companies, Chilton county could not spend its monies so fluently and otherwise.

Yes, we give thanks for these concerns and their properties in our county, and we think our county officials should offer sincere expressions of thanks for them, and the great amount of tax money they pour into the coffers of the county each year. We shudder to think of what we would be without the Alabama Power Company and the L & N Railroad.

Building The Democratic Ticket

The News was correct in its editorial comment last week, when it said the people of this county will not be in need of some good men to whom they can throw their support and votes in the coming elections.

This week there will be found in the group of political announcements, those of Earle Thomas for State Senator and Arthur D. Martin for Tax Assessor. These two men are of the farmer class, and both successful.

Truly the Democratic ticket in Chilton County this year is being built up with such outstanding candidates that it seems entirely possible that it will be one of the strongest ever offered by that party.

Supt. Little And Chilton County's Schools

Last year and at the beginning of the school terms in this county, the prospects of our schools continuing and allowing the school children to make the required number of credits from their studies, appeared dark and gloomy.

But over the darkened horizon there arose the light that comes from the mind of a man who is interested in his job and the schools of Chilton County. Luther E. Little has been in the office of Superintendent of Education of this county for only a short while. He will be in that office only a short while before he will come before the people of this county to seek re-election.

We think he has done remarkably well during the few months he has conducted that office. We think he has done exceedingly well. We do not say this simply because he is of the same political belief as the News. We say it because we believe him to be a man who has gone into the depths of this school problem and is gradually bringing to the surface a solution.

The prospects of our children being given a fair term this year are much brighter than they were when Luther took over his duties as superintendent, and we want to say that his efforts and accomplishments for the good of our schools are not passing by unnoticed. The people of Chilton County will remember his fine work.

The Governors Race In Chilton County

One does not hear a great deal of discussion in regard to the race of Governor of the State of Alabama, in Chilton County. One does not see much in the county papers in regard to this race, yet it is one of the most important matters that will confront the voters of this county in the elections this year.

Truly, it may be said that Chilton people are too busy thinking and talking about their own county politics to become greatly interested in the Governors election, yet when the three candidates for this office of the State's Chief Executive are considered, the people of Chilton County will have an opportunity to select a good man.

Right now, under conditions, it is the opinion of the News that the man who gets Chilton County on his side for Governor, will be the man who spends the most time in this county during his campaign. The people of Chilton County are not to be snubbed and passed by, even by a man who aspires to the Governor's chair. So we hereby extend an invitation to the three candidates who have announced for Governor, to visit our county and tell our people of their plans and views. These candidates are Bibb Graves, Judge Leon McCord and Frank M. Dixon.

No Meeting Of Republicans

In the multiplicity of developments attending the opening of the Seventy-Third Congress there was one occurence that may have escaped general observation but which was highly significant. The Republicans decided to call off the party conference that heretofore always has preceded the opening of a congressional session.

The custom of holding party conferences is based upon a natural desire to go over the situation and chart a course for the pending session, and it was planned by the Republican leaders to hold such a conference the past week, but the idea was abandoned.

For this abandonment of what might be termed an old party custom, the Republican leaders may have various explanations, but the truth is that they are so badly split that they did not dare create a situation under which the magnitude of the rift would be exposed.

This wide breach is due largely to the fact that a great many Republicans are standing squarely behind the president—a condition that is a tribute to their good judgment if not a development of a promising nature from a party viewpoint. —Tuscaloosa News.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I always did get a thrill out of burning trash after sundown, so on Christmas evening I proceeded to enjoy myself by burning a pile of yard rubbish that had accumulated. The grass was flaring and the limbs were crackling and I was having a good time. All at once five uniformed men dashed from behind the church and bore down upon me. My heart sank within me and I prayed all to myself, "Good Lord, what have I done?" By that time the police were asking, "Did you have permission to burn that trash?" I stammered, "Your honor, I did not even have permission from my wife." Then he informed me in clear tones and terms that it was against the law to burn trash in this city without permission. I asked for two minutes in which to put out the fire and it was done. No man needs many minutes in which to extinguish a fire if a policeman and four firemen in uniform are standing by. What I want to say to all of you is just this, "Never do a thing because you see somebody else doing it—it may be against the law, and you might get caught." As for me and my house, we will burn no more trash without permission, even if the smoke coming from our neighbor's trash pile smokes us out of our den. Blessed is the man who knoweth the law.

In the zoo there were cages of lions, bears and tigers. I was strolling around at the feeding hour and saw the keeper as he went from cage to cage. I noticed that he carried a long whip and that he also carried a pistol swinging to his belt. I asked a friend, "Why do you suppose that the keeper carries a gun?" From him I learned that the lions and the tigers and the bears were not always to be depended upon. In case either one should become unruly, the keeper was to fire in self protection. He was dealing with wild beasts and they knew no law. Ah, my friends, when you cage bad habits into your life you rarely carry a pistol with which to rid yourself of danger when these habits go wild. We see men and women every day who are being torn to pieces inch by inch and bit by bit, by the bad habits they have formed. They leap upon the victim and he has lost his power to master.

I heard a tremendous crash and I hastened to see if I could locate the trouble. I reached the corner of the church just in time to see three boys as they turned the corner a block away. On investigation I found that they had mischievously broken a window. As I was going toward the crash, if I had met the boys coming to tell me of what they had done, I would have felt quite differently toward them. They knew that they had injured property and they were running from expected trouble. That is the same spirit that causes the auto driver to hit and run. It is the same spirit that causes a bank robber to sneak away when the vault has been pilfered. I knew a boy who threw a stone at a neighbor's pig and killed it. The boy took the dead pig in his arms and ran to the owner, crying like a baby, and told him that he did not mean to kill his pig and that he would pay for it. That boy did not have to pay for the pig, and he is now an honest, noble man. If you want to forever ruin a boy just allow him to do damage and run from it. The very best of us, whether we be men or women, boys or girls, will at some time make a mistake and create an injury not intended. In a case like that, face the trouble like a man.

And it came to pass that a certain man started out to build a palace. He was quite young when the work was begun, and he worked hard for many years. He passed through middle life and the palace was not complete. He was growing old and the work was not done. One day the old man staggered toward his incomplete palace. Soon he could not go. His hands had lost their skill and the palace was not complete. He had to lay himself down in death and the work that he longed to do was not done. That is true to my life and your life. We started out to build a palace. We are working on it day by day. We are growing older. Some just ahead of us have feeble steps, while some have lost their power and skill to build. Some day we are going to leave our working tools untouched and we will have to leave our palace unfinished. Rare indeed is that life that lives long and completes the palace that was in the vision of young life. We start out to build a palace, but we do not always finish it.

Business Picking Up Say Editors Of State

That business conditions are greatly improving over Alabama under the Democratic administration is attested to by several of the editors of weekly newspapers in this section of the State. And who is better qualified to tell when business is good or bad, than a weekly newspaper man?

Following is a clipping taken from The Publishers Auxiliary of last week. Read for yourself what the editors are saying:

"A survey of publishers of weekly newspapers in central east Alabama during the past week brings out optimism among these publishers for 1934. Editor Billy Smith of the Chilton County News, Clanton, says: 'During 1933 we made headway and materially reduced our obligations and expect 1934 to "pull us out of the hole" and put us in a position to "go places and do things".' Editor H. H. Golson of the Wetumpka Herald says: 'Business in Wetumpka is "on the up." We have money in our county and 1934 will see Elmore county return to normal.' Dick Thompson of the Tallassee Tribune says: 'Next week we will change our column width to 12-ems and add one column to the size of each page. We will also enlarge our paper materially in the very near future, as we are expecting 1934 to be a materially improved year for the Tribune.' Editor H. M. Doster of the Prattville Progress says: 'During 1933 our merchants forgot how to advertise. We have our market merchants lined up and are going after other lines of business for advertising.' Editor Frank Nunnelle, editor of the Montgomery Weekly, says: 'We will concentrate on our newspaper during 1934 and if anything is to be slighted it will be the job end. Our newspaper has just celebrated its fifth birthday and it will become a power in Montgomery.' Publisher Dan T. Stokes of the Montgomery News says: 'Our newspaper was born in 1933 and it will reach a mature age in 1934. Business looks good and we will get our share of it.' F. W. Stanley, business manager of the Greenville Advocate, says: 'We did well in 1933, taking all conditions into consideration, and we will put the Advocate back to its former degree of excellency during 1934.' Jesse B. Adams, editor and publisher of the Ozark Southern Star, says: 'The Southern Star "bucked" its most difficult year during 1933 and was able to "weather the storm." The new year will see the Southern Star shining brightly.' "

GREAT BY ANY NAME

From time to time there recurs the old argument concerning the spelling of the name of Kosciusco, the great Polish general who gave his services to Washington in the Revolution and later fought so valiantly for his native land.

When a town in Mississippi was named for him years ago, the post-office department spelled the name as it appears in the foregoing paragraph. But on a statue to his memory erected near the White House in Washington the name is spelled "Kosciuszko," a "z" being added. When a special postage stamp was issued in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of his death, the postal authorities adhered to the simpler form.

As a matter of fact, it is difficult to determine the correct spelling of many names translated from a foreign language. In the case of the distinguished Pole under consideration, three different spellings are approved by reputable authorities. In addition to the two already mentioned, the Encyclopedia Britannica gives as an alternative the spelling "Koscziusko."

After all, the greatness of the man does not depend upon the spelling of his name. The great Polish engineer, general and statesman would be remembered under any name as a true and courageous friend of human liberty. The famous line in Campbell's poem, "And freedom shrieked when Kosciusko fell," has justification as rhetoric, but hardly as fact.

While Kosciusko was several times wounded in battle, he was living peacefully as a farmer in Switzerland when his death was caused by an accidental fall from his horse.

STARTING A BUSINESS

Business failures are due to many causes, including lack of experience, bad management, insufficient capital, ineptitude for business and others.

The most common reason for failure, however, is the starting of a business in a field that can not reasonably be expected to support it, or in one that is largely overcrowded.

In a pamphlet issued by the Department of Commerce this fact is pointed out and a thorough survey of the prospective field is recommended before embarking upon a new enterprise. It says:

"In planning to enter a new field, the retailer may fiend by careful analysis, that his prospective market does not reflect such favorable circumstances as a cursory examination appeared to reveal. He may be saved from embarking upon the enterprise, thus preventing subsequent failure and much loss to society of wasted effort and capital."

The time when anybody could start any kind of a business almost anywhere and make it a success is past, if, in fact, such time ever was. Modern business is highly competitive and requires better training than ever before. While optimism in moderation is a desirable trait, carried to the extreme it has perhaps wrecked more business ventures than any other one mistake.

Letters To The Editor

PRAISES SUPT. LITTLE

Editor, Chilton County News:

It is with great pleasure that the people note your article in the News with the statement of our able and efficient superintendent of education, that our schools will continue six and eight months, respectively for our elementary and high schools. We have been so used to seeing our county officials consider every official move they make from the standpoint of their own political interest, that it is very gratifying to have an official who conducts his office in a purely non-partizan manner. I feel sure the great majority of the people of Chilton County approve of Mr. Little's administration and will show their appreciation by giving him another term, thereby keeping our schools safe from political influence.

Lincoln, Ala., Jan. 5, 1934.

Dear County Chairmen of 4-H Club Work:

"As Home Demonstration Club members we should assist in every way we can to promote 4-H work. I hope that each of us may strive to make this year outstanding in the standardization of 4-H clubs. We may be a great help in this by asking home demonstration women to act as local leaders and by encouraging the girls to complete their projects.

"There are many ways in which we may help promote 4-H Club activities:

1. Provide the ways and means for attending county-wide meetings and rallies.
2. Cooperate with our home demonstration agents in planning and conducting summer camps for 4-H Club Girls.
3. Encourage 4-H girls to attend the camps, for a few days spent in wholesome recreation means much to our girls.
4. Plan wholesome recreation at home for the boys and girls.
5. Attend socials and other meetings planned by tne boys and girls themselves, thus showing that the older people are interested in them.

"These are only a few of the many things we may do. I am sure that you have many other suggestions to make to the club women of your counties.

"Let's do our very best to live up to our club motto 'To Make The Best Better.'

"Wishing you success in your work, I am

Sincerely yours,
—Mrs. M. E. Bishop, State Chairman of 4-H Club Work."

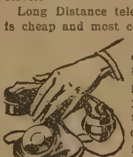
150 MILES FOR ONLY 50¢ BY TELEPHONE

By T. E. Harris,
DISTRICT MANAGER

SOUTHERN BELL
Telephone and Telegraph Co

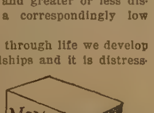
People using long distance telephone service for the first time, often express surprise at finding out how little it costs, and, too, they are astounded when the call is completed while they hold the receiver.



Long Distance telephone service is cheap and most connections are made almost as quickly as a local call, especially when you know the number of the distant telephone.

If you have never experienced the pleasure of a long distance telephone visit with some out-of-town friend or relative, try it tonight. It's cheaper to talk after 8:30 P. M., if you use station-to-station service. To make a station-to-station call, just ask for "long distance" and say to her, "I want to talk to John Doe's residence, station-to-station service."

A voice visit by telephone can be made with relatives or friends 150 miles away for about 50 cents by using station-to-station service after 8:30, and greater or less distances at a correspondingly low cost.



As we go through life we develop close friendships and it is distressing when from time to time these friends move away. We know we will miss them in our happy gatherings. And when they are gone, there will be times when we will wish to hear their voices, and chat naturally with them. Letters just don't fill the need.

When you feel that way, just remember that they are as close to you as your telephone. You need only to reach for your telephone and ask for them, and presto—they are with you.

OAK GROVE

We had a wonderful B. Y. P. U. program last Sunday night. We're sure all that were there received a wonderful blessing.. Everyone is beginning to feel the need of B. Y. P. U. and is working to help make a perfect union. The Juniors and Group I have charge of the program next Sunday night. We are expecting them to put us on a good program. We have a new secretary, Miss Dorothy Dees, also a new group captain for Group I, Mr. Loyd Baggett. We are sure that they are going to make good officers. We must cooperate with them and all pull together and make an A-1 union.

Miss Mary Jim Sutley dined with Miss Onzell Littleton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay gave a party at their home Saturday night, Jan. 13. There was a large crowd present, all reporting a wonderful time.

VERMONT

Our P.-T. A. met Thursday night. We were glad to have so many present. Several matters of vital interest were discussed. Mrs. Gandy gave a good talk on report cards. After this a suit case and cracker contest furnished a bit of laughter for the entire crowd. Refreshments were served by the committee. The committee wishes to thank all the ladies that were so willing to bring things.

The P.-T. A. will have as their guest the Isabella P.-T. A. on Tuesday night, January 23. We hope to show them just as big a time as they showed us when we visited them on Monday night, January 8. We are afraid it is almost impossible. Mr. Johnson says so anyway, because he is afraid he won't get five cups of coffee and three pieces of cake.

Miss Cagle carried her pupils on a hike last Thursday morning. They left about nine o'clock and went about a mile northeast of the school building. On their journey they collected a large number of nature's products. Everyone had their arms full of moss, rocks, violets, etc. The collection proved more interesting after they weer arranged in a rock garden in Miss Cagle's room.

Last Saturday night the Antioch church sponsored a box supper, given at the school building. The proceeds will be used in payment on a piano that was recently placed in the church.

The faculty was out of the community the past week end. Miss Manning and Miss Cagle spent Saturday night and Sunday with the latter's parents at Mitchell Dam. Miss Grant spent the week end with her parents in Cooper. Mr. Johnson motored to Birmingham and reported a nice trip. We are sorry, that his big time gave him such a cold that he was not able to be in school Monday.

The coaches of the girls and boys basket ball teams, Miss Cagle and Mr. Johnson, called the boys and girls together Wednesday morning for the purpose or re-organizing the teams. Frances Ruddick was elected captain and Gladys Sansom alternate captain of the girls team; T. J. Ratliff was elected captain and Carlo Short alternate captain of the boys team.

Last Friday, January 12, the boys and girls of this school played a practice game with Isabella boys and girls. The girls and boys worked hard to win but in the end the Isabella girls won, 7 to 2, and the Isabella boys won 10 to 4. The losing sides took the defeat like sports and determined that they would not give up on account of losing. We will be glad to have the visiting team back again.

We regret that a few of the pupils are out with the measles. Our enrollment has been pulled down quite a bit by pupils who are absent for fear they will catch it, but we are sending home all who have been exposed and we are hoping the absent will return.

Funeral For Rev. J. S. Hand Held Sunday

Funeral services for the Rev. J. S. Hand, 51, who died Saturday night at 8 o'clock at his home, two and one-half miles west of Clanton, after an illness of about a year's duration, were conducted Sunday afternoon from the Mt. Pisgah Methodist church. Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church, and the Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorsby, officiated. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Spigener in charge.

Mr. Hand had been in ill health for about a year and had been bed ridden for the past five months, having undergone several treatments in local and Birmingham hospitals.

Born and reared in Coosa County, the venerable minister removed to Chilton County at the age of 18 and spent most of the remainder of his life in this county. He was well known thruout this section of the State and in Georgia, having held pastorates in 18 counties in Alabama and several in Georgia. A member of the Liberty Hill Baptist church, he was a power in his community for the progress of all worthwhile movements.

Surviving him are, his widow, Mrs. Bessie Headley Hand; two sons, Cornelius and Leonard Hand; one daughter, Mrs. Jewel Hayes; one brother, Lonnie Hand, all of Clanton; three sisters, Mrs. Ola Holley, of Clanton, Mrs. Ethel Mayo, of Prattville, and Mrs. Mallie Mackinvale, of Ashland City, Tenn.

Some Essential Features Of The Corn-Hog Progr'm

F. W. Burns, Livestock Specialist from Auburn, explained the corn-hog reduction program to about 500 farmers and business men in Clanton Monday, January 5th. The following information was given out:

1. A farmer who produced three or more litters of pigs and grew them to disposal age in 1932 and 1933, and who grew an average of 10 acres or more of corn during 1932 and 1933 is eligible.
2. The farmer agrees to reduce the number of litters farrowed in 1934 25% and to reduce the number of hogs marketed in 1934 25% of the 1932 and 1933 average.
3. The farmer will receive $5.00 per head for the number sold in 1934.
4. The farmer agrees to reduce his 1932 and 1933 average number of acres planted to corn 20 to 30 per cent.
5. The farmer will receive 30 cents per bushel on the estimated production of corn, for the past five year, on the contracted acres.
6. Corn acreage figured on what had been planted on the particular farm.
7. Restrictions on use of contracted acres same as for cotton.
8. Number hogs figured on number owned by farmer regardless of where he lived in 1932 and 1933.
9. Farmer will be allowed to raise a specified number of hogs for home use —probably one hog for each person over ten years of age living on the farm in 1934.
10. Fifteen per cent must be deducted from the number of pigs farrowed in fall of 1933 in figuring base number of hogs.

To The Patrons of The Undersigned Doctors Who Have Forgotten or Disregarded Their Obligations

We wish to call attention to the fact that the undersigned doctors have not received sufficient compensation for services rendered their patrons for the past four years to pay expenses incurred in practicing our profession.

It is not desired to mistreat any one or neglect our duty, to humanity, but it is impossible for us to carry our burdens longer under the existing circumstances. We wonder how many patrons would work for us for three or four years, or even one year without pay. We are just plain human beings and if you will put yourself in our place you will readily see that it is impossible for us to do our best when our minds are burdened with financial difficulties.

From past experiences we have every reason to believe we will be treated in the future as we have been in the past without taking some steps to prevent it. With this in view, we have adopted the following plan which we hope will not work a hardship on any one and we believe will be a great help to us in meeting our own obligations.

On and after March 1, 1934 we hereby pledge ourselves not to visit any one who owes either of the undersigned doctors, whose names appear on the delinquent list except for cash in advance for services. This does not apply to our patrons who have been fair to us and put forth their best efforts to meet their obligations with us, but will be adhered to strictly with the ones who change their doctors to settle their accounts.

If you want to stay in good standing, we advise you to call on your doctor and settle or arrange your account satisfactory, so that you will not be listed as a delinquent and you be deprived of the consideration shown you in the past.

To Those Owing Old Accounts:

Here is a chance to make some money. Does your bill with me look too big to pay now? If so, call to see me and maybe we could "deduct some for cash."

Please give this matter your payful attention.

Seed Work Saves Syrup Industry

Auburn, Ala.—Under the leadership of county agents, farmers in central and south Alabama counties have been successful in saving the home-syrup industry from Mosaic disease, which a few years ago made it almost impracticable to grow sugar cane in these sections.

J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, reports that 1,693,500 stalks of disease-resistant sugar canes were planted in 20 Alabama counties in 1933.

When it became apparent that the old varieties could not be grown successfully, county agents and farmers secured the small amount of seed of resistant varieties available and began multiplication of these seed. This was in 1928 and 1929. During the past few years this work has been so successful that seed are now available to nearly every farmer.

The varieties multiplied and planted in the 20 counties in 1933 are P. O. J., Gayana, and C. P. 807, all of which are highly resistant to the Mosaic disease which made it almost impossible for farmers to produce sufficient cane of the old varieties for the home supply of syrup.

And the work is being continued. County Agent H. H. Williamson of Escambia reports that farmers of that county have saved for planting more than 50,000 stalks of C. P. 807. F. C. Clapp, Barbour County agent, reports that there is much interest in C. P. 807 in his county. Other workers make similar reports.

Will Repeat Success Of Plow-up Campaign

Auburn, Ala.—Controlling the production of cotton by cooperative action is no new thing to southern growers. In the adjustment campaign during the summer of 1933, they removed 10,400,000 acres from production and decreased the probable supply of cotton by 4,400,000 bales. The reward for this was a price last fall fully double what it would have been, and the additional reward of liberal rental and option payments.

"With this background of achievement and this knowledge of their own ability to improve their economic conditions, progressive growers of Alabama and the South are welcoming the new opportunity further to stabilize the cotton situation," says Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute. "Many growers who secured the loan of ten cents a pound on their 1933 cotton and will get a further loan of four cents a pound on their option cotton, are, of course, signing the reduction contract. This is a large nucleus around which other progressive producers may gather."

Reinforced by the knowledge of what happened last year as a result of the cotton adjustment campaign, Dr. Duncan is convinced that alert growers stand ready to repeat this year. The new contract being offered the growers during the present month is simply another effort by the adjustment administration to allow cotton producers to help themselves.

There are two alternatives. Either the growers may cooperate and receive better prices for the cotton produced, or they may fail to cooperate and face the same disastrous situation with which they have had to contend in past years of over-production. The answer therefore appears simple. Since the farmers themselves are to receive all the profits and since the present program is intended solely for their benefit, it is believed that the movement cannot fail to meet with a wholehearted response.

Brief Rural Topics

Moist bottom lands make the best pastures.

Kudzu is one of the most promising crops grown in Alabama for forage and soil building. It is also a splendid hay crop and is good for use in stopping landslides and washing and utilizing wastelands.

Land rented to the Secretary of Agriculture in reducing cotton acreage may be used to produce food and feed for home use and to grow soil-improving and erosion-preventing crops.

Lespedeza should be planted in late winter and early spring—February and March. Broadcast the seed at the rate of one bushel (25 pounds) per acre and cover just deep enough to prevent drifting.

Lespedeza has a trio of values as a crop. It is splendid for pastures, is very effective in improving the soil, and, under favorable conditions, makes sufficient growth for satisfactory yields of excellent hay.

SICK HEADACHE

Many cases of SICK HEADACHE are due to constipation. If you have headache that is due to constipation, take Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT for refreshing relief.

"I have taken BLACK-DRAUGHT, when needed, for about 15 years," writes Mr. J. W. Cooper, of Longview, Texas. "I first began to use it for sick headache that seemed to come from constipation.

"I would suffer about twenty-four hours with these headaches. I found out that BLACK-DRAUGHT would help me, so that is what I took. I am glad to recommend it to others, for this trouble, for it will give relief."

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT is a purely vegetable laxative, preferred by thousands of men and women because it is so effective and economical.

For CHILDREN, get the new, pleasant-tasting SYRUP of Thedford's Black-Draught, in 25¢ & 50¢ bottles.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

The first week in the second semester has almost passed. There are only thirteen more weeks before academic activities will end. We are fortunate indeed in having a second semester, but in the three more months that this school will run we must put in four months work. No teacher and no student will have any time to waste if he wants to get the best of this school year. Especially must the Senior Class be sure not to let any time slip by without profitable use. With plays, graduation preparation and hundreds of other things to be done and done properly no Senior can allow himself to be beaten by procrastination. So let's profit by the mistakes we made during the first semester and sail straight on through to April 20.

With the crucial time for the Senior Class nearing approach every member should do his best to cooperate to his fullest ability. Remember, a chain is no stronger than its weakest link. Make your class go down in history and be spoken of by others in a way that you can boastfully say, "I was a member of that class."

Our Senior class is living up to the name of its school and itself. One day last week the class was presented with an offer to enlarge their financial resources with little effort. They took it up and now every member of that class is soliciting for subscribers to magazines. Out of every dollar the class will realize fifty cents and also will receive ten cent per dollar bonus if they sell a specified number. The class is divided into two teams. Mary Charles Cox and Dan Smith are the captains of the "Auburn Tigers" and Roberta Cochran and Joe Moore are captains for the "Crimson Tide." Miss Frances Gulledge and Mr. L. C. Warr are the sponsors of the teams respectively. For each person selling there is an easy chance for a number of valuable prizes, too. The magazines being sold are The Saturday Evening Post, The Ladies Home Journal and The Country Gentleman. See a member of the Senior Class or other student representatives for your subscription and help the class.

Both of Chilton's basketball teams won their game last Friday night. The girls from Billingsley lost to our girls by the score of 17 to 12, and the Billingsley boy's team lost to Chilton 34 to 18. Both games displayed the fact that Chilton has two real basketball teams of the first class. The girls team is coached by Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin and the boys are under the coaching of Mr. T. H. Searcy.

A question of much interest now is: What will the Senior Class of this year leave to the school as their memorial?

The Seniors are busy preparing for the presentation of their mid-term play Friday night week. The cast has been practicing this week, and according to several witnesses the play will be the best comedy ever staged by a class at this school. The name, "The Clay's The Thing," makes one think of a hilarious comedy. And it is! So get ready to have the time of your life a week from tomorrow night. Watch for more details and announcements.

Who am I? * * * How many got it last week? It was Grady Reynolds, Jr. This one is even harder. I am a brunette; not slim; have no fellas in school, but I have one tho; usually shy; considered by others to be beautiful, having won that title in class; walk with quick steps; live on the west side of the railroad.

James Tiffin was the leading scorer for the boys last Friday night, tossing the ball through the basket for a total of eleven times. The leading girl scorer during the girls game was Grace Plyler, with eight successful throws.

Chilton's two basketball teams went to Marbury Tuesday afternoon to play the boys team and the girls team of Marbury High. At the time of this writing the results of the game were unobtainable. A complete tentative list of the basketball games to be played by both the boys and girls team of C. C. H. S. will be published next week.

Monday afternoon Mrs. Delphine Thomas stopped at this school for data wanted by the Tennessee Valley Authority. Mrs. Thomas is commissioned by the TVA to assist in the compilation of data relating to the project: Effect of the Closed Schools on Adolescent Children. The purpose of this study as told the writer in an interview is to discover the change in the life activities of white high school boys and girls due to the closing of short term schools in our state. A set of questions including inquiries into the activities of the person while out of school; his associations and other related subjects was presented to each student who did not continue in school during the last semester last year.

Peeping Over the Student's Transom by the Student Winchell. (Editor's Note: The articles herewith printed are the personal expressions of the writer and do not reflect the character of the school. They are printed by the writer for the personal interest of the students.) The Unholy Three are good poets. Make cute little rhymes like: "As you know, we're all brunette. And you've heard we're hard to get" and "Altho we know that you're tied down. There are cuter girls in this old town." They can cut lovable little paper hearts and daggers too. * * * A Senior One can really refuse dates in a diplomatic way. * * * Ah! Another romance Appears like it! Watch for developments soon. * * * A romance sprung out of the Junior play last year. Wonder what will result from the play now being practiced? If any. * * * I don't think the Unholy Three is getting "Frankie" "hot under the collar." It appears to be a waste of "brown wrapping paper." * * * See you next week.

Here is the treat I promised for my readers. This is a brief account of the trip along the coast taken by our science instructor, Mr. J. B. Varnell, last summer:

This trip extended through the center of Georgia, including its four principal cities, namely: Rome, Atlanta, Augusta and Savannah. Also along the Atlantic coast in part of South Carolina.

Some of the most interesting findings were the Fauna and Flora of the section through the center of Georgia; the beauty of "Victory Drive" which consists of palmetto trees well kept and marking the way from Savannah to the ocean; the largeness of the ship "City of Birmingham" docked in the port at Savannah; and the thrill of bathing in the ocean at Tybee Beach fifteen miles south of Savannah.

After an interesting day of new experiences, animals and flowers of biological value were gathered at Beaufort, S. C., and Port Royal, S. C. At Port Royal one will find a United States Naval Base. Here is erected a monument of historical importance. On this monument is the following inscription:

"Here stood Charlesfort built in the year 1562 by Jean Rebaut for Admiral Celiguy. A refuge for Hugenots; used to the glory of France. Erected 1925 by the Government of the United States of America to mark the first stronghold of France on this continent."

The following day was spent at the sport of angling and accumulation of live specimens of deep sea life for our biology students.

Science says Today use a LIQUID Laxative

If you want to GET RID of Constipation worries—

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys.

A doctor will tell you that the unwise choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to the use of laxatives in liquid form.

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

In buying any laxative, always read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. Its ingredients are on the label. By using it, you avoid danger of bowel strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable; you can make constipated spells as rare as colds.

The liquid test:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics:

First. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find is suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without any need of stimulation.

Syrup pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains senna, a natural laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school were pretty well attended Sunday. We saw many new faces over the house Sunday night. We would like to see your face every Sunday night. So come again and bring someone with you.

Remember, next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. We ask everyone who can come to be present, especially the members of this church, because as church members, it is our duty to attend the services. The Bible says we are not to forget to meet together to worship God. If we belong to a church, God expects us to be faithful in church attendance. It is our duty, too, to pray for the work of the church. Every church member ought to pray for the pastor and the teachers and all the workers, and for one another.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

In the course of the development of this company's interconnected transmission system, now serving more than 96,000 customers located in 483 cities, villages and communities in 65 of the 67 counties of the State, much difficulty was encountered in raising capital to carry on the work.

Of the total of $133,000,000 of bonds and preferred stocks outstanding today, Alabamians hold $20,000,000 of preferred stock and some unknown portion of the bonds. A very large percentage of both securities are held by Trust and Insurance Companies, savings banks, religious, educational and charitable institutions.

As of April 1, 1933, there were twenty-three insurance companies doing business within the State and owning more than $27,000,000 of the bonds and preferred stocks of Alabama Power Company. Insurance companies generally have invested their funds in public utility securities.

It is said that seven-eighths of all the money left by married men in America for their families, is derived from life insurance.

Life Insurance Companies had in force in Alabama on December 31, 1932, more than $630,000,000 of insurance out of which was paid over $11,000,000 for death claims.

Fire Insurance Companies had in force over $540,000,000 of insurance and paid to Alabamians during the same year losses exceeding $4,000,000.

Public utility bonds and stocks form a substantial part of the assets of insurance companies. Breaking down the market value and soundness of utility securities threatens the financial stability of many insurance companies upon whom thousands of Alabamians depend for protection in case of death or fire loss.

While there are some 12,000 Alabamians having a direct financial interest in this company, there are many times that number of our citizens who are indirectly interested financially in its welfare.

Yours very truly,

President.

Home Demonstration Club Leaders' Held Leadership School Here Jan. 16

The third leadership school was held Tuesday afternoon, the 16th, with 23 leaders and six visitors present.

Mr. Brown, Garden Specialist from Auburn, gave a very interesting lesson on spring and early summer gardens. He says "successful gardening, so far as individual efforts are concerned, depend largely on the following:

1. Thorough preparation of land.
2. Proper fertilization.
3. Planting vegetables at the proper time and intervals.
4. Good varieties.
5. Proper cultivation.
6. Insect control.
7. Timely and persistent effort.

The second lesson was given by Mr. Bailey, Poultry Specialist from Auburn, on brooding, feeding, and management of chicks for farm flocks. According to Mr. Bailey the best time to hatch chicks for good layers is February and March. It usually requires about 150 day-old chicks to produce 50 good pullets. If only a small number of chicks is to be brooded, it is satisfactory to use hens provided they are free of mites and lice and kept in a dry, comfortable place. Where as many as 100 chicks are to be brooded it will pay to resort to some artificial means.

The essentials of a good brooder house are: 1. Dryness. 2. Good ventilation without draft. 3. Easily heated and convenient.

Allow one square foot of floor space to every two chicks. A house 10 ft. by 10 ft. will accomodate 200 chicks. A house smaller than this is very uneconomical.

The home-made brick brooder is the most economical brooder to use. Brooder house plans may be obtained from the home demonstration agent.

Feeding

There are several good home mixtures for starting and growing chicks. Below is one good mixture:

100 lbs. cornmeal, 7 lbs. bonemeal, one lb. salt. With this mixture milk must be kept before chicks at all times. Feed no water until chicks are four weeks old. Then give late in afternoon.

George J. Headley Killed In Accident

Enroute Sunday morning to make arrangement for the funeral of his son-in-law, the Rev. J. S. Hand, George Jonifer Headley, 69, was thrown from a truck and died an hour later in the Central Alabama Hospital, in Clanton, where he was taken for treatment. He never regained consciousness.

The accident occurred on the street in front of the home of Grady Reynolds. Reports are that Mr. Headley very nearly fell from the truck and when one of his grand-sons, Burton Tyus, who was driving attempted to catch him, the truck became uncontrollable and struck the curbstone, throwing Mr. Headley foremost against the surface of the street.

Surviving him are, his widow; one son, Horace D. Headley; four daughters, Mrs. Bessie Hand, Mrs. Mary Tyus, Mrs. Emma Davidson, Tarrant City, and Mrs. Alice Payton; one half-brother, Jim Edwards; three sisters, Mrs. Manda Rolland, Mrs. Sallie Robbins, and Mrs. Georgia Popwell.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Mt. Pisgah Methodist church and burial was in the adjoining cemetery, with Spigener in charge.

that the system will bring to the little Chilton county hamlet as follows: From 60 to 120 homes will be served; health conditions will be greatly improved; fire hazards will be minimized for with the installation of the waterworks system it is expected that a fire department will be organized. The application for the $28,500 loan was drawn and filed under the provisions of the recently enacted public works bill by Hon. J. B. Atkinson, city attorney for Thorsby.

The plans call for work to begin within 30 days after final approval is made on the loan, and completion must be within 90 days, it is understood. The project will require the laying of 16,500 feet of piping of various sizes. Approximately $4,000 will be expended for labor on the ditching, laying the pipes, and installation of fire hydrants, it is estimated. At 30 cents per hour, which is the required scale of pay for unskilled labor, this will afford more than 1,600 days of work for men in Chilton county.

Mrs. G. C. Walker Hostess To "As You Like It Club."

The members of the "As You Like It Club" were delightfully entertained Thursday with a spend-the-day at the home of Mrs. G. C. Walker. The hostess surprised the members when they came with a beautiful quilt ready for quilting. Now this was lots of fun, especially for those who never had quilted. Nevertheless, as the old saying goes, "You never get too old to learn." At the noon hour the hostess served a bountiful luncheon. The members present were Mesdames L. H. Reynolds, D. C. Alred, T. R. Burdette, J. B. Atkinson, M. A. Gore, V. J. Gragg, W. A. Reynolds, P. M. Pitts, Flem Higgins, W. W. Fox, C. Reese Mullins. Mrs. D. C. Alred will be hostess next meeting, January 25th.

THORSBY INDEPENDENTS DEFEAT STANTON CAGERS

The Bull sharpened up his horns and hooked the Stanton boys into humble submission. Thorsby's squad put on one of the finest exhibitions of passwork that you would want to look at. Stanton has a good team, but they are no match for those hooting-footing Bulls from Thorsby. Thorsby won by the score of 23 to 16, and didn't extend themselves at any time. Anyone wishing a game with our team write Arnold Littleton, Thorsby, Ala., and he and all his Bulls will be glad to play you.

HERE IS AN INTERESTING CHECKER PROBLEM

Considerable discussion has arisen among local checker players as a result of the checker problem pictured in the new calendar issued by the distributors of ARCADIAN Nitrate of Soda. A reproduction of this calendar illustration is shown above. The farmer playing the black checkers seems to feel pretty sure of victory, but the player playing the red, although apparently much puzzled and disturbed, can win in three moves.

The exact position of the checkers is shown in the diagram at the right. So here you are, Checker Players: Get out your checker board and checkers and work out this problem for yourself.

If you cannot find the correct moves ask the local fertilizer distributor who sells ARCADIAN Nitrate of Soda. He knows the correct solution to this puzzling problem.

The Union-Banner

30 TAKING ANTI-RABIES SERUMS

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

In regard to the verbal assault, made by "The Man in the Moon" in last week's issue of The Union-Banner, on our good friend, H. B. Oliver, of Verbena, we think it is just a bit unfair. The Man in the Moon is a good writer, and incidentally a good fellow, but writers, like everyone else, are subject to honest errors. This attack we place in that category.

First, the allegation was made that the methods of conducting the CWA in Chilton County are none of Mr. Oliver's business. This, we consider a gross error. But perhaps our good friend, The Man in the Moon, has never had occasion to commit to memory, or use, the definition of the word Democracy. Had he done so, he would have known that a Democratic Government is a government of the People, for the People, by the People. He doubtless would have known that under such a form of government, any citizen, at any time, has a perfect right to make a personal investigation of any public office. Especially is it disappointing that The Man in the Moon, being a newspaperman, would not be familiar with such terms as "Freedom of Speech," and "Freedom of the Press."

As for Mr. Oliver's prejudice against the Republican Party, we suggest that the learned Man in the Moon brush up a bit on his politics.

Reviewing old adages, which seems to be a favorite past time of this facetious writer, we find one to this effect, "A wise man sometimes changes his mind, but a fool never does." Measured by this barometer, The Man in the Moon is evidently a very wise man. Checking back through the issues of The Union-Banner, we find that he has changed from a disgruntled knocker to an enthusiastic booster of the Roosevelt program. A coincident, however, is that this miraculous change of mind came simultaneously with his first check as a CWA employe.

Whether or not the CWA in Chilton County has been conducted in a manner that is above reproach, we are unprepared to say. In our limited capacity as a newspaper reporter, who tries to give to the readers of Chilton County the unbiased facts, we have tried to be an attentive observer. We have failed to note anything at which we would be willing to point the finger of suspicion.

However, complaints continue; chief among which is, that it is almost impossible to see the heads of the CWA departments. We feel that any inconsideration along this line must have come from inexperienced office assistants, and not from the heads of the departments.

Persons making these complaints should remember that these men are busy and must of necessity utilize their time to the best advantage. On the other hand, these officials should remember that they are public servants. Any citizen, though he be dressed in ragged overalls, has a perfect right to expect, to demand, an interview—though his business be none other than to look at the man who holds such a responsible position in his county.

A short time ago, it will be remembered, President Roosevelt, perhaps the busiest man of all the ages, had time to write a personal letter of commendation to a little nine-year-old Chilton County boy, who dug up one of his three rows of cotton. Surely there is no one connected with the CWA in Chilton County who is busier, or more important, than that great man who stands at the helm of our National Government and directs its activities.

Something has clicked and clicked loud over the entire county, so it seems. Ernie Hanson, one of the prominent residents of Thorsby, is being heard mentioned considerably as a prospective candidate on the Democratic ticket for Commissioner from District Two.

Ernie is unusually well qualified to fill such an office and is the type of business man and construction man who would save our county considerable money if he enters the race and is elected, of which there is no doubt in the minds of his friends over the county.

Registrars In Session at Sheriff's Of. This Week

The Chilton County Board of Registrars will be in session in the Sheriff's office during this week for the purpose of registering persons for voting. With only a few days more left in which to register and pay poll tax, the Board is urging that everyone take advantage of the opportunity offered this week.

Mr. C. C. Gray, who resides near Clanton was a pleasant caller at the News office Saturday, and was accompanied by his young son, George.

TATE WILL NOT BE IN RACE FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

Doctor Advises Judge Not To Enter Campaign; Made Known Monday

Because of danger to his health, Judge F. Loyd Tate announced this week that he will not be a candidate for re-election, declaring that his physician has advised him that it would be dangerous for him to go through a streneous campaign at this time, he said that he had definitely decided to withdraw from the race.

Judge Tate's withdrawal affords many new aspects to the political picture as far as the race for circuit judge is concerned. J. B. Atkinson, of Clanton, has announced as a candidate for this office; and it is understood that Arthur Glover, defeated candidate in last election, will also be in the race. It, too, is the opinion that a third candidate is likely to enter, since Judge Tate's withdrawal, but Judge Tate declared that he is not aware of any more contemplated candidates.

Judge Tate is one of the best known and most popular officials in this section, having served this circuit for several terms as circuit solicitor, and also as an appointed and elected circuit judge. His friends throughout the three counties, composing the circuit, will learn with much regret that his health will prevent his name being on the ballot in the coming election.

HARDY MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT OF CANDIDACY

Popular Chief Of Police Enters The Race For Chilton Sheriff

Into the political field comes another candidate this week. With the definite announcement of J. R. Hardy, chief of police of Clanton, who recently filed necessary papers with the probate office declaring his entrance as a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton County, the veteran law enforcement officer declared that it is his intention to run on his record.

A native of Coosa County, where he served as Sheriff—Mr. Hardy came to Clanton about 11 years ago and for many years was connected with George McCain in the horse and mule business. Through this connection he became well known throughout the county. For the past three years he has served the Town of Clanton as chief of police.

Sometime ago Mr. Hardy made a tentative announcement of his intention of seeking this office, and since that time his friends from all sections of the county have urged him to enter the race, he stated to a representative of the News.

This officer is far from unpopular with those who know him, and his opponent is expected to have some real competition.

PROMINENT THORSBY MAN DIED SATURDAY

Rev. J. E. Each Succumbs To Brief Illness In Birmingham Hospital

Thorsby lost one of its outstanding citizens in the death Friday night of the Rev. Joseph E. Each, 59-year-old pastor of the Thorsby Congregational church.

For little more than a month his health had been declining, but members of the family and friends did not think him seriously ill until little more than a week ago, when it was found necessary to take him to a Birmingham hospital for treatment. His death came Friday night at 11 o'clock, following an operation for acute appendicitis. He never regained consciousness after taking the anesthetic.

Removing to Thorsby from his native State of Iowa ten years ago, he had

1,028 Farmers Sign Contracts

COUNTY QUOTA 14,000 ACRES SAYS J.W. FANT

Also Says There Are About 2,500 Farmers Should Sign Contracts

MUST HAVE NUMBER IF PLAN IS SUCCESS

Up to last Saturday night the farmers of Chilton County had signed 1,028 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction contracts with approximately 6,100 acres of land rented to the Government.

Chilton County's quota for this campaign is 14,400 acres. According to the best information available there are approximately 2,500 farmers in the county who should sign contracts.

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 22, 1934.

The last week for the cotton reduction sign-up is passing rapidly. There are a few people in the county who have refused to sign and more who are putting the matter off for the last minute rush.

Allen Cook Of Stanton Recognized For Story Depicting Rise From Ranks Of Unemployed

Seemingly Allen Cook, one of our own Chilton County boys—hailing from Stanton, over in the western part of the county, has taken the "New Deal" in all seriousness. Young Cook was one of the first of Chilton's quota to enlist in the President's reforestation service.

His recently published story, "Dawn of a New Day", for which he received $25 from the American Forests, and another $25 from The Reader's Digest, is a vividly written story of the transition of a man from utter desperation into normal contentment and happiness.

The story deals with life in the Civilian Conservation Camps, relating in a unique style the possibilities afforded a man to regain a grip on himself—"The New Deal."

Born in Newburn, Alabama, in 1911, one of seven sons of a railroad foreman, he received a high school education before failing health of his father forced him to seek work. For two years he made great strides, becoming an advanced mechanic; but the depression came on. Allen lost his job—in April, 1930, and from that time until the day of his enlistment with the CCC's, he was one of the millions of lost, restless souls, seeking employment—receiving rebuffs, or still worse, insincere sympathy.

His Commanding Officer, Harry G. Renanel, writes: "Allen is a fine young man. I have watched this youngster change from the blue of depression to the rosy hue of a chance for future and I have complete confidence in him."

PLANS FOR CITY HALL READY FOR OFFICIALS

People Of Clanton May Be Asked To Give Opinion Of Proposed Hall

Architectural plans for the proposed $22,00 Clanton City Hall have been completed, and, with formal application for funds from the Public Works Administration, will be submitted to authorities in Washington at an early date, according to information from Mayor J. Lee Smith.

At a special meeting Monday night of the members of the Council, the proposed referendum to permit the people of Clanton to decide if the loan will be completed, if approved, was set for March 1.

In addition to the construction of a city hall, the proposed loan calls for $10,000 for the extension of water mains into all sections of the Town. However, 30 per cent of the sum will be an outright grant from the Federal Government. Mayor Smith explained that general security bonds against the city may be issued for the entire $32,000, and the 30 per cent given by the government may be used to retire some of the first bonds to become due.

FOLLOW THE LEADER

If you are still a child it is not necessary that you be reminiscent and let your imagination carry you back to many a yesterday and the old creek swimming hole. Memories are still fresh! "Who will break the ice". A leader is selected and all the boys join in the merriment as they play "Follow the Leader".

For several years America has followed leaders and unfortunately we have been led too close to the "suck-hole". The "suck-hole" had whirled us far below the low water mark and into a pool of financial stagnation, but before we go further let us again look back.

In the year 1882, fifty-two years ago, a baby boy was born and naturally he should be President, for all mothers express themselves thusly. He became President and on January 30th, next Tuesday, a hundred and thirty million Americans will celebrate the birth of that child, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Such a birthday has never been experienced by a living President of our great country.

Chilton Countians will join in this celebration. Then—let us carry on through the days that follow by giving our co-operation to the nth degree to the plans, policies and spirit of the Administration. We have been pulled from the "suck-hole" and first-aid is now being given by various relief agencies. It might be artificial respiration but if that is what the patient needs let's revive our good friend Business.

The Civil Works Administration, and the Public Works Administration, all ideas which have been born since this Democratic President took office, have been helping this county along with all the others. The program originated by this great leader is placing business back to its normal stage; it is the coming program of this county and the entire nation.

The local Director and Reemployment manager are conducting the business of their offices to the best of their ability. They are helping the people of Chilton County to help themselves, as prescribed by our Leader's Administration.

Let us all join forces and work together during the coming months and years to carry out the plans of OUR President, who is a part of that great Democratic Party that has brought this country out of the "suck hole" to higher, firmer ground. Let's FOLLOW THE LEADER.

SMALL ANIMAL CAUSES STIR AMONG PEOPLE

Bob Williamson, Verbena, Is Victim Of Disease; Died Monday A. M.

CLANTON PEOPLE ARE TAKING TREATMENTS

One man is dead—and more than thirty others are taking anti-rabies treatment as the result of the bite of a small dog infected with the disease.

Robert Lee Williamson, 52-year-old resident of Verbena, died Monday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. Carl Sheppard, following contraction of the disease. He was ill less than three days. Saturday morning he complained of being drowsy and by late afternoon was in a raving condition, when he was taken to a Birmingham hospital, but nothing could be done for him physicians said. He died at 6 o'clock Monday morning.

Three other persons were bitten by the dog, but have not contracted the dread disease. Other exposures are members of the family and friends who were with Mr. Williamson before it was found that he had rabies.

Mr. Williamson was bitten when he attempted to treat his pet after he thought it had swallowed glass. During the Christmas holidays, the animal was seen snapping at glass decorations on a Christmas tree, and when it became ill, it was believed that the dog had swallowed some of the glass.

Surviving are, four brothers, McKinley Williamson, J. A. Williamson, of Texas, E. Blocker Williamson, Verbena, and Dr. John S. Williamson, of Birmingham; two sisters, Mrs. Carl Sheppard and Miss Mary Williamson, of Verbena.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock from the Verbena Methodist church. The Rev. Cecil Ellisor officiated. Burial was in Verbena cemetery. Martin & Sons were in charge.

Foolish Waste Of Life

We point with pride to the fact that nearly 26,000,000 motor cars are in use in the United States, and it is something of which the country may be proud. But the further fact that these cars are now killing people at the rate of 30,000 a year and injuring 800,000 more, is almost a national disgrace.

The amazing thing is that most automobile accidents might be prevented by taking ordinary precautions. Obviously there are only two principal causes of accidents—carelss driving and defective car equipment. Even the most careful driver is helpless when his car fails to function in an emergency.

It seems almost impossible to drill common sense into a reckless driver's head, but it would be perfectly easy to avoid most mechanical breakdowns by frequent inspections.

Pennsylvania and several other states are getting excellent results by the enforcement of compulsory automobile inspection laws, and motorists' associations are urging their members to have frequent inspections made voluntarily.

Any means whereby the present foolish waste of life may be reduced is worthy of consideration and support.

January Birthdays

Probably no month marks the birthday anniversaries of more famous people than does January. Among those born in the first month of the year were the following distinguished Americans:

Paul Revere, Revolutionary patriot; Lucretia Mott, a Quaker preacher and pioneer suffragist; Stephen Decatur, naval commander; Cyrus Hamlin, famed missionary; Charles Sumner, abolitionist; Israel Putnam and Ethan Allen, Revolutionary commanders; Alexander Hamilton, first Secretary of the Treasury; William James, psychologist; John Winthrop, colonial governor; John Singer Sargent, painter; M. F. Maury, pathfinder of the seas; Benjamin Franklin, printer, scientist, journalist and statesman; Daniel Webster, statesman and orator; Robert E. Lee and T. J. "Stonewall" Jackson, Confederate generals; Edgar Allen Poe, author; John Hancock, statesman; Joseph H. Choate, diplomat; Samuel Gompers, labor leader; William McKinley, president; Robert Morris, financier of the Revolution; President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and others.

A few British notables whose birth occurred in January are General James Wolfe, hero of Quebec; Sir Isaac Newton, astronomer; Edmund Burke, statesman; James Watt, inventor; Francis Bacon, philosopher; Lord Byron, poet; Robert Burns, poet.

Great Frenchmen born in January include Marshal Joffre; Pierre Loti, novelist; Miliere, dramatist; Andre Ampere, physicist; Francois Mansard, architect; Benoit-Constant Coquelin, actor.

German birthdays of the month include those of Jakob Grimm, philologist and publisher of fairy tales; Gotthold Lessing, dramatist; Frederick the Great; former Kaiser Wilhelm. The great Austrian composers, Mozart and Schubert, were also born in January.

Don't Let Taxation Become Confiscation

An unbiased survey of the governmental achievements of 1933 produces much that is praiseworthy and deserving of the highest respect. Aggressive and daring efforts to bring recovery have been made. In spite of the critical tax situation new jobs have been created and payrolls have increased. Factories are operating again that have been closed for years.

It is probable that the worst phase of the year, so far as industry, property-owners, investors and taxpayers are concerned, is the increase in the public debt—federal, state and local.

A number of political subdivisions have endeavored to "spend themselves into prosperity"—something that can't be done.

The national credit has been maintained—but bonds of a multitude of towns and counties and cities have been thrown onto the bargain counter.

Public officials could adopt no better motto for the new year than "Economy and Efficiency are Essential to Recovery." Nothing would do more to accelerate an upward trend in business than a public policy to keep taxes down, thus relieving the burning fear that in the near future, taxation and confiscation will become one and the same thing.

It takes a lot of practice to make a saxophone do its worst.

It looks as if Uncle Sam played Santa Claus to everybody except the veterans.

We could stand superior people if they didn't insist on reminding us of their superiority.

Folks who talk so confidently about going to heaven seldom seem to be in any hurry to start.

Whether one considers the world round, flat, square or crooked depends on the part he has bumped against.

Those who have never seen a geyser may form a fair idea of one by pushing in a milk bottle top with the thumb.

The old fellow who used to serenade his best girl with a guitar has a son who gets quicker results with an auto horn.

Even the economists have discovered that by spending a billion dollars a month Uncle Sam is getting deeper in debt.

An Invitation And A Vote For The Democratic Party

With the great country of the United States already giving the great Democratic Party wholehearted support in its commendable efforts of bringing the country back to a stage where the working man will be able to earn a decent living in an honorable way, it is perfectly in line for this newspaper to extend an invitation to those who are becoming voters, to affiliate themselves with the Democratic Party.

Perhaps those whose minds are in accord with the principles of the Democratic Party, would say there could be no argument there, and that anyone who could give one moment's thought to the tragic condition of our United States of two and three years ago as compared with the present upward trend of conditions under Democratic rule, would not hesitate to affiliate themselves with such a political party.

Nevertheless, we feel that there are numerous persons in Chilton County who have had the misfortune of being able to see only one side of the matter, who would gladly become one of the millions of members of a party like the Democratic Party, having as its principles that which brings out to the front the working man and woman, with better living conditions and higher ideals for the present generation and future generations.

So, we feel it perfectly in line to extend an invitation to those young people who are this year, to become qualified voters of this county, and also to others who are already voters, to seriously consider the vast difference in the future possibilities of the Democratic Party which is now in control, and the possibilities of any other political party which has fallen by the wayside.

Such an invitation could have no selfish purpose, but have only as its purpose the interest of the younger generation of citizens of this county and future citizens of this county. The ability of the Democratic Party to handle tragic situations, nationally and otherwise, has been clearly and is being clearly demonstrated.

Those younger voters and those older voters of Chilton County will find a most cordial welcome into the ranks of Democratic voters of the county, state and nation when the polls open for the elections this year. Democratic ballots are had merely for the asking and a vote cast in behalf of the Democratic Party is a vote endorsing the noble efforts of that party to give the working man and woman a chance to make a decent living.

Down On The Farm In 1934

The farmer is justified in looking forward with optimism as the new year opens.

The last report of prices shows that substantial advances have been made in the prices received for basic agricultural products. Strikes and turbulence which recently marked many farm areas have abated. There is reason to believe that the farmer is realizing that you cannot transform economic law with a piece of legislation, no matter how well conceived and administered.

During 1934, and in the years to follow, the influence of the farm cooperative will grow steadily stronger. Unbiased authorities agee to that. The farm cooperatives have been extraordinarily successful in the face of extraordinary depression. Without cooperatives prices would have been lower and markets more chaotic. They have acted in the capacity of educators among their members, the general public, and government officials. They have been untiring in their work, and unswerving in their efforts to better the farmer's lot and render service to consumers.

This year they will grow stronger still. They will enlist more members, be more thoroughly appreciated and understood. And, unless all indicators are wrong, they are on the verge of a period of great achievement that will revolutionize conditions down on the farm.

The Background Of Spending

Many observers continue to be left in a rather breathless state as they note the enormous cost of government as now being operated—and the cost is staggering—but for a true perspective one must gauge the costs of today by the losses of yesterday and the gains of tomorrow.

While to obtain accurate figures would be utterly impossible, it is safe to say that the depression which began in 1929 has cost this nation at least two hundred billion dollars. For approximately four years the national income has been off over forty billion, while the shrinkage in values has added tens of billions to the toll.

These colossal losses form the background against which the expenditures of today must be guaged if the true perspective is to be maintained. The battle of today is to restore the values of yesterday and to overcome the tremendous decrease in national income. And if these ends are achieved, even at a cost so great as six or eight billion dollars, the investment will be infinitely worth while.

Again, this nation dumped many billions of dollars into the winning of a war that appears to have brought greater ill than good in its wake, and to harp about spending large sums in winning a war that involves the prosperity of the whole American people is to fail to grasp the tremendous significance of the issues at stake.

Heavy bills await the American people, but heavy bills are preferable to chaos, and the restoration of prosperity will mean ability to pay. This country is going to dig out at any cost and, once out of the hole, will be able to take care of its obligations. —Tuscaloosa News.

Another Good Sign

Railroads operating in Montgomery have reported earnings so far this year 20 per cent greater than during the same months last year.

Twenty per cent is a large pick up in any business, and good news. But in a railroad it is even bigger and better news. For rail shipments is one of the most accurate of business barometers. — Montgomery Advertiser.

When a Buffalo man had his eye injured the surgeon gave rather doubtful consolation by saying that it would come out all right.

A business authority says that what the country needs just now is honesty, self-control and faith. But that's about all it ever needed.

One of our exchanges makes this request of its readers: "If you like our paper, tell everybody; if you don't, keep your fool mouth shut."

We admire those who are independent and courageous enough to agree with our views.

Correct this sentence: "I always invite criticism, and try to profit thereby."

It looks as if the unemployed will get jobs, even if Uncle Sam has to hire them all.

Forty-foot highways are being urged, which would call for 36-foot trucks and buses.

D. W. Haskew

In California a woman was before the courts charged with having stolen $27,000. After making a confession of guilt the judge ordered her released on a six-year probation. Following that case a young man was up before the same judge charged with stealing one dollar in nickels from a pay telephone box, and the court ordered him to prison from one to fifteen years. We count ourselves a civilized nation, dealing in justice to all and special favors to none. When we see the workings of our courts and the programs of our political parties, we often wonder, "Justice, Where Art Thou?" A negro caught in a skin game on "Frog Hill" will be sent to the gang, while the bon-ton on "First Avenue" can steal out a bank and be "Col. High-Up." We admit that a man is a thief when he steals five pennies the same as when he steals a thousand dollars, and we clam that justice should be given to all alike. "Equal rights to all, special favors to none," is the backbone of our national life.

An intoxicated youngster in a hilarious way said to his pal, "You are a sap not to take a drink with me. When you get a bottle of Champagne under your shirt the world looks different to you." The young man was equal to his tempter and made quick reply, "Yes, and when you get a bottle of Champagne under your shirt you look different to the world." It is a fact that the man who drinks looks different. Whiskey has a habit of changing the appearance of any one who indulges in its consumption. Should you want a safe driver for your car and a sober man and a drinking man were before you, it would be no trouble for you to see the difference. If a sober lad and a drinking lad should apply for a place in your store, you would be able to see the difference. Certainly, a man looks differently to the world when he is carrying a bottle of champagne under his shirt. Let the same thing be said about the young ladies who are drinking these days. Have you ever seen a drunk lady walking? Well, I have. Have you ever heard a drunk lady talking? Well, I have, and it is not difficult to see that they are really different from a real lady.

I visited the packing house at Orlando, Florida and saw the crew in action. Oranges were being unloaded by the truck haulers. I noticed that a tremendous pile of oranges had collected into one part of the plant and I asked, "Why so many oranges in that bin?" The manager then carried us down the line and showed us how the faulty oranges were taken from the regular run, and were collected in that bin. If an orange was faulty it was diverted from the shipping run and thrown aside as worthless. The human race is traveling down the run of life, and whether we know it or not, we are being graded. It is an easy matter for us to be made imperfect by a bad habit, or by some low ideal that we allow to slip into our hearts, and as a result we are taken out of the regular run that leads to real value and dumped into a place where the faulty gather. Friends, beware of those things that create a faulty place in your character. Just a little blemish will often ruin your hopes for life.

My father and I were walking thru a field of corn. In our ramble we came to a stalk of corn that looked finer and larger than the others that surrounded it. We glanced up at the large shoot that appeared just above our heads, and my father remarked, "There is something wrong with that shoot." He went into it by pulling back the shucks and found that half of the ear of corn was already destroyed by a kind of fungus growth that had appeared within. He took his knife and cut out the foreign substance and remarked as he folded back the shuck, "It may yet make a half of an ear of corn." Many a man have I seen in the field of life with blighting habits growing like fungus into the very heart, and ruining the hopes of living. Better cut yourself loose from the fungus growth of whiskey, profanity, dishonesty. These things will ruin you. Thank God it is always in order to cut out the things that keep life from being worth living. If you get rid of the fungus growth in your soul, you may yet be worth something.

IN MEMORY, W. J. CALLOWAY

As we stroll through the woodland we discover that an acorn has fallen and has been deposited in Mother Earth. It germinates and comes forth and grows, then as it shoots forth its branches, it goes up, until it becomes a giant whose branches furnish shade for the beast and bird. It stands the rain, storm, sleet and snow until after a while it has grown to such enormous size until it becomes useful for other purposes more valuable than shelter for beast and bird.

Man looks on it and decides that he will put it to a better use. He fells it to the ground and manufacturers it into lumber, then he dreses it and paints and polishes it to make a beautiful home somewhere.

On July 18, 1851, God planted in this world the life of W. J. Calloway. As the tiny acorn, he was small, but he grew up, up, up until his life and influence became a giant and protection for those he came in contact with. He was a good husband and was of a lovable disposition. He was loyal to his church, Salem Baptist and Samaria Baptist, as long as he was able to attend.

Surviving him are his widow; five sons, W. A., Harley and George W. Calloway of Cooper; Ralph Calloway of San Antonio, Texas; John Calloway, whose address is unknown; four daughters, Mrs. Fannie Smith of Clanton; Mrs. A. B. Jones of Marbury; Mrs. Frank Ireland of Mt. Creek; Mrs. W. D. McKinney of Buhl, Ala.; three brothers, Jasper Calloway of Deatsville; John Calloway of Providence and G. G. Calloway of Tuscaloosa; one sister, Mrs. T. L. Robinson of Verbena.

—A Granddaughter, Lucille Calloway.

IN MEMORY OF VINCENT EDWARDS

On January 3rd at eleven-thirty, God called our dear relative and friend to his heavenly home but as it's our loss, it is heaven's eternal gain. They needed another dear angel in heaven, so God took him away. Weep not, dear friends, but be ready to meet him again some day, when the final day has come. Won't it be cheerful to see Vincent again. As his last word was spoken he told us he was ready to enter heaven and that God was awaiting him.

He is survived by his father, Mr. Jesse Edwards, of Clanton, and mother, Mrs. Anna Edwards Marlow, of Clanton; one brother and two sisters, Mr. Tommie Edwards of Clanton, Miss Annie Edwards of Tuscaloosa, Miss Isabel Henley of Montgomery, and one half-brother, and a host of friends and relatives.

The vacant place in our heart can never be filled, for he was a lover of everyone that knew him. Vincent was born in 1916 and lived in and around Clanton all of his short life.

On that bright and dusty day,
God carired our dear friend away.
He carired him to a better home,
Whom no one on earth can own.
Oh! how his loving prayer did ring,
And everyone knew just what it would bring.
Now we miss him here on earth,
For we loved him since his birth.
And now to think that we have to part—
It is breaking many, many a heart.
Dear father, please do not mourn,
For on judgment day we will be reborn.
And then all friends, how they will shout
While gladness and joy jump about.
Farewell, farewell, to our dear friend,
Although we are praying to meet him again.
Oh! turn sinner, turn! we all have to die.
To make ready our best we must try
Even on a dark and gloomy day,
We enter heaven in a joyful way.

AUTHOR OF "DIXIE"

Whenever the stirring tune of "Dixie" is played, particularly in the South, it is met with hearty applause. Thus do Southerners pay tribute, unconsciously as a rule, to an Ohio Yankee.

For "Dixie" was composed by Daniel Decatur Emmet, born in Mount Vernon, Ohio, in 1818. Emmet, like that other writer of Southern songs, Stephen Foster, never lived in the South.

Emmet was one of the organizers of the first negro ministrel company to tour the country, formed in 1842, when it opened in Chatham Square Theatre, New York. He was afterward associated with Dan Bryant, and in 1865 he formed his own company. He retired in 1878 and died in 1904 at the age of 89.

The song "Dixie" was written in 1859 and instantly became popular. The South adopted it and now after 75 years it stirs its hearers with undiminished enthusiasm.

In 1927 a tablet to Emmet's memory was unveiled in the churchyard of the Calvary Episcopal Church at Fletcher, N. C., the first memorial erected to him in the South, marking another link in the chain which binds the reunited country.

Since his wife was unable to explain the letters "J. D." in pencil on her back, William Anderson of Hagerstown, Md., was granted a divorce.

When Mrs. Emmeline Morris of Glasgow returned from a shopping trip she found a tramp sleeping in her bed.

Mrs. J. C. Toring of Philadelphia willed a $60,000 estate to her children, leaving her husband $1.25.

Freed on a charge of disorderly conduct, Miss Jeannie Robett of St. Louis kicked off the cap of a policeman who arrested her and was fined $50.

THE USEFUL HAIRPIN

An observant man is Chris Billopp of the Baltimore Sun, who writes an informing essay on the uses of the hairpin, in which he describes that implement as a small wire bent double in the middle, and convenient for:

Getting the meat out of walnuts, pecans, and so forth;

Twisting around the hub of a toy automobile to keep the wheel from coming off;

Picking the teeth, if done in the privacy of one's bedroom;

Making emergency repairs in the electrical lighting system, though you had better be pretty careful if you don't want to be electrocuted;

For cleaning tobacco pipes and making holes in cigars that won't draw; for fishing coins that have fallen into cracks; for pinning curtains to curtain rods; for improvising a link for a broken chain; for holding an undershirt together when a vital button has come off in the wash.

For perforating the cap of a salt shaker in damp weather; for picking a stubborn cork out of the mouth of a bottle; for a book mark; for buttoning gloves; for picking locks; for running strings through brassieres; for tools for delicate clay modeling; for a hook to keep the door of the medicine cabinet shut and for other domestic projects too numerous to mention. Then Mr. Billopp adds:

"Is it any wonder, then, that when a hairpin is needed in the hair, one can never be found?"

Robert Drury of St. Paul was arrested when he made a small bonfire of dollar bills on the street.

Pastors And Executive Committees Of Chilton-Unity Assns. Approve "Lord's Acre Movement"

At the request of the Pastors and Executive Committees of the Chilton-Unity Associations we are writing to urge the churches to cooperate in planting something for the Lord and his cause. It will surprise you to come to the end of the year with all bills paid in full and a large amount paid to the varius causes we foster.

The Psalmist said: "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." We know that God made the earth and that he gives the increase. The land and all that it produces is a stewardship committed to us.

There is wide-spread interest throughout the State in the matter of planting corn, cotton, etc. for the cause of Christ. Several of the churches in our associations have already tried the plan and are highly pleased with the results. The churches were able to pay the pastor in full and send a considerable amount to help the causes that we foster.

We urge that our churches try the plan. It would be well to appoint a committee of two or three to canvass the membership and to keep in touch with the matter through the year.

If any of the churches need help in putting on the plan we stand ready to serve you in any way possible.

Watch for further announcements in the papers as we feel sure that we will have some very important information from Dr. Barton, our State Secretary, in a few days.

Yours for the Master's cause,
—J. W. Jones, Moderator Chilton Assn., J. Z. Mims, Moderator Unity Assn.

Culp Explains Mailing Of Delinq. Tax Notices

Please given me a small space in your paper to make a statement to the taxpayers of the County. Since I began mailing out notices to delinquents there seems to be an idea in the minds of some people that it is something new and that I am forcing collections. It has been the law for years that notices have to be mailed out after the 1st of January. Sec. 3054 of the Revenue Code reads as follows: After the 1st day of January the Tax Collector must make a personal demand in writing upon each delinquent taxpayer or their agents.

And in mailing the notices I am only complying with the law as it applies to my official duties. Will state here that I will greatly appreciate the cooperation of the taxpayers in making their settlements as early as possible, but the same policy will be followed this year as of last year. I gave the people every day I could last year, making my settlement on the last day I had under the law.

Hope this explanation is clear to all concerned. When I can serve you, call on me.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

In the Chicago Journal of Commerce of October 1933, there appeared an editorial entitled "An Appeal to Common Sense", which we believe will be of interest to our customers. The author says in part:

"There is an outstanding instance of the danger of crippling the innocent bystander in the efforts of the various governments to avenge the public for the acts of certain promoters in the public utility field. There is also grave danger that, having avenged the public by various punitive measures, the public will pay higher rates for utility service in the end than at present . . .

"Now can this be so? In the year 1930, the utility companies spent $930,000,000 for construction. That money, which employed a small army of men and used the products of hundreds of factories, was borrowed from the public because the companies had a margin of earnings over expenses. That margin, itself representing one of the narrowest differences between cost and selling price of any of the public services today, also went to pay local taxes which helped to pay school teachers' salaries, policemen, and firemen, and so forth . . .

"But of graver consideration is what utility rates are likely to be after private management is thoroughly throttled and private capital is out of business. Under private management utility rates have been going down steadily since 1913, while under government control railroad rates have been increasing since 1913 . . .

"We hear much of social justice these days. Will it be social justice to the crippled children and dependent orphans in the many institutions which depend on the income from utility bonds, to take action which, endangers their livelihood? For illustration, how many know that there is danger that the Central Baptist Children's Home and the Northern Baptist Theological Seminary are in danger of closing because their income from utility bonds is endangered? And these are but two of many such."

To bring this closer home: Alabama Power Company has expended over One Hundred Million Dollars in Alabama for new construction and other capital purposes during the past ten years; during this period it has paid in taxes to state, county and local governments over $13,000,000, and in dividends to its 16,000 Preferred stockholders over $17,500,000; some 12,000 of such stockholders now living in the State of Alabama.

Yours very truly,

President.

News from Thorsby

Miss DOROTHY BUTLER, Correspondent

The sudden termination of a ten year pastorate in Thorsby by the death last Friday night of Rev. Joseph E. Each was a great shock to the whole community without regard to church affiliations.

Brother Each had been under the doctor's care for some weeks, but occupied his pulpit January 7, was confined to his bed less than ten days and laughingly protested on the Sunday before his death that he was not sick. Few, if any, seemed to have any idea of his serious condition up to the day of his death. At the union prayer meeting at the Baptist church, Wednesday night a prayer of Thanksgiving was offered for the favorable reports which had come from the hospital as to his condition. He had been operated on for appendicitis. But on Friday morning the word came to Thorsby that he was dying, his children hastened to the hospital in Birmingham and were present when he passed away at 9 o'clock that night.

For many years Mr. Each had been Vice-President of Thorsby Institute's Board of Trustees and very active in its affairs. Four of his children are graduates of the Institute and another is now a pupil there. It was known that the Congregational Church building would not accommodate those who would wish to attend and so the funeral services were arranged for the Institute Auditorium at 11 o'clock Sunday. All other services in town were given up. Rev. E. W. Butler was in charge of the services. Six other ministers were on the platform and assisted, Rev. Frank E. Jenkins of LaGrange, Ga., President of Atlanta Seminary when Mr. Each was a student there. Also President for many years of Thorsby Institute's Board of Trustees; Rev. F. P. Ensminger, Birmingham, Supt. of Alabama Congregational Work and former intimate associate of Mr. Each in pastorates in Tampa, Florida; Rev. W. H. Tillman, Crest View, Florida, intimate friend and associate for more than twenty years; Rev. A. C. Nelson, pastor of nearby Congregational churches at Eastview and Mountain Springs, Clanton Route 6, a friend of many years standing; Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of Thorsby Baptist church, near neighbor and close friend of Mr. Each for the past five years; Rev. Fant, recently come to Thorsby as pastor of the Swedish Lutheran Church, read Scripture passages in the service.

Dr. Ensminger left an important meeting in Chicago Saturday afternoon and returned to that city Sunday night.

Joseph E. Each was born in Iowa, September 21, 1874 and spent his boyhood in that state and in Nebraska, removed at the age of 14 with his parents to Lake Charles, Louisiana, where he made his home for more than twenty years. In 1908 he was married to Miss Ethel Cox of Lake Charles, who survives him with six children, Cecil and William of Birmingham Alta (Mrs. Horace Franklin) Juanita, Lucile and Marie, all of Thorsby. Two children died in infancy. Also surviving is a brother, William, of Baton Rouge, Texas, who with his wife were present at the funeral.

Mr. Each graduated from Atlanta Theological Seminary in 1912, spent ten years in pastorates in Florida, coming from Crest View, Florida to the pastorates of the Congregational Church of Thorsby in December, 1923. In these ten years he has won for himself a large place in the affection of the people of Thorsby and of Chilton County. More than once in the funeral services Sunday he was referred to as 'the best loved man in Thorby.'

Burial was in the Thorsby City cematary, Martin in charge.

To the little Congregational Church of Thorsby, with less than one hundred members, the death of its beloved pastor seems peculiarly distressing by reason of the fact that within less than four months past three other men of the church, all of whom had been active in its work, all of whom had held one or more of its important offices, all of whom had been on the Board of Trustees of Thorsby Institute, have been called away from earth. To the names of Norton, C. C. Petersen and Goddard Now with sorrow we must add the much loved name of Each.

Rev. E. W. Butler announce: "Strongly against personal desire, I consented last Sunday to occupy the pulpit next Sunday morning. I propose now to make the services memorial—happily momorial—of our departed pastor. The services to be especially for our church family, but of course all others who come will be very welcome."

EASTVIEW

Funeral services were held here last Thursday for Mr. Leon Rushing of Siluria, Ala. He was a young man of 17 years of age, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rushing. Rev. A. C. Nelson conducted the funeral, assisted by Rev. K. U. Hull. Mr. Jeter of Montevallo was in charge of the body. He leaves to mourn his loss a father and mother, three brothers, and one sister, and a host of relatives. He was the grandson of Mr. J. P. Rushing, of this place. In the midst of life we are in death: of whom may we seek for succor but of thee, O Lord, who for our sins are justly displeased.

The Ladies Aid met last Thursday P. M. and voted to give $10.00 in January to missions. Our ladies seem to have a world vision of real religion. They are hearing the Master saying, "Go ye into all the world and preach my gospel."

The next meeting of the Ladies Aid will be at Mrs. Clara Rushing's Thursday, February the first.

The Christian Endeavor met Sunday evening at the home of Mrs. Dave Drivers, who has been sick for a long time and unable to attend church, and put on an interesting program. She stated that she enjoyed the meeting and invited them back again.

The box supper here last Friday night was not a failure, even if it was a bad rainy night. We made $27.55 anyway. We sure do thank those candidates who came from Clanton and helped us. We will remember them in the primary.

The painting of the church will begin as soon as weather conditions will permit.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Nelson visited Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gray Sunday.

Mrs. A. C. Nelson who has been sick for a long time is only able to be up part of the time yet.

The juniors will put on the program in Christian Endeavor next Sunday night. The subject will be, "The Place of Youth in the Church."

Some churches carry their young folks
Around on a chip—scared of us.
We youngsters need to be humble;
Try to learn a lot we don't know yet.

Woman's Part In 1934 Cotton Adj'st. Program

According to a radio talk by Mrs. Ola Powell Malcolm, Extension Service, women's part in the 1934 farm adjustment program is a threefold task. First, we must acquaint ourselves with the facts that there is a real and urgent need for the 1934 program. That the supply of American cotton is too big, and that we must control production until the mills of the world have had time to use up some big supply and get it in line with normal demand.

Second, it is woman's duty to induce the man to rent the Secretary some land near the house, where it is possible and practical to do so, and then do everything in her power to get some of this land planted to small fruits and berries, vegetables, and feed and food for home use—and Third, to counsel and cooperate with the men in working out these various farm problems. This is our opportunity to lay the foundation for better homes, better living, better children and a better Southland.

Wintering Bees

By J. W. Fant, County Agent

Wintering is one of the most serious problems of beekeepers. Due to poor wintering methods, or lack of any wintering methods, the great winter losses of bees in this county are several times what they should be.

To insure good wintering it is necessary to have large colonies of young bees and plenty of honey stored for winter. I know that it is too late to do anything about these things at this late date, but in case you have failed to provide the above, I want to suggest a few things that may be done now.

This is a critical period in the life of our bees. They have probably used up most of the winter's supply of food. Especially is this true where the honey was taken late in the summer.

The large active colony should have about 40 pounds of honey stored for winter use. In case you failed to leave this much or more honey in the hive in the fall it will be necessary to feed from now until enough blossoms open in the spring for the bees to feed on.

A good feed for bees is a thick syrup made of sugar and water. (Two parts of sugar to one part of water boiled until all grains dissolve.) The syrup should be fed warm in cold weather.

Use a mason fruit jar with several holes in the lid made with a threepenny nail. Put the syrup in the jar and fasten the lid on the jar. Turn the jar upside down in a saucer or some other flat container. Place this near the entrance of the hive and the bees will feed on the syrup.

In case your colonies seem to be weakening, close the entrance to the hive to about half the normal opening.

A Plea Is Made For Donation Of Books

J. D. Griffin, principal of the Billingsley High School, is making a plea to the people of Chilton and surrounding counties to donate books to enable the students to continue their studies.

When the Billingsley High School building was burned little more than a week ago, hundreds of books were destroyed. Many of the children will be unable to get books to continue their studies unless generous people respond to this request, Mr. Griffin stated.

Especially is the school in need of library books, he stated. Anyone having books may leave them at the Chilton County News office, and they will be forwarded to Mr. Griffin.

Deceased Veterans Burial Allowance Has Been Increased

The burial allowance for deceased veterans has been increased from $75 to $100, according to information received from the National Funeral Directors association by J. Mell Martin, local director and secretary of the State Funeral Directors association.

Following is a copy of the letter received by Mr. Martin:

"On January 19, President Roosevelt issued an Executive Order increasing the burial allowance for deceased war veterans from $75 to $100. By this action, based upon the 1933 Governmental reports, a sum of $600,000 additional will be made available for the burial of ex-service men.

"You will undoubtedly recall that at the Rochester Convention the Board of Governors recommended that the President be urged to take this action. This recommendation was approved by the Convention and in compliance with those instructions, the executive officials of the National Association have been at work in an endeavor to interest Veterans' organizations in supporting our stand in the matter. Mr. Watson B. Miller, Chairman of the National Rehabilitation Committee of the American Legion, who was of the utmost assistance in securing changes in the original regulations, played a great part in securing this last concession.

"The text of the President's Executive Orders have not as yet been received, but it is very probable that the Order will not be made retroactive. In view of the fact that when the original Order decreasing claims was issued, we protested against any retroactive feature in the bill, it seems that in fairness and justice we must continue to hold that same position."

Vermont School News

This week closes out the fourth month of the present session. Monthly tests will be in full order today and tomorrow. Those who have been regular in attendance can face them with a glow of satisfaction in the fact that they are in line for making a satisfactory pass mark while those who have disregarded meeting their classes regularly must content themselves with woefully lower averages. Two more months will bring us around to the end of this school year. The faculty hopes that those who have been detained from their studies will renew their efforts to count fast for the remainder of this 1933-34 school year.

The school takes this opportunity to express their deep appreciation to those parents who are interested enough in their child's educational welfare to visit the school from time to time and note the progress which is being registered down through the span of weeks since the opening of school.

The Jr. II and III Classes are drafting plans to give a reception, honoring the Jr. III class. Final announcements will be made in next week's column of school news.

At this writing our teachers, parents and larger boys and girls of school are busy making final preparations for entertaining the Isabella High School P.-T. A. Tuesday night. This is a special event and our school is glad of the opportunity of having our neighboring school as our guest. A special program is being arranged by the program committee, while the refreshment committee is planning the "eats", and the membership committee is leaving no stones unturned to get our full membership out for this gala affair. We will give you a full report of the meeting in next week's issue of the county papers.

Mrs. Nora Wells from Jemison, who is chairman of the Chilton County Council of P.-T. A. work, came out to our P.-T. A. meeting last Wednesday and gave an interesting talk centering around the subject of affiliating our organization with the State and National P.-T. A. Council. Due to an improper announcement as to when the meeting would be held, several members were unable to attend on such short notice. However, we were fortunate in having 20 present. We only had three hours in which to notify the members of the correct time of the meeting, so we wish to commend those parents who laid aside their daily duties about the home and hastened over to the meeting. That's the right spirit, Vermont parents. Let's go! Everyone present seemed interested in joining the State P.-T. A. This will be definitely settled at our next meeting which will be Tuesday night, January 23.

Mr. Johnson motored to Birmingham with a group of young men from Thorsby last Thursday night to see the famed "Celtics" world's champion basket ball team play the Birmingham-Southern college team. A pleasant trip was reported.

HOLD EVERYTHING — See next week's issue of the News for annual Plow Line Sale. — Clanton Bldg. Supply Company.

The school pig is growing off nicely. He weighed approximately 60 lbs. when we first got him and now he weighs approximately 160 lbs. We have not yet decided what means we will pursue in disposing of him, probably through an outright sale.

The 5th and 6th grade boys have been busy the past few recess and lunch periods, building and painting bird houses. The value of bird life is being promoted and the boys are taking a great interest in providing these valuable little creatures a safe and secure place to build their nests, free from house cats, snakes and other enemies.

Mr. Johnson has organized the Junior boys basket ball team These boys ages run from twelve to fifteen years. They are the coming athletes of future years. So why not give them a chance to develop the physical side of life and teach them the art of clean sportsmanship, a quality which many people are lacking in. You should drop in some afternoon after school hours and see these little fellows down to business, dribbling, passing and shooting, trying to outwit their opponents. It's really interesting.

The Jr. III civics class debates this week upon the subject of whether the public utilities should be owned by cities or private corporations. Edna Simms and T. J. Ratliff will uphold the affirmative, while the negative side will be defended by Mary Owen and Mary Jo Chandler.

Two dozen new song books were presented to our school last week by the P.-T. A. This will aid us greatly in our chapel program and P.-T. A. meeting.

Work will begin next week in preparation for another real entertaining program to be given about the middle of February. Pupils of the school will be given the principal parts of the program.

Attendance is better this week than last. We trust that those who are remaining out, fearing the measles, will return this week. All children who were exposed to any contagious disease are withheld from attending school, thus we hope to eliminate all danger in this respect. Those students whose attendance is shiftless and irregular need not expect to complete their grade. This means only a repetition of the same grade next year. So don't stay away from school now and then take a sudden spurt the last two or three weeks expecting to be promoted. You will positively be unable to handle the work of a new grade, consequently, this year's efforts are completely wasted as far as making a grade is concerned.

Due to illness, Miss Manning was unable to teach last Thursday. We are proud, however, that she was detained no longer than one day.

The entire faculty dined last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Scott. In the afternoon they attended Sunday school and church services at Mt. Carmel.

Our sympathy and feelings go out to our good friends and neighbors of the Billingsley community who happened to the sad misfortune of having their high school building destroyed last Thursday morning.

A New Primary Building

The patrons of the Chilton County Training School voted to erect a primary building last Wednesday night and work is to start soon. It was quite pleasing to see the interest manifested in this project. As soon as this building is erected, $1500 in equipment will be given to the high school department for the purpose of putting this school on the "A" accredited list. This money comes from out of the State through the Director of Negro Education, Mr. J. S. Lambert.

Committees are being formed in all sections of the county to solicit aid from all persons interested. We will appreciate anything you give; lumber, trees, hardware or anything we can use.

We will appreciate most heartedly any contributions from our white friends.

County P. T. A. Units To Meet At County Training School Friday.

The annual meeting of the County Units of the P. T. A. will be held at the County Training School Friday, Jan. 26. A very interesting program has been arranged with Mr. E. G. McGehee and Mrs. Foster McDavid appearing on the program. All teachers of the county are required to be present. Don't miss Mr. McGehee's speech.

Sign Up

Those of you who have not signed your contract for cotton acreage reduction should do so without delay. If you would only jump after this like you did the C. W. A. It seems that anything that will be a lasting blessing to us we don't care for. The fact is, we don't have the energy and patience to labor and wait. It is time we were looking farther than our noses' end.

These extra Bolls and improved staple come from Royster Field Tested Fertilizer

A FEW extra bolls on each plant make a lot of difference in your yield—they may mean the difference between a profit and a loss. That's why it stands to reason that if you're growing cotton you ought to use the fertilizer that has stood the test of time for nearly 50 years, under actual growing conditions. That means Royster's.

Don't take any chance when you buy your fertilizer. You have to take enough chance on the weather. Let Royster's mature your cotton early and help you beat the rainy season and the weevil.

Remember this: Royster's is made in one quality only—the best. You can pay more or you can pay less, but you cannot buy better fertilizer for growing cotton.

Royster experts are continually studying cotton, learning all there is to know about fertilizing it. They never stop experimenting and improving. They test every fertilizer in the laboratory, and field-test it in the cotton field. Only refined materials are used to make sure that the purest obtainable grades go into Royster sacks. As a result we know that Royster Cotton Fertilizer will give you the results you want.

See your Royster dealer today and let him know how many tons you need.

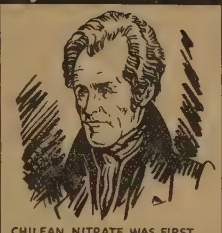
Fascinating Facts of NATURE

In the shadow of the Andes Mountains, Nature stored the world's supply of Chilean Natural Nitrate.

Nature is your friend. She made your land. She makes your seeds. She created the three plant foods that are the sinew of farming in the South — potash, phosphate, CHILEAN NATURAL NITRATE, the one and only natural nitrate fertilizer.



CHILEAN NITRATE WAS FIRST USED BY SOUTHERN FARMERS WHEN ANDREW JACKSON (OLD HICKORY) WAS PRESIDENT (1829-1837)

"HAS IT GOT IMPURITIES?"
CHILEAN

CHILEAN NITRATE IS ONE OF FEW THINGS IN THE WORLD THAT EXCELS BECAUSE OF ITS IMPURITIES. REASON — "IMPURITIES" SUCH AS IODINE, POTASSIUM, SODIUM, CALCIUM, BORON, MAGNESIUM ARE NATURAL PLANT FOODS IN THEMSELVES

Chilean NATURAL NITRATE
The only nitrogen that comes from the ground.

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP

Virgil Smith was chairman at a singing at Friendship last Sunday afternoon. The directors were: James Edwards, Harry Parker, F. J. Little, Lillie Mae Weldon, Martel Blankenship, Willodean Smith, Mrs. Lennie Gillespie. The closing song was sung by James Edwards.

There will be singing again next third Sunday afternoon.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

By scanning the daily papers one sees articles on a subject that will remain a black spot in the history of Alabama—the closing of most of her public schools. Chilton County High School is among the most fortunate in that we will continue to operate as a public school. While we students are enjoying and sharing the opportunity of a public education, neighboring counties are being forced to deny their children the privilege of obtaining an education. This is a more serious matter than it appears. Therefore, there is certainly no doubt but that we should thank someone from the bottom of our hearts for this material blessing that the school children of Chilton County have received. And we must and will show our thanks in an humble but profitable way and that is by making the utmost use of our chance in school.

The Senior Class will present the comedy of all comedies here at the school auditorium tomorrow night. The name of this laugh-getter, tickle-box tumbler and side-splitter is "The Clay's The Thing." It is a comedy in three acts and the Senior Class guarantees that you will say that you have never spent two hours like these before. The plot is superb; three college boys, played by Cecil Jones, Joe Moore and Dan Smith, start out to sell a beauty clay to a rich uncle, John Ezell. Cecil Jones as Jerry, masquerades as a girl so she can enter a beauty contest and endorse the beauty clay. A Broadway producer falls in love with her (him); Jerry nearly reveals himself several times; he is put in the same room with an old maid; and other embarrassing and humorous scenes occur from which the boys finally rescue themselves, but not until having gone through the funniest of all funny scenes. You just can't afford to miss it. The time will be 7:30 and you had better come early. The admission is only fifteen and twenty-five cents. All high school students must pay twenty-five cents.

Chilton's first rate basketball teams, boys and girls, played the teams from Marbury High here last Tuesday night The score of the boys game was __ to __ and the girls tied at the score of 13 and thirteen. James Tiffin is still leading the boys in piling up points. Every man played a wonderful game Tuesday night. Friday afternoon our teams went into enemy's territory, playing Verbena at Verbena. Only half of the girls game was played and the boys game was called off, both due to rain. At the end of the half Chilton's girls were leading, 6 to 4. Things look bright for a successful season for the Chilton basketballers. And folks, we have a team.

The students of C. C. H. S. had as their guests last Wednesday morning the Glee Club from the County Training School, with Benjamin Anderson, principal, in charge. This glee club, composed of colored boys and girls from the Training School, sang a number of Negro spirituals and other songs. The number rendered by a trio was particularly enjoyed. This program was appreciated and fully enjoyed by the faculty and student body of C. C H. S. as well as by several patrons present. According to the comments heard among the students, this group may be invited to sing again.

Don't fail to see what happens when Uncle Dudley (John Ezell) finds Jerry, dressed only in negligee, in Jack's lap. Joe Moore plays the part of Jack and Cecil Jones portrays Jerry.

Not only is our school interested in the mental development of its students, but also in the physical development. The last period of the day is turned over to physical education which includes various kinds of recreational exercises. This is a worthwhile feature in our school and both the teachers and pupils are entering into it with great spirit.

Some Odd Facts About Alabama: The geographic center is a few miles east of Montevallo on the Calera-Montevallo highway. Maplesville was once considered as a place to locate the state capital. In 1821, Wetumpka and Chicago had the same population.

The Senior Class wishes to take this opportunity to thank all those who helped it by subscribing to the magazines sold by them last week. Fifty cents from every dollar taken in on a subscription remained here in the treasury of the class. The class also wants to thank all those underclassmen who helped in the campaign. The Auburn Tigers with Mary Charles Cox and Dan Smith as captains won the contest.

VATCHEL VISITED ROCKFORD

Vatchel Lindsey made a trip to Rockford one day last week. Upon his return he released the following statement for publication:

"I want to tell my friends of my most wonderful trip to Rockford, and from there, by way of Montgomery, and return to Clanton.

"I had the very best of company with me, and some wonderful music, as Mr. Billy Smith, with whom I went, has a radio in his car.

"It was a most delightful trip, and I long to take it again sometime. Mr. Smith and his wife are two prominent young people of Clanton."

ARTHUR GLOVER ANNOUNCES FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

We are carrying in this issue the official announcement of Hon. Arthur Glover for Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit of Alabama, composed of the Counties of Chilton, Autauga and Elmore, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries of May and June 12.

Mr. Glover is one of the outstanding lawyers of this section. He came to Wetumpka many years ago upon the completion of his legal education at the University of Alabama. He is a profound student of the law, his opinions carry weight and conviction; a man of the highest integrity, no one questions his honesty of purpose; possessing a pleasing personality and a quiet dignity, he wins the respect and esteem of all who know him. In recent years he has been very successful in his practice before the Supreme Court of Alabama, and his friends are pointing to the record he has made in that high Court as conclusive proof that he would make this circuit an ideal presiding judge.

Mr. Glover is an ex-soldier, served overseas, and is also a member of the Wetumpka Post of the American Legion.

He was a candidate for the unexpired term of Judge Smoot two years ago and lacked just 47 votes of winning that race

The editor of this paper holds Mr. Glover in high esteem. We regard him as a good citizen in the broadest sense of that word.

been influential in the promotion of many worthwhile movements for the betterment of his community. He served the Thorsby Congregational church as pastor throughout his residence in the Chilton County hamlet. He was a graduate of the Atlanta Theological Seminary. For many years he had been vice-president of the Board of Trustees of the Thorsby Institute.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Ethel Cox Each; two sons, Cecil and William Each, of Birmingham; three daughters, Mrs. Horace Franklin, Miss Marie Each and Miss Juanita Each, all of Thorsby; and one brother, William Each, of Baton Rouge, La

Funeral services were conducted from the auditorium of the Thorsby Institute. The Rev. E. W. Butler officiated, assisted by the following ministers, the Rev. F. P. Ensminger, the Rev. Fant, the Rev. Tillman, the Rev. F. E. Jenkins, the Rev. J. W. Jones, and the Rev. A. C. Nelson.

The following friends served as active pallbearers: S. M. Pate, V. E. Wyatt, C. S. Howard, R. Ekblad, V. H. Sutlive, and J. L. Mixson.

The following friends served as honorary pallbearers M. J. Soberg, J. L. Foss, Charles ePterson, Martin Peterson, N. Laurell, G. F. Harper, J. W McCain, J. O. Johnson, R. A. Turner, and J. E. Pate.

Burial was in the Thorsby City cemetery with Mattin & Sons in charge.

fail. It would be nice if everybody but ME would sign and put the program over, then let ME make all the cotton I could. But let's remember that if everybody did like ME and failed to sign, where would I be with my big crop of cotton? Remember that we all have the same privilege when it comes to waiting for Bill to do something. Don't wait for the other fellow to sign; when the committeeman comes to your place sign the contract and it will make it easier for him to sign the other fellow.

The average cotton farmer in Chilton County has planted an average of 11 acres of cotton per farm per year during 1928-32. He produced 211 pounds of lint per acre for this same period.

We will take this average farmer and figure what the cotton reduction program will mean to him.

Forty per cent of 11 acres equals 4.4 acres, this being less than 4½ acres, we would take out 4 acres and leave 8 acres to plant. This man will get 3½ cents per pound for 211 pounds average yield, or $7.38 per acre for the 4 acres out.

This is a high rent but the Government goes a step further and guarantees that a farmer can not lose. He gets a parity payment of not less than 1c per pound on a farm allotment of 40% of 11x211, or 928 pounds of lint cotton. At 1c per pound, this would be $9 28 on the four acres.

Suppose cotton fails to go up from the present price of 11c per pound. Then the parity would be the difference in 15c, the present parity price of cotton, and the selling price of 11c, or 4c per pound. 4c x 928 would be $37.12, the parity payment in this case.

Folks, there is only one way to lose on the program and that is to wait for someone else to reduce acres and let the program fail.

I am appealing to your good judgment and loyalty to your fellow farmers to sign up and put the program over.

Yours very truly,
J. W. FANT, County Agent.

P. S.—We are expecting the checks for the 4c loan on the optioned cotton any day now. We will be unable to deliver these checks until the persons they are addressed to have signed a 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction contract. Suppose January 31st arrives and you have failed to sign a contract? —J. W. F.

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit of Alabama, composed of the Counties of Autauga, Chilton and Elmore, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries of May 1 and June 12, 1934.

VERBENA NEGRO SLAIN WITH AXE LAST FRIDAY MORNING

William Wright, 22-year-old negro of Verbena, was killed instantly Friday morning, when he was said to have been struck in the back of the head by another negro, Walter Quarrels, 21.

Quarrels is said to have climbed into the back of a wagon in which Wright and two other negroes were hauling wood, and picked up an axe, remarking something about its degree of keenness, and struck Wright, who was sitting on the seat in the front of the wagon.

Information given Sheriff W. H. Gillespie, who investigated the case, alleged that the negroes had been quarreling about a woman a few days prior to the slaying. Quarrels is in jail.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY

Now a little about the story. Three college boys start out to sell a beauty clay. One of them, Cecil Jones, masquerades as a girl so he may enter the Atlantic City Beauty Contest, be "Miss America" and endorse the clay. Everything runs smoothly until they assemble at the Uncle's home. Here the mistakes and breaks appear by the stageful. Jerry, loses his wig. He is to sleep with an old maid, since everyone thinks he is a girl. A Broadway playboy falls in love with him. There is no beginning to the number of laugh-bringing mistakes these poor boys get into. Just come out yourself and see what happens when a boy enters a girl beauty contest. Humor is also added by the particular Mrs. Parmer; the lisping Jessie; the stuttering maid and others.

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

"Out of the night that covers me,
Black as the pit from pole to pole,
I thank whate'er Gods there may be
For my unconquerable soul."

Since one man has been the victim of rabies, and dozens of others in the county have been exposed, there has existed a general trend toward "shooting" dogs with anti-treatment, or otherwise, as a means of lessening the liklihood of such a sad recurrence.

Last Saturday was "Dogs' Day" in Verbena. The entire canine population of that section turned out, or was dragged out, to the Station to get "shot." Dr. P. T. Hinkle, a candidate on the Democratic ticket for probate judge, was toastmaster at this function.

While he shoved the needle underneath the dogs' skin, rumor has it that perhaps his skin was subjected to a bit of penetration, too. Busy immunizing pups, Doc looked up, so the report goes, and there was another Democratic aspirant to the office of probate judge of Chilton County, handing cards right and left; and on these cards were inscribed the words, "Vote for J. Lee Smith for Probate Judge."

But like the poet of old, Doc is said to have been "The Captain of his soul." Only the increased volume of the patients' protesting yelps indicated the tautness of his nerves.

Judge F. Loyd Tate is due the commendation of every citizen of Chilton County for his attitude in open court, this week, toward the practice of maneuvering cases off the docket with the payment of court costs, which consists of payment of fees to enforcement and court officers.

Declaring that if the evidence is insufficient to ask for conviction, the case should be nol prossed without payment of any costs, Judge Tate ordered a case in question dismissed.

Too often has this practice of collecting fees resulted in turning a court of justice into a mere racket. One of the greatest boons that can ever come to Alabama, or any other state, will be the abolition of the fee system.

Someone with the CWA has used his head for something more than a hatrack. This idea of shoving an affidavit under the noses of complainers for them to affix their signatures will go a long way toward the elemination of groundless charges. Too, it will be a great aid in investigating accusations that do have foundation.

Cecil Stokes, too, has mapped out a scheme that is very worthy of praise. He intends, he states, to make a canvass of all private employers, or potential employers, in this section in an effort to place unemployed persons in permanent capacities.

All government emergency and relief programs were birthed with the idea of priming private industry paramount; and Mr. Stokes deserves credit for his efforts to perpetuate this idea.

The latest office for which Charlie Cox seems most likely to be drafted is, that of Legislator from this county. Numerous friends have been talking C. B. for almost every office in the county government, but to date, his intentions have not been made public.

Still, the talk persists—and sensible talk it is, too, for we need more go-getters like Charlie Cox in our public offices.

Flash! (as Walter Winchell would term it)—

Here it is fresh off the lips of Dame Rumor, Grady Heflin may be a candidate for the office of Mayor of Clanton in the forthcoming election next September. J. Lee Smith has gone out into the field seeking more luscious berries—and what would be more appropriate than to elect a member of the present council, who is thoroughly familiar with the methods of conducting the Town's business affairs?

Grady is cashier up at the Peoples Savings Bank, and is a young man whose character and reputation is above reproach, if one is to believe what one hears. He has served two terms as a member of the Town Council and his business training expertly qualifies him for the delectable position for which he is being mentioned.

NEW SEALED OIL CANS NOW AT SINCLAIR SERVICE STA.

Bishop & Miller, operators of the Sinclair Service Station on the highway, have announced the arrival of the popular and modern manner of dispensing motor oils.

They are now using the Sinclair oils which are sealed in the individual cans at the refinery. In commenting on this, Mr. Bishop said, "We are pleased to offer our customers this added protection. They are assured of getting fresh oil at all times and can see that the cans are used only the one time.

453 MORE TO BE GIVEN JOBS ON CWA WORK

Renewed Hope Is Shown In Democratic Plan or Re-Employment

Often has it been said that Opportunity knocks but once. This allegation has been proved false; at least, in regard to the operation of the CWA in Chilton County.

This week the knuckles of Opportunity may be heard rapping at some four-hundred-fifty-three doors in Chilton County. The depression is being ended; men and women are being given work; and smiles of optimism and renewed hope overspread the faces of thousands this week, when notices were received that a member of their families had been given employment with the CWA.

Although the program is being conducted on a fifteen-hour-week basis, still the income offered affords an opportunity to obtain the necessities of life and retrench that pride, which has been so endangered with the acceptance of alms from the RFC and other charitable organizations.

The addition of these 453 employes to the county payrolls brings the total employed by the CWA in the county to approximately 1333. Two shifts of fifteen hours each will be maintained on the fifteen projects on which work is underway, according to R. L. Pittman, director of CWA work in the county.

These projects include: Several drainage projects near Clanton, and in other parts of the county; the construction of an airport that when completed will be a credit to Clanton and Chilton County; construction and improvement of several school buildings; and the improvement of miles of county roads.

In discussing the increased allotment of men to Chilton County, Mr. Pittman stated that the people of Chilton County should make an effort to get before the local committee, whose duty it is to outline and submit projects, such projects as will be of permanent value. Through adherence to this rule, he pointed out, a two-fold purpose may be served—that of giving employment to the residents of the county, and at the same time accomplishing fetes that may stand in future years monuments to wisdom.

MORE MONEY IS ASKED FOR RELIEF WORK

Hopkins Orders All CWA Records "Open" For Public Inspection

Washington — President Roosevelt asked Congress Saturday for $950,000,000 to continue the emergency relief program.

That was $100,000,000 more than the $500,000,000 for direct relief and $350,000,000 for civil works the president originally contemplated asking. His terse message to Speaker Rainey did not specify what division was contemplated.

Speculation as to whether the increased figure was Mr. Roosevelt's answer to the nation-wide cry against demobilization of the civil works army by May 1 at the latest brought a repetition at the White House of the president's statemen that he still wants civil works employes transferred to public works and private industry's payrolls by late Spring.

The president, by his message, however, would be free to continue the program beyond the deadline he wants, and Rainey said Saturday that civil works would have to continue at least the rest of the fiscal year.

Meanwhile, as a part of his intensive drive to keep civil works free from graft and politics, Harry L. Hopkins, the administrator, Saturday ordered all state administrators to make their records available for public inspection.

NEW DIRECTOR TO TAKE OVER WORK OF CWA

R. L. Pittman Promoted To Regional Director Over Entire State

A reward for meritorius service, R. L. Pittman, Chilton County Director of CWA work, has been promoted to the position of Field Director for the entire State of Alabama; and will assume supervision over all field activities of the CWA immediately according to information received by him from the State Department of CWA Tuesday.

Succeeding Mr. Pittman as Chilton County director will be Erwin J. McCrossin, of Birmingham, who for the past several weeks has been connected with the CWA in Alabama in the capacity of an engineer examiner.

Through Mr. Pittman's efforts, since coming to Chilton County little more than two months ago, the CWA has been placed on a basis that is said to far exceed the methods of conducting the administration in many other counties in the State. Throughout his period of service here, Mr. Pittman has advocated the promotion of worthwhile and permanent projects. Projects that may be of value several years hence. Declaring that in this type of project a two-fold purpose may be served—that of giving employment, and at the same time doing a worthwhile piece of work—Mr. Pittman has constantly advised the submission of projects that would come within this scope.

He will leave for Birmingham to assume his new duties the latter part of this week, he stated

Groundhog Day

Of all the weather superstitions, perhaps none has been more widespread than that associated with Groundhog Day, February 2. According to a belief held by many, the groundhog emerges from his hibernation on that day, and if he sees his shadow he goes back into his hole for another six weeks, during which a continuance of winter weather may be expected.

If, on the other hand, February 2 is cloudy, the animal will remain outside, which is a sign of an early spring.

Just how the groundhog keeps track of the date, including the extra day in leap year, is not explained, but many actually believe he does it.

Other animals than the groundhog are supposed to behave similarly. In Germany it is the badger; in England the hedgehog; in France the marmot, and among the Scandinavians the bear.

February 2 is also known as Candlemas Day in the church calendar commemorating the presentation of Christ in the temple and among its observances is the blessing of candles for sacred use. It is also associated with weather signs identical with those attributed to the groundhog. There are several old rhymes similar to this:

"If Candlemas be bright and clear
We'll have two winters in the year."

Speed Limits

It has been rather well established that laws which arbitrarily fix speed limits for automobiles are little protection against accidents. The speed at which one may safely drive depends upon the road and traffic conditions.

A high exectuive of one of the leading automobile manufacturing companies, who has made a close study of speed in its relation to accidents, declares that 50 or even 60 miles an hour over good open roads in the country may be safer than 15 miles an hour in cutting corners in town.

The safe driver is not necessarily the slow driver, but one who uses common sense whether driving fast or slow. Careless driving while turning corners, passing pedestrians or other cars, crossing railroad tracks and maneuvering in congested traffic is the greatest menace to life and limb.

Sense, not speed, is the important factor in determining whether a driver is safe or unsafe.

Three Candidates For Governor

It looks as if all the candidates for governor this year are now in the field. Instead of the nearly a dozen prominent men who were being considered as possible candidates a month ago we now have three, Col. Graves, former [illegible]r; Judge McCord of Montgomery and Major [illegible] of Birmingham.

[illegible] McCord and Major Dixon have announced their [illegible], both of which the Birmingham Post finds to be, in a measure, disappointing. Speaking of Judge McCord's platform, The Post says: "It is incomplete. It abounds in eloquent sentences which when analyzed mean very little to the people who are looking not for oratory but for a definite solution of the state's political and social problems." "The Dixon platform," The Post says, "is more concise, complete and frank. It indicates a deeper study of the issues." Friends of Governor Graves say that a complete statement of his position on all questions will be made at an early date.

The Reporter would like to emphasize again that the elections of this year will be the most important the state has held in many years. Other states have been reorganizing heir governments, making changes to suit changed conditions. Alabama has stood practically still in this way. The state's best interests have been made subservient to the interests of an outworn political machine. The times call for a man who is both a patriot and a leader. A man who knows what Alabama needs, and who has the courage to tell the people. A man who love for Alabama is so sincere and so genuine, that he will inspire the confidence of men and women as he stands before them to point the way to a better future for our great state and its people. —Shelby County Reporter.

The CWA, Roosevelt and Democrats

As has been the opinion of the News regarding the carrying out of the work of the CWA, the whole thing is beginning to come to a finer point. There will no longer be any secrets attached to the carrying out of orders from the national administrator, nor will there be any secrets regarding the records in the offices of the CWA or any office attached to it, since Harry L. Hopkins, the national administrator instructed all state administrators that their records are open to the public. Anyone, through a reasonable and respectable request may see the records of purchases, and payrolls of the CWA office. There is no secret to it.

The Democratic administration which is doing all in its power to bring normal business conditions to the country does not intend for any secrets to be attached to any of its branches of relief or programs of recovery.

President Roosevelt, whose Democratic platform met with the approval of the country, is truly carrying out the policies of the great Democratic party. He is giving a square deal and a New Deal to the working man and the farmer. He is open-minded. He wants the people of his country to know what is going on. He welcomes constructive criticism at all times. He is not trying to cover up any of his steps nor any parts of his program. He is a true-blue Democrat, never misleading, but ever trying to do good toward his fellowmen, a splendid model from which is fashioned the attitude of the Democratic party of Chilton County.

Newspapermen In Public Office

What this country needs is more newspaper men in public offices. Newspapermen, and we mean real newspapermen who have been through the grind, have seen all sorts of life through an open door. They have been cussed and discussed. They know what it means to wonder where the next dollar is coming from, and yet would gladly give their last dollar to a friend.

That causes us to remember that our good friend, Emmett Brooks, publisher of The Brewton Standard, Brewton, Ala., is a candidate for Probate Judge of Escambia county.

We don't know whether Emmett is out making a strong campaign or not, but we certainly want to say that we believe he will make his county a splendid Probate Judge, and hereby recommend him to his people. We've known Emmett for sometime and if we didn't know we would see him at the Press Association meetings, we would just simply have to visit him in Brewton now and then.

Prediction Fulfilled

It is recalled that some years ago, when there was a general salary and budget boosting campaign on in the Alabama Legislature, conservative citizens opposed it strenuously and predicted that unless there was more economy used in the conduct of the state's affairs the tragedy of closed schools would soon be the result, and the prediction has come true. In view of present conditions it is extremely important that a legislature be chosen which has the wisdom and foresight to so conserve the state's resources as to make impossible such a deplorable state of affairs. —Ashland Progress.

Wild And Woolly Days Are Over

When the country finally has emerged from the depression which had its inception in 1929, every element of society will be situated much more pleasantly, and conditions will have been created under which it is probable that many of the unfortunate mistakes of the past will be avoided. Thus a happier condition should be assured for all the years to come.

What the farmer has learned about the value of cooperative action probably will be communicated to succeeding generations and farm life should become consistently more pleasant and profitable. And the same thing doubtless will apply to business in all its ramifications.

It scarcely is conceivable that the methods which gradually produced the ruinous conditions through which the nation began to pass in 1929, ever again will be created. The lessons have been too bitter to be forgotten. Moreover, it has been shown that there is a better way, and this way will be perpetuated.

In brief, the age of wild and woolly farming and wild and woolly business management has come to an end and it is inevitable that improved conditions should become the permanent order. —Tuscaloosa News.

"Don'ts" For Writers

Most advice to writers consists of long lists of "don'ts." And if you ask us, if we were really giving advice we should embody it in one big "don't." It would be: Don't pay too much attention to lists of "don'ts."

Obviously, a writer should have a working knowledge of the language, including familiarity with the rules of syntax, and at least a nodding acquaintance with rhetoric, and some other phases of the phrasemaking art, the names of which have for the moment escaped us.

The beginner should stick rather closely to the rules, at least until he learns how to break them effectively. Adherence to a severe style is a safe course until one really has something to say. Then, if ever such a thing happens, it is a good idea to say it in the most direct and forceful manner possible, even though a rule or two gets smashed in the process.

On the other hand, rules should not be broken merely for the sake of hearing their bones crack. If the thought can be conveyed attractively and effectively by a strict observance of all the niceties, well and good. But some writers appear to be more concerned with displaying their knowledge of the rules than they are with expressing the alleged idea they have in mind. Consequently their productions have about as much animation and warmth as the text of a chattel mortgage.

Language is primarily designed for the expression of thought, or the concealment thereof. In either case, rules are a means and not the end. The important thing is to make plain what you are driving at, as well as that at which you are driving.

MORAL ECHOES

I went into the place of business where many clerks were employed. I was in a hurry for a certain article carried in the store, but was forced to wait for service. All the clerks were engaged in a heated conversation over a ball game that was to take place. Finally, I asked one of the clerks if he would not find for me the article desired. He went in search of it, but never lost the line of conversation relative to the game. He gave me the article and I handed him the money, but I am quite certain that my presence in the store did not register on his brain. When you joined the church you became a clerk in God's store. Some church members are good clerks in God's place of business. They meet the folks and the trade of the kingdom in a pleasant manner, but there are at least fifty per cent of those who claim to be in God's employ who are so absorbed in the things of this world until nothing of a spiritual nature registers in their hearts. God is better than the president of a business firm, or He would fire about fifty per cent of those who claim to be in His employ, hoof and hide. If I had a clerk in my business who would talk ball and pay no attention to trade, that clerk would not be there for trade the next day, but God is better than I am and that is a blessing to some folks.

It was just like the Man of Galilee to bathe the feet of Judas and to hand a special morsel of food to the one who was his enemy, but not so with us. The most of us would be willing to bathe our enemies' feet if we could use boiling water and we would like to feed him if we could hand to him a serving of poisoned gall. "Love your enemies and do good to them who despitefully use you."

Two families arrived in a certain city about the same time and both being members of the same denomination, they set about the task of finding a church home. One family looked about to find where the grazing was the best and where the social connections would give them prestige. They wanted to be among the "Society" folks of the city, and they located themselves with that in view. The other family did not care for social connections, but did care tremendously for soul growth and for Christian service, and so they cast about for a church where they were needed and where they could best serve God and their fellow man. It is needless to say that the two families did not join the same church. Blessed is that church member who seeks for a place to serve and not a place of prestige and power.

I was in a home often and heard the father and the mother lauding and magnifying the mental achievements of their daughter away at the University. She was leading her classes and winning distinction in every line of the class room. She graduated and came home a polished, intelligent, beautiful girl. It did not take me long to learn that the daughter was a failure. She let it be known that she did not care for the church any longer, but that she loved society, dances, summer trips and house parties. Listen to me, folks, it is not so much what your child knows when college days are over, as it is what that child loves. The boy, the girl, who gets learning and training and still loves home, virtue, the church and all right ways of living, is thrice blessed, but to know it all and to love the ways of the world, it is thrice a curse. It is not how much you know that counts, but it is what do you love. If you have learning and love the fast life you are hopeless.

A little boy sat on the top steps of his country home and was a perfect picture of frowns and disgust. I ventured to ask "And now what is wrong?" He let me know that his mother had given him a compound cathartic pill and that he had chewed it up in order to swallow it. I did not wonder at the boy being disgusted with the world and everything therein. It is bad enough to take a compound cathartic pill and swallow it whole, but when you chew it up and then swallow it, that is just too bad. We all know lots of folks who treat their troubles just that way. They have them and they sit down and chew them up day after day and then swallow them down. Better not chew on your troubles, that will get you disgusted with everything. It is best to swallow them down and forget.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of Alabama Power Company:

So much has been said about the rates for electric service being based upon values which include "write-ups" and "watered stock" that we feel an explanation of the fundamental principles of rate making should be given to our customers.

The amount of stock which may have been issued by a utility has nothing to do with rates. Nor has the value of its stock.

The rates which a utility is allowed to charge are such as would entitle it to "earn a fair net return on the reasonable value of its property, devoted to the public service."

Take two utility companies, for instance, the value of whose property is $100,000 each. With the same rates and a return of 6%, the earnings of each company would be $6,000. One company might have 1000 shares of stock issued and thus be earning $6.00 a share; the other company might have 100,000 shares of stock and thus be earning 6¢ a share. Regardless of the number of shares of stock, the rate of return on the property value would be the same and the rates charged would be the same. In brief, the allowance of earnings is only on the reasonable value of the property.

The fact that a utility is regulated forms the basis for the belief that it is therefore guaranteed a fixed return on its investment. This is not the case. The problem of earning the sum of money permitted by law to be earned is up to the management of the company. The law will not permit a utility to earn more than a fair return, but it does not guarantee such fair return. The State will not make up any deficit which may result from faulty or inefficient management, or an improper rate structure.

Yours very truly,

President.

IN MEMORY OF MOTHER

Dear Editor, please give me space in your good paper to express our thanks to the many friends who rendered a helping hand and were so willing to do anything they could through the sickness and death of our dear mother, Mrs. Mary J. Jones.

She had been in bad health for some five or six weeks, and on the night of the 12th she was taken with a serious head trouble, later developing pneumonia, and died on the 18th. She was laid to rest at Corinth cemetery. Rev. J. D. Hughes conducted the service. We, as husband and children, can't find words to express to our friends and Dr. C. O. Lawrence, our thanks for their kindness. There never was so much love and sympathy shown as was shown to our mother and us.

We feel that everything was done that loving hands could do to relieve her of her suffering, but God saw fit to take her from us. We can just begin to realize what it is to be without a mother. Everything seems lonely and blue, and oh, what a vacancy in the home, in the church, in anything that was good and for the betterment of humanity. This vacancy can't be filled. We loved her, we cherished her, we would call on her for advice in time of trouble.

She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, Mr. E. L. Jones, and five children, Mrs. Mollie Jones, Mr. Archie Jones, Mrs. Lola Jones, Mrs. Flora Thomas and Mrs. Maggie Burdette; sixteen grandchildren; one great-grandchild; one brother, Rev. E. A. Norris; and one sister, Mrs. Sallie Jones.

She was born in Chilton county in 1871, and joined the Baptist church in 1888, and was married to Mr. E. J. Jones in 1890, having lived together for forty-four years. She was a faithful member of the Baptist church, and we know that our loss is only Heaven's gain. May each of us strive to live in a way to meet her some day, and be an unbroken family. May God bless all who rendered a helping hand and showed a willingness to do anything for us and her. Thanks to all.

—The only boy, Archie Jones.

Dear Margaret's gone and left us,

Gone, but not forgotten,
Nor will be in this life.

But by all who knew her,
Especially to her home.
Weep not, dear friends, for Margaret.
She is not all alone,
But with all our loved ones,
Singing around the throne.

Pastures

By J. W. Fant, County Agent

At this time of the year when farmers are cleaning off fence rows and pushing back the edges of the field, they are naturally thinking about and planning for the year's crops.

There is one crop that most farmers fail to think seriously about until it is too late. That is a good summer pasture.

After we are through cultivating our crops we turn our mules in the pasture and in a few weeks the pasture grasses give out. There are two reasons for pastures "playing out" in the summer: (1) We increase the number of livestock on pastures in the summer. (2) We fail to prepare for the dry summer in the spring.

It is impossible to have good summer pastures without some preparation in the spring. There are a few things a farmer may do not to increase the grazing capacity of his pasture during the summer and early fall.

1. Cut the bushes and shade off and ditch low places. If this is done on most low land carpet grass will soon form a good sod and make good grazing.

2. Cut bushes and shade off the hill sides and terrace. Terraces will stop washing and the natural growth of grass will be much better.

3. Make the surface smooth so that one may use a mower to control weeds.

4. Plant grass seed. For low lands plant four pounds of carpet grass and six pounds of Dallas grass per acre. For upland plant Bermuda sod and 25 pounds of common lespedeza per acre.

Good results may be had by sowing the seed and dragging with a spike harrow. I have seen farmers plow furrows with a narrow scooter about 18 inches apart then sow the seed and drag with a harrow or brush, and get good results. The land need not be plowed. All that is necessary is to get the seed covered enough so that heavy rains won't wash them away, or drift them to low places and prevent a regular stand.

A good sod of Bermuda may be had by plowing furrows with a scooter plow about two feet apart, then cross plow so that you have the land checked. Place a bunch of Bermuda sod where the furrows cross and press it down with your foot. When sodding with Bermuda be sure to get the surface smooth before you plant the grass. It is necessary to have the surface smooth in order that one may run a mower to control weeds.

If a farmer is to pasture land for only one or two years he would not want Bermuda grass on the land. The best thing to do in this case is to plant lespedeza alone. Plant about 25 pounds to 30 pounds per acre. This will give good grazing during the summer and fall months. Lespedeza will reseed itself from year to year.

Get your seed and be ready to plant during the last ten days of February. For further information, see the county agent.

OAK GROVE

We beg your pardon. Last week we announced a "Womanless Wedding" at Oak Grove school building. It was an error, and by this means we take pleasure in correcting our mistake. The date has been set for Friday night, February 2, 1934. The wedding procession will begin at 7:30. During the time before the wedding we will have negro stunts and spirituals. If you want to laugh until you can't, be there for the comical entertainment. After the wedding ceremony has been performed by Rev. Northcutt, the remaining social hour will consist of a fashion show. The wedding party will be the contestants in the show. A prize will be awarded to the "lady" who is best dressed. The entire audience will act as judges. So don't fail to be there at 7:30 o'clock p.m. A small admission of 10c will be charged. You and your friends have a cordial invitation to the wedding.

A crowd of the younger set enjoyed a social given by Miss Flora Martin at her home Saturday evening.

We had a large crowd at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. Our B. Y. P. U. has been on the incline since the new year came in. Here's hoping we keep it this way. During the business session we made plans to attend our County Crusade Rally February 11. Don't forget our church services next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Let's give our pastor a large crowd. Everybody come to B. Y. P. U. Sunday evening at 6:00 o'clock. We need your presence and help.

Miss Gladys Mae Cobb has been ill at her home the past few days. We wish her a speedy recovery, so she can resume her studies at school.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Edwards from Bessemer are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sutley.

Quite a number attended the singing at Center Hill Sunday, reporting a good singing.

Don't forget the singing at Oak Grove next Sunday evening. Everyone come and bring someone else with you.

NEW CEDRON

Mrs. Ernest Wilson was elected as president of the W. M. S. at the New Cedron church at the first meeting held January 9th. Others elected were: Mrs. E. E. Edwards, vice-president; Mrs. Bill Cox, secretary; Mrs. Candy Williams, treasurer; personal service chairman, Mrs. Julius Penton; organist, Mrs. O. L. Rawlinson. The officers will be officially installed at an early date.

Plans are being made to peice and quilt a quilt for the Baptist Orphans Home. The old fashioned basket pattern is going to be used.

The next meeting will be held at 1:30 o'clock in the church, Tuesday afternoon, February the sixth.

Rev. E. Robinson will fill his appointments Saturday and Sunday.

PATES CHAPEL

Everybody remember Saturday night at 6:30 and Sunday morning at 11:00 are our regular preaching days. Everybody is invited and don't forget there is to be a bed spread given away, and a prize for the one that sold the most tickets. The school children are working for it. Everybody come on time Saturday night, if you want to see who wins.

Our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart of Refuge community, if you hear him one time we won't have to beg you to come again. Rev. Lockhart has been with us going on three years and has done great service for our church, and we would hate so bad to give him up. So come on ole Pates Chapel folks, and let's do our best by him, and see if there isn't a chance to keep him for five more years at the least.

Health of this community is good at the present time, all except a few bad colds, but we know this is the result of winter time—and oh, Gee! and believe we're about to have cold weather around Pates Chapel. We're wondering if it's as cold in the other communities.

We had a pretty bad wreck in this community Saturday night: Bernie Whatley and Harvey Davenport were driving Tom Foshee's car and lost control of it and the thing hit the bank. It didn't kill anybody, but the car was torn into pieces.

Oh! And we're awful glad to report Pates Chapel won the banner at the W. M. U. A. at Jemison Thursday of last week for having the most present.

B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school are going along just fine. We're glad to report. Everybody come Sunday night at 6:30 and Sunday at 10:00 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater and son and Mr. and Mrs. Vasteen Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hayes were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes and family Sunday.

Misses Carrie Bolton, Lorene, Lucile Cleckler, Mildred and Martha Hayes spent Sunday with Miss Emily Pate.

Miss Martha Hayes spent Saturday night with Miss Zemma Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ethridge Williams of near Thorsby spent Saturday night with his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Vasteen Hayes.

Despite the fact that our membership has decreased the last two meetings, we are still progressing nicely in our work. We want everyone who will to come out and join us.

SOUTHERN PINE PAPER

After years of patient experimenting, Dr. Charles H. Herty, the famous Georgia chemist, has succeeded in producing excellent newsprint paper from Southern slash pine. He is now seeking to reduce the cost of manufacture, with every prospect of success.

When this is accomplished a vast new industry will arise in the South which will be of immense benefit to the entire country. For many years an enormous amount of newsprint and pulp has been imported from Canada and other foreign countries, besause domestic manufacture has been inadequate to supply the demands of American newspapers.

Dr. Herty was recently congratulated on the success of his efforts by President Roosevelt, who said: "I am delighted that his dream and that of all of us has come true, and that we are to use Southern pine for newsprint paper purposes."

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE ONLY EVERY 5TH SUNDAY AFTERNOON

At the singing at the courthouse last Sunday afternoon it was voted that regular singings be held there only every fifth Sunday afternoon from now on until further notice. Of course, there will likely be night singings once in a while between times.

This was done on account of nearby churches having their local singings somewhere in this vicinity most every Sunday in the month. Mr. Jesse C. Jones was appointed to preside over the next singing at the courthouse, which will be held on the afternoon of the fifth Sunday in April, 29th, unless a night singing is called before that time. If so, Mr. Jones will have charge of that.

The singing last Sunday afternoon was well attended and enjoyed by all. Prof. L. T. Grant presided, and there were directors present from all parts of the county. Two special numbers were sung from Harbor Bells No. 3, the new Stamps-Baxter book, by Mr. Jesse C. Jones and others.

Vermont Junior High School News

The reception given by the Vermont P.-T. A. honoring the Isabella High School P.-T. A. on Tuesday night, January 23, was highly successful and gratifying in all respects. Twenty-eight members from Isabella and forty-seven parents from Vermont and a host of young people were attendants to the entertainment. Devotional exercises were conducted by Mr. Johnson. Following this was the presentation of the minutes and roll call by the secretary and treasurer. After a few preliminary announcements by our President, Mr. Johnson briefly summarized the worthwhile features of aligning ourselves with the State and National parent-teacher organization. Then a rising vote was given by our membership as to whether we would join or not. It was unanimous that we join at once, so our secretary and treasurer was requested to collect and send in our dues at once. Thus we are now in line to reap the benefits offered by our State and National associations. Following the business order came a short, but keenly interesting program by a group of the students; then came the games of the occasion. This was another one of the pleasure giving features of the evening. After the games the refreshments committee chimed in with their contribution to the evening's festivities. A nice large plate of baked chicken, salad, dressing and all the other trimmings served with either hot cocoa or coffee and cake. During this feature Miss Grant rendered a choice selection of popular and classical songs on the piano. Adjournment was then declared. Everyone left for home feeling much better and far happier for having attended.

The Jr. II classes, under the direction of the faculty, are making final plans for the social to be given at the home of Mr. W. W. Klinner, honoring the Jr. III class. Lively games and exciting contests will be given to round out the evening's entertainment. The social will be given on next Saturday night, February 3rd. Only those who are members of the Junior High Department are requested to be present.

Our P.-T. A. meets next Wednesday night, February 7th, at 6:30 at the school building. All members are especially urged to be present as we have several matters of importance to discuss. These were omitted at our last regular meeting due to the other features of the program.

Supt. Little was a visitor to our school last Thursday morning.

Attendance has been gradually getting back to normal the past ten days. We trust all danger of measles has passed and no more children will be detained from their school work.

The boys Jr. basket ball team is getting in some real good practice, at recess and after school hours. Watch 'em go three years from now.

The girls basket ball team expects to play the Mt. Pleasant team at an early date. A definite announcement will be in next week's news.

A cold blast from the north has almost depleted our supply of wood. Those few who have not brought any fuel this school year are requested to take at least enough interest to provide fuel for a few days anyway. Think what kind of progress your child will make in his studies while sitting in a damp, chilly room.

We regret deeply the loss of our little school mates, Loyd and Carrol Smith, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Smith. They are moving to Geneva County.

Folks, if you scream with laughter, first keep up with our school news and watch for the announcement of the staging of a burlesque debate. The debating teams have not yet been chosen, neither has the subject, but we have a wide choice of both and we hope to put on the funniest and most laughable program that has yet been given at Vermont Jr. High.

The Jr. III class will organize this week. A class president, historian, valedictorian and prophet will be elected.

Miss Manning spent the past week end with her parents at Isabella. The other members of the faculty made a business trip to Clanton Saturday and Sunday they attended the morning and evening services at Antioch church.

Exams are over for the fourth month. Some have made good records, some have made average, while some have not made so good. The latter includes those who have been absent from class so much. We wish you better luck this new month.

Several members of the school are to be congratulated for their spirit, their interest and their pride in our new building. They have been bringing in beautiful flowers and pictures to adorn the interior of the class room.

Miss Pardue met with the 4-H girls Monday, January 29. There were 21 present. They are doing some fine work since they have gotten organized. Their officers are: President, Frances Kendrick; vice-president, Lizzie Mae Lewis; secretary, Mary Owens; reporter, Frances Kendrick.

IN MEMORY

Mrs. Mary Jones departed this life on January 18. She was a deaconess of Corinth church, and had been for years. She joined the Missionary Baptist Church in 1888, for 46 years she was a faithful member, who lived above reproach. She always attended church unless providentially hindered. Her home was the preachers' home, and she always made him feel welcome. If there was sickness in the community you would find her there. She was like the good woman we read about in God's Word. "She did what she could." She was always ready to teach her Sunday school class and to do any other good work she was called upon to do. No one can fill her place. She was successful in getting her children to follow her in the good and right way. Now she has gone to her great reward, and we must bow in humble submission to the Master's will and try with all our might to imitate her Christian life and to build up the church she loved so much.

—Her pastor for 24 years, J. D. Hughes.

When police found her 24 miles from home, Mrs. Mary Howe of Norfolk, Conn., who is 90 years old, said she had walked all the distance.

GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

The Ninth Annual session of the county-wide P.-T. A. was held at the County Training School Friday, January 26. The meeting was largely attended by patrons and teachers of the various schools in the county; and the program was very well carried out. These two things above all others made the ninth annual session one of the best ever held.

There were several interesting features on program. Among them was the address on "Child Welfare" by our state supervisor, Mrs. Foster McDavid. Some very good advice on the subject was given to parents and teachers by Mrs. McDavid, who is well experienced along the line of Child Welfare.

The financial reports of the various county units showed a marked increase over previous years.

After the very inspiring address by the president, Leila C. Woods, I am sure that each patron and teacher went away with the determination of doing more and better work the remainder of this year and having a still better session next year.

Evening School Farmers Have Good Gardens

I was down in the Riderville community the other day conducting a seasonal meeting with my evening school farmers. It was quite pleasing to note that they were carrying out the instructions given in "Year Round Gardening." In many of the gardens there were such vegetables as collards, cabbage, rape, turnips, mustard, tender greens, onions, etc.

Those are prosperous people down there and if they had a good leader to work with them, soon they would be showing the way for all other sections of the county. I refer to such persons as J. E. Ford, Will Waters, Frank Shelton, Rev. Melton and Hubbard Goodwin.

One is made to feel proud when he sees such fruits of his labor.

I See Signs

Hedges are burning, fences are being repaired, terraces are being repaired, soil is being turned. Such may be seen as one passes through the County Training School community. To my mind it is one of the most picturesque seasons of the year when farmers begin busying themselves for the planting season.

DIZZINESS
relieved by Black-Draught

"I decided to take Thedford's Black-Draught, as I had been having bilious spells," writes Mr. Charles E. Stevens, of Columbus, Ind. "When I get bilious, I feel sleepy and tired and do not feel like doing my work. It is hard to tell how I feel, but I do not feel good. I get awfully dizzy. I know then that I had better take something. After I found how good Black-Draught is, that is what I have used. I guess it rids me of the bile, for I feel better—don't feel like I am dropping off to sleep every time I sit down. That, to me, is a very bad feeling."

Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.
By Dan Smith

The first paragraph of this column should be and is turned over to the people of Clanton and Chilton County who showed their real spirit when they attended the Senior Class play last Friday night. The auditorium was filled, thanks to the patronage of our wonderful citizens and school patrons. When a town responds to the call of a class as Clanton did Friday night, it makes the class desire to do worthy things. A neat sum was realized from this play and this amount will go to aid in leaving a memorial to the school. Again the Senior Class takes this humble opportunity to express its thanks for the large attendance last Friday night.

Chilton County High School is fortunate in being able to continue on as a public school. Another thing, the student body is proud of is the physical education program being carried on here. Not only do we learn how to play and build strong and healthy bodies but also we learn the requirements of good sportsmanship and clean cooperation which are essential in life's journey. The school has excellent equipment, such as basketballs, volley ball, baseballs, bats, and other playground apparatus.

Chilton boys' basketball team lost their first game of the season last Thursday night when they fell at the hands of Jemison, one of the strongest teams in this district, to the score of 31 to 16. The girls' team from C.C.H.S. evened the defeat by winning over the Jemison girls, 6 to 5. Although our team was defeated last week they will show Alabama what Chilton can really do. Just watch them. Playing on Chilton's team are: Melvin Powell, James Dennis, Emanuel Cooper, U. L. Baker and George Moore, guards; Willis Baker, Frank Hogan, James Tiffin and James Arnold, forwards; Ted Littlejohn and Smolene Thornton, centers.

The girls' team is composed of: Grace Plyler, Jeanette Tiffin, Thelma Arant, Sarah Hollis, Louise Mims and Lois Foshee.

An interesting character here at school and to whom a space should be given is "Mack", the janitor. Next week the writer will print an interview with Mack which will include events of his life, memories of past school years and his opinions on present day problems.

A boy in the Junior Three was asked to name the twelve greatest men in America. Here's what he wrote: Columbia Football Team 11, Babe Ruth, 1; total, 12.

The Senior Class wishes to thank Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company for the use of a living room suite in the play last Friday night. Thank you, Mr. Tiffin.

Mr. Warr stopped at a fruit stand while in Chicago and asked the price of some peaches. The owner replied, "Penny a piece." Mr. Warr said, "I'll take one." The owner eyed him and said, "Going to give a party?"

A complete set of new uniforms have been ordered for our boys' basketball team. These new suits will be blue with orange numerals on both back and front. There will also be an orange belt and stripe of the same color on the trunks. These suits will not only have a first class appearance, but will be of the best quality.

Chilton's first rate basketball teams met the girls and boys team of Jemison High on the local court last night; Wednesday. This was one of the highest spots of basketball playing and pep due to the fact that strong rivalry exists between the teams. A the time of this writing the writer was unable to get the details of the game, but next week a report of the game will be given. Chilton's boys team has its eyes toward the state tournament and going by their playing one will be safe to say they will be there in the first seat. Yea Chilton!

Chilton High split a double-header with Wetumpka Monday night. The Chilton boys lost their game 25 to 21, and the girls won, 8 to 6. James Dennis was the high scorer for the boys for Chilton.

Winchell Whisperings: About the new romance. Seems that the girl is a little in the lead from what I hear. One authority on romance says they won't fit. Others think he is right, too. * * * Something did come from the play. If it lasts like that which grew out of a play last year, they are lucky. * * * A certain girl caused quite a bit of comment Friday night on her appearance. These comments are favorable to some ears and unfavorable to others. * * * A "great big he man" falling for a fair damsel. It isn't the first time tho. * * * The Unholy Three, like all other worthless things, went flooey. * * * But still two boys would really like to know who they were. Or do they? * * * It's tough to try to please people when they get mad.

Why Hospitals Use a Liquid Laxative

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons?

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative brings a perfect movement, and there is no discomfort at the time, or after.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it! And the habitual use of irritating salts, or of powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets may prove injurious.

A week with a properly prepared liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will tell you a lot. A few weeks' time, and your bowels can be "as regular as clockwork." Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative which all druggists keep ready for use. It makes an ideal family laxative; effective for all ages, and may be given the youngest child. IN MEMORY OF MY PLAY MATE LITTLE RUBY SCARBROUGH

On Thursday night, January, 11, at o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Scarbrough, and took little Ruby and left to mourn, mother, father, one sister, four brothers, and a host of friends.

Let's not weep for little Ruby, for we know according to God's Word, if we live a pleasing life to Him, we will meet again some day in that Land where there will be no more parting and no sad good-byes, but all will be peace, joy and love throughout eternity.

I loved her so much I can hardly bear to think how sweet she was to me.

—A little friend who loved Ruby, Stella Mae Smith.

Seven years ago Ethel M. Franklin and William G. Vincent of Swedesboro, N. J., were married, but they have just announced the fact.

The town of Railroad Flat, Calif., had its first wedding in 38 years when Miss Ruth Brandt and Cecil Harrison were married recently.

Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, welfare director and a member of the Pilot Club, W. M. Wyatt, a member of the Kiwanis Club, and J. W. Fant, county agent and a meber of the Kiwanis Club.

More Money Asked For Relief Work

that all civic works payrolls and records of purchase of supplies are public records and therefore open to inspection," Hopkins telegraphed to all state administrators.

The administrator's move followed by a day his order placing army engineers in charge of civil works in Chicago and Los Angeles. Charges of politics in CWA have come from Los Angeles but no hints of such have reached here from Chicago.

Maj. Donald Connally took charge of civil works at Los Angeles, and Lieut. Col. Dan R. Sultan at Chicago.

The officers were lent to Hopkins by the War Department for the work and their salaries will be paid by that branch of the government.

The first repercussion from the move came Saturday with receipt of a telegram from Robert J. Dunham, state administrator for Illinois, tendering his resignation as civil works head. Dunham and the county committees had retained charge of emergency relief work.

Hopkins paid tribute to Dunham's work in Illinois and said he would not accept the resignation until he could talk with him by telephone. He said he wants Dunham to remain on the job and that the outcome will depend on the conversation.

"Dunham," said Hopkins, "has given a lot of devoted service to this enterprise. That's all there is to say."

Polk Brothers Show New Plymouth

Mr. Polk stated, "We are proud to offer to the people of this section such an outstanding motor car at such a low price. While the Plymouth is somewhat new to this section, we are pleased to see such a wide and hearty approval of this wonderful automobile. The new 1934 Plymouth with "individual springing" wheels, its new styles and other improvements is truly an outstanding value of today. We want everyone to see this car before they buy."

With these dozens of improved features, Polk Brothers declare that the 1934 Plymouth brings more to the automobile-buying public for his money than can be had in other low priced automobiles. Featuring the "all-steel body," "individual wheel springing," "special lubricating," "hydraulic brakes," "rustproof fenders," and other improvements—the New Plymouth is indeed, a bargain, they aver.

LET'S PUT HIM OVER THE TOP

"Preacher" Salser Must Be Most Popular Cop In Birmingham

There is a contest on in the Birmingham Police Dept. to determine the most popular policeman.

People of Chilton County well remember the splendid entertainment furnished at our county picnics by that splendid young "cop" of Birmingham, "Preacher" Salser.

When you come to town, go to the News office or to Dief's Service Station and put your name on the voting list in favor of "Preacher" Salser. He is the one who plays the harp at the county picnics. Let's give him a big hand.

Among those who served as jurors last week were Oscar F. Davenport and Spann Jones, both of the progressive Isabella community and two of the county's outstanding farmers.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Tyus, Miss Margaret Tyus, Freddie and Ralph Geiger, all of Birmingham, came down and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tyus.

Halstead street, Chicago, is seven miles long, and on it live representatives of practically every race in the world.

In this fair land of ours about 12,000 persons are murdered, 100,000 assaulted, 50,000 robbed and 3,000 kidnaped every year.

KIWANIANS MEET HERE TODAY

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

Quite a few Republicans are congratulating themselves on losing in a certain political campaign last summer. With the installation of Luther Little as county superintendent of education, Chilton County realized a triumph. Executives of Luther's capacity and vision are few. Immediately after he assumed control of the educational facilities in the county, a program to eliminate fire hazards and dangerous conditions in school buildings was begun. This program has been carried far toward completion, without regard to location, but based entirely on the degree of need. No charge of "playing politics" can be made against this official, which is perhaps the most commendable thing that can be said of a county superintendent of education. Every precaution should be taken to prevent the future of Chilton County's youth being made a political football.

Over Alabama, thousands of schools are being closed with terms of insufficient length to permit pupils to make grades, resulting in sheer waste of time and money that has been expended; teachers are being thrown without employment. But in Chilton County a different story is being written. We are fortunate enough to have at the helm of our educational system a man, whose vision and efforts have made it possible to insure Chilton County's youth of six and eight month school terms.

Within a few months, the people of this county will be given an opportunity to express their appreciation and assure the continuance of these improved conditions.

It was a beautiful spring morning in 1945. Birds were singing; bees were humming; butterflies flitted here and there. There was an odor of freshly turned sod in the air. Everything was astir—after the long months of winter, people were rushing about the springtime tasks. But across the street from the News office, lounged a group of healthy, able-bodied men. Even the spring sunshine had failed to warm that dormant spark of self-pride, which had been suppressed so long. They were waiting for the RFC provisions to be issued.

Perhaps this little prognostigation is a little overdrawn, but it's doubtful. ~~The aim in the conception of the RFC~~ was splendid; there was a time when it served a worthy purpose, but it is doubtful if any program has ever been subjected to more outrageous abuse than has this program of relief. Today, it is largely serving the purpose of encouraging idleness and destroying individual ambition. In a rural county, with a population of less than 25,000 (approximately 5,000 families) where more than 90 per cent of the income of its citizenship comes from that worthy occupation of tilling the soil; with 1,300 persons (one representative from a family) working for the CWA, can there be any legitimate excuse for more than 1,000 families, or one-fifth the population, accepting charitable handouts? When the RFC was a work program, although most of their work amounted to less than nothing, it was much better, for it was not necessary for a man to compromise his pride to accept a check.

There are still some who are deserving of relief—and we are registering no complaint against their receiving it; but it is hard for us to reconcile the idea of persons shambling up to the relief offices, taking their portion and selling it at reduced prices. There will always be malignants who will be ready to grab all they can get without work. The detrimental idea behind the entire situation, and some county officials is partly responsible for it, is that idea of, 'the other fellow is getting it, why not I?' If a person is in dire need, there is no reason why he should not be offered relief—and no reason why he should not accept it. Had it not been for the more fortunate dividing with his less fortunate brother during these trying times, the ordeal would have been much greater, but there is a limit to all things.

If this Nation is to retain its prestige as a leader of civilization, it must produce stalwart men and women, with self-pride and individual ambition—and not mere wax figures.

Here it is again!

Rumor has it that W. A. Gulledge will enter the race on the Democratic ticket for Probate Judge of Chilton County. This report has been going the rounds with slight revisions since last fall, but has never been verified. If Mr. Gulledge should enter the race, it will at least even the number of candidates—three on each ticket—for this office.

Mr. Gulledge is one of the most prominently known merchants in Chilton County, having been connected with the firm of Gulledge Bros., and its predecessors, at Verbena, since early manhood. Especially in the southern section of the county will Mr. Gulledge's popularity bring him numerous votes, should he be a candidate.

NEW DIRECTOR OF LOCAL CWA PUSHING WORK

Assures People Of His Full Cooperation Toward Completing The Work

Declaring that he will bend every possible effort toward carrying to completion the CWA program in Chilton County, which had its inception under the direction of R. L. Pittman, Ervin J. McCrossin, newly appointed director, assumed the responsibilities of his new duties this week. Enthousiastic in his praise of Mr. Pittman and the program which he had underway, Mr. McCrossin expressed the opinion that it would be nothing short of tragedy not to follow the outlined program.

Mr. McCrossin comes to Chilton County from Montgomery, where he has been connected for sometime with the Public Works Administration as an engineer examiner, working with Dr. George Jacob Davis, state PWA engineer. He is a native of Alabama and has been following engineering work for fourteen years.

The county is up to its quota at the present time, Mr. McCrossin stated, but several new projects have been submitted and approved, and with the completion of some of the present projects, work will begin on new ones.

Mr. Pittman, former CWA director for Chilton County, has been promoted to field director, having supervision over fourteen counties in North Alabama.

Luther Patterson of Thorsby Route 1, was in Clanton Monday and stopped at the News office.

Mrs. G. L. Foshee and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lowery of the Liberty Hill community, spent Sunday with relatives in Birmingham.

Dr. S. J. Ezell, Chairman Of Roll Call, Issues An Appeal To People

DRIVE OF LAST FALL FELL BELOW LEVEL

Another Red Cross Roll Call for Chilton County will open Saturday morning, February 10th, with new officers and committees, and with Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church, chairman of the campaign.

The Roll Call is being re-opened in the county due to the work having fallen short of expectations in the number of memberships last Fall and it is expected that a large number of people will respond to the coming drive.

In a statement to the people of the county, Dr. Ezell has the following to say:

"Last fall Chilton county was supposed to put on the annual Roll Call for the Red Cross to help it carry on its great work for the needy and suffering. The truth of the matter is that we did not put the Roll Call on except in one or two communities—raising less

ACQUITTAL GIVEN PLIER IN CASE HERE

Jury Fails To Find Former City Clerk Guilty Of Embezzlement

A jury of twelve Chilton County citizens, in whose hands rested the fate of Johnny Plier, charged with embezzlement in connection with the alleged misappropriation of $1,963 of funds belonging to the Town of Clanton, returned a verdict of "not guilty" following the three-days hearing in circuit court last week.

The case grew out of an alleged misappropriation of funds while Plier served the municipality as clerk during the years of 1928 to 1931. Auditors who examined the books testified in court that it was almost impossible to determine the status of the accounts because of the system used.

What made the case one of the most sensational in the history of the county was the fact that approximately 125 witnesses gave testimony during the trial; and the courtroom was crowded to capacity throughout the three-day

LUTHER LITTLE MAKES FORMAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Superintendent Of Education Asking For Re-Election To County Office

The voters of Chilton County who are interested in the progress of the county's educational system will be elated to read the official announcement this week of the candidacy of Luther E. Little, county superintendent of education, for re-election. Elected last June 20 for a period of one year, Mr. Little launched into the task before him and has rendered a praiseworthy service to the constituency of Chilton County, irregardless of politics.

A notable degree of improvement has been made in the school situation in Chilton County under his supervision. Within one brief year, the accomplishments made by this official have brought him the commendation of almost every citizen in the county. Through his efforts, Chilton County's youth has been assured of six and eight months school terms, instead of the three and five months terms prevalent in most counties in the State.

T. L. M'KEE TO SEEK OFFICE OF COLLECTOR

Promises Using High Aim Set Up By Great Democratic Party

The Chilton County News takes pleasure in bringing to its readers this week the official announcement of T.L. (Tom) McKee, candidate on the Democratic ticket for the office of Tax Collector of Chilton County.

True to his colors of facing issues, Mr. McKee declared in a statement to a News reporter that he is not making this announcement through the usual smoke screen that his friends "drafted" him. Although he has sought the council of many friends and has been urged by them to enter the race, he declared that he will make the race on his record as a citizen of Chilton County, which is open for criticism.

Comparing the Roosevelt Administration to a ship which answered the S.O.S. call and is speedily bearing to safety a cargo of human souls that were caught in the waves of despair when another ship which was torn asunder by the storm, Mr. McKee stated that, if elected, his every effort will be toward the perpetuation of a program, emulating that great executive that stands at the helm of our National Government and directs its activities. With this high aim as a sandard, he solicits the support of his friends in both parties to aid him bring into Chilton County's local government that same spirit of progress, which is permeating the Nation.

1934 CHEVROLET BEING SHOWN AT HAYES CHEVROLET CO. NOW

An Invitation Is Extended By Local Chevrolet Dealers To Everyone To Visit Their Showrooms And See The Improved Chevrolet

The new 1934 Chevrolet with "knee-action" wheels, 80-horsepower "Blue Streak" engine, streamlined body and an imposing list of improvements and refinements is on display today in Clanton at the Hayes Chevrolet Co.

In the design and development of the new models, particular attention has been given to driver and passenger comfort and every effort has been made to eliminate the sensations of both sound and feeling that prove annoying to the motorist.

The new Chevrolet is longer—it has a 112 inch wheelbase—roomier, more powerful, smoother and more quiet than its predecessor. The engine is placed several inches farther forward in the chassis and seating has been rearranged.

The additional length is disposed of so as to provide more space for the front seat occupants and considerably more room for the rear seat passengers.

In appearance, the sleekness which has characterized Chevrolet cars in the past, is further accentuated by the actual length increase plus the treatment of the car design itself.

The increased power delivered by the new "Blue Streak" engine improves the flashing performance and the many engine refinements, combined with distinct chassis improvements insure extremely fast, safe, economical and quiet operation. Both front and rear seat passengers are insulated from road shocks by the introduction of independent front wheel suspension—known as "knee action" wheels—combined with improved rear spring suspension and a more balanced distribution of weight.

"Knee-Action" Wheels

By independent front wheel suspension is meant the attachment of the front wheels directly to the frame without the use of a front axle. In the conventional type of springing it was necessary to have very stiff front springs because these springs had to hold the axle and wheels in place. Independent springing relieves the front springs of this task and permits the use of a front spring which has a soft, velvety action, just as soft, in fact, as the rear springs. The car, by this system of suspension, has front and rear springs of equal tension and there is no tendency for the car to bounce and jolt along the road. The rear end of the car, in other words, is not harshly catapulted into the air whenever the front wheels encounter an irregularity of the road be it chuck hole or raised object. The front wheels, when they encounter such an irregularity, move up and down in a vertical position—they follow the irregularities of the road, so to speak.

Hayes Chevrolet Co. invites everyone to see this new automobile at their showrooms in Clanton.

PURPOSE OF GOV'T AID IS DISCUSSED

Citizens Hear Director Of Relief At A Recent Meeting Here

A group of citizens from over the county attended a meeting last Friday morning in Clanton at the high school at the invitation of Mr. C. G. Stokes, manager of the local office of the National Re-employment Service, to discuss and hear discussed the purposes of the Government's aid.

Mr. Stokes presided over the meeting which was attended by County Agent J. W. Fant, R. L. Pittman, L. H. Reynolds, Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, W. A. Gulledge, L. C. Calloway, C. D. Duke, R. J. McCrossin, R. A. Bridges, Billy Smith, Miss Ruth Pardue, H. F. Downs, Dr. H. M. Nix, W. A. Reynolds, W. M. Wyatt and Luther E. Little.

Mr. Stokes outlined several outstanding points and after a few brief remarks from those present, Mr. A. J. Speer, State Director for Alabama of the National Re-employment Service, spoke.

Mr. Speer pictured vividly the great task the Government has undertaken and showed the wonderful headway that is being made through the efforts of the great Democratic form of government. He stated that without the slightest doubt the program is going over the top.

In commenting on the program, Judge Reynolds stated, "This is the first time I know of that the Southern people have received a square deal from the Federal Government."

"I am grateful for the help of the CWA," stated W. A. Reynolds, in his few remarks before the meeting.

J. L. Bowden, Calera, Rt. 1, was among the visitors to Clanton Monday.

Better Get Your Auto Lights And Brakes In Good Shape

Auto owners better get busy now and see that the lights, both front and rear, and auto brakes are in good condition, according to Officer Billy Foshee.

Mr. Foshee stated that the State Law relative to this will be enforced and that within a few days, Sate Officers will visit this section to start the screws to turning. Local officers will also have authority to enforce this law and state that they intend to do their duty.

The News is glad to see this being done, as it has continually made a fight against the increasing number of automobile accidents resulting in death and injury.

Recovery And Construction

"Conviction grows," says the Christian Science Monitor, "that there can be no thorough-going recovery in the United States unless and until a healthy volume of ordinary construction shall have been started."

There are definite signs on the horizon that the start is not far away. Public works activities have provided great impetus. Various proposals now being considered to make small home building easier, have created justified hopes for achievements in the near future. And, most important of all is the fact that the wage earner finds himself with steadier work at better pay—and in need of more and better housing.

During depression there was a minimum of new residential building. Doubling up of families in small homes was common. Thousands of homes were allowed to fall into disrepair, because of lack of funds, and depreciation has been abnormally high. In addition, population changes, fires, tornadoes, floods and other elements have destroyed multitudes of homes or rendered them useless.

Any national movement starts slowly but accelerates with amazing speed. That will be true of new construction. The builders and material makers will be called upon to meet increased demand. Labor and technical supervision may be at a premium. Price rises are unavoidable. The moral is, do your building and repairing now.

Death On The Highway

Early in 1933, there were fewer automobile accidents than during the same period in 1932.

During the last half of 1933, however, the trend changed. In the year, 30,500 persons were killed—a 3½ per cent advance over 1932.

The automobile accident toll follows the amount of gasoline used in the country with almost loving exactitude. During the first half of 1933, for example, when gas consumption was 3 per cent below the same period in 1932, there were fewer accidents. During the last half gas use was 2.5 per cent above—and the accident record soared accordingly. The dangerous driver seems to have learned little from the ghastly experience of the past. He still exaggerates the safety factors of better cars and roads. He sill cuts in and out of traffic, still passes on blind curves and hills, still takes a chance to save a second. And he leaves behind him a shambles of deaths and injuries and needlessly ruined property.

Everything that mechanical and road engineers can do to make motoring safer, is being done—an extremely small percentage of accidents can be blamed on car failure or poor roads. The accident problem is purely an individual one—resting with each auto owner, and with the authorities who make and enforce traffic ordinances.

In 1933 four states, whose names deserve being recorded on an "Honor Roll", achieved declines in their auto death rate—Illinois, Michigan, Virginia and Wisconsin. Other states should strive to follow them.

The Editor's Prayer

Almighty and kind Father, who doth from thy throne look down on the government of men and delinquent subscribers. Most humbly do we beseech Thee to draw near unto them and whisper a few things in their ears that the statutes forbid us to print. Thou knowest our wants, but the subscriber knowest them not and seldom stops to inquire. Let it be known to them that there are large patches in the homestead of our pants, and there is an aching void in the front of our backs, and that we hunger and thirst and he asketh us not to sup with him. Thou knowest, Lord, that our print paper and ink cost money, but the subscriber knoweth it not and careth a darn sight less. Thou knowest, we are cold and the subscriber bringeth not the wood he promised, and we are shivering and shaking while he roasteth his shins before the red hot stove of his mother-in-law. Tell him all these things, Lord, and if then he faileth and bringeth no succor, banish him to the lower regions to dwell among the calamity howlers, and Thine shall be the glory and praise throughout our newspaper career. Amen. — Exchange.

Freeze Helps

This freezing weather which visited this section this week was not appreciated at the time, but was probably of great value for the future. There's no doubt but that the low temperature killed millions of boll weevils and other insect pests, and the freezing of the soil is said to be of benefit to the fertility of the land.

The warm weather which had prevailed throughout the Winter had caused the sap to rise and buds to form. Within another few weeks all vegetation would have reached a stage which should come in late Spring. Fruit trees would have been in full bloom, and in condition to be killed by even a light frost. Two years ago there was no real Winter weather until the 9th day of March, when a freeze practically destroyed the entire fruit crop of the county.

A late freeze this year would do little damage, for the freezing weather of this week has so retarded the development of the new growth on plants that it will be well into the Spring—as it should be—before the new growth, the buds and blooms, are developed.

While we suffered from the bitter winds, we will be ultimately benefited for having had the freeze.

Men With "A Pull"

A sidelight on this controversy over political patronage at Washington may be traced to President Roosevelt's attack upon members of the Democratic National Committee who have established law offices in Washington since the last inauguration, and who have been drawing large and easy fees for alleged influence with Government departments. The President objects to claims that these committeemen have extensive "pull". Frank C. Walker of New York, treasurer of the National Democratic Committee; Robert Jackson of New Hampshire, secretary of the Committee; and J. Bruce Kremer of Montana, have resigned from the Committee. Arthur F. Mullen of Nebraska, is under fire, as also are a number of other committeemen.

President Roosevelt undoubtedly believes in rewarding many of the party who rendered faithful service, but he has made it absolutely plain that he will not tolerate the action of any politician to attempt to set up political bargain counters in the National Capital.

Congress And Our Congressman

Congress is hard at it in Washington these days and is doing things coming and going. There will be many outstanding chapters written into the history of the United States as the result of this session of Congress.

We can feel perfectly free to point with pride to our Congressman, W. B. Oliver, even now as we will in the future. Mr. Oliver is standing by the people of his District. We have watched with much interest his activities since Congress convened a few weeks ago and the people of this Congressional District are to be congratulated on having a man such as Mr. Oliver as their representative in Washington.

So far there has been no indication that Mr. Oliver will have opposition in the coming elections There is no need of such a thing as we believe Mr. Oliver is serving his people in a manner that could not be surpassed.

Graveling The City Streets

Some several weeks ago we had bumped and jumped over the rather cut-up streets in the residential section of Clanton until we thought about it time and time again. We even printed our opinion that we couldn't understand why the city did not spend a little more time on the streets.

They were terribly bumpy and full of holes, and some of the streets are still in that condition. But, at that time we didn't know our city officials were planning on this new gravel that is being spread over the surfaces of the streets now, and we just want to say we congratulate them. We hope that this work won't be cut short and that all the bad streets in town will receive their share of this re-conditioning.

"I Don't Care"

The attitude of a very large number of Congressmen on Capitol Hill with reference to the most important legislation concerning our modern times is most extraordinary. Any number of them are willing to admit, "I don't care". They explain themselves by adding: "If that's what President Roosevelt wants, I'm for it."

Such is the measure of what we call "wisdom" in high circles of the Nation.

It is a good thing that the great American public is able to operate under a system that has usually resulted in elevating a man to the Presidency of the United States who is capable of thinking, and caring what the results will be.

Stilling Fears Of Inflation

A very important phase of the President's decision to monetize and stabilize silver, is that it has done much to still the fear that we would have inflation by the printing press route. It will bring more money into circulation, if the economists are right, will provide funds for foreign and domestic commerce—and the money will have something of established and definite value behind it.

Thus, the silver proclamation will serve two ends—it will restore the confidence of a large part of the public in the United States monetary policies, and it will help resurrect one of the greatest and most essential of our industries. Results of the latter are being felt now—in jobs, in buying power, in hopes for the future. And, if the expected happens and other major nations adopt similar measures, a long step toward general world recovery will have been taken.

Taking Facts To The People

One of the gratifying changes that has come about in the past few months has been the got-to-the-public attitude of the government.

The ancient system of trying to keep from the public such bad news as developed, while using the loud pedal in spreading the glad intelligence that might become available occasionally, has undergone a complete and revolutionary change.

It took a congressional committee months and months to get to the bottom of the famous oil scandals, with obstructive tactics being encountered in high quarters from first to last, and it was only after the utmost exertion that the facts became known.

Contrast this situation with the recent charges of corruption in certain administration activities in certain portions of the country. Did the government try to cover up or obstruct? It did not. Even before political enemies had a chance to prepare speeches citing these instances as "horrible examples," the administration itself was conducting the most vigorous exposes and doing it with a vim that carried chills up and down the spines of all evildoers.

The public was told what was going on and what was being done to stop it, and there wasn't any mealy-mouth talk; every word of denunciation was charged with dynamite.

It is a fine thing when public officials realize that the government belongs to the people and that the people have the right to know what is going on, whether the news be good or bad, and this is exactly the view that now obtains at Washington. —Tuscaloosa News.

MORAL ECHOES

A wife returned to her home after burying her husband and a servant met her with this sympathetic remark, "Madam, it must have been mighty hard to leave him out there under the shade of the trees." She replied, "Yes, Mandy, it was hard, but now I will at least know where he is." That husband had spent a large part of his time roving here and there in the paths of sin, and the wife did not know where he was. We all know some husbands today who are like that one—we do not know where they are at night and we will never know until they are under the sods. We will have to bury some of the roving husbands of today before we will know where to find them when night comes on.

I saw two men at work. One was digging a well, while the other was building a brick wall. I observed that while one worked he went down and down, and that while the other one worked that he went up and up. That gave to me a real picture of life. When we begin to dig into this world and devote all of our time and strength in order to get at the heart of a worldly life, we will go down and down. A large per cent of the human race is now digging in the world and living in the ways of the world and they are going down and down. On the other hand there are men and women who are building walls. They are not worldly-minded. They are looking upward and they are building skyward. All the time they are going finer and better in spirit and reaching one height after another. As we spend our strength and energy, much depends on the direction in which it is directed. Dig into the earth and go down, but build a wall of character and go up.

In a community where I lived a young man was riding along one morning and came to a friend by the roadside. He got down out of the saddle, threw the reins over the horse's head and in a careless way tied them about his waist. He and his pal got involved in a playful tussle and frightened the horse. The animal lurched backward causing the young man to lose his balance. His fall frightened the horse the more and he went on a wild race, dragging the young man over rocks, stumps and brush for quite a distance. When the frightened animal stopped the boy was seriously injured. It is an easy matter for our young people to carelessly tie a bad habit about their ways of living. Let me warn you, you never know when these bad habits are going to jerk you flat of your back and go on a wild jaunt and drag you to ruin. Better not tie bad habits about your character, they will throw you, and drag you to ruin.

I saw two young men within the boxing ring and they were going after each other with a vicious rush and punch. Lick after lick went wild, but finally one of them struck the other a solid blow and he went flat of his back on the mat. I thought sure that he was down and out, but in a jiffy he was on his feet and at it again. He could suffer a knock down, but he was up and at it once more. This world is the ring where righteousness and unrighteousness are in a close up battle. The acrobats of the devil often hit the forces of Christ square between the eyes and knock them flat on the mat, but in a jiffy they are on their feet and at it again. The church has never yet suffered a complete knockout. The wet forces may rally their strength and knock the temperance forces flat of their back, but thank God they have never been counted out. Right now we are getting upon our feet to do some of the tallest fighting the world has ever known.

Not many weeks ago a prominent Alabamian walked out before his Sunday school class and asked if a certain notorious bootlegger and foreigner was in the audience. He was told that he was, and then this man calling his name asked that he stand up that he might introduce to that great throng a man who was pariotic enough to close his place of business and come to his Sunday school class on the Sabbath day. Is it ideal patriotism for a man to close up his place of business on the Sabbath for an hour in order that he might gain the applaudits of men? True patriotism will not open business on the Sabbath. God deliver us from hypocritical leaders.

School News

Our school attendance was better this week than last. We had more absent last week than we've had in one week yet. It was on account of the weather.

The 3rd grade geography class is building an Eskimo Land. They are making their sleighs now, and are having great fun.

We have already finished 4th month's test and have our report cards.

Last Friday evening the school, the school children and teacher, went into the woods hunting different kinds of leaves and trees. Everyone enjoyed themselves.

We very much appreciate the wood to those that have brought it, but we still need some more. This is to the parents that haven't brought any.

Most everyone is doing fine in their classes this year. We like to see our teacher smile at us when we try to do what is right. Our teacher is the best teacher in Alabama; always smiling, no matter what happens.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

The students and the faculty of the Chilton County High School extend their sincerest thanks to the officials of Chilton County; the members of the County Board of Education; Luther E. Little, our County Superintendent of Education; and others who helped in making it possible for this school to continue for eight full months. We salute, with pride in our hearts and expressions of appreciation on our lips, those citizens who have saved the school of this county from following the sad fate of hundreds of other schools. Two months ago we passed from class room to class room with the silent fear that we would be deprived of public education in this school after mid-term. Today three hundred boys and girls pass swiftly from class room to class room with the deeply felt joy of continuing to school at public expense. On April 20 the academic work at C.C.H.S. will end and the students of this school will have their full nine months credit. Again, to our county officials, we [illegible] THANK YOU!

When passing the bulletin board one's eyes are drawn to a unique sign, originated and constructed by James "Gabby" Tiffin. It is made of cardboard and is used to advertise the basketball games. Instead of putting up a new sign for every game, one has only to insert the name of the opponent in the space so provided and the sign is ready. Also the time, date, admission, place and whether it will be boys, girls, or both is likewise arranged.

Who am I?——Week before last it was Joe Moore. You had just as well give up on this one. * * * I am a girl. I am in the Senior High. I am small in stature. Slim and have dark brown hair. Always cheerful. Have red pajamas. Popular and have good personality. I think that's enough.

The school has just added a new and modern set of the Americana Encyclopedia to its excellent library. This set of reference books is considered by authorities as one of the best, most authentic and most complete set for high schools and colleges. They cover a great and more varied number of subjects. With this up-to-date addition our library now ranks with the best high school libraries of the state.

Friday morning the students and members of the faculty were profitably entertained for an hour by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carlos and their trained animals. Their show, proving that kindness to animals is the best policy, was composed of intelligent and amusing tricks by superbly trained dogs and monkeys. The admission of one nickel that one paid was insufficient to pay for the lessons that one learned from this splendid performance. This was no cheap act, Mr. Carlos having played before the student bodies of the largest high schools in the country and left with high praises.

HOW

Neon Signs—Neon is a colorless, inactive gas which has the property of glowing with a brilliant fiery red tint when an electric current is passed thru it in a near vacuum. On electric signs, so popular nowadays, the air is removed from the tubes by a pump. If a blue light is desired, a few drops of mercury is inserted in the tube. If a green light is desired a yellow tube is used.

To the members of the basketball teams of C.C.H.S. the writer dedicates this poem.

Your Best In Basketball

Did you miss the goal,
Did the ball bound out,
Tho' you put your soul in the shot?
Did your ears grow hot with jeering shouts
From the so-called sports that were not?
Did you do your best? That's all I care,
No matter if the "tin horns" tear their hair.
For the test of the game is the way you played
And not the number of points you made.
If you kept the code and always were square
Your effort was pleasing to God as a prayer
And victory after all is there, to ever play fair.

—Daniel Chase.

Mack, our faithful janitor, has been in service as janitor here every year this school has been in existence with the exception of two years. For nearly eighteen years he has walked the corridors, swept the floors, fired the furnace, and done other jobs. Mack was janitor here in 1914, the first year of this school. One talking to him may find himself several years back in C.C.H.S. with such prominent men as Omar Reynolds, Dewey Rockett, Dr. Clyde Foshee, Dr. Raymond Calloway and others. Mack can tell several humorous incidents on these men as he witnessed their struggle. Mack loves music; therefore, he said the best year here was when they had music classes and lots of singing. He also got a thrill out of watching the upper classmen initiate the freshmen. He re[illegible] the year of 1916 when a section of the Rainbow Division camped on the school grounds. This year was extremely cold and because of the lack of coal, sawdust was substituted. Mack praised our present principal, Mr. L. C. Warr for his excellent management of the school affairs. Mack likes his work a lot and hopes that he will be allowed to spend the rest of his life at C.C.H.S. with his "children".

The class in democracy taught by Mr. Warr has been using the newspaper as material for information of the history-making money changes now being enacted by the government. Current and practical examples can be studied in this way.

Student Scandal—(These articles are the personal expressions of the writer intended for the interest of the students and do not in any way relate to the school activities.)

A certain Senior Two is getting stuck up over nothing at all, according to reports heard about. * * * The new girl must have lost her charm on a certain Senior Two. Or maybe he was "discarded". That's bad for a boy. * * * "He didn't come to see me, he came to court." Did she mean what you think or did she mean court that was in session last week. Anyway it made her blush and leave. * * * It was some break and how. * * *

The Unholy Three have renewed their voluntary foolishness, as some call it. But I think they're "darn clever." * * * They are picking on a Senior Three now. His name is mentioned in the Who Am I section. * * * They had better watch out because he is clever too. * * * I was asked to inquire why a certain Senior Three always turned his head as he went down to the lab. * * * Oboy! Wouldn't some people give their all to know who this illusive trio is.

The long waited games with Jemison will be played tomorrow night at C. C. H. S. These games will be of the best of the basketball season. RE-ROOF for all time

DON'T take chances with an old roof when it is so easy to have Careystone applied right over it. Made of asbestos and cement formed into shingle-shaped units, these roofs have all the advantages of slate or tile without the heavy weight, high cost and tendency to crack.

Permanent and Fireproof

Careystone is a permanent roof—first cost is last cost. And it is as fireproof as stone.

Roof Beauty

Careystone is made in five attractive colors. And at no extra cost you can have the "Weather-Age" finish—made only by Carey.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

In this letter we are giving you some facts regarding the relation to Alabama Power Company of our holding company, The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation. These facts are presented for the purpose of correcting a current misconception regarding that relationship.

The statement has been made by many aspirants for political office that the holding company, which owns all the Alabama Power Company common stock, is "milking Alabama Power Company at the expense of the public." By this it is intended to convey the impression that The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation drains the Alabama Power Company of revenues received, thereby adding to the Cost of your electric service.

Like many other statements made by those who do not have the facts, this is erroneous. Actually the very opposite is true.

Within the past four years The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation has put more than $20,000,000 into Alabama Power Company to enlarge and improve the system and service and retire certain prior obligations of Alabama Power Company. For this money, the holding company received common stock. The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation already owned the entire common stock interest in Alabama Power Company; therefore these additional common stock investments did not improve the earnings position of the holding company. On the other hand, through this aid from the holding company your service has not only been improved but much has been done to strengthen the security of bond and preferred stockholders, who invested their money in Alabama to help us furnish you with adequate, dependable and low cost electric service.

Yours very truly,

President.

COTTON FARMERS

Here's why you should use Field Tested Fertilizer

A HEAVY yield of good staple cotton is hard to get. It takes hard work, experience, favorable weather, proper soil and the right kind of fertilizer. It means a real investment in money and plenty of worry. Yet all this means nothing if the fertilizer does not get your cotton off to a quick start and early maturity. Play safe. Protect your investment. Trust your cotton crop to Royster's—the fertilizer that has been proven right in the cotton field for half a century.

Remember this: Royster's is made in one quality only—the best. You can pay more or you can pay less, but you cannot buy better fertilizer for growing cotton.

Royster experts are continually studying cotton, learning all there is to know about fertilizing it. They never stop experimenting and improving. They test every fertilizer in the laboratory, and field-test it in the cotton field. Only refined materials are used to make sure that the purest obtainable grades go into Royster sacks. As a result we know that Royster Cotton Fertilizer will give you the results you want.

See your Royster dealer today and let him know how many tons you need.

CHESTNUT CREEK CHURCH SINGING SOCIETY

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon as usual. We had a beautiful day and everybody seemed to be in a singing spirit. We had a splendid class and the house was filled with attentive listeners. Singing was opened with one song by Mr. J. Z. Mims. Prayer by J. E. Thomas. Directors for the afternoon were as follows: Clayton Miller, Raybon Crew, Orvid Hughes, L. J. Crew, J. B. Crew, Dewell Jones, Melton Hughes, L. T. Grant, I. D. Huett, J. Z. Mims, Maston Robinson, Floy Devaughn, Dock Harris. The Frisky Four sang two songs in the new book. Pianists for the afternoon were Rose Mary Pickens, Louanna Jones. Dismissed by J. W. Billingsley.

We were glad to have all the visiting singers, and invite you back any time. We meet only on the 1st Sunday afternoon now. Everybody go to Maple Springs on the third.

I want to say something about the wonderful service we had at Chestnut Creek church Sunday. We had 132 at Sunday school that reported to class, but there were more than that present. Then after that splendid Sunday school, the house began to fill up for our regular preaching service. We had the largest crowd that we have had for some time, and our pastor was making his announcements and getting ready for the preaching hour when, lo, and behold, he just stopped and looked, for in walked Dr. L. E. Barton! And of course he gave him the preaching hour, and he brought a wonderful message, which everybody enjoyed fine. And then we could not close without saying something about the evening service.

After B. Y. P. U. our old, loving former pastor, Rev. J. D. Hughes, closed the Sabbath worship with a God-given message right from his heart. He preached just like he did years ago when he was our faithful pastor. We will always love "Preacher" Hughes for what he has done for Chestnut Creek church. Oh! if we just had more men like Rev. J. D. Hughes, and our faithful pastor, J. W. Jones, what a better world we would have to live in, if the people of Chestnut Creek don't believe that our church is getting better eevry Sunday, especially every first Sunday, just come out and see for yourself.

Get acquainted with our fine Missionary Baptist pastor.

LOUANNA JONES, Secretary.

Vermont Junior High School News

A large number were present at the Junior High social last Friday night. Those present were: J. D. Minor, Howard Donovan, Thurman Milford, Lester Rainwater, Elbert Short, Bill Traywick, Andrew Turner, Henry Smith, William Sansom, Jim Traywick, R. P. Kendrick, Earlo Short, Robert Traywick, Hugh Hayes, T. J. Ratliff, Carson Williams, Willie Clyde Williams, Irene Abbott, Laverne Crane, Francis Lewis, Clara Headley, Frances Kendrick, Gladys Sansom, Lizzie Mae Lewis, Adell Scott, Mary Jo Chandler, Mary Owen, Edna Simms, Lillie Kendrick, Myrtle Lewis, Lucile Kendrick, Ernest Kendrick, James Kendrick, Jude Headley.

A wide variety of games, contests, music, etc., made the evening delightful to the attendants. Hot chocolate and cake were served as refreshments.

Miss Cagle, Miss Manning and Miss Grant motored to Montgomery last Saturday. They report a most pleasant trip.

Listen, folks! Do you like to hear good quartet singing? Do you like to laugh at clever black-face antics Do you like to listen to a real comic Negro sermon? Do you enjoy wise-cracks at your friends' expense? Do you get a kick out of seeing a gang of fun-makers give an exhibition of their wares? If you do, then, by all means don't miss seeing the Liberty Hill Quartet "step on it" next Friday night, February 9, at Vermont Junior High. We have been expecting these entertainers down to give us a program for quite a while, but due to illness of one of their members, they have been forced to withhold their engagement. The admission has been placed at a figure where most anyone who desires good honest-to-goodness entertainment can afford to attend.

Due to absence of two of the class members the Jr. 3 class was unable to organize last week. They will meet and elect their class officers this week.

We are proud to learn that there is a strong possibility of a full school term of seven months. We trust that this will prove a reality, for a grade cannot be completed in a full and well-rounded way in sx months. The textbooks are prepared to give the student seven to nine months actual study in completing the grade; thus you see that any term less than the above means one of two things must be done. Several lessons in the latter part of the course must be omitted or else the student must hastily rush over all the lessons set down, consequently, he or she may not be thorough in the work covered. Let's hope we may get seven months, so we may finish our grade in a real way.

Miss Grant directed a highly interesting little program for chapel last Friday morning. The third grade rendered in a very charming way the little playlet entitled, "Snow White and Rose Red."

The beautiful weather at this writing has greatly increased our attendance.

Under the supervision of Miss Manning, the P.-T. A. ladies are working diligently on a beautiful quilt to be given away soon. The quilt has many beautiful designs, centered around the pattern of a star. By paying five cents anyone can have their names embroidered on the design. By this means several dollars will be raised—then the quilt will be sold, bringing in an additional amount. This too, will be deposited to P.-T. A. funds.

Miss Grant has organized a girls quartet. Several days more of practice and they will be ready to present a real nice program. The quartet is composed of Clara Headley, soprano; Mary Owen, bass; Frances Kendrick, alto; and Gladys Sansom, tenor.

Another little girls quartet, too, has been arranged. They are known as the "Vermont Jr. Booster Band." You would be thrilled to hear these little girls sing their respective parts. This quartet is composed of: Fannie Mae Owen, bass; Myrtice Owen, alto; Mattie Bell White, tenor; L. E. Adams, soprano. We are going to hear both groups sing in the future programs of the school.

Our P.-T. A. met last night.

Electric Cookery
Now More ECONOMICAL
And FASTER Than Ever
FOR years modern homemakers have enjoyed the thrill of Electric Cookery because it gave them more freedom from the kitchen. They liked its clean, cool and healthful qualities. They liked its dependability. And now, thanks to the progress of electrical engineers, Electric Cookery is surprisingly fast and delightfully economical. The secret of this great advancement is a new type of heating coil now made a part of every Westinghouse and General Electric Hotpoint range. Westinghouse calls it the "Quick Cook Unit." Hotpoint calls it the "Calrod." In either case, this new advancement means a substantial saving in electricity, and a great increase in the cooking speed of both ranges. This means Electric Cookery is even more desirable than ever before!

We are having some nice weather here at present.

Mr. G. G. Nabors was in Clanton last Thursday.

Mr. Mack Meeks and wife and Mr. Jack Day and wife were guests at Mr. William Holcombe's last Sunday.

Mrs. Herbert D. Williams spent the week end with her husband at Thorsby

Brother A. B. Canant of Wilton will fill his regular appointment here next Sunday at 3 p.m.

Miss Frances Lucas, Master Grady Lucas, Master Johnny Jones, Master Curtis Anderson, Master Jesse Smith were guests at Mr. G. G. Nabors' Sunday.

We are glad to state we have a good Sunday school here. We had a good subject, "Putting God's Kingdom First." It teaches us to worship one Master only. By refusing to treasure earthly things, setting our hearts on heavenly treasures, keeping hearts pure, avoiding evil doing, serving God only, avoiding worldly cares, and seeking first the Kingdom of God. A good lesson. We should all practice in our daily walks of life.

The Liberty Hill Quartet, a popular group of real entertainers, will present their program at Vermont Jr. High School, next Friday night, (tomorrow) February 9, at 7:30 p.m.

This alone is worth twice the admission. This group of young men are all from Liberty Hill community and do they harmonize in their singing. Just come out and listen to them, (if you can quit laughing long enough), and you will go home saying that this program was without question worth several times more than the actual admission. Remember, that our auditorium will seat only a limited number, and if you expect to enjoy the program you will have to come early to get a desirable place.

Admission wil lbe 5c for all school children, and 15c for adults. Proceeds go to P.-T. A. fund for school equipment.

HOME OF J.R. BLOW DESTROYED BY FIRE LAST WEDNESDAY

J. R. Blow, one of the county's prominent citizens and progressive farmers, had the misfortune of losing his home Wednesday of last week when it was destroyed by fire.

Mr. Blow had recently built this attractive little home, which was located between Clanton and Thorsby, and was putting finishing touches on it. The fire occurred about eight-thirty o'clock Wednesday morning and Mr. Blow stated he believed it caught from a brooder in which there were several hundred chicks, and which was in one of the rooms. All the household furnishings were also destroyed. The many friends of Mr. Blow regret to hear of this misfortune.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our heart felt appreciation to the physicians and nurses who so gently and untiringly administered to our dear wife and mother in her last illness. We would, also, thank our neighbors and friends who were so kind and attentive to her. We appreciate very much the many tokens of love and friendship expressed in the floral offerings. And too do we appreciate the splendid services rendered by our funeral director, J. Mell Martin & Sons. May God bless each and every one of you who in various ways, offered a helping hand in our grief-stricken hour —Signed: Pope Payne and Children.

OPTION CHECKS

staple, according to County Agent J. W. Fant.

With that spirit of co-operation which brought commendation to the farmers of Chilton County in the campaign last summer to take out of production more than 13,000 acres, the farmers have shown a keen desire to follow the leader in the 1934 production control program, Mr. Fant stated.

Through this rent program, approximately $162,400 will be poured into Chilton County in payments, which are to be made in March, April, August and September. The $200,000 mark has almost been reached in the 1933 campaign: Approximately $150,000 were paid farmers of this county in outright payments during last Summer's drive; and option checks amounting to about $50,000 are being delivered by Mr. Fant's office this week.

The following letter is being mailed by Mr. Fant this week, announcing the arrival of checks:

Dear Cotton Farmer:

Your check for the 4c on your cotton option has arrived. We shall deliver checks at the places named below on the days designated

County Agent's office, Clanton, Feb. 8th, 10th, 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Bank of Maplesville, Feb. 9th, 9:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.

Call at the place nearest to you for your check. Bring the receipt you received when you pooled your option.

R. W. Lowe Says He Is Offering Bargains

"If the people don't believe I am offering them some real worthwhile bargains these days, just read my ad in the paper this week," said R. W. Lowe, prominent merchant of South Clanton. "And if they don't believe that ad, just tell them to come down to South Clanton and see for themselves."

A study of the advertisement from Mr. Lowe in the News this week should convince anyone that he and his fine corps of clerks are ready to sell them most anything from a baby's shoe to a good sized mule, and there are a lot of things between those two items.

than one hundred dollars in the whole county. At a meeting of the county Red Cross committee some days ago, I was asked to assume the Chairmanship of the Roll Call. As a matter of duty I have accepted the task and have set up in each community a chairman who is to select a local committee to see the people from February 10th through the 17th, and solicit memberships. I am taking this opportunity to appeal to our citizenship to give a whole-hearted support to this good work. There are many reasons we should do this, but I mention two that appeal to me strongly.

"In the first place we should support this good cause for the great and good work the Red Cross does in caring for the suffering and needy all over this land. This work can not go on without the support of the people.

"In the second place, as a matter of county-wide gratitude upon our part for what the Red Cross did for our storm victims two years ago. Surely we have not so soon forgotten the great and generous help given to our needy. It is hard to see how many in our county could have gotten along without this help. Surely our gratitude should cause every man and woman who is able to give one dollar for a membership. If we are to get anywhere near our quota of 500, we must rally to this drive in a big way. We ought to do this. We will do it. Give us your help."

First Aid Training School In County Soon

Cooperating with the CWA safety council, the American Red Cross will conduct a five-day training school in Chilton County for the purpose of training persons to administer first aid treatment. The course will be given in Clanton under the supervision of local physicians, according to an announcement made this week.

Following the completion of the course, base first aid stations will be set up at Clanton, Verbena, Jemison, and Maplesville and a local first aid man will cooperate with the CWA first aid department in treating minor injuries and giving first aid to more serious injuries suffered in the communities near the base station.

Preparations are being made to give instruction to thirty-five persons in the county, equipping them to administer first aid in all emergencies, whether in connection with the CWA work or otherwise. The school is to begin Tuesday, February 13.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the Rev. R. P. Cochran in Clanton at six o'clock with several friends of the bride and groom present. The bride was dressed in a gray ensemble.

Following the ceremony, the couple motored to Alexander City for a brief visit with the bride's mother, Mrs. Jennie Rush.

Mr. Wagoner is one of Clanton's popular young men, known to his many friends as "Red". Mrs. Wagoner has made her home in Clanton for several months and has made many friends here. The couple will make their home in Clanton.

Time Extended For Signing Contracts

The time for signing cotton acreage reduction contracts has been extended through February 15th.

New administrative rulings give the farmer a chance to sign a contract even though his average yield for the base period, 1928-32, is as low as 75 pounds of lint cotton per acre. Another ruling permits a farmer who has less than an average of five acres for the base period to sign a contract and receive rental benefits and parity payment based on his average production.

People who failed to sign wheat reduction contracts in the wheat belt during the campaign are now requesting Washington to give them another chance. Farmers who have failed to sign cotton acreage reduction contracts should take advantage of the extension of time and sign. They might be requesting another chance later on.

Letters To The Editor

FROM A 100 PER CENT ROOSEVELT BOOSTER

Route 1, Jemison, Ala.
Editor, Chilton County News:

As I haven't bothered you much lately, would like to beg for a little space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to Chilton County's possible politics.

I was over in Jemison Saturday and believe me, most everybody was talking politics. Sure, there were a lot of candidates mixing with the voters. I believe this is going to be one of the most interesting campaigns that has ever been held in Chilton County. A good old Republican brother told me they were putting out the best they have this time. Well, I didn't say anything but, it looks pretty much like they are putting out about all they have.

Mr. Editor, have you heard of any great issue? I haven't. Well, some of the boys are in and want to stay while others are out and want to get in. I might be running but you see I bolted the good old Republican party in 1928 and haven't been with the Democratic party long enough so, just my hard luck.

Mr. Editor, what do you think about this: A fellow told me the other day, and he has been going about over the county, that there are five parties in this county. He says there are two parties in the Democratic party, two in he Republican party, and one independent party. Then there are a lot of middle-aged ex-Republican that will have to be placed some where. I can't quite figure all this out.

Now, readers, allowing everyone to be his or her own boss, and I don't mind telling you, here is what I'm going to do in this matter. I'm going into the Democratic primary and try to pick a good man for governor, circuit judge, probate judge, and above all a good, experienced man for sheriff. I also want a good senator and representative. I am not so much interested in the others.

Mr. Editor, speaking of so many parties in our county, will say, that I am a strong believer in consolidation if possible, with all things. Now, after all the primaries are over, some party or parties will be forced to consolidate with some other party. This is bound to play a big part in the general election. Many of you no doubt know more about this than I, and I am not writing this to cause you to read, but as Arthur Brisbane says, "to cause you to think." I will close ,as I realize a fellow can show his ignorance quick on paper. But, if anyone happens to ask you, tell them that I am a one hundred per cent Rooseveltian.

Yours very truly,
S. Y. DORMINEY.

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

Never in history has civilization owed so great a debt of allegiance and gratitude to one man, as the people of today owe President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Again last week, he demonstrated that he is a man of action, when all the air mail contracts were cancelled as a result of "shady transactions" uncovered in the Senate investigation headed by our own Hugo Black.

Instead of dilly-dallying about with a long drawn out investigation, like the Tea Pot Dome instance, which would have resulted in covering up more than was uncovered, the President exhibited that characteristic of "doing things", which has won him the admiration of almost every citizen in the United States.

Seems that Congressman "Buck" Oliver is going to have a little competition this time. Over in his home town, Tuscaloosa, Thomas H. Maxwell, planter, has officially announced himself as a candidate, but the veteran statesman will be rather had to unseat, is the opinion of Oliver supporters.

Congressman Oliver has been one of the President's right hand men in putting into effect his gigantic recovery program, which is another reason that Maxwell will find hard sailing.

Charlie Cox is a candidate for the Legislature. After being mentioned for almost every office in the county, he announces that he has definitely decided to make the race for Representative, opposing Rep. Percy M. Pitts, who has announced for re-election. The memory in the minds of the people of the last famous sessions won't be any great advantage to members of the Legislature seeking re-election.

Chilton County should poll about the largest vote in its history in the coming elections. Approximately 2,700 persons paid poll tax, amounting to more than $8,000, according to figures from W. G. Culp. Paying anywhere from one to twenty-four years, the collector's office had the appearance of the reception end of a soup line for several days. It is estimated that there are approximately 1,500 persons over-age and exempt, who will vote in this election, bringing the total voting capacity of the county to above 4,000.

Above the roaring of the wind and the beating of the rain, the siren's screams, mingling with the echoes of the injured and bereft, intensified that feeling of awe and desolation experienced in Chilton County little less than two years ago, Had it not been for the forty-odd thousand dollars expended by the American Red Cross, the northern section of Chilton County would likely still, resemble the war-swept areas of Europe.

But how quickly people forget! In a recent drive for memberships in this county less than a hundred dollars was raised for that noble organization, a poor token of our appreciation for rescue. Another drive is being staged, giving the people an opportunity to redeem themselves, and to aid others when the winds blow and the floods come.

URGE FARMERS TO TURN BACK TO FARMS TO RELIEVE UNEMPLOYM'T

Re-employment Service Manager Asks County Agent To Cooperate In Showing Importance Of "Back To Farm" Movement In County

Striving to place as many unemployed as possible in places of permanent employment, Cecil G. Stokes, manager of the Chilton County Re-Employment offices, in a letter to County Agent J. W. Fant, this week, asks his cooperation in urging farmers employed by the CWA and other governmental work programs to at least make arrangements to produce necessary food products.

Declaring that all governmental work programs were conceived with the idea of priming industry—and lack permanency, Mr. Stokes has begun a canvass of private employers, in an effort to place as many persons in the county in permanent capacities as is possible. Since Chilton County is primarily an agricultural county, with very few industries, the majority of its population will eventually have to revert to the farm for a livlihood, he said.

During last week, a corps of workers were successful in securing positions for several unemployed in various capacities in the county; and Mr. Stokes solicits the cooperation of all potential employers in placing Chilton County's employed in other than governmental capacities.

Commenting on Mr. Stokes' letter, Mr. Fant declared that he will gladly cooperate in any possible way to induce persons likely to become relief charges to take advantage of the opportunities offered on the farm to produce a livlihood, but he stated that persons contemplating farming this year should bear in mind the efforts being made to reduce the production of cotton and plan to raise products that may be consumed in the home.

Chilton County has many more skilled workmen than most rural counties, because of the training received during the installation of hydro-electric de-

Annual Rabbit Hunt Near Pletcher, Ala.

February 22 isn't Easter—but out in the Pletcher community, scores of persons will be hunting bunnies that day; and the bunnies will be hunting hiding places.

For it is the day of "the annual rabbit hunt" in that community. The game is played something like this: Every man and boy for miles around, with their dogs, congregate, and with only sticks for weapons, launch forth to kill, or capture Brer Rabbit—and they are usually successful, we understand. On one such hunt a few years ago, more than three hundred rabbits were killed.

The Knights of the Sage Field will meet at the Antioch church, two and one-half miles north of Pletcher, according to Mr. C. W. White of that community, to begin the hunt.

CHILTON GETS NEW DIRECTOR FOR CWA WORK

Armistead Leake Succeeds McCrossin As Head Of Projects Here

Armistead Leake, former Birmingham civil engineer, has been appointed county director of CWA work in Chilton County, succeeding E. J. McCrossin, who recently tendered his resignation to resume a former position with the Alabama Fuel and Iron Company, of Birmingham.

Mr. Leake comes to Chilton County from Hale County, where he has been actively connected with CWA administration in that county in the capacity of county engineer.

Declaring that Chilton County has one of the most efficient systems of any county in the State, Mr. Leake said that it will be his policy to follow the outlined program in the administration of work in this county, wherever it is possible. The system was perfected under the administration of R. L. Pittman, who was recently promoted to the position of field director for the northern division of the State. Mr. McCrossin was in Chilton County only a brief time before his re-appointment with the Birmingham firm caused his resignation.

In discussing the re-apportionment of CWA funds to Alabama, which will result in Chilton County's quota being placed at 1,050 for State, Federal, and local projects, the new director stated that the policy of his office will be to retain workers, whose need is the greater, whenever their capability permits. The program in the county will continue on two fifteen-hour shifts, he said.

MEETING OF TEACHERS CALLED TO DISCUSS FULL TERM PLANS

Two Injured In Collision Saturday P.M.

Two persons suffered severe injuries last Saturday afternoon when the car in which they were riding collided with another car on the paved highway about three miles north of Clanton.

Theye were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Touncey, of Montgomery. Mr. Touncey suffered a slight concussion and Mrs. Touncey suffered severe bruises and nervous shock. The accident occurred when the car in which they were enroute to Birmingham collided with that of Ralph Searcey, also of Montgomery. Ice on the pavement was said to be responsible for the accident.

The victims were taken to the Central Alabama Hospital, but were later transferred to a Montgomery hospital. Mr. Searcey suffered a slight injury to his left arm.

Although Chilton County experienced some of the coldest weather in years, and perhaps at no time in the past decade has there been so much ice, only a few minor accidents have been reported.

Commander Abramson is desirous of making this Washington birthday party the most successful in the history of the Department of Alabama. For a number of years the Department has championed these simultaneous pep meetings as an incentive to bring in new and old members. The mandate of the Commander to the post commanders and adjutants is this: "Get your membership teams to work and have your quota by February 22."

Tuskegee Quartette To Sing Here Soon

The Tuskegee Institute Quartette will appear in Clanton on next Thursday night, February 22nd, at eight o'clock at the Union Baptist (colored) church.

This group of colored singers appeared in Clanton recently and their program was enjoyed by a large audience. Their appearance in Clanton at the colored Baptist church next Thursday night is in the interest of Chilton County Training School building program, according to Benjamin Anderson, vocational teacher at the training school.

"There will be special reservations made for our white friends," Benjamin stated, "and we want them to hear these singers and help us in our building program." Admisison will be 15 and 25 cents.

Supt. Little Striving To Push Program; Feels Very Optimistic Now

SEVEN - NINE MONTHS TERMS SEEM ASSURED

The citizenship of Chilton County again has reason to be grateful to its Democratic Administration. Through the efforts and vision of this administration, Chilton County's schools will perhaps be enabled to continue for full length terms of seven and nine months according to a statement from Supt. Luther E. Little

Tuesday morning, following a conference with officials of the State Department of Education in regard to the possibility of Chilton County securing sufficient funds from the recent Federal appropriation for schools to permit regular seven and nine months terms, Mr. Little expressed optimism that the county's school system is about to regain a normal standard

Stating that he was given verbal assurance by officials in Montgomery that Chilton County will share in the appropriation, and was advised to make preparations for full length terms, Supt Little is formulating plans for a teachers' meeting to be held Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Chilton County High School, Clanton, for the purpose of discussing probable cotninuance of schools for full length terms.

Support Fire Boys In Their Games

The boys who compose the Clanton Volunteer Fire Department have been giving some splendid exhibitions of basketball playing during the past few weeks.

New and flashy uniforms add to the flashy work of these players and they have been bringing victory after victory to Clanton. There is one thing lacking just a little and that is the shortage in attendance from the people of Clanton.

The fire boys are a fine bunch of fellows and deserve the support of the people of Clanton. Watch for the date of their next game and attend. They need your help, your presence and spirit.

CIVIL WORKS ADMINISTRATION FUNCTIONS EXPLAINED HERE

Article Released To The News Shows Functions Of Various Departments Of Program For Recovery Outlined By Government

The General Recovery Program has numerous departments carrying on distinct functions all over the country. In every county in Alabama there are operating at least three divisions of the General Recovery Program. These three divisions function separately.

Civil Works Administration

A Civil Works Administration Office has been set up in each county with the following personnel:

A County Civil Works Director (a qualified out-of-county man)

An Engineer, working with the Director.

A Disbursing Officer.

There are also several clerical assistants in the Civil Works Administration Offices.

The Civil Works Administration program in the county is headed up by the Civil Works Administration Board. This Board also serves as the official Advisory Board for the relief program in the county. Although the same group of people is serving in two capacities their duties in these two capacities are separate and distinct. When they sit as a Civil Works Administration Board they have no responsibility toward the relief program and do not act upon matters pertaining to the relief office.

All Civil Works Administration projects originate with the public body concerned, and the county Civil Works Director will advise them, if requested, to get these projects in proper shape to present to the C.W.A. Board. The C.W.A. Board will then pass on these projects and send to the State Civil Works Administration office in Montgomery. If these projects are approved in Montgomery they are returned to the County Director as approved.

The Civil Works Director requisitioned the first half of the county's quota from the Relief Office. As soon

Laugh This Off

The Quinquennial Report of the Bureau of the Census of Electrical Industries for 1932 is out. It's a rather embarrassing document to whooperups for municipal ownership.

Like all government reports, it is terse, casual and it sticks to the facts. It doesn't deal with theory—it doesn't favor either side of the argument. It simply tells what happened. And the facts, in this case, speak volumes.

In 1932 there were 1802 municipal plants in the country, and 1627 private plants. The municipal plants charged an average of 3.1 cents per kilowatt hour for all power sold by them. The private companies charged 2.7 cents.

Between 1927 and 1932 the rates of private utilities were reduced 19 per cent. The rates of municipal plants were reduced 14.5 per cent.

Municipal plants, according to the report, have done little in developing farm service. The vast majority of rural electrification projects have been carried on and developed by private utilities.

Municipal plants, in 1932, charged an average of 5.6 cents per kilowatt hour for farm service. Private plants charged 2.8 cents—almost exactly the same rate as their average for all types of consumers.

And to all this it should be added that the private utility pays out about 17 per cent of gross revenues for taxes—and municipal plants pay nothing at all.

These are cold, hard relentless facts that every citizen should know. They require no comment. It is going to be interesting to watch the enemies of private enterprise and private investment attempt to laugh them off.

The World In A Light Globe

When you switch on an electric lamp, you're using materials that came originally from almost every country in the world. In that little globe that cost you 20 or 30 cents, there's antimony from Mexico, thoria from Brazil, niter and silica from Chile, cobalt and nickel from New Caledonia, bismuth from Australia, tin from the Malay Peninsula, manganese from India, potash from Russia, sodium carbonate from East Africa, arsenic from Greenland—and so it goes down a long similar list of items.

As has been said, the electric lamp is literally the light of the world.

Glass And The Administration

Many persons wonder at the opposition to financial changes that arises within the breast of Senator Carter Glass, the lone Democrat who opposed the gold policies of the president, and there also are many who criticise his course, but familiarity with his record goes far to explain that which occasions surprise.

Under the administration of President Wilson, Carter Glass was one of the chief forces behind the creation of the federal reserve system; a system that was designed to take the financial resources of the nation out of the hands of Wall Street and place them at the disposal of commerce and agriculture.

The idea was to pool the national financial resources in a dozen convenient national centers, where funds would always be at the service of the business man and the farmer, rather than at the service of the speculators in Wall Street.

[illegible]ion of this system properly was hailed as one [illegible]st forward steps financially and economically [illegible] fiscal history of the nation. Wi'son was sold [illegible] Glass was sold on it, and the nation was sold on [illegible] properly [illegible]

[illegible]hat Wilson did not foresee and what Glass did [illegible] was the capture of the system by the very [illegible]t had been erected to defeat. Yet Glass lived to [illegible] time when the vast resources of the federal re[illegible]ystem were placed at the disposal of Wall Street during th frenzied days of speculative gambling that attained the climax in the crash of 1929.

Instead of serving the interests of commerce and agriculture, the system served the gamblers and throttled commerce and industry, this being done by advancing rates to a point so high that only gamblers could afford to pay them. This, in actuality, was the beginning of the depression.

Glass, as has been said, was sold upon the federal reserve system; he believed it capable of accomplishing exactly what was intended, and though he lived to see it debauched—and admits the debauchery—he still believes it is capable of accomplishing all that was intended if properly directed.

In brief, Glass stands exactly where he stood in the days of Wilson. Times have changed but he has not. Moreover, though he is unalterable in conviction and acidulous in manner, he is honest and has proved himself a capable statesman and able legislator on numerous occasions. He did a good job in the federal reserve matter and if thereafter the expansion of his horizon ceased to approximate the expansion of the horizon of colossal and menacing events, it should not dim the glory of earlier accomplishment.

He thinks in terms of the Wilson administration—an administration that also had its moments of glory and unforgetable accomplishment—and his inability to think in the terms of the Roosevelt administration is to be regretted but it offers no novely. Fixity of opinion may be a curse at times, but it is something beyond the power of the individual to change. — Tuscaloosa News.

The country needs honest, well-reasoned opinion—not blind idolatry or partisan ranting on either side.—Industrial News Review.

Some Things To Think About

Shall the voters of Chilton County band together and see that the Democratic ticket is given their wholehearted approval in the coming elections?

That question, simple sounding enough, has more weight than it appears being merely asked and in print. In the first place, Chilton County has supported successfully, a Republican ticket almost straightout for almost thirty years. There's nothing especially wrong with that, however. The only exceptions being when a Democratic superintendent of education was elected recently, and the time when President Roosevelt, a Democrat, received the majority of votes over Hoover, a Republican, in this county. And goodness knows, there is not one person in the county who can truthfully say they regret having voted for a Democrat in either of these instances. Both Roosevelt and our Superintendent of Education have shown themselves to be real men striving for the good of every man and woman, regardless of color, religion or politics.

Speaking of politics, has it not been clearly shown to you people of Chilton County that the Democratic party does not draw any lines when it comes to giving relief to suffering humanity, doing good constructive work and giving men and women jobs? Did it make any difference to the Democrats that Chilton County is known as a Republican county, when the Democrats were pouring thousands and thousands of dollars into this county for work and relief? And aren't the Democrats still pouring this money into this county to give this work?

And aren't the Republicans of this county gladly accepting this money and the jobs it is creating, knowing that Democrats are behind the plan?

Aren't the Republicans and Democrats of this county sharing alike in this work? Are not our Republican officials tickled that they are able to give this work, even though they accepted the money from the Democrats? And who wouldn't be glad to do it.

And what merchant or business man will deny that the program of the Democratic administration has not meant more dollars in his pocket, making it easier to meet his obligations? All since Democrats took over the reins of our government.

It will possibly be said, and we have heard it said, that the Democrats put this county in debt.

But those people who say that do not tell you how long ago that had been. They do not tell you that back in those years the Alabama Power Company was not paying that tremendous amount of money into our county treasury for taxes as they are now doing with their two big plants here. They do not tell you that a Democratic Probate Judge offered that great company a ten-year exemption from taxes if they would build that first big plant in the county. And it was built, later on to pour thousands of dollars into our county treasury so that our officials could spend it and use it to pay off an indebtedness made by Democrats who were trying to bring to this county something worthwhile.

The people who will tell you that the Democrats put this county in debt 24 years ago, do not remind you of the terrible roads you had to travel over and that a certain Democratic Probate Judge spent a good sum to give this county a decent road on which people could travel.

They do not tell you that the tax valuation of this county is now many times the amount it was back in those days when there was a depression and you had no one to give you or your neighbor a job.

Why don't they tell you these things? Of course, that is a foolish question for a Democrat to be asking.

But, they are things you should know. They are things your children should know. Has it ever occurred to you to wonder how much money per year was paid into this county as taxes 25 years ago, and the amount that is being paid into this county now? Is it any wonder that a county which is receiving approximately a quarter of a million dollars yearly in taxes, can pay its bills, build roads and bridges?

And we might add in conclusion that if anyone wishes to reply to this editorial, we ask them to stay on the subject and reply to each question and paragraph, and not get excited and say we are not giving credit where credit is due. These are just some of the thoughts that should be remembered by the older people of this county.

American Highways A Shambles

A recent release of the National Safety Council points out that laws to control pedestrians on streets and highways may be necessary, unless walkers themselves take steps to eliminate the pedestrian hazard.

In an average year, about one half of all automobile deaths are suffered by pedestrians. And, contrary to the general belief, the pedestrian is not an innocent bystander run down by a Machiavellian motorist. He is, in a great number of cases where death or serious injury results, solely to blame.

Larger cities, for the most part, have laws against jaywalking—the practice of crossing streets against the signal bells or lights. Smaller towns may be called upon to pass similar legislation—pedestrian carelessness isn't limited to the metropolitan centers. Again, thousands of accidents are caused by pedestrians walking on the right on highways and roads, where they can't see cars coming up behind them. It is being urged that this offense be made punishable by a fine, precisely as fines are levied against an automobile operator guilty of driving on the wrong side of the road.

There is great need for unremitting, concentrated educational work against automobile accidents, modernization of driving laws, and law enforcement. The American highway is a shambles—over 30,000 killed in 1933—where the reckless, the incompetent and the careless menace the lives and property of us all.

The Home Orchard

Right now is the best time to plant a home orchard. It could have been done a month ago, and should have been done many years ago. Young trees are too cheap, and fruit is important to the farm family as a necessary item of diet. Fruit can be classed as a luxury, but it is the most inexpensive luxury possible.

If the few nickels to buy trees are lacking it is possible to get free cuttings of a number of fruits from a neighbor. The common wild plum makes a delicious fruit, which makes excellent jelly, if given a little attention, and room to develop. Seedling trees are available, and make good crops if properly cared for, and anyone can get seed to plant without any cost.

In other words, some kind of a home orchard is possible without a cent of cost, and a fine orchard can be had for very little. There's no excuse at all for a farmer to have absolutely no fruit trees. And to do without an orchard is a reflection on the farmer.

Of course there is much expense attached to a commercial orchard, but a home orchard can be maintained without expense. —Greenville Advocate.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I saw a lad walking, holding the hand of a blind man and singing in a spirit of real joy. The blind man was unkempt in his person, his garments were ragged and dirty, but the little boy loved the one who was blind. He was happy at his task, not because of what the blind man could do for him, but because of what he could do for the blind man and because he loved him. He filled his place by the side of the one whom he loved and for no other reason. Love bound the two together. When we are serving each other we should not serve because we expect something in return, but because we love. It matters not about the appearance of the other fellow, if we help him because we love the service is well pleasing in the sight of God.

We were sitting at the breakfast table when a girl of eight years of age came in and took her place. On her face was an expression of disgust. She wore a frown and every moment it seemed that she would break out in a snarl. Finally her mother said, "Annette, what on earth is the matter with you? Your face is a fright." Then she did snarl, "What if it is, it is my face and it is nobody's business." Then her mother replied, "That is wherein you are wrong, your face does not belong to you. Other people have to look at it and not you, and you have no right to present such a frown and snarl as you have on your face for us to see." When you get up in the morning do not forget that your face belongs to those who see you. No one has any more right to present a sour, crabbed, snarling face to other people, than a robber has to shove a gun into the ribs of one whom he expects to rob. Your face does not belong to you, therefore, cover it over with beauty and with a smile. Do not rob other people's joy with your frowns.

The house wife ordered the preacher to hang some pictures on the wall. Having no step ladder it was necessary to build an elevation so that I could drive the nail. A table was placed, a chair set on top of the table, and a box placed in the chair. I went up with fear and trembling. I tapped the nail with uncertainty when the voice from below said, "Why don't you hit it with a brave lick or two and the job will be over." Then I looked down at her and said, "How can a fellow hit this nail with a brave lick or two while standing on a foundation like this?" It has occurred to me that many preachers in the pulpit are in a like condition. They have climbed up to a great height and they are timidly hammering on sin. They have but little, experience themselves and they can not strike hard. Of them it can be said, "How can a fellow strike sin with a brave lick or two when he is standing on a foundation like this?" The reason why some preachers hammer sin with a firmer blow than others is because of the foundation on which they stand. Blessed is the preacher who is standing on the foundation,—Christ Jesus.

A Naturalist discovered many snake eggs and sent them to his friend. The friend was proud of his curios and placed them in his dresser drawer. A few days later he carried a friend of his to see his snake eggs. On pulling out the drawer he was horrified as he saw dozens of little snakes as they went scurrying about over his dressing apparel. In like manner you can receive bad thoughts from those whom you call your friends, you can store them up in your brain and some day you will awake to the fact that the bad thoughts have hatched into reptiles in your own brain. My advice is that you accept no snake eggs as gifts from anyone.

Near Birmingham a traveler saw a herd of mules in an open lot and he asked the keeper why he had so many mules in one place. He was told that the mules worked in a mine nearby all during the week, and that as they never saw the sun, or anything but artificial light, it was necessary that they be brought up on Sunday and placed in the open to keep them from going blind. What a lesson for us on the question of church going. When you are buried all the week in the business of this world, you need to come up and away from the world by going to church on Sunday to keep you from losing your spiritual eyesight. Refusing to attend church and you go blind.

RADIO NAVIGATION

While radio has been employed as an aid to navigation of both ships and aircraft for several years, by means of radio beacons of various types, the use of this mysterious force is destined to play an ever increasing part in directing these crafts safely along their courses.

An engineer recently detailed a method whereby what may be described as an electric track may be laid for both ships and aircraft to follow.

This "track" consists of a cable carrying a high frequency current, which induces a similar frequency in a coil carried by steamer or airplane. When the craft is on its course, which is directly over the cable, the helmsman hears a buzzing signal, which dies out if he gets off the "track."

These cables may be laid down in the middle of a harbor channel for the guidance of ships, or strung on poles like a telegraph line from city to city for the direction of airplanes and dirigibles. Dangers from rain, snow or fog, the terrors of the navigator by sea or air, would thus be practically eliminated.

As a large percentage of accidents to both ships and airplanes are due to these dangers, the great value of the device described may be readily appreciated.

Letters To The Editor

CANDIDATES AND PROHIBITION

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please permit me to say a few words to the voters through your valuable paper? First, I want to say, are we going to let our candidates dodge the prohibition issue, especially those for State Senate and for Representative. Are we willing to elect candidates to carry out our President's policy. If we are, let's nominate such candidates in for it one hundred per cent. I believe that Roosevelt is a God-chosen man, and we must back him up if we expect the blessings he has for us. He said the day he was nominated, from this day prohibition is doomed. He could see with an eye of faith this unjust law doomed.

Well, some people object to proving things by the Bible. I'm glad that I yet have this privilege. I'm like David. He says, I delight in the law of the Lord; He is my salvation and Him only will I trust. I use the Bible for my battle axe and as a sword of deefnse.

We are commanded to search the scriptures for in them ye think ye have eternal life, for they are they that testify of Jesus; so to read these testimonies it gives us evidence or proof that we have eternal life. So in searching these scriptures I ran up on one prohibition man.

His name is Jonadab. You will find him recorded in the 35th chapter of Jeremiah. The second verse says: Go unto the house of the Rechabites and speak unto them and bring them into the house of the Lord, into one of the chambers and give them wine to drink. Fourth verse, and I brought them into the house of the Lord into the chamber of the sons of Hanan, the son of Igdaliah, a man of God, which was by the chamber of the princes, which was above the chamber of Maaseiah, the son of Shallam, the keeper of the door. Fifth verse, and I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites pots and cups full of wine, and I said unto them, drink ye wine. Sixth verse, but they said, we will drink no wine; for Jonadab, the son of Rechab, our father, commanded us, saying, ye shall drink no wine, neither ye nor your sons forever. Eight verse, thus have we obeyed the voice of Jonadab, the son of Rechab, our father, in all that he hath charged us, to drink no wine all our days; we, our wives, our sons, nor our daughters.

So, I think we have a lot of Jonadabs who prefer to serve Jonadab in preference to God; also like to see the law make game out of the little fellows and to break up their homes. How in the name of common horse sense, can such class escape the damnation of hell. It would be bad enough to put a penalty on a man if he gets drunk. I would hate to have such thing to do even if I had the authority. It's bad for people to get drunk, but its really as bad to commit adultery. I guess the next move these Jonadabs will make will be to separate the female from the male for fear someone will commit adultery. This would give fine sport and open up a large field for larger game.

Yours for a change, especially in the prohibition law.

Respectfully,
J. H. JACKSON.

She was kind, unselfish, smiling and gay.

Calf Club Meeting

The Chilton County Calf Club held a meeting at the court house in Clanton on Monday, February 12. The purpose of this meeting was to decide on definite terms for the upkeep of the Club bull presented to us by Mr. Stapp, former county agent, upon his leaving for Dothan to accept the county agency of Houston County. This gift was appreciated highly by all the members of the club and to show our gratitude to Mr. Stapp we are going to make this bull a prize winner. It was decided that the bull will remain at the home of Ralph Mims of the Isabelal community where the club will in thé near future build a strong pen to keep him in.

This was the first meeting held by the club since Mr. Fant came as county agent to succeed Mr. Stapp. Mr. Fant made a fine appearance before the boys and we wish him to know that we are going to cooperate and work with him to make this county an outstanding one in this state.

Osmond Glenn acted as secretary pro tem in the place of Clyde Popwell, deceased.

As no further business presented itself the meeting adjourned until another is called.

Vermont Junior High School News

The Jr. 3 Class organized last Wednesday. The following were elected to serve in their respective capacities: Mary Jo Chandler, President; Edna Simms, Valedictorian; Mary Owen, Historian; T. J. Ratliff, Class Prophet.

The Liberty Hill Quartet was scheduled to present a program on last Friday night, but due to the sudden disagreeable weather, three of their members failed to get here, thus we were forced to set the program up two weeks which will be on Friday evening, February 23. Quite a large number braved the raw weather on last Friday night, only to be disappointed, but we hope you will not feel too critical towards those who were sponsoring the program. The weather conditions just simply beset us in our plans. Those who paid admission were given credit scripts and upon presentation of them on the night of the program they will be admitted without furher charges. The members of he quartet send their regrets for this disappointing situation and their assurance that with hopes for a better weather condiion they will be with us one week from tomorrow night, February 23. Don't miss hearing these young men sing. They are really good.

Our P.-T. A. met last Wednesday week, in its regular business meeting. Twenty-three were present which was rather a small number, but the weather being very unfavorable, probably accounts for it. Mrs. Claude C. Klinner made a very appealing and interesting talk on "Conditions Leading to a Child's Failure in School Work." Some of the high points of her talk were: Irregular attendance, parents' failure to encourage child when a low grade is reported, indifferent attitude of child towards his studies, improper classification, failure of parent to provide books and necessary supplies, some physical defect which has not been remedied, lack of home study.

School was dismissed at 2:30 last Friday in order for those who wished to to attend the funeral service of Mrs. Minnie Goff, who was buried at Sardis cemetery.

We are glad to know that our good friend and loyal trustee, Mr. George W. Sansom, is improving. He has been confined indoors the past several days with an attack of cold and grippe. We have been missing him around the school building, dropping into every room, and assisting in various ways to make the school work move along more smoothly. We hope to see him back soon.

The pig which was presented to the school in October by Mr. Frank Giles, has now grown to a nice, marketable size. He is fat and in fine condition and will be offered for sale next week at current prices. Anyone desirous of buying, watch the county papers for an adv. to that effect.

We wonder why the other Junior High Schools do not send in Weekly News items to the county papers, reporting their progress in various school activities. We would like to know how other schools within the same scope of study as this one aré progressing. Is it that the teachers are indifferent toward letting those outside know just what accomplishments their school is making? It would be a great incentive toward better work if everyone of the eleven Junior High Schools would give brief weekly reports about things centering around school interests.

Both of our great county papers have a wide circulation outside of Chilton county, so why not let those in other counties know just what some of the attainments we are reaching for under our school system.

Our next regular P.-T. A. meeting will be on Wednesday night, February 28. All ladies who have been working on the quilt designs are requested to complete them and turn them in on that night.

We are now a full-fledged member of the State and National Parent-Teacher Association.

A & P Honors Founder With "Founder's Sale"

A & P, celebrating Founder's Week, honors the memory of George Huntington Hartford, a down east Yankee who revolutionized the retail food business.

Young Hartford, coming to New York in the late 1850's found himself in a position to buy a shipload of tea, thereby cutting out many expensive profits which were normally involved in such a transaction. As a result, Hartford was able to offer the tea at retail at about half the usual price.

Though many other concerns have adopted the methods instituted by Hartford, it remains for A & P to honor his memory with a special week when both employees and customers are reminded of the methods he instituted.

RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF REV. JOS. E. EACH

Whereas, our beloved pastor, Rev. Joseph E. Each, has been called from us to the world unseen; we miss him sorely, and shall miss him:— Therefore, be it resolved;

That we put on record our keen sense of a great loss. We shall cherish the memory of our pastor as among the most precious of our possessions. We desire, so far as we can, to carry on in his spirit the work which he has laid dawn.

And what has been his spirit? Let us remind ourselves of his cheerfulness, always, his cordiality, his diligence, his promptness, his orderliness, the neatness of his body, mind, and soul, his devotion to his work, to his people, to his God, his sympathy with all the sick, the suffering, the needy; his love of his church and of the world for which his Master died, his desire to bear his full part of the fight against war and ignorance and poverty. Let us not forget his great good humor as shown in his inexhaustible fund of stories, always fresh, apt, witty, clean, pointed, but with never a sting. Let us have his spirit, or rather let us aim to honor his memory by having in ourselves the spirit of the Christ, even as our beloved pastor had that spirit.

Finally, let us live in the hope, which we believe was ever his hope, that when our earthly life has ended, for us also the gates of heaven shall open wide, and we, without one missing, shall meet again the loved ones whom now we miss so sorely, and the Lord who has been and is our light and our salvation.

Resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon our church records, that a copy of them be furnished to the bereaved of our Brother Each, and that copies be furnished to our county papers and to the Christian Sun

Done on the 4th day of February, by the Committee of the United Protestant Church.

—C. M. Williams, Marian Fairbank, E. W. Butler.

IN MEMORY

On Wednesday evening, January 31, at 5 o'clock, the death angels visited the home of Mr. and Mrs Lynn Williams and took away their little twin daughter, and on Tuesday morning, February 6, at 5:15 o'clock, the death angels visited their home again and took away their little twin son, but as it's our loss, it is heaven's eternal gain. They needed two more little angels in heaven, so God called them to fill that vacant place. Weep not, dear Father and Mother, for we know they are little angels in heaven, but be ready to meet them when the final day will come, when they will meet us at the gates and greet us in.

Although they lived only a few weeks we had learned to love them dearly, but the vacant places in our hearts can never be filled.

Little Willodene and Eugene were born January 15, but thére were little hopes of Eugene living at first. He took sick a few days after and was very low, but soon got better. Willodene was doing fine until she took sick Tuesday evening and died Wednesday evening. Eugene took sick Saturday evening and died Tuesday morning.

They leave to mourn their loss their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Williams; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cox and a host of uncles and aunts.

Funeral services were held in their home with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cox, and were laid to rest in the Liberty Hill cemetery with Rev. G. G. Williams officiating.

"Gone from us, but not forgotten,
Never shall thy memory fade.
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Round the spot where thou art laid."

Laugh This Off

The Quinquennial Report of the Bureau of the Census of Electrical Industries for 1932 is out. It's a rather embarrassing document to whooperups for municipal ownership.

Like all government reports, it is terse, casual and it sticks to the facts. It doesn't deal with theory—it doesn't favor either side of the argument. It simply tells what happened. And the facts, in this case, speak volumes.

In 1932 there were 1802 municipal plants in the country, and 1627 private plants. The municipal plants charged an average of 3.1 cents per kilowatt hour for all power sold by them. The private companies charged 2.7 cents.

Between 1927 and 1932 the rates of private utilities were reduced 19 per cent. The rates of municipal plants were reduced 14.5 per cent.

Municipal plants, according to the report, have done little in developing farm service. The vast majority of rural electrification projects have been carried on and developed by private utilities.

Municipal plants, in 1932, charged an average of 5.6 cents per kilowatt hour for farm service. Private plants charged 2.8 cents—almost exactly the same rate as their average for all types of consumers.

And to all this it should be added that the private utility pays out about 17 per cent of gross revenues for taxes—and municipal plants pay nothing at all.

These are cold, hard relentless facts that every citizen should know. They require no comment. It is going to be interesting to watch the enemies of private enterprise and private investment attempt to laugh them off.

The World In A Light Globe

When you switch on an electric lamp, you're using materials that came originally from almost every country in the world. In that little globe that cost you 20 or 30 cents, there's antimony from Mexico, thoria from Brazil, niter and silica from Chile, cobalt and nickel from New Caledonia, bismuth from Australia, tin from the Malay Peninsula, manganese from India, potash from Russia, sodium carbonate from East Africa, arsenic from Greenland—and so it goes down a long similar list of items.

As has been said, the electric lamp is literally the light of the world.

Glass And The Administration

Many persons wonder at the opposition to financial changes that arises within the breast of Senator Carter Glass, the lone Democrat who opposed the gold policies of the president, and there also are many who criticise his course, but familiarity with his record goes far to explain that which occasions surprise.

Under the administration of President Wilson, Carter Glass was one of the chief forces behind the creation of the federal reserve system; a system that was designed to take the financial resources of the nation out of the hands of Wall Street and place them at the disposal of commerce and agriculture.

The idea was to pool the national financial resources in a dozen convenient national centers, where funds would always be at the service of the business man and the farmer, rather than at the service of the speculators in Wall Street.

The creation of this system properly was hailed as one of the greatest forward steps financially and economically in all the fiscal history of the nation. Wilson was sold [illegible] was sold on it, and the nation was sold on [illegible]

[illegible] Wilson did not foresee and what Glass did [illegible] was the capture of the system by the very [illegible] rected to defeat. Yet Glass lived to [illegible] of the federal reserve system were placed at the disposal of Wall Street during th frenzied days of speculative gambling that attained the climax in the crash of 1929.

Instead of serving the interests of commerce and agriculture, the system served the gamblers and throttled commerce and industry, this being done by advancing rates to a point so high that only gamblers could afford to pay them. This, in actuality, was the beginning of the depression.

Glass, as has been said, was sold upon the federal reserve system; he believed it capable of accomplishing exactly what was intended, and though he lived to see it debauched—and admits the debauchery—he still believes it is capable of accomplishing all that was intended if properly directed.

In brief, Glass stands exactly where he stood in the days of Wilson. Times have changed but he has not. Moreover, though he is unalterable in conviction and acidulous in manner, he is honest and has proved himself a capable statesman and able legislator on numerous occasions. He did a good job in the federal reserve matter and if thereafter the expansion of his horizon ceased to approximate the expansion of the horizon of colossal and menacing events, it should not dim the glory of earlier accomplishment.

He thinks in terms of the Wilson administration—an administration that also had its moments of glory and unforgetable accomplishment—and his inability to think in the terms of the Roosevelt administration is to be regretted but it offers no novelty. Fixity of opinion may be a curse at times, but it is something beyond the power of the individual to change. — Tuscaloosa News.

The country needs honest, well-reasoned opinion—not blind idolatry or partisan ranting on either side.—Industrial News Review.

Some Things To Think About

Shall the voters of Chilton County band together and see that the Democratic ticket is given their wholehearted approval in the coming elections?

That question, simple sounding enough, has more weight than it appears being merely asked and in print. In the first place, Chilton County has supported successfully, a Republican ticket almost straightout for almost thirty years. There's nothing especially wrong with that, however. The only exceptions being when a Democratic superintendent of education was elected recently, and the time when President Roosevelt, a Democrat, received the majority of votes over Hoover, a Republican, in this county. And goodness knows, there is not one person in the county who can truthfully say they regret having voted for a Democrat in either of these instances. Both Roosevelt and our Superintendent of Education have shown themselves to be real men striving for the good of every man and woman, regardless of color, religion or politics.

Speaking of politics, has it not been clearly shown to you people of Chilton County that the Democratic party does not draw any lines when it comes to giving relief to suffering humanity, doing good constructive work and giving men and women jobs? Did it make any difference to the Democrats that Chilton County is known as a Republican county, when the Democrats were pouring thousands and thousands of dollars into this county for work and relief? And aren't the Democrats still pouring this money into this county to give this work?

And aren't the Republicans of this county gladly accepting this money and the jobs it is creating, knowing that Democrats are behind the plan?

Aren't the Republicans and Democrats of this county sharing alike in this work? Are not our Republican officials tickled that they are able to give this work, even though they accepted the money from the Democrats? And who wouldn't be glad to do it.

And what merchant or business man will deny that the program of the Democratic administration has not meant more dollars in his pocket, making it easier to meet his obligations? All since Democrats took over the reins of our government.

It will possibly be said, and we have heard it said, that the Democrats put this county in debt.

But those people who say that do not tell you how long ago that had been. They do not tell you that back in those years the Alabama Power Company was not paying that tremendous amount of money into our county treasury for taxes as they are now doing with their two big plants here. They do not tell you that a Democratic Probate Judge offered that great company a ten-year exemption from taxes if they would build that first big plant in the county. And it was built, later on to pour thousands of dollars into our county treasury so that our officials could spend it and use it to pay off an indebtedness made by Democrats who were trying to bring to this county something worthwhile.

The people who will tell you that the Democrats put this county in debt 24 years ago, do not remind you of the terrible roads you had to travel over and that a certain Democratic Probate Judge spent a good sum to give this county a decent road on which people could travel.

They do not tell you that the tax valuation of this county is now many times the amount it was back in those days when there was a depression and you had no one to give you or your neighbor a job.

Why don't they tell you these things? Of course, that is a foolish question for a Democrat to be asking.

But, they are things you should know. They are things your children should know. Has it ever occurred to you to wonder how much money per year was paid into this county as taxes 25 years ago, and the amount that is being paid into this county now? Is it any wonder that a county which is receiving approximately a quarter of a million dollars yearly in taxes, can pay its bills, build roads and bridges?

And we might add in conclusion that if anyone wishes to reply to this editorial, we ask them to stay on the subject and reply to each question and paragraph, and not get excited and say we are not giving credit where credit is due. These are just some of the thoughts that should be remembered by the older people of this county.

American Highways A Shambles

A recent release of the National Safety Council points out that laws to control pedestrians on streets and highways may be necessary, unless walkers themselves take steps to eliminate the pedestrian hazard.

In an average year, about one half of all automobile deaths are suffered by pedestrians. And, contrary to the general belief, the pedestrian is not an innocent bystander run down by a Machiavellian motorist. He is, in a great number of cases where death or serious injury results, solely to blame.

Larger cities, for the most part, have laws against jaywalking—the practice of crossing streets against the signal bells or lights. Smaller towns may be called upon to pass similar legislation—pedestrian carelessness isn't limited to the metropolitan centers. Again, thousands of accidents are caused by pedestrians walking on the right on highways and roads, where they can't see cars coming up behind them. It is being urged that this offense be made punishable by a fine, precisely as fines are levied against an automobile operator guilty of driving on the wrong side of the road.

There is great need for unremitting, concentrated educational work against automobile accidents, modernization of driving laws, and law enforcement. The American highway is a shambles—over 30,000 killed in 1933—where the reckless, the incompetent and the careless menace the lives and property of us all.

The Home Orchard

Right now is the best time to plant a home orchard. It could have been done a month ago, and should have been done many years ago. Young trees are too cheap, and fruit is important to the farm family as a necessary item of diet. Fruit can be classed as a luxury, but it is the most inexpensive luxury possible.

If the few nickels to buy trees are lacking it is possible to get free cuttings of a number of fruits from a neighbor. The common wild plum makes a delicious fruit, which makes excellent jelly, if given a little attention, and room to develop. Seedling trees are available, and make good crops if properly cared for, and anyone can get seed to plant without any cost.

In other words, some kind of a home orchard is possible without a cent of cost, and a fine orchard can be had for very little. There's no excuse at all for a farmer to have absolutely no fruit trees. And to do without an orchard is a reflection on the farmer.

Of course there is much expense attached to a commercial orchard, but a home orchard can be maintained without expense. —Greenville Advocate.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I saw a lad walking, holding the hand of a blind man and singing in a spirit of real joy. The blind man was unkempt in his person, his garments were ragged and dirty, but the little boy loved the one who was blind. He was happy at his task, not because of what the blind man could do for him, but because of what he could do for the blind man and because he loved him. He filled his place by the side of the one whom he loved and for no other reason. Love bound the two together. When we are serving each other we should not serve because we expect something in return, but because we love. It matters not about the appearance of the other fellow, if we help him because we love the service is well pleasing in the sight of God.

We were sitting at the breakfast table when a girl of eight years of age came in and took her place. On her face was an expression of disgust. She wore a frown and every moment it seemed that she would break out in a snarl. Finally her mother said, "Annette, what on earth is the matter with you? Your face is a fright." Then she did snarl, "What if it is, it is my face and it is nobody's business." Then her mother replied, "That is wherein you are wrong, your face does not belong to you. Other people have to look at it and not you, and you have no right to present such a frown and snarl as you have on your face for us to see." When you get up in the morning do not forget that your face belongs to those who see you. No one has any more right to present a sour, crabbed, snarling face to other people, than a robber has to shove a gun into the ribs of one whom he expects to rob. Your face does not belong to you, therefore, cover it over with beauty and with a smile. Do not rob other people's joy with your frowns.

The house wife ordered the preacher to hang some pictures on the wall. Having no step ladder it was necessary to build an elevation so that I could drive the nail. A table was placed, a chair set on top of the table, and a box placed in the chair. I went up with fear and trembling. I tapped the nail with uncertainty when the voice from below said, "Why don't you hit it with a brave lick or two and the job will be over." Then I looked down at her and said, "How can a fellow hit this nail with a brave lick or two while standing on a foundation like this?" It has occurred to me that many preachers in the pulpit are in a like condition. They have climbed up to a great height and they are timidly hammering on sin. They have but little, experience themselves and they can not strike hard. Of them it can be said, "How can a fellow strike sin with a brave lick or two when he is standing on a foundation like this?" The reason why some preachers hammer sin with a firmer blow than others is because of the foundation on which they stand. Blessed is the preacher who is standing on the foundation,—Christ Jesus.

A Naturalist discovered many snake eggs and sent them to his friend. The friend was proud of his curios and placed them in his dresser drawer. A few days later he carried a friend of his to see his snake eggs. On pulling out the drawer he was horrified as he saw dozens of little snakes as they went scurrying about over his dressing apparel. In like manner you can receive bad thoughts from those whom you call your friends, you can store them up in your brain and some day you will awake to the fact that the bad thoughts have hatched into reptiles in your own brain. My advice is that you accept no snake eggs as gifts from anyone.

Near Birmingham a traveler saw a herd of mules in an open lot and he asked the keeper why he had so many mules in one place. He was told that the mules worked in a mine nearby all during the week, and that as they never saw the sun, or anything but artificial light, it was necessary that they be brought up on Sunday and placed in the open to keep them from going blind. What a lesson for us on the question of church going. When you are buried all the week in the business of this world, you need to come up and away from the world by going to church on Sunday to keep you from losing your spiritual eyesight. Refusing to attend church and you go blind.

RADIO NAVIGATION

While radio has been employed as an aid to navigation of both ships and aircraft for several years, by means of radio beacons of various types, the use of this mysterious force is destined to play an ever increasing part in directing these crafts safely along their courses.

An engineer recently detailed a method whereby what may be described as an electric track may be laid for both ships and aircraft to follow.

This "track" consists of a cable carrying a high frequency current, which induces a similar frequency in a coil carried by steamer or airplane. When the craft is on its course, which is directly over the cable, the helmsman hears a buzzing signal, which dies out if he gets off the "track."

These cables may be laid down in the middle of a harbor channel for the guidance of ships, or strung on poles like a telegraph line from city to city for the direction of airplanes and dirigibles. Dangers from rain, snow or fog, the terrors of the navigator by sea or air, would thus be practically eliminated.

As a large percentage of accidents to both ships and airplanes are due to these dangers, the great value of the device described may be readily appreciated.

Letters To The Editor

CANDIDATES AND PROHIBITION

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please permit me to say a few words to the voters through your valuable paper? First, I want to say, are we going to let our candidates dodge the prohibition issue, especially those for State Senate and for Representative. Are we willing to elect candidates to carry out our President's policy. If we are, let's nominate such candidates in for it one hundred per cent. I believe that Roosevelt is a God-chosen man, and we must back him up if we expect the blessings he has for us. He said the day he was nominated, from this day prohibition is doomed. He could see with an eye of faith this unjust law doomed.

Well, some people object to proving things by the Bible. I'm glad that I yet have this privilege. I'm like David. He says, I delight in the law of the Lord; He is my salvation and Him only will I trust. I use the Bible for my battle axe and as a sword of deefnse.

We are commanded to search the scriptures for in them ye think ye have eternal life, for they are they that testify of Jesus; so to read these testimonies it gives us evidence or proof that we have eternal life. So in searching these scriptures I ran up on one prohibition man.

His name is Jonadab. You will find him recorded in the 35th chapter of Jeremiah. The second verse says: Go unto the house of the Rechabites and speak unto them and bring them into the house of the Lord, into one of the chambers and give them wine to drink. Fourth verse, and I brought them into the house of the Lord into the chamber of the sons of Hanan, the son of Igdaliah, a man of God, which was by the chamber of the princes, which was above the chamber of Maaseiah, the son of Shallam, the keeper of the door. Fifth verse, and I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites pots and cups full of wine, and I said unto them, drink ye wine. Sixth verse, but they said, we will drink no wine, for Jonadab, the son of Rechab, our father, commanded us, saying, ye shall drink no wine, neither ye nor your sons forever. Eight verse, thus have we obeyed the voice of Jonadab, the son of Rechab, our father, in all that he hath charged us, to drink no wine all our days; we, our wives, our sons, nor our daughters.

So, I think we have a lot of Jonadabs who prefer to serve Jonadab in preference to God; also like to see the law make game out of the little fellows and to break up their homes. How in the name of common horse sense, can such class escape the damnation of hell. It would be bad enough to put a penalty on a man if he gets drunk. I would hate to have such thing to do even if I had the authority. It's bad for people to get drunk, but its really as bad to commit adultery. I guess the next move these Jonadabs will make will be to separate the female from the male for fear someone will commit adultery. This would give fine sport and open up a large field for larger game.

Yours for a change, especially in the prohibition law.

Respectfully,
J. H. JACKSON.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. J. P. PAYNE OF MAPLESVILLE

To know her was to love her.
She was kind, unselfish, smiling and gay,
Fond and true in every way.
Her smile was like the sunshine,
Her cheeks were like a rose,—
Her voice was that of an angel,—
Why is it stilled? Only God knows!
She is singing now with the angels and waiting for us there.
But why did she have to leave us?
It seems so hard to bear.
Our darling Gladys, is gone,
And we, with aching hearts, live on
'Mid memories dimmed with tears
Through the coming years.

A FRIEND.

Calf Club Meeting

The Chilton County Calf Club held a meeting at the court house in Clanton on Monday, February 12. The purpose of this meeting was to decide on definite terms for the upkeep of the Club bull presented to us by Mr. Stapp, former county agent, upon his leaving for Dothan to accept the county agency of Houston County. This gift was appreciated highly by all the members of the club and to show our gratitude to Mr. Stapp we are going to make this bull a prize winner. It was decided that the bull will remain at the home of Ralph Mims of the Isabelal community where the club will in the near future build a strong pen to keep him in.

This was the first meeting held by the club since Mr. Fant came as county agent to succeed Mr. Stapp. Mr. Fant made a fine appearance before the boys and we wish him to know that we are going to cooperate and work with him to make this county an outstanding one in this state.

Osmond Glenn acted as secretary pro tem in the place of Clyde Popwell, deceased.

As no further business presented itself the meeting adjourned until another is called.

Vermont Junior High School News

The Jr. 3 Class organized last Wednesday. The following were elected to serve in their respective capacities: Mary Jo Chandler, President; Edna Simms, Valedictorian; Mary Owen, Historian; T. J. Ratliff, Class Prophet.

The Liberty Hill Quartet was scheduled to present a program on last Friday night, but due to the sudden disagreeable weather, three of their members failed to get here, thus we were forced to set the program up two weeks which will be on Friday evening, February 23. Quite a large number braved the raw weather on last Friday night, only to be disappointed, but we hope you will not feel too critical towards those who were sponsoring the program. The weather conditions just simply beset us in our plans. Those who paid admission were given credit scripts and upon presentation of them on the night of the program they will be admitted without furher charges. The members of he quartet send their regrets for this disappointing situation and their assurance that with hopes for a better weather condiion they will be with us one week from tomorrow night, February 23. Don't miss hearing these young men sing. They are really good.

Our P.-T. A. met last Wednesday week, in its regular business meeting. Twenty-three were present which was rather a small number, but the weather being very unfavorable, probably accounts for it. Mrs. Claude C. Klinner made a very appealing and interesting talk on "Conditions Leading to a Child's Failure in School Work." Some of the high points of her talk were: Irregular attendance, parents' failure to encourage child when a low grade is reported, indifferent attitude of child towards his studies, improper classification, failure of parent to provide books and necessary supplies, some physical defect which has not been remedied, lack of home study.

School was dismissed at 2:30 last Friday in order for those who wished to to attend the funeral service of Mrs. Minnie Goff, who was buried at Sardis cemetery.

We are glad to know that our good friend and loyal trustee, Mr. George W. Sansom, is improving. He has been confined indoors the past several days with an attack of cold and grippe. We have been missing him around the school building, dropping into every room, and assisting in various ways to make the school work move along more smoothly. We hope to see him back soon.

The pig which was presented to the school in October by Mr. Frank Giles, has now grown to a nice, marketable size. He is fat and in fine condition and will be offered for sale next week at current prices. Anyone desirous of buying, watch the county papers for an adv. to that effect.

We wonder why the other Junior High Schools do not send in Weekly News items to the county papers, reporting their progress in various school activities. We would like to know how other schools within the same scope of study as this one are progressing. Is it that the teachers are indifferent toward letting those outside know just what accomplishments their school is making? It would be a great incentive toward better work if everyone of the eleven Junior High Schools would give brief weekly reports about things centering around school interests.

Both of our great county papers have a wide circulation outside of Chilton county, so why not let those in other counties know just what some of the attainments we are reaching for under our school system.

Our next regular P.-T. A. meeting will be on Wednesday night, February 28. All ladies who have been working on the quilt designs are requested to complete them and turn them in on that night.

We are now a full-fledged member of the State and National Parent-Teacher Association.

A & P Honors Founder With "Founder's Sale"

A & P, celebrating Founder's Week, honors the memory of George Huntington Hartford, a down east Yankee who revolutionized the retail food business.

Young Hartford, coming to New York in the late 1850's found himself in a position to buy a shipload of tea, thereby cutting out many expensive profits which were normally involved in such a transaction. As a result, Hartford was able to offer the tea at retail at about half the usual price.

Though many other concerns have adopted the methods instituted by Hartford, it remains for A & P to honor his memory with a special week when both employees and customers are reminded of the methods he instituted.

RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF REV. JOS. E. EACH

Whereas, our beloved pastor, Rev. Joseph E. Each, has been called from us to the world unseen; we miss him sorely, and shall miss him:— Therefore, be it resolved;

That we put on record our keen sense of a great loss. We shall cherish the memory of our pastor as among the most precious of our possessions. We desire, so far as we can, to carry on in his spirit the work which he has laid dawn.

And what has been his spirit? Let us remind ourselves of his cheerfulness, always, his cordiality, his diligence, his promptness, his orderliness, the neatness of his body, mind and soul, his devotion to his work, to his people, to his God, his sympathy with all the sick, the suffering, the needy; his love of his church and of the world for which his Master died, his desire to bear his full part of the fight against war and ignorance and poverty. Let us not forget his great good humor as shown in his inexhaustible fund of stories, always fresh, apt, witty, clean, pointed, but with never a sting. Let us have his spirit, or rather let us aim to honor his memory by having in ourselves the spirit of the Christ, even as our beloved pastor had that spirit.

Finally, let us live in the hope, which we believe was ever his hope, that when our earthly life has ended, for us also the gates of heaven shall open wide, and we, without one missing, shall meet again the loved ones whom now we miss so sorely, and the Lord who has been and is our light and our salvation.

Resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon our church records, that a copy of them be furnished to the bereaved of our Brother Each, and that copies be furnished to our county papers and to the Christian Sun

Done on the 4th day of February, by the Committee of the United Protestant Church.

—C. M. Williams, Marian Fairbank, E. W. Butler.

IN MEMORY

On Wednesday evening, January 31, at 5 o'clock, the death angels visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Williams and took away their little twin daughter, and on Tuesday morning, February 6, at 5:15 o'clock, the death angels visited their home again and took away their little twin son, but as it's our loss, it is heaven's eternal gain. They needed two more little angels in heaven, so God called them to fill that vacant place. Weep not, dear Father and Mother, for we know they are little angels in heaven, but be ready to meet them when the final day will come, when they will meet us at the gates and greet us in.

Although they lived only a few weeks we had learned to love them dearly, but the vacant places in our hearts can never be filled.

Little Willodene and Eugene were born January 15, but there were little hopes of Eugene living at first. He took sick a few days after and was very low, but soon got better. Willodene was doing fine until she took sick Tuesday evening and died Wednesday evening. Eugene took sick Saturday evening and died Tuesday morning.

They leave to mourn their loss their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Williams; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cox and a host of uncles and aunts.

Funeral services were held in their home with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cox, and were laid to rest in the Liberty Hill cemetery with Rev. G. G. Williams officiating.

"Gone from us, but not forgotten,
Never shall thy memory fade.
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Round the spot where thou art laid."

—Their Aunt, Elsie Williams.

The Leader Says That Business Is Good

When Mr. Maurice Lande, the pleasant proprietor of The Leader, gave the News his advertisement this week, he said that business is good and getting better.

Now, that's something, and so the News tells Mr. Lande that if he continues to advertise the bargains as are listed in his advertisement in the News this week, that business will always be good.

So, Mr. Lande wouldn't let the News get the best of him and says that he will just keep it up, and to prove it, he will show you readers some real values

VALUES OF LESPEDEZA AS LEGUME & HAY CROP EMPHASIZED

Auburn, Ala.—Lespedeza has six distinct advantages as a legume and hay crop in Alabama, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

First of all, he said, it is a good soil-builder, often doubling yields of feed crops which follow. Besides, it is a splendid hay crop, makes excellent pastures, is very easy to grow, does not require inoculation, and farmers may produce their home supply of lespedeza seed.

Mr. Lowery recommends growing lespedeza on lands removed from cotton production, particularly in the Tennessee and Coosa Vallies. "No replacement crop is more practical for such lands in this area than lespedeza," he added

Though its greatest value as a hay crop is limited largely to north Alabama, Mr. Lowery says that lespedeza may be grown on practically all soils of the state. It is a basic plant in pastures. It is a legume which furnishes good grazing from late spring to late fall. Since it is a legume it is excellent for improving land. Lespedeza should be sown by broadcasting in late February or early March. A satisfactory method is to sow it on young grain crops and cover slightly with a spike-tooth harrow to prevent drifting of the seed. After the grain crop is harvested the lespedeza will continue to grow. Another method is to sow lespedeza broadcast on land which has been lightly disced or harrowed—no additional covering is needed.

The best varieties for Alabama are the common varieties, Tennessee 76, and Kobe. It is well to consult county agents who are familiar with the best varieties in particular counties.

Interesting "Ad" Has Facts About Lee

We've always said that some of the advertisements are as interesting as the news. This fact is particularly emphasized by a special campaign now being published in this paper—the Chilean Natural Nitrate Campaign.

In addition to telling the well-known virtues of this product, its natural origin, its vital impurities and so on, the particular advertisement we have just been reading gives some little known information about the national hero, General Robert E. Lee. Gen. Lee graduated in 1829, second in his class at West Point, ahead of forty-four classmates, a year before the first cargo of Chilean natural nitrate came in, under sail, to a Southern port. To graduate from West Point then, as now, indicated high ability. To lead forty-four classmates and be led by only one, shows how exceptionally high were the abilities of the man destined to become a great figure in history.

Agriculture always interested him and he devoted much attention to improving the condition of his lands and the return from his crops. The Chilean Nitrate folks don't say so, and probably there is no way to be sure, but Gen. Lee himself probably used considerable quantities of this natural nitrate fertilizer during the years he maintained his extensive acres along the Potomac.

Southern heroes are being featured in the entire series of advertisements all of which will be published in this paper.

SUCCESS APPEARS CERTAIN IN COTTON ACREAGE CUT

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 30.—A check-up Saturday of progress in Alabama's cotton acreage campaign indicated that the program will be a success in this state. From all indications, it appeared that the number of acres taken out of production this year will exceed the total number abandoned last summer in the plow-up campaign.

A total of over 800,000 acres has already been rented to the Secretary of Agriculture, with likelihood that the total will be around the million mark before the close of the campaign. This acreage reduction represented over 60,000 contracts signed by Alabama producers.

Progress was slow in signing contracts during the first two weeks of January because of the necessity of selecting county committeemen and perfecting the organizations in the various counties. However, the number of contracted acres has mounted rapidly during the past two weeks with 3,500 committeemen working under direction of county agents.

Director L. N. Duncan of the extension service expressed himself as greatly pleased over the campaign. He said that the benefits which would come to Alabama farmers during the next two years will place the cooperating farmers in a much better position than those who do not take part in the campaign.

He expressed his appreciation to all county committeemen, county agents, and business and rural leaders who have helped thus far in the campaign and urged that they continue their efforts in carrying Alabama "over the top" in the cotton reduction program.

PILOT CLUB BRINGS GOOD PICTURE HERE

"Big Executive" Coming To Wadesonian Theatre On February 21-22

The theatre-goers of Clanton and Chilton County have a treat in store, when the "Big Executive," one of the season's most outstanding screen dramas, will be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre, next Wednesday and Thursday, February 21 and 22, sponsored by the Clanton Pilot Club.

Ricardo Cortez, Richard Bennett, Elizabeth Young and Sharon Lynne head the featured cast of Paramount's "Big Executive," exciting drama which relates the intimate secrets of a young financial wizard.

The picture is a graphic interpretation of the lives led by multi-millionaires, their struggle for fame and wealth on the street supposed to be paved with gold—Wall Street. Intimate glimpses of heir private lives are depicted in interesting fashion, and the action moves swiftly through skyscrapers, magnificent yachts, mountain estates, and town houses.

Ricardo Cortez, who was last seen in "Midnight Mary," plays the role of Victor Conway, blessed with fame, fortune and youth, but the victim of a nagging and jealous wife. He falls in love with Helena, great-granddaughter of Commodore Richardson, who dislikes Conway's new-fangled methods of manipulating stocks.

The Commodore threatens to blast Conway off Wall Street, and the bold Conway, adventurous and eager for excitement, accepts the challenge. The two powerful rivals muster their forces and begin a dramatic fight for control of large interests.

Meanwhile, Conway is accused of murdering his wife, whom he shot accidentally, and is threatened with blackmail by his scheming secretary who has discovered "evidence" which would incriminate him. Several highly dramatic climactic scenes unravel the unusual set of circumstances and the film ends on a decidedly novel note.

Elizabeth Young is cast in the principal feminie role; Sharon Lynne plays the role of the scheming secretary, and Dorothy Peterson appears as the vituperative wife.

THE INDIAN PROBLEM

There has been an Indian problem in the United States ever since its earilest settlement, but that problem is being solved by the gradual absorption of the Red Man into our general population, according to former Secretary Wilbur of the Department of the Interior.

We have about 350,000 persons of Indian blood in the entire country, of whom about one-third are in Oklahoma. The rest are widely scattered among 25 states, but even the reservation Indians are intermarrying with the white population and are rapidly assuming the white man's manner of living. A notable exception to this general trend is seen among the Navajos of Arizona, who have a reservation as large as the state of New Jersey and still hold aloof from the paleface.

It is the policy of the government to encourage the remaining Indians to obtain education and training with a view to their giving up reservation life and taking their places among the independent citizenship of the country. There are maintained 203 day and boarding schools for Indian pupils, where instruction, food, lodging and clothing are furnished free by Uncle Sam. These are privileges granted to no other element of our population.

Dr. Wilbur declares that it has become obvious that the Red Man must eventually lose his identity and become as the rest of us, and adds: From a sentimental standpoint there is much to regret in this fact, but it is none the less inevitable."

RUNNING INTO TRAINS

Don Quixote's tilting at windmills was hardly less foolish and much less disastrous than the habit of present day motorists who assault railroad trains.

Figures covering accidents at railroad crossings during a period of six months show that in 27 per cent of the cases the automobiles ran into trains, instead of trains running into the automobiles.

One railroad company reports that in a single year 500 of its crossing gates lowered to protect the public were run into and smashed by motorists. Another company checked the performance of 3,589 drivers while crossing its tracks. By actual observation it was found that of this number 2,907 failed to look either to the right or left before crossing; 602 looked in one direction only, while 80 drivers looked both ways.

With such evidence of recklessness uon the part of motorists before us, it is not difficult to understand why some 30,000 persons are killed and 800,000 injured in automobile accidents every year.

Eddie Cantor In "Roman Scandals" In Montgomery

Eddie Cantor, whose annual screen appearance to the Paramount Theatre, Montgomery, Alabama, is an event greatly anticipated, comes to that theatre for four big days on Sunday and running through Wednesday, February 18, 19, 20, and 21, in his newest screen triump, ROMAN SCANDALS. Together they sing the popular musical hit, "Building a Home", and which will be even more popular after the public has heard it sung as only they can sing it. David Manners, Gloria Stuart, Veree Teasdale, and Alan Mowbray add their talents to make a great show even greater and ROMAN SCANDALS, delving back into History and revealing affairs heretofore unknown in such a manner that even the hardest boiled film critic has to give it praise, guarantees to give you an evening's entertainment that will linger in your minds for quite a while. You'll enjoy the snappy song hits, what's more, you'll leave the theatre humming them and whistling them. The beautiful girls and gorgeous settings will completely enhance you and altogether, you'll like Eddie Cantor in ROMAN SCANDALS.

Cull Your Flocks Says County Agent

Dear Poultryman:

At this time of the year when the price of eggs is breaking and the price of hens is rising, it is a good time to cull your flocks and sell the culls. There is no profit in feeding cull hens.

If you are getting less than one egg for every two hens you have you are feeding some culls. Hens that are beginning to moult should be taken out.

Following are some rules to guide one in culling:

1. Take out hens that are moulting.
2. Pullets that have not started producing should be culled.
3. When a hen is producing her comb is a bright red, warm and large. If the comb is small, hard, scaly, and pale, the hen should be culled.
4. If the legs and beak are yellow, usually they are producing.
5. If the pelvic bones and breast bones are close together and the vent puckered, cull the hen.
6. Cull hens that are very small.

A good plan is to cull your hens close, take some of the money received for them and purchase a few good baby chicks during the month of March and raise some pullets for next fall and winter layers.

A MAN OF ALL WORK WANTS A JOB

T. E. Harris,
DISTRICT MANAGER

SOUTHERN BELL
Telephone and Telegraph Co.

HE is the telephone. He's tapping at your door to ask for a job. He's the most willing of all workers. He's always at hand. He never sleeps, and is always ready to do your bidding, day or night, rain or shine.

He's the most dependable of all servants and a man of all work. He will guard your home in emergencies. If someone is suddenly sick in the night, he will get the doctor for you quickly. If a fire breaks out or a burglar breaks in, he will summon aid at once. Then, too, he will save you the trouble and embarrassment of having to borrow your neighbor's telephone.

When you are alone or lonesome, he will bring your friends to talk to you. He even makes it possible for you to sit comfortably at home and visit with relatives and friends living miles away from you.

A home is not complete without him. He will bring you comfort, protection and happiness and he will do all these things for you and your family for just a few pennies a day.

He is worth much more. In fact, it's hard to estimate his great value when you think of the many things he will do for you. It really doesn't pay to try to get along without him. Call the telephone business office and have this wonderful servant (a telephone) placed in your home today.

AIR MARKER FOR CLANTON IS COMPLETED

Clanton To Serve As Guide For Flyers Through The American Legion

Clanton will be among those towns in Alabama serving as a guide for aviators in the future, according to a letter received recently by the News. Following is the letter from Asa Rountree:

Editor, Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

As part of the Alabama aviation program, Clanton was selected as a location for a large aviation marker. This marker has been completed, and Clanton will now serve as a guide for flyers.

This marker contains the name of your town, the letters being more than six feet in size; an arrow pointing north; another arrow pointing to your aviation field, if there is one; and a small outline map of Alabama with the number of your local American Legion post, if there is one.

The lettering has been done with orange paint on a black background, conforming to the specifications of the Aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce.

When the Air Marking project is completed, more than 150 towns in Alabama will be marked and Alabama will be one of the best air marked states in the entire country.

The Air Marking project has been sponsored by the state department of the American Legion, and is part of the aviation program under the direction of Col. Sumpter Smith, State Aviation Advisor, and the State Aviation Advisory Board, headed by Col. Theodore Swann.

Sincerely,
ASA ROUNTREE, JR.,

MARRIAGE OF INTEREST SOLEMNIZED SUNDAY, 8TH

On Sunday morning, February 8th, at the home of Dr. S. J. Ezell, occurred one of the most happy marriages that has been solemnized in our little city for a long time. The contracting parties were Mr. John R. Cooper of Mt. Creek, who is a son of Mr. B. B. Cooper, well known business man of that section, and Miss Mary Agnes Welch, of Clanton.

The groom is a well known and hustling young gentleman, and a great favorite in his community.

The bride is one of Clanton's most beautiful young ladies, and her coterie of friends were among the most select strata of local society.

The bride wore an exquisite ensemble of blue with accessories and was more beautiful than a Paris dream.

The groom was also handsome in a costume of blue to match that of his bride and they made as handsome a couple as you have ever seen.

Following the ceremony, the happy couple departed for a honeymoon trip to the "Land of Flowers", followed by good wishes of their large group of relatives and friends.

This year's reduction in cotton acreage under the AAA will make it easier for planters to get the jump on the boll weevil, according to entomologists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Brief Farm Facts

A well-fenced farm usually indicates a thrifty farmer, says J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer. "The old adage that a farmer does not own his farm until it is fenced is not literally true, but a well-planned layout of properly fenced fields and pastures indicates a permanent type of farming. A successful farm includes livestock, cover crops, grazing crops, and permanent pastures—all of which require fences," he said.

Cotton farmers who grow soil-improvement crops on land taken out of cotton production this year will be starting a bank account of soil fertility which will pay them well in savings on fertilizer bills in future years.

The remarkable growth of kudzu on land too poor and rough for other crops together with its high feeding value shows beyond doubt that there is a place for it on Alabama farms, says R. Y. Bailey of the Alabama Experiment Station.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. S. M. YATES, SR.

On January 25, 1934, the death angel came to earth to gather flowers for God's throne. This time it was a full-blown flower. God needs old flowers as well as buds. This time it was Grandmother. She was 86 years of age. To know Grandmother Yates was to love her. She was kind to all she met We have no record of how long she had been a Christian, but we do know she always trusted in God. No one remembers how long she had been a member of the Baptist church. For several years she had been blind, but she always said when nobody was with her that Jesus was always there, and what a consolation that should be. If everybody could say Jesus was with them. She was ill only four days, but, oh, how she suffered, but now that is all over, and she is at rest; for God said lay not up your treasures where moth and rust doth corrupt, but lay up your treasures in heaven. And I know Grandmother did put her treasures in heaven.

So, weep not, dear loved ones, for her; for she would not have it so; for whereas she was blind here, now she sees all things.

Oh, yes, we loved her,
But Jesus loved her more;
And he gently took her by the Hand and said, "Come."
The golden gate was opened,
A gentle voice said come,
And with farewells unspoken,
She calmly entered home.
We miss her, oh, we miss her;
But she has gone to rest
Where there's never any parting,
Sorrow, pain or death.

We all wish to thank the many friends who weer so kind to us all, and who helped us during her sickness and death, and especially do we thank Mr. Mell Martin and Dr. R. J. Eiland, also Bro. Hughes and Bro. Willie Jones for the comforting words they gave us.

—A Granddaughter who loved her, Mrs. Thornton.

THE LOMAX OBSERVER DOES OBSERVING

The political pot is beginning to get hot in our community. One family is furnishing two candidates: one on the Republican ticket and one on the Democratic ticket. We also seem to have a weather prophet in our community, who has taken issue with the ground hog, according to tradition the groundhog says we will have six weeks more winter from the second day of February, and our weather prophet says we will not, and so far our weather prophet has the groundhog skinned out of four days of spring-like weather.

There is another interesting topic that is being considered by the people, and that is the vital issues that so greatly affect the welfare of the masses of Chilton County and also our state.

One very important issue that all candidates will be demanded to give their expression on is the present prohibition law of Alabama. If any candidate thinks he is going to slip in without facing and expressing his views on all important issues, he just has another thought coming.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

The Senior Class, with John Ezell as president, is taking steps toward the selection of a suitable memorial to leave to their Alma Mater. A number of suggestions have been offered by interested members of the class. Among these suggestions were: an entrance gate, drinking fountains within the building, lights for the front and a floor for the gymnasium. Either of these would make a valuable asset to the school. Probably the most practical, according to several authorities on the matter, would be an entrance gate for the southern end of the driveway. The Senior Class of 1932-1933 left an entrance gate at the northern end of the driveway. This beautiful and noticeable structure has indeed added much to the appearance of the school grounds and has won the admiration of the citizens of the town as well as having proven itself a useful memorial. The Senior Class of this year will therefore fulfill an honor duty to their predecessors and to the school by erecting a similar structure. A gate at the southern end of the driveway will complete a trio of attractive, appreciated and long living memorials—two brick entrances for the driveway and one for the walkway. A formal class meeting will be held in the near future to finally decide on the matter.

Hats off to our basketball teams. The girls trimmed the strong girls team from Jemison High last Friday night to the tune of 18 to 6. This is the second time this season that Chilton County High girls have defeated the girls team from Jemison. Two feathers, two big feathers in our caps.

And do not forget our boys team. No, no. Even though they were barely beaten they should have the day because they held the boys team from Jemison, one of the strongest teams if not the strongest in our district, to the score of 20 to 19. Just by one point could the superb team from Jemison surpass our equally as superb team. And did our boys look first rate in their new uniforms. They did and how. These new uniforms, blue with orange trimmings, makes one sit up and rub his eyes when Chilton's team comes onto the court.

The boys basketball team went to Holtville Wednesday night of last week and played one of the best, one of the closest and most exciting games of the season. At the end of the game the score was 25 and 25. Another extra period was played and the score rose to 29 and 29. The second extra period was played and Holtville raised her score to 31 and Chilton came along with 31 points also. Both teams playing at their height of spirit and close to exhaustion went through the third extra period and finally Holtville managed to nose Chilton out to the score of 37 to 31. What luck.

The Junior Three's are the first ones turning in their "Who's Who" this year. It is about time for this annual class feature to be voted on. Below is the "Who's Who" of the Junior Three Class for the year 1933-'34: Prettiest girl, Geraldine DeLoach; most handsome boy, Julius Martin; best all-around, Louise Arnold; best girl athlete, Thelma Arant; best boy athlete, Horace Vinson; wittiest boy, L. D. Easterling; wittiest girl, Mildred Easterlin; most popular girl, Juanita Miller; most popular boy, Raymond Gilliland; friendliest girl, Mary Armstrong; friendliest boy, Horace Vinson; most original, Mary Ruth Goodman; neatest girl, Mary Jo Foshee; neatest boy, J. L. Littlejohn.

Who Am I ??? — Yes, it was Gertiwyl Vinson last week. If you guess this one the writer is going to crawl off in a hole. You're too good. Boy, this is a hard one!—I am in the Senior High. Rate in the "A" class of students. Like to study. I have a very pleasant and friendly disposition. I am rather attractive. Some would say I was sorta plump. I drive a car. I have lots of school spirit. I have have brown eyes. Now, who am I?

Leading her teammates in points last Friday night was Grace Plyler, first class forward, who dropped the ball through the basket for the grand number of eleven times. Congratulations, Grace.

One week from today millions of Americans will pay tribute to the greatest of all Americans, George Washington, the Father of His Country. Two hundred and two years ago Washington began his life, little aware of the important role he was to take in the history of the great country, the United States of America. If only every youth in this country would mould his habits after those of this never-to-be-forgotten MAN, what a country we would have. In the library one will find a number of articles and books on Washington. Read these. Learn his famous "Rules of Conduct." Read his famous speeches. His life should provide a real source of education and personal lesson and encouragement for any real American boy.

Monday of this week was the birthday of another great American, Abraham Lincoln. His rise from an awkward, hard working and earnest son of a poor but honest backwoodsman to the greatest honor and position in his country is a story of true determination; a story of one who was not satisfied with just getting by; a story of a boy who was honest ,straight-forward and loyal; and a story of one who forgot not his fellow men, but had a place for everyone in his heart.

These two men are the kind that America is proud to call her own. They not only chose the straight and narrow path of life, but never varied from it even after they had climbed to the pinnacle of fame.

The Junior Three English Class, which is taught by Miss Sarah Colley, finished an interesting project this week. This project is a newspaper with its editorials, sport section, society section, ads, and other features of a real paper, hand printed by the students. Drawing made by a promising artist of the class are noticed throughout the paper. This paper, several pages in size, is on exhibit on the bulletin board and has attracted the eyes of all. It shows the training the pupils of the class are receiving in composition and writing of English.

Another famous American's birthday was observed last Sunday, February 11. This was the birthday of Thomas A. Edison, a man who has added comfort to the lives of people by his many inventions. A number of interesting articles on his life and his work can be found on the bulletin board in the Senior Three home room.

Some, meaning girls. * * * Oh Where, Oh Where, Are The Unholy Three? * * * They should come out of their hiding and reveal themselves so they could receive the credit for all of their cleverness. * * * His heart is as hard as a rock toward her now. You can't blame him either. * * * He says it's quits. We'll wait and see. * * * She was in "pig" heaven last Saturday night. That's better than not being with him at all. It's her good luck (?) * * * Did some hearts flutter last Wednesday? They did and how. Guess who received a heart of candy? A nice dignified, unsuspected Senior. * * * Shame on you. Proper Cotton Fertilizer Recommended

J. W. Fant, County Agent

There have been many inquiries at my office about Auburn recommendations of fertilizer for cotton.

The following mixture has given better results than any other experiment conducted at Auburn:

200 Lbs. 16% Superphosphate
100 Lbs. Nitrate of Soda.
25 Lbs. Muriate of Potash.

All the superphosphate, 25 lbs. of nitrate of soda, and 25 lbs. of muriate of potash should be applied at or before planting time. Seventy-five pounds of nitrate of soda should be applied as soon as cotton is chopped and free of weeds and grass.

The above mixture is called the Auburn minimum recommendation per acre. Double this amount and you have the Auburn maximum.

Always mix in the proportion given above and apply at the rates of from 200 to 650 pounds per acre.

Concord P.-T. A.

The P.-T. A. will hold its regular meeting Tuesday evening, February 20, at 6:30 o'clock. This meeting has been set aside as "Fathers' Night." The program is being planned especially for Fathers. Let the Mothers come and bring the Fathers. We are exceedingly anxious for every father of our school to be present. Won't you realize your duty and do your utmost to be present.

The play to be given by the school will be presented Saturday night, February 24. It promises to be the best play ever staged at Concord and we have had some real good plays. The characters have been carefully chosen and there's real talent displayed by the characters.

Watch for full information regarding the play in next week's paper. In the meantime be saving your dime or fifteen cents for admission.

Science says Today use a LIQUID Laxative

If you want to GET RID of Constipation worries—

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys.

A doctor will tell you that the unwise choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to the use of laxatives in liquid form.

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

In buying any laxative, always read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. Its ingredients are on the label. By using it, you avoid danger of bowel strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable; you can make constipated spells as rare as colds.

The liquid test:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics:

First. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find is suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without any need of stimulation.

Syrup pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains senna, a natural laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

We believe that one of the best yardsticks by which a man or institution can be measured is: "Is that individual or enterprise a good citizen?"

By a good citizen we mean a man or institution who meets his obligations promptly and in full, who bears his rightful share of the tax load, who takes an active hand in state and community affairs, who spends wherever possible with friends and neighbors, and who is giving more than mere lip service to the upbuilding of his native state.

By each and all these standards we believe that Alabama Power Company can justly claim to be a "good citizen of Alabama."

Alabama Power Company, throughout its 21 years of service, has met its every obligation promptly and in full. It pays more taxes than any other enterprise within the borders of our state, and has increased its tax payments 1900% within the past 10 years. Its employees in 65 of Alabama's 67 counties, contribute time and service to community affairs. It has been the policy of the company to buy wherever possible from home enterprises and thus keep at home the revenues which it receives. It has worked tirelessly and with good effect to bring new enterprises into Alabama, maintaining for this purpose a New Industries Division. And it has had at all times the welfare of this state and of its people close to heart.

We present these facts for the thoughtful consideration of Alabama citizens.

Yours very truly,

President.

Congress Passes Seed Loan Bills

Both houses of Congress have passed seed loan bills providing a maximum loan of $250 to each small farmer who does not have security for obtaining credit elsewhere, reports Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture.

"Senator Bankhead and Congressmen Hill and Jeffers informs me that Congress has passed seed loan bills providing $35,000,000 to $45,000,000 to be loaned to small farmers. Before either of the two bills become law it is necessary for the Senate and House to hold a conference to iron out differences between the bills but our congressional delegates inform me that they feel certain that seed loans will be available within the very near future," Storrs said.

Graves Meeting Held In Elmore

Wetumpka, Ala., Feb. 6.—Approximately 1,200 persons were present at Elmore County Court House here tonight to listen to speakers launch the candidacy of Bibb Graves for governor in this county. Two Graves workers, Judge W. F. Hubbard of Demopolis and John P. Kohn, Jr., of Montgomery spoke.

The meeting was called to organize various committees in Elmore County with J. Bruce Airey, former mayor of Wetumpka, being elected permanent chairman of the Elmore County group for Graves. David Enslen of Wetumpka, was elected president of the young men's Graves for Governor Club. Forest Little, local druggist, opened the meeting and told of the plans to be held by this organization in the county.

Mr. Hubbard spoke on the subject: "Bibb Graves as a Man," and Mr. Kohn attacked Judge Leon McCord.

"Judge McCord is crying extravagance to the voters," said Mr. Kohn, "but he fails to tell them he is now drawing $16.50 every day from the tax payers, going around in Alabama seeking to be Governor."

as the Reemployment Office in the county was released for work by the State Reemployment Director, Mr. A. J. Speer, then the County Civil Works Director, upon approval of a sufficient number of projects by the Montgomery Office, requisitioned the second half of the counties through the County Reemployment Office. The local Civil Works Director is responsible for the proper functioning of these Civil Works Administration projects in the County.

Reemployment Service

The Reemployment Office in the county has a local Reemployment Manager appointed by Mr. A. J. Speer, appointed by the U. S. Employment Service of the Department of Labor, as State Director. Under him are employed several interviewers and file clerks. The responsibility of this office is to take all applications for employment and, upon requisition of the Civil Works Director for a certain number of workers for an approved project, to furnish the required number with qualifications desired for that particular project. The Advisory Committee of the local Reemployment Office was selected and set up by a representative from the State Reemployment Office in Montgomery.

Federal Relief

The Relief Office in the county is a local unit of the Alabama Relief Administration and was designated by the local county governing body as the official public relief agency of the county. Each county has a qualified out-of-county person as Director of Relief. Under her are employed visitors, clerical staff, and commodity clerk. It is the responsibility of this office to accept applications for relief; to have the applicant visited by one of the visitors; and to reach a decision as to whether or not the applicant needs relief; and if so, to work out upon a budgetary basis what the need of the applicant is. It is then the responsibility of the office to see that the applicant gets the relief for which he or she is certified.

The local Child Welfare Board, which has been set up by law, acts as the Advisory Council for the relief office in 48 counties of the State, emergency relief committees serving in the other counties.

Disbursing Office

The Disbursing Officer usually serves for both the relief office, the local C.W.A. and must be approved by the State office of both bodies.

velopments in the county, and from its advantageous geographical location, Mr Stokes stated. Many of these skilled workmen; he hopes, may be placed with various TVA projects over the country.

Following is Mr. Stokes' letter:

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 10, 1934.
Mr. J. W. Fant, County Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.
My dear Mr. Fant:

Already farmers are making preparations for their work. Soon the aroma of freshly plowed soil will serve as evidence of their labor. Spring, birds begin to sing and flowers burst forth. To millions the birds will sing sweeter, the flowers will be more beautiful than during rectn seasons. Why?

Thousands are returning to their former jobs and others are going back to the happy occupation of farming. A happier and more prosperous day is ahead for millions, but we must see that there does not exist a "forgotten man". How?

At this time thousands of people who would normally be employed in industry or commerce or on the farm are now employed on CWA, PWA, or other Administration projects. As you know this program will taper off and it is expected that industry will absorb many workers. Naturally, agriculture must provide for a portion of the unemployed.

In our program so far we have been chiefly concerned with the registration, classification and selection of workers for the Administrative projects, but now we must work from the other angle, i.e. placing men in industry and assist in getting them back to the farm. During this week we have had several men to report to this office that they farmed last year, but they would not be able to do so this year on account of the Cotton Reduction Program. Naturally I am in sympathy with the AAA program, but I believe that in this county some program should be outlined whereby men will be encouraged to farm and at least to raise foodstuffs.

Please bear in mind that I am not attempting to meddle with the Agricultural program or problems, but I am interested in the fight against unemployment and know that industry cannot absorb all of the surplus labor, nor do I believe that the various work-relief projects can continue indefinitely. I will therefore appreciate anything that you can do to encourage men to return to the soil.

I assure you that it will be a pleasure to assist you in any way that I can.

Cordially yours,
Manager, National Reemployment Service for Chilton County.

From A Veteran In The Hospital

U. S. Veterans Hospital, Ward B.
Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Dear Editor and Readers of Chilton County News:

I have been in the Veterans' Hospital here since January 2. Don't know how much longer that I shall be here.

I am a member of the American Legion, Chilton County Post No. 6. I feel that it is the sacred duty of each and every ex-service man of the late World War to join the Legion. It is through the efforts of this organization that we have a hospital to go to for treatment when we are sick and broke.

I have met some men who have been here for a year or longer, have had several operations, which would have cost them thousands of dollars in private hospitals. I want to say that this hospital is as fine a money can provide, with all possible conveniences and comforts for the patients. The doctors, nurses and orderlies are just as nice and kind to patients as can be desired. For a long time I put off coming to the hospital, because some who had been patients here didn't give a favorable report.

Several deaths have occurred since I have been here; about six in one week's time. But that is to be expected, as the condition of some are very serious, and they are continually passing out.

But there is one thing the people can do for the patients. They might give us some flowers while we are yet living in any way that would be the most convenient. To the ones who read this, if you should come to the Veterans Hospital, I would certainly be indeed glad to see you, and if you can't come, write me a few lines, if nothing but a postal card. Just something to let us know we are not forgotten altogether, for we get lonely sometimes away from home, friends we know, and loved ones. I have already received quite a few letters and cards from friends around Clanton and Thorsby which I appreciate very much. All mail will reach me addressed to the above.

I now bid you, adieu.

OLIVER C. DUKE.

Parole Revoked And Hard Luck Again

Tough breaks seem to dog the steps of Emmett A. Thomas, whom officers characterize as a veteran bootlegger. Since Emmett returned from doing a stretch in the Federal Penitentiary, Atlanta, several months ago, reports are that local officers have periodically chalked up new cases against him.

Saturday, when papers were received by the Sheriff's office, from Gov. B.M. Miller, revoking a parole for Thomas from an eighteen months sentence in the State penal institutions, deputies hastened to his home, about three miles south of Clanton, to notify him of his misfortune—and while there from force of habit decided to make a search, which revealed several pints of liquor hidden in the house—thus, another was added to the growing list of charges against him on the Chilton County criminal docket.

Paroles were also revoked for Ross Ford, Archie Payton, and Julius R. Culp, all of whom have served from two to three terms for violations of the prohibition laws, according to Sheriff W. H. Gillespie.

PLAN TRADE WEEK HERE

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

Was His Face Red?

Imagine the expression on a certain county official's face a few days ago, when into his office strolled a man, who calmly laid a receipt for poll tax on his desk, saying, "I've already paid my poll tax. You might take your receipt and see if you if you can get your money back—I'm voting Democratic this time anyway."

Reports are that the postage business through the Clanton Post Office has shown a considerable increase during the past two weeks. We have heard of several persons receiving through the mails receipts for their poll tax, which they had not paid, but in no instance was a hint given of the name of the good Samaritan with such a deep interest in good government.

An unofficial check - up is said to have revealed that above 600 poll tax receipts were written after the closing date, February 1. Persons making this investigation declared that the only explanation given them for this alleged violation of the Corrupt Practice Acts, was that this money was paid in before the closing date, but the Collector's staff had not had sufficient time to write receipts, however, the question arises, "Would it be any easier, or quicker, to write a man's name, address and number of years he is due to pay taxes on some memorandum than it would be to write the same information on a blank specifically prepared for that purpose?

The Early Bird.

Heard J. Lee Smith say a few days ago that anyone wanting to see him between now and the general election will have to come to his home early in the morning, or late at night. We construe that to mean that in between times, he'll be out telling the voters of his qualifications for probate judge of Chilton County.

Now, Or Never.

Only about a week left for prospective candidates to "put up, or shut up." Wednesday, February 28, is the last day on which candidates will be allowed to file papers qualifying their entrance in the coming primaries. Talk continues of several persons who will perhaps make formal announcement this week.

CWA Tapers.

The tapering program of the CWA sets a new quota for Chilton County this week. The county quota has been re-set at 900 men and women for all projects; and March 1 this number will be reduced to 748, according to information received by the local CWA director. No information has been received as to how long the CWA will be in operation in this county, however, several important projects of permanent nature that are underway will require several weeks for completion.

Seven And Nine.

Seven and nine months terms for the hilton County schools seem a certainy. Plans were discussed at a meeting f all the teachers in the county at the Chilton County High School, Friday, for seven and nine months terms, instead of the previously planned six and ight months terms.

Just who stands a better showing th the Chilton County voters in the ubernatorial campaign is something hat is very hard to say. The matter is eceiving plenty of discussion, but it has oo many sides to safely arrive at any ecision. Heard a man a few days ago, ho has a fancy for white broadcloth hirts, talking big for Dixon, but right eside him was another man, who, too, ears the same brand of shirt, who taked a few on Graves to win. Mc-ord supporters, too, weren't adverse o a few new shirts and hats.

FAMOUS PLAY TO BE SHOWN HERE SOON

Shakespeare's "Macbeth" Is Scheduled For Clanton February 27th

The Miniature Playmakers, headed by John Forrest and Sybil Harris will present Shakespeare's great play, Macbeth, in the auditorium of the Chilton County High School on Tuesday night, February 27.

This play is one of the great four, the other three being Hamlet, King Lear and Othello. Macbeth is considered by many to be the most perfect in dramatic construction of all. This play was written as a compliment to King James I. James was the first king of the United Kingdom of England and Scotland. As the King was Scotch it was thought advisable to produce a play dealing with a Scotch subject. Macbeth was chosen. The character of Banquo is also a compliment to King James, as he was supposed to be the founder of the House of Stewart, from which James was descended. Hence the noble character of Banquo in the play. However; we are informed by some historians, that Banquo was as deep in the murder of Duncan as Macbeth.

Those in the cast besides Miss Harris and Mr. Forrest are Mr. Ellis Staggs, Elmer Jones, Hugo Smith and Martin Wells. Several local people will assist in the production.

Blanks Ready For Production Loans

The Montgomery Production Credit Association is perfected and is ready to make crop production loans. This organization is one of ten Farmers' Cooperative banks set up recently by the Farm Credit Administration to help finance the farmers.

The Farm Credit Administration furnishes the capital stock for these banks at present, but it is hoped that there will be enough farmers to borrow from these banks, and at the same time purchase some stock in them, that within a few years the capital stock may be taken over by the farmers, thereby forming strictly farmer-owned and farmer-operated banks.

Chilton County is a part of the Montgomery district and farmers who care to borrow money from this source of credit should apply at the county agent's office and secure application blanks.

This is not an emergency loan and will require other security in the form of a lien on personal property, livestock, or real estate, in addition to a crop mortgage

EDITORIAL

A TRIBUTE TO REP. W. B. OLIVER

Many tributes have been paid to Congressmen of the United States. Many of these men have done enough to deserve high tributes and have had before them only the thought of the interest of the people whom they were sent to Washington to represent.

Congressman W. B. Oliver may be placed in both these places.

A distinguished appearing man passes down the corridors of the House of Representatives in Washington. Those standing nearby, smile, speak and even tip their hats in recognition of a man who has made for himself a place of esteem and respect in the minds of the men who guide the destiny of this country, which can be earned only through earnest efforts, accomplishments and never-failing interest for his people.

Congressman W. B. Oliver, of the Sixth Congressional District, in which is included Chilton County, has been called, and properly so, "a most valuable servant for the people."

Congressman Oliver is a prominent member of the Appropriations Committee, and chairman of the sub-committee on Departments of State, Justice, Commerce and Labor.

An editorial in that great daily newspaper of Washington, The Washington Post, we find that OUR Congressman is classed as "one of those whose place could hardly be filled by another." This editorial from the Washington Post is reproduced on the editorial page of the News this week.

"The administration has no more enthusiastic supporter," the editorial says. But all this is not news to the people of the Sixth Congressional District. We know Mr. Oliver. We know the people can always depend on him, and how we would like to see pass in review those many deeds he has done whereby our county has benefitted.

We envy Tuscaloosa County on having produced such a man as Congressman Oliver, and yet we are proud that we are able to share him as a Congressman with Tuscaloosa and other counties in his District.

Termites Are Coming!

"What in the world is a termite, and what do they do?" you might ask.

A termite is one of the most damaging, property destroying things you have ever heard of. They work in the dark, winter and summer. They can ruin your home, your store, your barn and a lot of other things. Yes sir, they are a bad sort of thing to have around.

And this section is not immune. In the News this week will be found an article headed "The Truth About Termites." Find it and read it carefully. Also in the News this week will be found an advertisement on how to battle these termites. Termites are destroying millions of dollars worth of property, and their work can be seen right here in Chilton County. Get posted on this. It is worthwhile.

LONG SCHOOL TERMS STILL FAVORABLE

Although no definite arrangements have been made public regarding the appropriation of federal aid, through which Chilton County's school system hopes to be enabled to continue for full length terms, a meeting of all the teachers in the county was held last Friday at the Chilton County High School building, and plans were discussed for the re-arrangement of curriculum for seven and nine months terms instead of the previously planned eight months terms.

All the schools in the county were given a holiday and more than two hundred teachers attended the meeting.

HOPE TO WORK OUT SUITABLE CHURCH PLANS

Cotton Pledged To Churches Must Be Included In Reduction Plan

Stating that he had received several inquiries regarding the possibility of exempting certain cotton acreage from the cotton reduction program, inasmuch as it had been pledged to various churches, J. C.. and Mr. Cobb's reply relative to the matter:

Mr. C. A. Cobb, Chief, Cotton Section,
Agricultural Adjustment Administration, Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Cobb:

There are several churches in this county that receive their finances by asking the members to set aside a certain patch of cotton for church financing. Several church members have made inquiry if this church acreage can be planted and exempt from the cotton acreage reduction contract. G. F. M. EASTERLING HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE SUN.

Fire, originating from a defective stove flue, completely destroyed the home of G. F. M. Easterling in the Refuge community, about noon Sunday. The flames had gained considerable headway before they were discovered, and because of a lack of water supply could not be extinguished. The Clanton Fire Department answered the call, but arrived too late to save the building, however, it is understood that most of the furniture was saved.

A fire, originating from a closet, was extinguished before much damage was done to the home of Leonard Easterling, about a mile and one-half northeast of Clanton, late Saturday afternoon. The fire is believed to have started when an ironing board, which is believed to have been ignited, was placed in the closet. Neighbors extinguished the fire with buckets of water.

Drive A Safe Car

Nearly 75 per cent of motor cars on roads today have defects which increase hazards of driving, according to figures of 42 state motor vehicle inspection campaigns covering 22,702,000 cars, analyzed by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

In explaining the survey, John J. Hall, Director of the Street and Highway Safety Division of the National Bureau, points out that no structural defects were discovered in the cars, but three-fourths were found lacking either in adequate brakes, lights, horns, steering mechanism, windshield wipers, rear vision mirrors or safe tires. Worst of all was the condition of brakes—nearly 40 per cent being unsafe.

Obviously the condition calls for correction. No matter how safely a motorist drives, if his brakes fail, if his vision is obscured, if his lights do not show the road ahead, he is exposed to an accident every time he operates his car. It is not wise to belittle any of the hazards involved. In a hazardous chain of circumstances a defective windshield wiper can be just as dangerous as a loose wheel. Drivers who have formed a habit of overhauling their automobiles periodically are rarely responsible for accidents, said Mr. Hall.

Careless drivers, on the other hand, often pay a price for neglect that would meet necessary repair bills many times over, and if a few judgments are rendered against them, the bill will total the full price of several good automobiles.

Some states have found that the best method of insuring safe automobile mechanical condition is by means of compulsory inspection laws. They are supported in their view by safety organizations of nationwide reputation. Such laws have operated not only to improve individual car safety, but to increase employment and to stimulate business. In any event, the moral of this story is: Drive a safe car.

Howell Turner

It must be quite flattering to the model modest Howell Turner to read the many favorable comments which newspapers of the State have made regarding him and his candidacy for secretary of state in the May primary.

Mr. Turner has served for three years as private secretary to Governor Miller, his serving covering a turbulent period in state politics. Yet, Mr. Turner has come thru the turmoil with friendships piling up. That is quite a tribute to his tact, ability and genuine fondness for people, for the surprising thing is his friendships are both within and without the circle of administration supporters.

Perhaps, after all, this should not be surprising to those who know Mr. Turner. In the course of time thousands of Alabama citizens have business with the office of their governor and friends and foes alike of any given administration are included in the group. Those who have had business with the governor during the time Mr. Turner has been on the job received an affable reception and courteous attention to their business.

These things considered, it is not so strange that newspapers as well as individuals have been speaking so well of Mr. Turner and his candidacy. — Decatur Daily.

Good Indications

Among the indications that President Roosevelt's idea of recovery is working in this nation is the fact that some bills that have been on ledgers for several years are being paid.

This is the news we receive in contacts with several local merchants. It is the first time in several years that any "old accounts" have been collected.

This story sounds good, and if it spreads sufficiently far the statement that 95 per cent of the people are honest will continue to stand good. If not, then a good many skeptics will remain in the picture.—Decatur Daily.

Better Times In Texas

The major industry of Texas is agriculture, and if that prospers the people in the towns and cites fare well.

Therefore, it is gratifying to both urban and suburban population to know that there was a gain in crop wealth this past year of $120,000,000 over 1932.

The crop value of Texas for 1933 was $353,378,000 while that of the next highest Commonwealth, California, was $277,077,000, and that of Iowa was $214,492,000.

Counting Federal benefit payments, each farm family in Texas is some $360 better off than a year ago. The State has 500,000 farm families. — Houston Post.

Propaganda: Any statement made by our opponents.

The increasing number of women diplomats presages the end of secret diplomacy.

Obituares often refer to an indulgent husband and father. In many cases "indulging" would be the more appropriate word.

An Arizona girl shot her father "at the command of a ouija board." Every gangster's family should be supplied with a ouija board.

The story of an old-time Congressman who rode to Washington on a cow is being retold. And he probably shot her husband when he got there.

If, as we are told, every man has seven love affairs, a woman should be sure he has had six previous ones before she marries him.

"Make 'Em Talk"

The Montgomery Advertiser in an editorial of last Sunday says "Make 'Em Talk," and referring to candidates for members of the Legislature from their county.

We agree with The Advertiser. Yes, make 'em talk. Not only candidates of Montgomery County, but the candidates of Chilton County. And not only the candidates for the Legislature, but candidates for every important office.

We have had enough of this going along with a silent candidate. This is a year when no candidate is good enough to deserve that safety that is supposed to follow silence.

The people are fed up on silent candidates. We need to know where they stand, Republicans or Democrats, and the most important offices in this point to "Make 'Em Talk," is that of member of the Legislature and Governor of Alabama.

"Politicians make our laws. They tax us, they rule us and torment our lives," says the Montgomery Advertiser. This is your great moment. Make them talk now. It will be too late after the election.

If you are ready for sanity in government. If you are ready for clean government, free from political rings, cliques, campaign promises and vote-buying. If you are ready for a reduction in county and state government expenses and a reduction in taxes, then let us show some good ordinary sense in this, OUR moment, when candidates are seeking US and we are not seeking a politician.

The Tale Will Soon Be Told

The tale is getting shorter and shorter. It will soon be ended and all those who might have in their minds to seek a public office through elections this year will have to make up their minds within a few more days.

The fun and thrill of waiting for the next issue of the paper to see who is going to announce for an office will soon be over. March 1st brings the deadline for candidates to qualify. Yes sir, we are experiencing a thrill and our suspense is growing. There may be several to announce within the next few days.

"Representative Oliver, Star At Alabama"

Recognition was given a distinguished Alabama statesman, W. B. Oliver of the Sixth District, last Friday when Representative Blanton of Texas, requested that an editorial tribute to Mr. Oliver which had appeared in the Washington Post, be reproduced in the Congressional Record, which request was unanimously agreed to. Following is the tribute:

Impatiently awaiting a break in the weather and the return of balmy days is Congressman W. B. Oliver of Alabama, who rises with the dawn; former star athlete at the University of Alabama, where he was catcher for the Crimson Tide's southern championship teams.

"Buck" Oliver left the University of Alabama with a record of never permitting a stolen base during his four years as varsity catcher for the Crimson Tide. He is an incurable baseball and football fan and follows avidly the week-to-week success of Alabama's famed football teams.

With a record of never having been opposed for his seat in the House since his first campaign, Oliver is rounding out 20 years in Congress and has already filed his candidacy for the new term.

He is a prominent member of the Appropriations Committee, and chairman of the subcommittee on Departments of State, Justice, Commerce, and Labor. He is a frequent visitor to the White House on congressional affairs. The administration has no more enthusiastic supporter.

Mr. Blanton then made the following flowing reference to his colleague and friend:

"Buck" Oliver is just as good behind the bat here in Congress for all America as he was for the "Crimson Tide" at the University of Alabama. They do not steal any bases on him here. He unerringly throws them out at all bases. His place here could hardly be filled by another. He is a most valuable public servant.

The Heaven-Hell Argument

A questionnaire sent recently to many ministers thruout the country brought numerous replies in which doubts were expressed concerning the actual existence of places described as "Heaven" and "Hell," though the opinion was almost unanimous that there is an after state of some nature.

The discussion that is following is certain to be widespread and prolonged, but actually it is of no special concern to the millions of persons who are now living and who may speculate upon the future.

Religion, by whatsoever name, is not and has never been a system intended for dead persons. It is a system designed for the living and those who follow with sincerity of purpose well may permit the future to take care of itself.

It doesn't make any difference whether there are such specific places as Heaven and Hell, all persons know that there are states in which one enjoys felicity or suffering even in this life and it is fair to assume that the future also will contain experiences of this nature.

The thing of interest, therefore, is so to live that happiness will be enjoyed in this life, happiness being the fruit of conscientious living, and when this is done through life it is fair to conclude that a similar state will follow.

In brief, to live right here is at least one way to warrant the conviction that things will be all right hereafter.

—Tuscaloosa News.

Politics Not An Exact Science

The contradictions and inconsistencies of politics pass human understanding. Our esteemed contemporary, the Anniston Star, chides Judge McCord for his "hypocritical stand" on prohibition, the Judge being for l. w. and b. by direct action of the legislature with a referendum on hard liquors. The Star says, "Major Dixon on the other hand while having never voted a wet ticket until prohibition proved a failure, has the courage to come out flat-footed for repeal all the way.

The Star should reread Major Dixon's platform. It will be found that he favors re-enacting the old county option plan and not permit liquors sold in a county until the people had voted for it. After the legislature had repealed the law, the issue would go to the several counties. It looks like a more cumbersome plan than McCord's.

Anyway, we all know how to reach conclusions in an argument which satisfies our side. We might ask how is it that the Star, always a stalwart dry, should now be supporting the wettest of the wets, but these little incongruities are so common in politics they need no explaining.—The Selma Times-Journal.

D. W. Haskew

I lived in a village many years ago that had its streets lighted with lamps. Many an afternoon have I seen the lamplighter as he would make his rounds with his little torch. He carried his step ladder upon his shoulder and at each lamp post he would set it down and then climp up to the lamp. I seemed to hear the little torch saying, "I am too small to shine very far and why carry me to the top of this lamp post?" But I watched and noted that the little light was not carried along to shine, but to light the big lamp so that it could do the shining. There are some people in almost every community who are not much for shining, but somehow they have the power to touch other hearts and make them to do the shining. If you can not be the big light and sit high in the estimation of people, be the little light that sets the big lights on fire. To shine in the corner where you are is the thing.

One morning during my college days one of the students brought a mouse into the labratory. Our professor proceeded to give out experiments that amused the students and punished the rat. The little rodent was put into a glass jar and the air was pumped out. When the air was almost out of the jar the mouse would run around in great distress in search of that thing that it needed most. When it needed air it had sense enough to rush about in the vacuum in search of it. The mouse showed more sense than the human race of today. The devil has about succeeded in pumping out of the world the Christian atmosphere that once blessed every one who breathed its power, and we do not seem to be the least alarmed. The law of God, the atmosphere of the Man of Galilee, are the real needs of the world, but we are too much absorbed in other ways of living to realize our greatest need. As the mouse could not live in the vacuum without air, neither can we live as a nation and as individuals without the laws of God and the life of His Son.

In the olden days the Romans had a coin that they prized very highly. The engraving on the coin represented an ox as standing between a plow and an altar. He was ready for service or sacrifice. The engraving showed that the ox was ready for either one. That is where every church member and every American citizen should stand. We should be ready for service or sacrifice according to the will of Him to whom we belong.

In a town where I lived a wealthy man died of delirum tremens and he was buried in a $1500.00 casket. About the same time an humble Methodist preacher passed away and he was buried in a plain pine casket. One who saw the two caskets made this remark, "Somehow things are not equal in this world—that drunken wretch is buried in a bronze casket and the good man in a pine box." A good woman standing near and hearing the remark made reply, "Yes, that is all so, but I had a thousand times rather be the poor minister now than the rich man who had such pomp in his burial." Two minutes after death, Which had you rather be—a drunken sot in a bronze casket, or a godly man in a pine box?

One day I stood by the side of a creek. Far up the stream a heavy rain had fallen, and the water in the creek bed was rising. A slough made off from the bed of the stream and wound its way far out into the swamp. As the water in the creek came to the slough I seemed to hear some of it saying, "I am tired of all this rush and rolling and I am going to get out of this stream." It would pause for a moment and then slowly run out into the slough. The water that stopped filled up all the muddy holes in the slough and soon it was cut off from the stream. The high water had receded and now the slough was full of the water from the creek. It stood there day after day and in the hot sun the water became impure. A scum settled over its surface and frogs and slime gathered into its depths. All of this because the water wanted to get out of the roll and the rush. Running water purifies itself, but not so with stagnant water. You say that you are tired of the tasks of the church and you want to rest a bit? The life that stops is the life that becomes foul with the ways of idleness and sin.

Letters To The Editor

THE CWA PROGRAM AND HEALTH OF OUR COUNTY

Dear Editor:

Will you please print in your paper this note on the progress of our CWA work?

As a canvasser for CWA on the health and sanitation project in Beat 15, wish to mention the good we can readily see is being accomplished thru our work. First, is cooperation. Our people have given us their best cooperation and interest in this work for which we are so thankful, for without same very little good could have been accomplished.

Second, our people have been very cordial toward us, have welcomed us into their homes, even sometimes at the busiest hour of the day, and we believe given us the exact information to the best of their knowledge on the health and sanitation of their family and premises.

Third, in discussing and checking health of the family, some have been surprised, saying they had not heretofore stopped to think over the real condition of the health of the family and how same might be improved. Others have such a remarkably good record on health, but had not stopped to think how lucky they are, and how they might help others, until their attention was called to it by a health canvasser.

Fourth, one person said to me as I made a survey of his premises on sanitation that he thought his place sanitary, until same was called to his attention by the survey, which caused him to see room for great improvement on the sanitation of his place, although his premises were in as good condition as the average.

There is room for great improvement in sanitation throughout our county, and we fully believe that our people are going to make every effort possible to get their premises in perfect sanitary condition, although the lack of funds will be some hindrance. The people have learned through the survey many ways of improvement without cost, also that the health of the family depends largely on the sanitation of the premises.

In conclusion I wish to speak for my entire territory of people in regard to a health clinic. I feel that the cooperation of these good people through these surveys should be gratified with a clinic. The surveys above will show the great need for the clinic. Again I wish to express highest appreciation to the people with whom I have worked for their kindness and cooperation.

A CANVASSER.

IN MEMORY OF ELIZABETH WILLIS

On January 31st, 1934, at 6:25 o'clock the death Angel came to earth to gather flowers for God's throne. This time it was a full bloom flower. God needs old flowers as well as buds. This time it was Grandmother. She was 92 years of age. To know Grandmother Willis was to love her. She had given her life to Christ in her young girl-hood days and had lived a sweet Christian life. She was a member of the Big Springs Baptist church at the time of her death.

She was ill almost three weeks. We feel that everything was done that loving hands could do to relieve her of her suffering, but God saw fit to take her from us. Now that is all over and she is at rest, for God said, "Lay not up your treasures where moth and rust doth corrupt, but lay up your treasures in heaven."

She leaves to mourn her death seven children, Marion Willis of the Evergreen community, Mrs. T. J. Wright, of Vida, Ala., George Willis, Philadelphia, Miss., Joe Willis, Haynes, Ala. Andrew Willis, Billingsley, Ala., M. F. Willis, Thorsby, Ala., Claud Willis, Atlanta, Ga.; forty grandchidren; fifty-six great-grandchildren and seven great-great-grandchildren.

The pallbearers were her grandsons and one great-grandson.

Funeral services were held at the Big Springs church, Rev. Williams of Clanton conducting the funeral, assisted by Rev. Mitchell of Brent, Ala.

The remains were laid to rest in the Hinton cemetery with Griffin of Prattville in charge.

FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION

I hereby declare myself a candidate for re-election to the office of Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Ala., subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries of May and June, 1934.

CHEVROLET ANNOUNCES
a revolutionary new line of low-priced trucks

Bigger, huskier models feature an entirely new engine, giving increased power on less fuel than ever!

THE 1934 line of Chevrolet trucks—truck-built for truck service all the way through—feature the Blue-Flame engine—a great new development that will be welcomed by every truck buyer in America. Here are the remarkable facts: The new Chevrolet trucks are even bigger than last year's models—bigger in bodies, with stronger, heavier frames, huskier transmissions and rear axles, and larger brakes. They will deliver more power. They will haul bigger loads than ever. Yet, thanks to the new Blue-Flame engine, operating costs are actually lower than before—and that means the lowest in the hauling field. The net result of all these improvements is a line of trucks like no others on the market—the first to offer such a combination of big capacity, great power and unequalled economy.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. FANNIE SIMS

On Sunday, February 11, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Henry Sims of Bessemer and took away their beloved mother and grandmother. She had been in bad health for several years, but all was done for her that loving hands and tender hearts could do. But God loved her most and called her home. She leaves to mourn her loss seven sons and five daughters: Cleave Sims of Billingsley, Jesse, Cliff, Henry, all of Bessemer; Ace, Darb and Von of Maplesville; Mrs. Ella Chandler of Maplesfille, Mrs. Ellen Chandler of Pletcher, Mrs. Flossie Chandler of Plantersville, Mrs. Lillian Keener of Bessemer and Mrs. Nettie Lenoir of Maplesville; and a host of grandchildren, other relatives and friends.

The remains were laid to rest at Pilgrim Rest cemetery Tuesday, with the Rev. A. S. Bentley officiating.

We miss her, oh we miss her.
Her smiling face is cold.
But Jesus called her home
To a better land we know—
A land that never grows old,
Where the streets are paved of gold.
Where she can sing with the
Angels and never, never grow old.
Weep not, dear children, for
Our loss is Heaven's gain.

Dixon Outlines Plan For State Government

Plans are being pushed aggressively in Chilton County for the nomination of Frank M. Dixon as Democratic candidate for Governor of Alabama, according to a statement issued here today by C. Fenn Jones.

The striking thrusts which Mr. Dixon is making in his campaign addresses have aroused keenest interest among the residents of this county, according to Mr. Jones, who predicts that Dixon will poll a large vote throughout the county on May 1.

"Mr. Dixon's firm stand in favor of education and his proposal that a thoro survey of the school system of Alabama be made prior to the opening of the 1935 legislative session, in order that a comprehensive program may be mapped for submission to that body as to methods for relieving the situation in which the Educational Department of the state now finds itself, has caused enthusiastic comment here.

"The Dixon plans for regeneration of the state government along the lines already proved successful in Virginia, North Carolina and Indiana, too, have brought many citizens into the ranks of Dixon supporters. Comments generally favor his views on the submission of plans for reorganization of county and city governments, which would indicate the voters here realize that thru such reorganization funds can be increased for the maintenance of schools.

"The slogan adopted by Mr. Dixon 'Ancient minds and ancient methods shall not rule Alabama' means much to the people of Chilton County," said Mr. Jones. "Many of those who have pledged their support to Mr. Dixon have said that he is a welcome new note in state politics, so long ruled by politicians of the old school, whose platforms have all too apparently been molded by those who have for years upheld methods of government which have been largely responsible for the desperate straits in which the State's affairs now flounder."

Mr. Jones stated that large crowds have greeted Mr. Dixon in every community in which he has spoken in the state. Thus far Mr. Dixon has visited 25 counties and has spoken in Mobile, Dothan, Troy, Luverne, Tuscaloosa, Fayette, Jasper, Carbon Hill, Florence Tuscumbia, Ashland Heflin, Jacksonville, Piedmont, Wedowee, Anniston, Cullman and Athens, as well as several meetings in Birmingham.

"He has discussed in detail practically all the major planks in his platform, including the reorganization of state, county and municipal governments, education, taxation, state control of wines, beer, and sprituous liquors, sold in packages and has plead for an honest and intelligent discussion of educational problems."

REBECCA ANN MOATES DIED AT HER HOME SUNDAY NIGHT

The Rev. T. C. Cassidy officiated, assisted by the Rev. Ray Nolan, pastor of the church. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Spigener in charge.

Processing Tax On Hogs

To Processors of Hogs:

This office has just been advised by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue of a change in the Regulations relative to the processing tax on hogs as it applies to producers.

Farmers who raise hogs and slaughter them, primarily for the consumption of their households or employees, but sell or exchange parts or cuts therefrom, are exempt from the tax, provided such sales do not exceed 300 lbs. for the marketing year. Should such producers sell or exchange an amount in excess of 300 lbs., but not in excess of 1000 lbs., such persons can claim the exemption of 300 lbs. and pay the tax on the balance. However, if the sales amount to more than 1000 lbs. in any marketing year, no claim for the exemption of 300 lbs. can be made.

The tax was effective November 5th, 1933, and the rate of tax to December 1st was 50c per hundred pounds, for the months of December and January, $1.00 per hundred pounds, for the month of February, $1.50 per hundred pounds, and on and after March 1st, $2.25 per hundred pounds, based on the live weight of the hog at the time of slaughter.

All processors of hogs, not coming within the above classification, are required to file monthly returns with this office, in duplicate, and pay the tax at the rates quoted above. Returns must be filed and the tax paid within the next calendar month following the month in which the processing is done, as a 25% penalty attaches for delinquent filing.

Respectfully,
Harwell G. Davis, Collector.
By C. R. Turner, Chief, Processing Tax Division.

Letters To The Editor

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STORY

Editor, Chilton County News:

I notice in last week's issue of The Union-Banner that Mr. Chas. Cooper seems to think that a man won't get a square deal in the Democratic party. Well, I think we have just as good men in one party as we have in the other.

Mr. Cooper says he don't think Roosevelt wanted to mix politics in the operation of the CWA. I don't think he did either, but we, as Democratic people of our community, haven't received any work yet, while the adjoining beat, which is a Republican beat, I think most every man that has asked for help has got it. Whether politics has got anything to do with this, I don't know, but it looks suspicious.

Mr. Cooper seems to think that if we would go to a certain Democratic candidate we would get help. I don't know of one that is connected with the CWA, while one man I know who tried to get on the CWA and couldn't, then he went to a Republican candidate and told him he couldn't pay his poll tax and vote if he didn't get work, and in three days he got work. Whether politics had anything to do with this, I don't know.

Mr. Cooper says, What has the Democratic party done to cause us to want to follow them. I say what has the Republican party done? Maybe it is Hoover and Prosperity that Mr. Cooper likes, and it was Hoover and Hard Times we got during the four years. We got five cents and less for cotton, and now what are we getting? Nearly three times as much, with better times in sight. Now, Mr. Cooper has the Democrats done anything for us?

Speaking of destroying cotton and pigs, did the government force us to plow up our cotton and kill our pigs? No.

Mr. Cooper says that a fifty-cent pair of overalls last year, now cost one dollar and fifty cents. I didn't find any for that. If a Democratic government brings back prosperity, a county Democratic government would help. Let us make up our minds and vote for the Democratic candidates in the coming elections.

With best wishes,
CLIFFORD LeCROY.

AND THANKS TO YOU, MRS. STUPAR, FOR THIS LETTER

Williamsville, N. Y., Feb. 12, 1934.
Chilton County News,
Clanton, Ala.

Dear Editor:

In the few weeks that I have received your very interesting County paper I have begun to look forward to Friday, the day it reaches me, with the greatest pleasure. I am very grateful to my brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Williams, of Route four, for the benefit of such appropriate Christmas gift. In behalf of the paper I would suggest to those who have relatives and friends that once lived in Chilton County, a years subscription to the paper is the greatest of Xmas gifts. I have news that way of friends and relatives whom I have known or heard nothing about since I came to Buffalo almost twelve years ago. It's just a very "warm spark" in a very cold climate.

What has become of the Airport that was started near Clanton several weeks ago? That may be a "tender spot" to some of the readers but nothing could delight me more than to know that this Airport is going to be a reality. Aviation is, without a doubt, the latest milestone in the progress of humanity and it is gratifying to be able to see that ones own State, and even county, is rising with this growing industry. I think that I am very fortunate in being able to see the building of many of these planes in detail as my husband is connected with the Curtiss Airplane and Motor Corp., and I wish that all of you who aren't convinced that aviation is worth while could go thru this three-acre factory that in ordinary working times employs between twelve and fifteen hundred men and see these interesting steps. There is no doubt that you too would become very enthused about it all and work diligently to establish that Airport and for its future development. This plant is only one of a dozen or more I could mention that is leading in Aircraft production and if it were not considered the coming thing, I don't believe so many thousands of dollars would be spent daily for the perfection of these ships. I hope to see in a future issue that the work there is still progressing.

It is very hard for us here to picture you people there plowing and planting things tho I did see in last weeks issue there had been quite a frost. Our weather here astounds even a veteran Buffalonian. All the past week it has been very cold. Two days not over zero, last Thursday, thirty-four below. We do not expect to plow the garden until the first week in April at which time the sap will only have begun to rise. However, we are planting some things inside to be transplanted when the ground is in proper condition. Right now one would have to plow thru a foot of snow then eighteen inches or two feet of frozen earth. One would think that with these severe winters all cornborers and bugs would be killed, but the farmers here have their own particular troubles trying to get rid of such pests, just as the Southern farmer has with the boll weevil.

I wish to comment on your contributing staff, as well as a most efficient mailing department. The "So It Seems," column, D. W. Haskew, and the C. C. H. S. items are very interesting. Only one criticism and that goes to Maplesville (the village I shall always have in memory as that place of a very, very happy childhood) the news is far too brief and too far between. Please write more often, Maplesville!

Many good wishes for the prosperity of the paper and to each of its readers. I am,

Very sincerely,
LANIS STUPAR.

FROM J. C. EDWARDS

Editor, Chilton County News:

Some few weeks ago there was a protest and petition to keep Judge Rutherford on the air. The Last Golden Age says in part, "There was 2,416,141 signatures, 25 signatures to the sheet, comprised a pile 50 feet high and after being tightly wrapped, was over 41½ feet high. The shipment to Congress was 1,247 lbs. Alabama sent in 28,770, California 226,964, Pennsylvania 238,774, and 47 other states sent in their amounts."

June 15, 1933 the Catholic Register, Kansas City, Mo., diocesan weekly said, every radio station that broadcasts these Rutherford talks is running a serious risk of losing its license to broadcast. Many Catholics signed the petition until the Roman hierarchy took a hand in it. The right of free speech over the radio was not questioned in the United States. Some of Satan's representatives teach that the prayers of men can aid those who are suffering in purgatory, a good scheme to get in the money. These false doctrines are defamations of God's name and have turned millions away from the true God. So we read in I Tim. 6:9, They that will be rich fall into temptation and a snare.

During the Elijah period there was a class that stressed the importance of character development, deeming that to be great gain and therefore godliness; because it would insure the developer a place in heaven. Another class, meek and humble, desired only to please the Lord and while these looked forward also to a place in heaven and that properly their chief and great desire was to serve Jehovah and Christ Jesus. At Christ's coming to the emple for judgment the two classes began to be made manifest, to wit: the class moved by selfishness and which class quickly developed into the evil servant class, and the other class moved by unselfish devotion to God and His kingdom and which class Jesus formed into the faithful and wise servant. To this faithful class the Lord committed His testimony on earth and He invites them to enter into His joy. What is the meaning of the Elijah period: Knowing the Lord's will and doing His will is pleasing to Him.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

Preparation for graduation exercises are underway. At a class meeting last Tuesday, the Senior class elected those members of the class who will take part in the program for Class Night. Class Night is the night before Commencement which is turned over to the members of the Senior Class to have any kind of entertainment they desire. The final plans as to the type of program they will present Class Night have not been worked out yet. Class Historian, one who will tell the history of the class during its years in high school, will be Maralyn Hardy; the Class Prophecy will be given by Mary Charles Cox who will gaze into the future and see the class members as they will be years from now; Giftorian for the night will be Dan Smith and Joe Moore will give the Last Will and Testament of the class. The class song rests in the hands of a committee with Roberta Cochran as chairman. The class also selected its motto and colors. The motto of the Senior Three Class of 1933-34 is, "The higher the rise, the broader the view." The class colors are to be pink and white. The class flower will not be selected until just before Commencement.

A final vote on the memorial to be left by the present Senior Class resulted in a unanimous choice of an entrance gate for the southern end of the driveway. Work will begin immediately on the erection of this memorial. The class decided, after hearing a report made by a committee appointed for the matter, that with the money left they would also erect a sundial with benches on the campus. These two objects, the entrance gate and the sundial with benches, will add quite a touch of beauty to the school grounds and the Senior Class should be complimented on their wise decisions.

The students of Chilton County High School as well as the citizens of Clanton and Chilton County will receive a rare and priceless opportunity when the famous Shakespearean tragedy, "Macbeth," will be presented at the high school auditorium Tuesday night, February 27. A professional group of players including John Forrest of the Chicago Shakespearean Society will present this masterpiece for one performance only. This is indeed a rare privilege for Clanton to have a group of experienced and professional actors, to present such a drama. This is being sponsored by the Senior Three Class. The time will be 7:30 p.m. and the admission is 25 and 35 cents.

MODERNIZE NOW ON EASY TERMS

THE TRUTH ABOUT TERMITES

By Evan L. Fellman Manager Terminix Division, E. L. Bruce Co.

Jack Dionne's recent editorials on termites have stirred up an amount of interest which deserves further consideration.

There exists in the minds of many a certain degree of misunderstanding of the termite problem. Accordingly it will be the purpose of this article to state as briefly as possible the facts relative to the subject as seen by the E. L. Bruce Company who, in addition to its widespread hardwood flooring and lumber interests, have become during the past few years a leader in the field of termite control.

Termites (white or flying ants), ant-size, creamy white and wingless in the working stage, and of darker color and with wings during the swarming seasons in spring and fall when they are ordinarily seen, are definitely attacking and at least partially destroying the important wood members in a large percentage of homes and buildings the country over.

Although more than 1,00 species of termites are known, of which 46 have been found in the United States, we are seriously concerned only with that group known as subterranean termites, which live in the ground where necessary moisture is found, and which build branching shelter tubes up and sometimes through foundation walls and pillars through which contact with wood above, the food, is made.

Because these subterranean termites have occasionally caused noticeable weakness in foundation woodwork in relatively short periods, opportunity presented itself to varius unethical termite control operators (springing suddenly into business almost over night) to grossly mis-represent the conditions, scaring owners of homes and buildings in which only slight infestation was found, into believing that their structures would promptly topple about their heads.

Through such intimidations it was possible for those operators to extract thousands of dollars from the public for various type of chemical treatments. These operators had studied the problem little, knew next to nothing about the treating work, gave guarantees which, because of the lack of financial backing, often proved worthless. As their hastily made chemical applications began to prove worthless the custom of these operators was merely to leave the vicinity and begin operations anew in a virgin territory.

This sort of thing has been going on, is still going on. It has reached the stage where recently, authorities, for the protection of the public, have seen fit to issue widespread warnings to beware of termite control operators, menace and their chemical applications were of little, if any, value.

But this publicity has been, in a measure, unfortunate. These warnings have actually more than accomplished their purpose in that now much of the public is inclined to either understimate the seriousness of the problem, or, to believe that no protection can be afforded by proper chemical treatments.

So the facts are wanted. What is the true picture?

When termites are definitely found attacking the woodwork in a home or other building it can be definitely assumed that, unless effective means are employed to retard their attacks, the depredations will continue until a time when repairs and replacements which are often costly become necessary. If guaranteed methods of proved effectiveness are used in controlling the termites the cost for repairs and replacements can be entirely eliminated.

Further, if termites are found only attacking wood debris in the ground below the structure it can be safely assumed that at some later date they will extend their activities to the structure itself if not protective measures are taken.

The value of protecting against termites can be judged only in terms of the [illegible] repair expense. Many cases are known where the cost of replacements and repairs has run from several hundred dollars to over $2,000 where termites could have been controlled for $75.00 to $300.00. Then, and worse, often the replacements have been of untreated wood, merely furnishing new, palatable substance to be in turn riddled by the termites.

Wood is the universal building material. It is, of course, unfortunate that it is subject to termite attack. It behooves the lumber industry to become acquainted with the problem so that users of wood may be assured that termites present no menace when properly preserved lumber is used in new construction, and that in standing structures of untreated wood where termites are found, effective methods are now known of controlling them at reasonable cost. Such understanding tends to save the large present market for lumber whereas refusal to recognize the facts must only tend to lend greater opportunities for the inroads of substitutes for wood.

An example of this may be taken from our own experience: Through exhaustive study the Bruce Chemical Corporation Laboratories developed our product Terminix which has been applied in several thousand homes and buildings during the past three and one-half years, by our licensed Terminix Application Companies in seventeen termite infested states. These application companies have been trained in the rather intricate and technical features connected with the treating work and are properly equipped with automotive treating outfits operated under electrical pressure. Permission from owners is obtained to make free investigations to determine the exact condition relative to termites. Their report is given to the owner and, if treatment is recommended, the price is quoted. A uniform contract is used covering all Terminix applications. This contract, among other things, guarantees not only an original ad thorough treatment, but frequent inspections over a five-year period, and retreatments if necessary, at no additional obligation. The E. L. Bruce Company is definitely a party to these contracts, guaranteeing that if for any reason whatsoever the individual application company is unable to fulfill the terms of that contract, that the E. L. Bruce Company will cause complete performance. Through this system purchasers of Terminix treatments are full protected.

It should be recognized that termites are ingenious creatures, cleverly seeking the most remote places to gain entrance into structures, thus making the matter of treating against them a work only for those who are acquainted with their habits. Because of the human element involved in the treating work an absolutely perfect application job is not always attained at the time of the original treatment. Therefore the service feature included in any contract for termite control is of vital importance. Terminix has been shown in innumerable instances unquestionably effective. Yet, without the guaranteed assurance that any weakness in the original treatment would be promptly remedied, purchasers could not be certain of practical immunity for their treated structures, for the full five year period. It should also be realized that after five years constant supervision, following these methods, protection may prove to last indefinitely longer, beyond the contract period. — Reprinted from The Gulf Coast Lumberman.

Holy Spirit And Baptism

It must be clear to all that baptism of the Holy Spirit is one thing and that the Holy Spirit itself is something else entirely different. Just as baptism in water is one thing, but water itself is something else entirely different. Baptism in fire is one thing, but fire itself is something else entirely different.

In Acts 2:38 the Apostle Peter promised the "Gift of the Holy Spirit" to all, even as many as God shall call. But it is evident that the "gift" here promised is the Holy Spirit itself and not the "Baptism of the Holy Spirit." Peter here only made the promise of one gift and inasmuch baptism is one thing and the Holy Spirit is something else, we cannot tie baptism of the Holy Spirit to this passage of scripture. To do so would put words into Peter's mouth that the Holy Spirit did not put there. Man cannot add to the words of the Holy Spirit and still speak as the Spirit gives utterance. Let's be careful, lest we add to the word of God, and secure the wrath of God. See Rev. 22:18-19.

Sincerely,
R. L. HUFFMAN.

Sunday School Meeting At Pleasant Valley, 18

The Chilton County Division of the Unity Associational Sunday Schools held its February meeting at Pleasant Valley Sunday, February 18th. The following is the program rendered:

Opening Song: "What A Friend," by Mr. J. Z. Mims.

Introduction: Supt. H. A. Harris.
Devotional: Rev. J. W. Jones.
"The Church and the Sunday School," Bro. Robinson.
Song: "We're Marching to Zion."
"Why Church Members Should Attend Sunday School," Mr. J. Z. Mims.
"The Young People and the Sunday School," Rev. J. W. Jones.

Additional talk and explanation of Standard of Excellence requirements, Mr. Harris.

The roll was called and the representation was as follows: Clanton, 9; Samaria, 6; Concord, 0; Providence, 6; Mt. Zion, 0; Floyd, 0; Pleasant Valley, 15; visitors, 4. Among the number present were three superintendents, two secretaries, and eight teachers. We were very glad to have among the superintendents Bro. Robinson, 83, of Providence, who has been superintendent of that Sunday school for nearly forty-five years. Our country needs more untiring men like Mr. Robinson in the field of service.

We want every church represented in the next meeting. Watch the papers for further announcements.

Nagging Pains

are WARNING SIGNALS

TEMPORARY pain relief remedies may save you much suffering at the moment, but putting a mask over a warning signal does not clear up the condition it was telling you to avoid.

When periodic pains, due to a weak, run-down condition, distress you, treatment for the cause of the trouble should be started without delay.

Take Cardui to build up against the nagging symptoms of ordinary womanly ailments. It has been in use for over 50 years. So many women praise CARDUI, it must be good to have the widespread use that it has today. Sold at drug stores.

WHY BANKS ASK THEIR BORROWERS TO "CLEAN HOUSE" PERIODICALLY

One of the established rules of sound banking is that borrowers should periodically clean up their indebtedness to the bank.

Conservative business policy is wholly in accord with this view.

By periodically wiping its slate clean of bank indebtedness, a business enterprise clearly indicates its solvency. It indicates that the borrowed funds are not being used as capital, but only for seasonal requirements—which is the real function of commercial bank loans. It indicates that the business is strong enough to stand on its own feet, that it is adequately capitalized and compently managed. It is clearly improper to do this by borrowing from one bank to pay another.

This annual debt cleanup protects both the borrower and the bank. It provides the bank with the steady flow of incoming payments necessary to meet depositors' demands and create the basis for new loans. ItI keeps the borrower from coming to regard the borrowed money as his own capital, and over-extending himself.

This bank holds membership in the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and deposits with us are insured as provided in Federal Banking Act of 1933.

McCord Drawing Crowds At Speakings Over Entire State

JUDGE LEON McCORD

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 21.—Driving home his appeal for a legislature and a state democratic executive committee and his pledge for reapportionment of legislative representation, based on population, that will recognize the interest of the people rather than a favored few, Judge Leon McCord, democratic national committeeman and candidate for governor, addressed capacity audiences at Tuscaloosa, Dothan, Ashford, Hartford, Samson, Geneva and Troy during the past week.

Returning to his headquarters for the week-end, Judge McCord declared that he will be nominated in the first primary May 1. In almost every address he made last week he predicted that Alabama democrats will not be forced to enter a run-off primary to determine who will be the next governor. "Without asking a single person to vote for me, I have been assured that the progressive voters of Alabama have turned to me by the thousands since my platform was made public," said Judge McCord. "I know the people are determined to establish a state government in January that will take the people into affairs of state."

Reports from Tuscaloosa were that a remarkable demonstration of Judge McCord's strength was shown when he began his address Saturday morning. The large courtroom was packed to capacity. People stood in the aisles, sat in the windows and overflowed into the corridors. A smaller courtroom was filled and several hundred stood on the courthouse lawn and listened to the address through amplifiers. Newspapers estimated the crowd at more than 1,200. Some estimates ran as high as 2,500. Dr. George H. Denny, president of the University of Alabama, and a large number of others interested in education heard the address.

Judge McCord gave particular attention to education throughout the week. He insisted that a public school term of not less than seven months is the state's most important obligation after maintaining its financial integrity. He said public schools can be kept open, in his opinion, for the full term of seven months by "cutting to the bone", abolition of useless offices and consolidation of departments. He promised that no great halls bearing his name will be erected at the expense of the school term while he is governor.

"This program for economy will be arranged as soon as I am nominated," said Judge McCord. "I do not intend to wait until I have been inaugurated. I shall call to my aid the patriotic men and women of this state, who have the future of their children at heart. A conference will be held with all county and municipal officials who will have a part in arranging the program for the next four years. A plan for the reduction of expenses will be made and the cutting to the bone will be carried down the line, from state departments to the smallest department of a municipal government. This is the only way we can save the state."

Judge McCord reiterated the pledge that there will be no increase in taxation for general purposes. "The people are being taxed enough," he said. "I have declared in almost every speech that only in one event will any suggestion for new revenue be made: That is in case we find that reduction of operating expenses, abolition of useless offices and consolidation of departments will not yield sufficient revenue to keep the public schools open a minimum of seven months each year. I make this pledge because I believe the education of the youth is the most important duty of the state. Unless we educate the children they will never be able to pay off the indebtedness that has been heaped on their heads by the extravagance of the Graves administration."

Every school teacher will be paid her salary and every Confederate pensioner will be given his pension promptly when he becomes governor, Judge McCord pledged in his Tuscaloosa address. "There will be no discrimination against teachers or Confederate soldiers during my administration," he said. "If the governor or any other official or employe is paid his salary during the next four years the school teachers and Confederate pensioners will be paid."

Judge McCord was greeted by overflow crowds at all points in the wiregrass and he was assured that he would have a large lead in the first primary. Campaign organizations have been formed voluntarily by friends of Judge McCord in each county in the wiregrass.

In each address former Governor Bibb Graves was charged by Judge McCord with lending "aid and comfort" to the Stop Roosevelt movement in Alabama and with maintaining an extravagant administration that resulted in a deficit of from $15,000,000 to $18,000,000. The name of Frank M. Dixon, third candidate for governor, was not mentioned by Judge McCord in any address during the week. Dixon has not figured in any speech of Judge McCord since the Athens keynote address, during which Judge McCord commended Dixon's record as an American soldier during the world war.

"NITROGEN, YES— AND THOSE VITAL IMPURITIES TOO"

Fascinating Facts of NATURE

WHAM! . . Chilean Natural Nitrate, the world's only natural nitrate fertilizer—is blasted from the ground, refined and shipped to you. You put it back into the ground on your farm where it fairly works wonders on your crops. It is as natural as the seeds you plant.

GEN. ROBT. E. LEE GRADUATED FROM WEST POINT (2ND IN HIS CLASS OF 46) THE YEAR BEFORE THE FIRST SHIPLOAD OF CHILEAN NITRATE SAILED INTO A VIRGINIA PORT—1830

CHILEAN NATURAL NITRATE IS NITROGEN PLUS—NITROGEN, PLUS THE NATURE—GIVEN "IMPURITIES" SUCH AS IODINE, CALCIUM, POTASSIUM, SODIUM, BORON, MAGNESIUM, ETC.
EACH OF THESE IS PLANT FOOD IN ITSELF.

De Priest Loses First Skirmish In Effort To Get Negroes In Cafe

Washington. Feb. 19.—Representative Oscar DePriest (Republican) Illinois, lone negro in Congress, today lost his first skirmish on his resolution to investigate by what authority the accounts committee could bar negroes from eating in the House restaurant.

His resolution has been before the rules committee since Chairman Warren (D), North Carolina, issued an order to keep negroes out of the restaurant. The situation was brought to an issue when Lewis Morris, negro secretary to DePriest, and another negro were refused food in a grill room.

With the Democrats voting against and the Republicans for, the rules committee today declined DePriest's request for a hearing on his resolution.

DePriest previously said that, in the event his resolution was not approved, he would file a petition to force it to a vote in the House. It requires 145 signatures to force a vote on discharging a committee.

Local H.S. Girls Given Chance At Scholarship

University scholarships will be the goal of high school girls of this city who compete in a nation-wide essay contest just announced in detail to local teachers of home economics.

This educational project known as the national meat story contest, has been conducted annually since 1924 under the supervision of teachers in hundreds of high schools throughout the country, according to the National Live Stock and Meat Board, its sponsor.

National, sectional, and state winners are selected each year. Miss Mary E. Bradford, an Atmore girl, was the state champion of Alabama last year.

Contestants have until March 15 to get their essays in. These essays, judging from past years, will cover a wide range of subjects such as, meat in the balanced diet, the preparation of meat, meat in the economy budget, the importance of the live stock and meat industry, etc.

Selection of the winning essay will be in the hands of a committee of eminent home economics authorities whose names will be made public at a little later date, according to the announcement. Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the federal bureau of home economics, headed this committee last year.

Teachers say they have found this type of competition of value not only for the scholarships it affords, but also for the training it provides in the interests of better home-making in the future, according to the Board.

The organization sponsoring this annual contest represents the entire livestock and meat industry, It is interested in extensive research into the subject of meat, working closely with the leading colloges and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The essay contest is conducted with the purpose of assisting in the study of meat in high school foods classes.

HIGHLAND

We are very sorry that our chairman of the singing society, Mr. Herman Culpepper, was sick and could not be with us last Sunday afternoon. Mr. C. M. Billingsley acted as chairman and our singing was really good. The attendance was rather small on account of bad weather, but we had a fine singing. The opening song was led by Mr. C. M. Billingsley, after which prayer was led by Mr. W. A. Baker. Directors for the afternoon were: Misses Mildred Coe, Gladys Wyatt, Willie Merle Lockhart, Ruby Weldon and Messrs. Coy Lockhart, Fonzie Coe, Mr. Elijah Weldon, Mr. Emmett Wilson and Mr. C. M. Billingsley. Pianists for the afternoon were Miss Dessie Wyatt and Mr. C. M. Billingsley. We were more than glad to have our singing school teacher of last summer, Mr. Emmett Wilson, with us. We were really glad to have all the visitors with us and invite them back again.

We hope to have a larger crowd with us next singing than we did last Sunday. Everybody come and bring someone with you. You are more than welcome. All the singers come and visitors, too, we like to have someone to listen at us sing. So everybody come, and help us out next third Sunday afternoon.

Vermont Jr. High School News

Remember that next Friday (tomorrow) February 23, the Liberty Hill Quartette will render their musical program. We trust the weather will be favorable and a large number will be present to hear these talented singers. Their program, from advance reports, promises to be one of genuine fun and merriment.

The entire faculty attended the spring session of the Teachers Institute at Clanton last Friday and then spent the week end at their respective homes. From present indications it now seems highly probable that our school term will be extended to a full term of seven months. Thanks to our Federal Government.

Inclement weather has again reduced our attendance.

Our P.-T. A. meets in its regular session on next Wednesday night, February 28th, at 7 o'clock. We are hoping to have the parents from Pletcher up for this meeting, also to have Supt. Little to make us a talk concerning school interests.

Look in the want adv. column and you will notice that our school pig is being offered for sale. The one offering the best current price will be the one to get a real bargain. Anyone interested in buying a 225-pound hog should see this one. Thus far, it has not cost the school one penny to raise him. The proceeds will go into the P.-T. A. general fund for school equipment.

A final appeal is sent out to the ladies of our P.-T. A. to turn in at our next meeting all designs for the quilt.

On account of the program by the Liberty Hill singers being set back, we are compelled to postpone our plans and preparations for presenting our burlesque debate. Announcements concerning this program will be given out later.

The girls basket ball club is busy this week practicing and drilling, preparatory to several games, which we have indefinitely scheduled. The Jr. boys team is coming along nicely, too. We hope to arrange two or three games for them before the present basket ball season fades out.

The parents who have been unconcerned regarding their duty relative to the incidental and desk fund are especially urged to face the matter in a reasonable way and at least take charge of part of their obligations. One individual assumed full responsibility in the purchase of these desks and unless those who send to Vermont school awaken to their full sense of duty this indebtedness will reflect a great burden upon this individual. What are you going to do about it, Vermont parents? Do you feel satisfied to sit in that calm and complacent position of indifference and see the morale of your school go down? Others have responded with a great sense of willingness. Why not you?

A large section of linoleum has been placed under the water cooler. This will preserve the floor from rot.

At chapel exercise on March 2, a program on "The Value of Birds" will be given. This is in request of our State Game and Fish Commission, who has set this day aside as Bird Day.

Maybe It's The Lull Before The Storm

Perhaps the most trying times of a newspaper reporter's life are those times when he has absolutely nothing to do—or rather has a certain amount of space to be filled and can't find anything with which to fill it. Any reporter will tell you that he is much happier when he has to work all night than when he strolls about all day with nothing to report.

Clanton has chalked up a record this week for quietness, fully demonstrating that often-spoken of "graveyard stillness." This writer met Mack Wyatt on the street yesterday afternoon, and asked him if he had found any news. "Only two small fires," was the reply, which is terribly inadequate to fill eight pages of eight-point type. Even the most verbose cub would find that beyond his ability; after going into detail about how the flames leaped heavenward, how the black smoke curled into dense clouds, completely hiding from view the sun, how the brave firemen faced the dangers of the falling building to rescue the small child, which was the first one out of the house, and dozens of other details, there would still be dozens of columns to be filled.

A call to the Central Alabama Hospital revealed that only one patient is undergoing treatment there this week; the unusually active Sheriff's deputies could find only two persons over the week end to be incarcerated in "the jailhouse;" so far, we have only one new candidate for a political office; all of which serves as reason for this little "space-filling" treatise.

Timber As A Source Of Farmers' Income

Dear Farmers:

There has been lots said and done recently about our cotton crop for this year. This has taken most of our time.

There are other sources of income that the farmer should be thinking about. The timber crop in Chilton County could be made a good source of income on practically every farm if the wood lots were looked after properly.

You have many problems in taking care of the timber. The most important probably, is fire protection at this time of the year. Another is thinning the trees. Next Friday, February 23, at 2:00 P.M. Mr. Lyle Brown, Extension Forester, will discuss with us some of our forestry problems. He will give a thinning demonstration on Mr. Dewey Rockett's farm near Cooper. All farmers who are interested in timber production are invited to meet with us at Rambler's Rest, near the Rockett plot of woods at 2:00 P.M. Friday, and we will go from there to Mr. Rockett's farm.

Very truly yours,
J. W. FANT, County Agent.

and can buy at the same price of other dealers. It will sell at the same price, but will, at the end of the year, declare patronage dividends to its members in proportion to the amount of business done through the organization.

Through this plan the members have a chance to save some good money on fertilizer.

The Exchange, Inc., also agreed to buy through the Farmers Marketing & Exchange Association which rates under the fertilizer code as a wholesale distributor. This gives the farmer members a chance to save money on wholesale and retail prices in the form of a patronage dividend.

Any farmer who expects to pay cash for his fertilizer will profit by buying through his own organization.

Anyone interested in buying through this organization should see one of the following men at once and place his order for fertilizer: Judson Strock, Verbena; J. R. Robinson, Verbena; E. R. Piper, Thorsby; J. B. Hicks, Maplesville; Evan Parrish, Clanton; Jim Popwell, Clanton; L. G. Posey, Jemison; T. F. Patterson, Cooper.

Clanton, Alabama.

Dear Mr. Fant:

Your letter of February 12 has been received.

We are not at liberty to authorize any change in the 1934-1935 Cotton Acreage Reduction Contract or Administrative Rulings relating thereto. The purpose of the exemption of certain acres in support of the church is most worthy, but exceptions of this sort, as you may readily see, might involve us in great difficulty.

We trust that there will be some way you and your committee will work this thing out in justice to all.

Very truly yours,
E. A. Miller, Assistant to Chief, Cotton Production Section, Commodities Division.

more than $200,000 will be paid into the hands of Chilton Countians during the first ten days of March, which is perhaps manifold any payroll for such a brief period in the history of the county. From March 1 to March 10, CWA payrolls, county payrolls, teachers' payrolls, payment of the amounts still due farmers in the Cotton Acreage Reduction program of 1933, and the first payment of the rentals for 1934, are expected to be paid. Also approximately forty thousand dollars worth of State warrants for teachers and other educational indebtedness will be received at that time, and it is understood that bids for these have been received.

Too, it is the season of the year, he explained, when farmers will be making arrangements for the year's advances, and will be purchasing much of the necessary equipment and supplies for the production of this year's crop. A committee will be appointed, it is understood, at the next regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club, Thursday night, to acquaint Clanton merchants and business men with the ideals back of this program and to solicit their cooperation in making it a success.

Realizing that merchants and business men have failed to increase their personnel in accordance with the increase in business during the past few months, Cecil G. Stokes, manager of the local National Re-Employment Service, declared in commenting on this program that he hopes that many persons may be given permanent, or part time, employment as a result of this drive which will endeavor to acquaint Clanton business men with the detriment, lurking behind the ideas of not sharing with the unemployed the increased business which has been brought about by the various governmental programs, conceived to prime industry.

Mr. Stokes stated that since the depression was caused by the lack of purchasing power of the working man, business men should remember that they must divide with the working class or else we will soon be in the clutches of another depression.

During this Trade Week, business men are urged to increase their staffs in an effort to alleviate the unemployment situation in the county; and they will also be solicited to list specials which will lend stimulus to the success of the program.

under the Farm Credit Administration.

Each applicant must obtain clearance through or furnish a certificate of cooperation with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The production control associations will make available lists of those who have signed acreage control contracts. Farmers who are on this list, if otherwise eligible to borrow, will be able to obtain loans.

County councils of the production control associations will certify to representatives of the Farm Credit Administration the means of any farmers who, while not signing acreage control contracts, are cooperating by not increasing their production contrary to the acreage control program.

Where county councils have not been set up, Farm Credit Administration representatives will be instructed to make no loans to farmers who are planning to increase production.

For the time being, according to Governor Myers, the various regional emergency crop loan offices will handle the applications for loans from the $40,000,000 fund, and these offices will be under the immediate direction of the Emergency Crop Loan division, which is placed under the supervision of the Production Credit Commissioner, S. M. Garwood, and the Governor.

You will note from the above release from Washington that the emergency crop loan is certain. Just when we will receive application blanks no one can tell, but it won't be many days. People who are interested in and can qualify for this loan should send their name and address to the county agent at once. Information will be given out just as soon as application blanks are received at the county agent's office.

The uncertainty of human fate was fully exemplified again last Sunday afternoon, when the first tornado of the season swept through Shelby County, just north of the Chilton County line, leaving ruin and misery in its wake. Though the winds were strong, no report of injuries in Chilton Couty has been received. Damages were incurred to several homes, barns, and to the Thomas Junior High School, where it has been necessary to discontinue school while the building is under repair.

In this section tornado insurance, unheard of a few years ago, cost only about one-third the rate applied in the Gulf Coast section, but for the past three years Central Alabama has suffered a higher percentage of tornado damage than the Gulf Coast, according to figures tabulated by insurance companies.

"Recognizing the high character, the outstanding ability, the unsurpassed record of service, and the distinguished standing and influence in Washington," more than 250 Tuscaloosans went on record last week "earnestly endorsing" Congressman W. B. Oliver for re-election. Declaring that in the present national crisis his presence in Washington is essential, not only as a safe-guard to his district, but also as a wise and progressive leader in national legislation, his fellow-townsmen enthusiastically recommended him to other voters in the Sixth District.

In Chilton County, which is a part of the Sixth District, the veteran statesman is receiving equally enthusiastic support. For twenty years he has served the people of his district, and of Alabama, in a high class manner, and his staunch support of President Roosevelt and his recovery programs has ensconced him in the hearts of his constituency.

Statistics indicate that the American people enjoyed the lowest death rate in the history of this nation during the years of 1932 and 1933. The average life of man, within the last half-century, has been increased some ten years or more. Millions of dollars have been expended to safe-guard health, and the above figures indicate that it has been well spent.

The dangers of yellow fever, smallpox, typhoid, and diptheria have been almost eliminated; and such deadly diseases as tuberculosis and cancer are yielding to scientific treatment.

Chilton County has taken great steps forward in the protection of the health of its citizenship, with the draining of several stagnant swamp areas in all sections of the county. Too, every year an effort is made toward making the county a better place in which to live with clean-up campaigns; but still perhaps one of the greatest possible aids to the protection of health is being neglected. Chilton County should have a health officer, paid by the county, whose duty it would be to sell sanitation in the homes to people throughout the county; to educate people along lines of health protection. Little is accomplished in training children for high positions in life, if when they reach the age to assume these responsibilities—their health has been so endangered and abused that they are physically unable to meet requirements.

A great stir is being made in Chilton County about termites, little white ants, woodlice, or what-have-you, which are undermining buildings and endangering homes. But perhaps the people of Chilton County really have more to fear from the politician M*I*G*H*T*S emanating from office-seekers, who "might" and who "might" not make first class officials.

Local Ford Dealers Are Sponsoring "These Thirty Years"

"These Thirty Years," a new talking picture produced by the Ford Motor Company, is to be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre Friday and Saturday, March 2 and 3. Complimentary tickets are being distributed by Clanton Motors under whose auspices the local showings are being held.

A cut-away chassis of the 1934 Ford V-8 will be on display in Clanton Motors Show Rooms on the above dates. This device is electrically driven, and shows visibly all of the important moving parts of the new V-8 motor and differential.

The story of "These Thirty Years" begins 30 years ago in the town of Brookfield. Dave Haines and his aged mother see their farm and everything they own put on the auction block to satisfy a greedy mortgage holder. During the auction, however, Dave becomes inspired by a "horseless carriage seen tearing down a rutted country road at the neck-breakin' speed of 20 miles per hour." He sees a great future in automobiles and wants Jed Travers, local livery stable owner, to go into business with him. Jed withholds his decision until Dave proves what his "carriage" can do in a cross-country race with a

A. C. NELSON FOR MEMBER COUNTY BOARD

Friends Predicting Victory For Popular Citizen In Elections

The Rev. A. C. Nelson, widely known Congregational minister, announces this week that he will be a candidate on the Democratic ticket for a member of the Chilton County Board of Education. Mr. Nelson is a resident of the Eastview community, where he is pastor of the Eastview Congregational church.

A native of Elmore County, Mr. Nelson removed to Chilton County in 1926 and since that time has been closely connected with the civic life of the county. He was instrumental in the building of the Congregational churches at Eastview and Mountain Springs, and is pastor of both.

Interested in the building of better manhood and womanhood, this prominent minister is asking the people of Chilton County to honor him with a position whereby he will be enabled to better serve the county's youth in this capacity.

He is a former student of the Jones Normal School, Eclectic, where he studied for two years in his youth; he has also had extension courses from the Atlanta Seminary, and has attended the Rural Church Schools, Vanderbilt, for four Spring terms, and the Missionary Educational School, Blue Ridge, N. C., for three Summer terms.

Local Forestry Boys Doing Fine Work

Chilton County boys in the reforestation camps are bringing honor to their native county, according to Miss Kittye Clyde Austin, social director of the county, who said that she has received several letters of praise from officials of the several camps in which forty-eight local boys are making enviable records.

Recently Allen Cook, of Stanton, had published a story, "Dawn of a New Day" relating to the transformation from a discouraged victim of the depression into an ardent optimist; with high hopes for future accomplishments. The story was beautifully written; showed a capacity for deep feeling, and what is more rare, the adept ability to express feeling.

Several of the other boys have earned meritorious promotions of which their families, their friends—and Chilton County is justly proud.

Promising Young Man Of South Clanton Seeks Popular Office

Among the candidates who have qualified this week is one of Chilton's most promising young business men, Newton A. Popwell, who has announced as a candidate on the Democratic ticket for the office of Tax Collector.

He was born and raised in this county. He received his education in the local high school where he graduated. With the entire country seeking new and young blood in its government, friends of Newton expect him to ride to victory in the forthcoming elections.

"Give A Young Man A Chance," says Mr. Popwell, and this will be his slogan throughout his campaign, which he says will be a most active one, as he hopes to see as many people as possible between now and the primaries.

Mr. Popwell stated that he expects to have a statement to make to the voters of the county within a few days.

SHELBY HIT HARD WHEN WIND STRIKES

Houses Demolished And Many Lives Lost In Parts Of State

A toll of twenty-three lives, thirteen in Alabama, was taken when one of the most terrific tornadoes ever experienced in this section swept through three southern states late Sunday afternoon, leaving a path of desolation and misery. Early communications placed the number of deaths as follows: Thirteen in Alabama, eight in Mississippi, and two in Georgia.

Striking in Center Hill, Miss., near the Alabama line, the winds swept eastward through central Alabama with the fury of a crazed demon and on into Georgia. Twelve deaths were reportd to the Sheriff's office at Ashland, in Clay County, the Alabama village to suffer the brunt of the storm, and one death was reported at Calera.

One of this county's most outstanding men has thrown his hat into the political ring with the announcement this week that he is a candidate on the Democratic ticket for Commissioner from District No. 1.

This is Will R. Clements, of Jemison. Mr. Clements is also one of the outstanding Democrats of the county and has put his efforts with others in behalf of this great party.

Mr. Clements has been urged for sometime to make this race by his numerous friends, who know him to be a man of his word and a man who will seek at all times to give the people of his District and the entire county, a square deal, save money for the county.

He is a progressive and with a reputation and character beyond question, his victory at the polls is already looming. Mr. Clements believes that the time for new blood, new ideas and less politics in governmental offices is at hand and is ready to do his part in bringing this about.

He is a member of the Democratic Executive Committee of this county and is a successful farmer and business man. His formal announcement for Commissioner on the Democratic ticket will be found in this issue of the News.

Miss Ellis Receives Promotion In Relief

Miss Mary Ellis, of Clanton, was appointed child welfare superintendent for Chilton County at a meeting held Tuesday morning in the offices of Judge L. H. Reynolds. Attending the meeting were Mrs. A. M. Tunstall, of Montgomery, who is state child welfare director, and Miss Loula Dunn, social service director for the Alabama Relief Administration.

Miss Ellis, who has been engaged for the past year in the capacity of a field worker with the local relief administration, it was explained, will continue to work in connection with and under the supervision of Miss Austin, county social director.

Interested in the child welfare phase of relief work, Miss Ellis was promoted to the position of child welfare superintendent, when it was found that Miss Austin, who has served for the past year as social director and child welfare superintendent, could not devote adequate attention to the child welfare phase of the work.

Miss Ellis is a graduate of the Chilton County High School and Judson College, and was engaged for some time as a teacher.

Paid Tribute For Efforts In Behalf Of The Democratic Party

FRIENDS, SUPPORTERS PREDICT HIS VICTORY

One of the most enthusiastic endorsements given an individual in many years by members of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County, was shown last Friday afternoon when the committee adopted a resolution endorsing Hon. J. B. Atkinson, attorney, of Clanton, for Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit, and recommending him to the entire Circuit as the man for the place.

Mr. Atkinson has been in the field as a candidate for this office, which includes Chilton, Autauga and Elmore Counties, for several weeks and is the only candidate for the office from Chilton County.

When the resolution was read before the committee, several members took up considerable time paying tribute to Mr. Atkinson for his efforts in behalf of the Democratic party in this county and in Alabama. The resolution was adopted without a single vote to the contrary, and the secretary was instructed to send a copy of it to the chairmen of the Executive Committees of Autauga and Elmore counties.

When advised of the action of the local Democratic Executive Committee last Saturday, Mr. Atkinson expressed his deep appreciation of the action and stated he hoped to be able to see each member within the next few days and extend his thanks personally.

Following is the resolution as introduced and adopted:

A RESOLUTION

Whereas, Honorable J. B. Atkinson of the Clanton Bar, is a candidate for Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit of Alabama, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries to be held on May 1, and June 12, 1934, and,

Whereas, Chilton County has not heretofore had the honor of furnishing a Judge for said circuit, therefore,

Be it resolved by the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama, in executive session, on this the 23rd day of February, 1934, as follows:

Death On The Radiator

About one out of every ten of the automobiles that use the public streets and highways, should wear as an emblem a large, staring death's head.

It wouldn't be a pretty sight. But it would be an accurate symbol. Ten per cent of motorists are responsible for our gigantic death and injury toll. Not all of them, of course, have an accident every year. But they all take chances. They are irresponsible or incompetent or congenitally careless. They drive cars with defective brakes and steering mechanisms and poor lights. They cut in and out of traffic, missing oncoming cars by an eyelash and feeling a thrill of achievement while doing it. They pass on hills and curves, and regard even the most basic and sensible traffic laws as being inimical obstacles which should be avoided whenever possible. They drive at high speeds when road and traffic conditions make it exceedingly dangerous.

And—every year—they leave behind them 30,000 corpses and hundreds of thousands of injured persons whose sole offense was that they happened to be present when the reckless driver was taking one of the chances he didn't get away with.

Yes, there should be the emblem of death on a long line of automobiles which otherwise look no different than any other cars of their kind. This suggestion may make some of the reckless drivers think twice before running a risk the next time.

Cooperatives Only Sound Foundation

In his speech to the Congress, President Roosevelt repeated a belief that is a basic element in his recovery program when he said: "I continue in my conviction that industrial progress and prosperity can only be attained by bringing the purchasing power of that portion of our population which in one form or another is dependent upon agriculture, up to a level which will restore a proper balance between every section of the country and every form of work."

Whether or not time proves that theory to be entirely correct, it is pleasant to record that agriculture is gradually moving upward toward the level the President speaks of. Some of the improvement is due to government legislative effort. But most of the improvement must be laid to the work done by the farmers themselves, thru their cooperative organizations.

These organizations have been tireless in working to educate both the general public and their members in the fundamentals of farm problems. They have been the government's best ally in promoting acreage reduction and in seeking to balance supply with demand. They have done much in fighting the farmers' battles with the middleman, and in obtaining a better economic break for him.

Agriculture is definitely on the mend and the farm cooperatives offer the only permanent foundation for sound future progress.

Teaching Fire Safety!

Some time ago the Boy Scouts of America requested the National Board of Fire Underwriters to provide them with material on fire prevention with which to instruct their members. The result was a sixty-five-page book entitled "Firemanship", for Merit Badge examinations. Over sixty thousand Boy Scouts use it in preparing for tests each year.

It would be an excellent idea if a national program was started to acquaint children of all ages with the hazards of fire, and how to do away with them. Fire is one of the most serious of problems. It touches every life, every piece of property. It menaces us all. It inflates taxes, destroys jobs and investments and business opportunities. Many cases are on record where a single great fire has so devastated a community that many years were required to recover from it.

The schools have, in recent years, almost universally included accident prevention work in their curricula. They have instructed children in proper conduct on streets and highways, in the home, at play—wherever carelessness or ignorance might cause an accident. The consequence has been a great reduction in the number of deaths and injuries among children of school age. The same thing should be done in the case of fire. It would be simple, inexpensive and enormously effective. In due course of time, it would create a people who were congenitally awake to fire dangers and how to cope with them.

Our monetary policy will probably be settled by a check-up to determine which side has the most picturesque vocabulary.

It would not be surprising if that well-known tabloid, the Congressional Record, should become more spicy than usual next session.

A writer declares that the world's problems are solved before a shaving mirror. A lot of them are solved before the one in milady's compact, too.

A weekly magazine is printing a series of articles about Doug and Mary, which may bring enough revenue to make alimony unnecessary.

A Hoboken woman is suing a bakery because she broke a tooth on a bolt found in one of its pies. We have always heard it was bad to bolt food.

Secretary Early suggests that Lindbergh criticized the President's cancellation of air mail contracts for the sake of getting publicity. Now wouldn't Lindy be thrilled to see his name on the front page?

Congressman Oliver And Another Fine Tribute

The feeling of satisfaction of the services rendered the people of the Sixth Congressional District by our Congressman, W. B. Oliver, is apparently spreading like wild fire, since it has become known someone else is seeking that office.

The News was honored when last Friday's issue of the Alabama Journal, Montgomery, reproduced the tribute paid to Mr. Oliver for his unfailing services in Congress to Alabama and the Sixth District, as published by the News last week.

Among those who read that tribute is Mr. K. W. Collins, of Montgomery. We do not know Mr. Collins, but we do know that he is able to determine when a man is spending his life in service, as is shown by the splendid letter received by the News from Mr. Collins in regard to Mr. Oliver. Following is the letter from Mr. Collins, which in itself, is a fine tribute to our Congressman:

Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.

"With reference to your tribute to Hon. Wm. B. Oliver, M. C., reproduced in Montgomery Journal Feb. 23, 1934, I feel that I cannot add to your eulogy, but I would like to applaud, and to express my appreciation of the splendid service Mr. Oliver has rendered, not only the Sixth District, but Alabama, during his long tenure as our able representative in Congress.

"Mr. Oliver is a wise legislator, of fine judgment, splendid appearance, and charming personality. Not since the days of John T. Morgan has Alabama had such a statesman in every sense of the word. He is closely in touch with national and international affairs, and above all closely allied with the interests of his people of the Sixth District. It would be most unwise for the electorate of Alabama to endeavor to fill his place. He should be returned again and again to Congress as long as he desires to serve his people. His knowledge and experience in Congress would be difficult to replace. He was close to Woodrow Wilson during the World War; he was close to Josephus Daniels when he served on the Naval Affairs Committee. Today, he is chairman on Appropriations, and on this committee his power is felt. The interests of Alabama and the Sixth District are well guarded by a representative of Mr. Oliver's vision and scholarly attainment. I have known and observed his work for his constituents—a work he goes into in no half-hearted way—Alabamians should be proud of Congressman Oliver; proud that he is a Southerner; proud that he is a Democrat; proud that he is an Alabamian, and prouder still that he is our representative in the Sixth District. Let's return him to Congress."

Good News For Railroads

In a recent report, Federal Coordinator of Transportation Eastman expressed the opinion that his office should not assume the form of a bureaucratic establishment, that its work should be carried on with a small and flexible staff, that it should be regarded as an aid to, not a dominator of the transportation industry, and that it should seek to foster the development of initiative and enterprise on the part of railway managements, rather than restrain them.

That must come as good news to the rails. Their greatest difficulty has been rigid governmental control, which dictated every action and policy, at a time when competing carriers, which were regulated hardly at all, were growing and spreading across the country. In matters of rates, service schedules, consolidations, the inaguration or discontinuance of branch lines and similar matters, managements have been merely puppets of politics and legislation.

Mr. Eastman's point of view augurs well for the future of the railroads, and all other types of carriers. In passing, it might be well to suggest that other regulatory officials and lawmakers adopt more constructive and helpful attitudes.

For Your Safety

The Fifth Annual New York Safety Conference, to be held March 6th and 7th, is an example of activity which deserves the widest possible notice.

A large number of organizations—such as the National Board of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, American Standards Association, American Red Cross, Society of Automotive Engineers and similar bodies—will cooperate. Topics concerning every phase of safety work—from handling material, to fire prevention and falls—will be discussed by experts. The object of the conference is to make life safer, healthier and happier for workers, and to bring American industry a step nearer to the ideal of absolute safety.

Similar conferences should be held in other sections of the country at regular intervals, to back up the work of the various organizations which carry on nation-wide safety programs. In the last decade we have made tremendous progress in promoting safety, especially in the field of industry. Safeguarding of machinery has been immensely improved, but more important, the average worker has been given a new idea of what safe conduct on his job really means. The result is a growing list of "no-accident" industries, and a general decline in both the severity and frequency of accidents in other industries.

Much remains to be done—in industry, in the home, and on public highways, where the death and injury toll is disgraceful. Safety activities must be expanded.

Private Enterprise Scores Again

The Union Pacific Railroad started something new in transportation with its streamline, three-car train. Always a pioneer, this railroad has set a pace that will revolutionize passenger transportation in the United States.

The fastest trains now take 76 hours from coast to coast. This new type train can probably cover the distance in 38 hours, or less, as roadbeds are improved.

From the standpoint of comfort, these new trains will surpass anything ever before offered to the traveler. From the standpoint of safety, they are following modern automotive methods. Center of gravity will be 20 per cent lower than in old railroad cars, putting the weight nearer the ground where it ought to be. This will give better balance, less sway when taking the curves and cause the cars to "hug the rails."

Just as the modern automobile combines greater safety with greater speed, so will these trains bring a new day in railroad transportation.

Thus does this railroad pioneer slay the ghost of antiquated methods.

D. W. Haskew

Many a time have I gone fishing in the clear springs and streams of Florida. Before I met with success I had to learn that it was very important that I keep myself out of sight. When I would walk boldly up to the stream the fish would see me and they would hide away beneath the rubbish. To catch the fish I had to bait my hook and slip up near the water's edge and then throw the hook and bait into the stream. When we go fishing for the man of Galilee we must be careful to keep ourselves in the background. The fisherman for Christ can not afford to let himself be seen. Too much self will frighten the fish away.

While I was a lad on the farm I looked down the row of cotton that I was chopping and near the end of the row I saw a rainbow as it kissed the ground. I threw down my hoe and made a race for the end of the rainbow, hoping to find the sack of gold. When I had reached the place where the rainbow touched the earth when I first started, I looked and found that the rainbow was now touching the top of a little knoll not many yards away. I ran up there and looked about for my rainbow and found that it had swung down the hill and was now resting against the earth in the valley and was still beckoning me on. I ran down the incline, but the end of the rainbow evaded me and continued to beckon me on. Since that day I have been chasing rainbows, but they have always evaded me. They are always just ahead of me, and they are ever beckoning me on. Should I have found the end of the rainbow and reached the reputed sack of gold, doubtless I would have become satisfied. Blessed is the man who can always see the end of the rainbow and keeps up the spirit to follow its beckoning call.

My father bought me a new pair of shoes and I made it convenient to wear them for the first time to church on Sunday. I shall never forget the approach that I made as I drew near the crowd at the church door and the excitement that I created as I walked down the aisle of the church. My shoes announced my coming like a brass band. They squeaked and cried until the timid boy was in agony. All eyes were directed toward my new shoes and my big feet. Blessings upon that shoe cobbler who learned the art of taking the squeak out of leather. Since that day I have learned that there are many men and women who have squeaks in their walk and talk. When we see them coming there is a rattle of deeds and a clatter of character that calls for the attention of all. Learn how to take the squeak out of your life.

I went into a church and was admiring the beautiful pipe organ that adorned the rear of the building. Its console was attractive and the brazen pipes reached to the ceiling. In great admiration I spoke of the pipes that were so beautiful and asked if they did not add tone and sweetness to the music. Then I received a shock. The man with me said, "Why, my man, those pipes are just dcmmies." They were put there to adorn, to beautify and not for service. On investigation I saw that they had no connection with the organ at all. They were in the house of God for show. They were there to deceive. However, that was not the only church in which I have seen polished brass. I have seen much brass in many churches and wherever it has been seen it brings to view a dummy. Much of the shining that we see in the churches of today is none other than brass. The shiners are the brass dummies. They are, in there for show and not for service.

I passed a company of boys standing on the street corner and observing that they were watching an old negro woman some distance away as she carried a basket on her arm I asked, "Boys, what is wrong with the old darkey?" I was told that she was picking up things. I soon overtook the old woman and just as I was passing her I saw her stoop down and pick up something. I asked her what she had found and she smiled and replied, "Boss, I is picking up bits of glass that might cut little feet." She was not stealing, but was making safe the way for other feet. Are you making it easier for others to travel by picking up the pieces of glass?

He Was In A Fix!

Just two-bits stood between Charlie Anderson, Maplesville negro, and happiness Tuesday morning.

Leaning against the desk in the probate office, Charlie's face was a picture of dismay and embarrassment. A thorough search of all his pockets failed to reveal but one dollar and a half. Marriage licenses cost a dollar-seventy-five.

Shifting from one foot to the other, the victim of Cupid's arrow scratched his head as he puzzled how he was ever to explain to his waiting lady-love that a mere two-bits could wreck their chance at happiness. "I nevah knowed dem licenses is done gone up and I don't know a soul in Clanton," he attempted by way of explanation to the clerk who had suggested that he might borrow the much-needed quarter from someone.

But Claude Reynolds, an employe in the probate office, generously offered to supply the shortage.

"I sho does thank-you!" the negro mumbled as he shuffled out of the office, the coveted paper clutched in his hands.

Conway Thornburgh won the prize of five dollars awarded to the boy who did the best, and Mary Louise Reinhardt won the girls' prize of five dollars. RED CROSS DRIVE MEETS WITH SUCCESS

Second Campaign Was Much More Effective Than First, Report

The citizenship of Chilton County has exhibited its appreciation to the American Red Cross for the unlimited aid received, when two years ago the winds swept the northern section of the county into desolation and misery.

A recent drive for memberships to this noble organization met with enthusiastic support, according to Dr. S. J. Ezell, roll call chairman, who had charge of the drive. Chilton County expressed its appreciation for succor received when a part of its boundaries resembled the war-swept areas of Europe, and showed a desire to help other unfortunates by subscribing for approximately three hundred memberships.

Special tribute was paid by Dr. Ezell to employes of the Alabama Mills, Superintendent Roberts, who headed the drive in the mill village, reported a total of one hundred-ten memberships. Mrs. W. M. Wyatt, of Clanton, and Mrs. Charlie Howard of Thorsby, were also highly commended for the large number of memberships reported by them. Several other workers had not been heard from late Tuesday.

Evil Winds Take Mother's Life As She Clung To Son's Arms For Protection

Still in a dazed condition Monday, Herman Kizziah, 26-year-old Civil Works Administration worker, was making preparations to take the body of his aged mother back to their home community, Vance, near Tuscaloosa for burial.

Locked in the would-be protecting arms of her son, the fifty-six year old mother was instantly killed when a flying timber struck her, when their home, just south of Calera, was swept into the winds that wrecked hundreds of Alabama homes late Sunday afternoon.

Seated at the supper table, when the twister struck their little home, Herman clasped his mother in his arms in an effort to protect her from the fury of the winds, but a piece of flying timber struck her in the forehead, splitting her head and breaking her neck, while the son escaped without a scratch.

Among the ruins of the one-time happy little home, the undisturbed table, with two places arranged, was mute testimony Monday to the hundreds of morbid curiosity seekers, who visited the scene, of the uncertainty that stalks the lives of human beings when the angry winds blow. Just across the road from the Kizziah home, seven persons escaped injury when their home, too, was scattered on the ground. A dog, chained on the porch, shivered his appreciation, when rescue workers made their way toward him through the debris and down-pour of icy rain. Just back of the Kizziah home, on the switch of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, steel box cars were overturned like toys.

Funeral services for Mrs. Kizziah were held at Vance Tuesday afternoon.

Less Cotton Acres : More Pasture Land

Auburn, Ala.—More land in pasture is foreseen by J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, as one result of the leaving out of cotton production of more than a million and a quarter acres of Alabama land.

To assist farmers in making pastures, Mr. Lowery has prepared a bulletin, "Pasture Suggestions," which gives instructions on proper mixtures for all parts of the state. This bulletin may be had from county farm demonstration agents.

"As a rule, pasture feed is the cheapest feed a farmer can produce," Mr. Lowery said. "Once a good permanent pasture is established it is there for the use of farm animals day and night, week days and Sundays, in good weather and bad weather, with very little labor and supervision required, if it is properly fenced.

"Aside from its great value as a soil-builder and hay crop, lespedeza is a plant that should be used more widely for pastures in Alabama," the agronomist added. "This crop is very easy to grow, does not require inoculation, and farmers may produce their home supply of lespedeza seed. It is a basic plant in pastures because it is a legume that furnishes good grazing from late spring to late fall."

Lespedeza should be sowed by broadcasting in late February or early March. The common, Kobe, and Tennessee 76 varieties are good. For quick results 20 to 25 pounds per acre [illegible] farmers plant as low as 10 pounds to the acre and depend on a volunteer crop the next year for reseeding.

News In Brief

Records show that cows producing 100 pounds of butterfat annually return $14 over feed costs, that 200-pound cows return $52, 300-pound cows, $93, and 400-pound producers $135 over feed costs.

On the whole, the farm income in 1933 was on the upgrade, according to farm economists in Washington. Farmers received about 24 per cent more money from their crops and livestock in 1933 than in 1932. An increase of nearly a billion and a quarter dollars brings the 1933 total income to six billion, three hundred eighty-three million. Most of the increase was due to higher prices for crops and to reduction and rental payments under the agricultural adjustment program.

By use of 29 pressure cookers, Autauga County farm women canned 1,676 quarts of meat during January under direction of club leaders and Miss Cindy Lester, home demonstration agent.

Excellent results in canning turnip kraut and brined egg plant were obtained by Mrs. H. C. James of Autauga County. Also Mrs. J. L. Jones has exhibited some "perfect" samples of tomatoes cured in brine, according to Miss Cindy Lester, home demonstration agent.

THIS and THAT

By
W. J. Baldwin

(Press Room, Gay-Teague Hotel)

CORRECTION: Atticus Mullin politely, but none the less emphatically, called this column's attention to an error of omission, and the error is herewith corrected. It was stated last week that Jimmie Jones, Frank Dixon and Atticus constituted a trio of good heads on three good legs, or words to that effect. The omission was County Chairman Henley, who is steering the Dixon destinies in Jefferson County. He, too, is minus a leg. His inclusion steps the trio up to a quartette of one-leggers, all pulling for Dixon. In this connection, and in justice to all concerned, no inference is intended that only one-legged voters are Dixonites.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR: This column lays no claim to being a political prognosticator of note. Nevertheless, here's a prediction upon which it expects to stand until the run-off—if there is to be one. The next governor of Alabama, assuming that the entry list is now complete, will be a lawyer, a man with a war record, and there are ten letters in the first and last names, by which he is familiarly known. You can figure it out for yourself.

Any man that serves as an appointee under four governors must of necessity have enviable qualifications as an executive. Such is the record of Bill Feagin (hope he pardons the familiarity).

THINGS WE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW: Why a country school teacher invariably wears his pen and pencil clipped to his outside coat pocket? Who ate the first oyster? Why Bostonians don't eat Boston beans.

In years gone by, parents used to warn their young daughters to stay indoors when a strange drummer hit town. If there's anything alarming in such a situation, the warning should be repeated now, for the towns are full of 'em, judging by the large number coming to the Gay-Teague Hotel. Looking at it from another angle, this noticeable pick-up is indicative of a return of business. During the depression—if you can remember when that was—traveling salesmen were few in numbers. It is quite different now; they are out in flocks and getting the business, too.

Man Injured Near Lomax By Lightning

J. H. Blankenship, 52-year-old farmer of the Lomax community, was seriously injured late Sunday afternoon when he was struck by a bolt of lightning.

Returning to his house from his barn where he had been feeding, the bolt struck him as he walked underneath a wire clothes line, and he was still jn a serious condition late Tuesday, according to members of the family.

Dr. N. S. Johnson, who treated him, declared it was impossible to be sure whether he was actually hit by the ball of lightning, or whether he suffered severe bruises when falling from the shock. His nose was broken and he suffered severe lacerations and bruises about the head and face, not regaining complete consciousness until about noon Tuesday. He will recover unless unforeseen complications set up, Dr. Johnson said.

Two years ago when the terrific storm struck that community, Mr. Blankenship's home was destroyed and he was in the hospital for several weeks undergoing treatment for injuries suffered.

BIRMINGHAM MAN IS FOR SECRETARY OF STATE

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 27.—Fred A. Gibson, prominent Birmingham attorney and World War veteran, Monday qualified with Secretary of State Pete B. Jarman, Jr., as a candidate for the office of Secretary of State.

Gibson, the only war veteran competing for that office will be opposed by Howell Turner, Governor Miller's private secretary, and Gilbert Davis, Pickens county representative in the state Legislature.

A native of Jefferson county, Gibson, aged 38, has practiced law in Birmingham since his graduation from Cumberland University in 1923.

During the 1932 special session of the State Legislature Gibson appeared before the two law-making bodies in support of a measure to provide for the payment of ad valorem taxes in four quarterly payments. He also sponsored a measure to exempt veterans from payment of occupational tax.

RURAL RELIEF SURVEY BEING PUT UNDERW'Y

Is Extension Of Federal Relief Census Over Entire United States

A rural relief family survey is being conducted in Chilton County under the supervision of Dr. Harold Hoffsomner, of Auburn, through the co-operation of Miss Kittie Clyde Austin, county social director, in an effort to determine better methods of administering relief in the county.

At present, there are approximately nine hundred families in Chilton County who are receiving governmental relief, according to Miss Austin, who stated that this is little more than half the number on the relief rolls a year ago.

The Rural Relief Family Survey in Alabama is an extension of the Federal Relief Census which is being carried on throughout the United States. The value of such a study for Alabama is of an extremely practicaly nature. In its broadest aspects the chief purpose is to provide the information necessary for the formulation of a program adequate to care for those in economic distress, particu'arly those on farms. The problems of the relief agencies have been multiplied many times over during the past months by the continued extension of the agricultural depression. Relief rolls have grown by leaps and bounds until in some counties of the state approximately one-half of the population is on relief of one kind or another. The tremendous expense involved is evident. The volume of money passing through relief channels of the state is now so swollen as to compare favorably with that of the major state industries. The problems incident to handling this situation are obviously staggering. Federal, State and County agencies are joining in an attempt to work out a program of relief that will adequately minister to and care for the needy, but will at the same time be conducted in such a manner as to be the most economical possible for the taxpayer. To this and all classes of farm people, both relief and non-relief, are being asked to cooperate in this project.

Relieves Women's Pains

Here is an example of how Cardui has helped thousands of women:

"I was very thin and pale," writes Mrs. F. H. Scott, of Roanoke, Va. "I suffered from weakness and a severe pain in my back. This pain unnerved me, and I did not feel like doing my work. I did not care to go places, and felt worn, tired, day after day.

"My mother had taken Cardui, and on seeing my condition she advised me to try it. I have never regretted doing so. I took three bottles and it built me up. I gained in weight, my color was better and the pain left my back. I am stronger than I had been in some time."

Cardui, the purely vegetable medicine which so many women take and recommend, is sold by local druggists.

GRAGG GIVES STATEMENT ON SENATE RACE

Tells News Of His Opinion In Choosing Between Two Candidates

Dr. V. J. Gragg, candidate on the Democratic ticket for State Senator, spent a few minutes in the News office Tuesday and engaged the editor in a conversation regarding the Senatorial race.

Taking from the conversation, we find the following comments made by Dr. Gragg:

"Billy, you perhaps remember sometime back, Mack Wyatt had something in his paper about our Senatorial race. You don't?

"Well, sometime ago my good friend and opponent in the senatorial race, before making his announcement in your paper, went around to the editor of The Union-Banner and had a talk with him about me, saying what a good doctor I was and how he always used me and how necessary I was to the well-being of the community; and therefore, how it had occurred to him to beat me in the race so as to keep me where I was so much needed, etc. Now, I thought when I saw this, how considerate of me he must be, especially to put himself to the trouble to consult the Republican editor about our Democratic affairs. Occasionally I am getting a little echo from that Semi-Democratic-Republican consultation, in so much as I hear, every now and then, that someone says, 'Oh, but we need him here too bad to send him down there as a Senator.'

"First:- I want to say that if at any time in the world the people need a good man it is now in our law making body, when our schools are almost ruined, our teachers are unpaid, our taxpayers are struggling under an unbearable burden, our people out of work, without money, and many in need of food and clothing, and our state government tottering under such a load of debt which is rapidly reaching the point of utter destruction.

"Second:- I want to say that if he or I or either of us wish to know about how much the public would miss us; we could find out by going down to the river and sticking a finger down in the water and then withdrawing it from the water and looking for the hole.

"However, if I was needed here and it was inevitable, or unavoidable, I could be at the hospital in about 45 minutes after I was called, or by the time the nurses had the patient prepared and instruments sterilized for operation.

"I certainly think my being a busy man at home would be one of the strongest arguments for sending me to the Senate. Maybe I would be in a hurry to get back and would, therefore, get down to business and get through with the work to be done and not bankrupt the state with extra sessions, two days a week legislation on seven days a week pay, three hundred clerks and fourteen doorkeepers for one door, etc. No, my kind, would get through in a few days and come on back home, and go about our own business, without creating so much expense to the State.

"Great Scott's, just think, Billy, what a good vocational training teacher you folks would ruin if you had no better judgment than to vote for him. Had you thought of that? Keep him here, send your boys out there where he can teach them something worthwhile about farming, stock-raising, etc. It would be almost criminal to treat his school in such a way."

Graves Young Men Clubs Being Formed

Word from Bibb Graves Campaign Headquarters indicate that an intensive statewide campaign for the organization of the young men is well under way with L. B. Tipton of Selma as state chairman.

Many clubs have been formed and a complete speaking and organization tour is underway. Among the 67 counties in the State the movement has been received with overwhelming enthusiasm and real determination by the young men.

Chairman Tipton is quoted as saying in behalf of the Young Men's Clubs, "We feel that the time has come for every young man in the State of Alabama to take an active part in the political life of the State. It is to our interest to see an economical administration of the affairs of the State, and our work should begin in the election of the chief executive of the State. We are therefore going to conduct a very active campaign in behalf of Col. Graves' candidacy for Governor, and we feel that more and more young men will gather into our forces every day."

CARD OF THANKS

W. B. OLIVER

To the Citizens of The Sixth Congressional District:

As a candidate for re-election as your Congressman it is my duty to stand unqualifiedly by our great President who is leading us to victory against the depression. At this time my presence in Washington is imperative owing to my duties as a member of the Appropriations Committee. Therefore, I will be delayed in making an active personal campaign, and consequently I am relying upon my Friends throughout the District to stand by me. I have no apologies to make for supporting the President's program in its entirety and shall continue to do so as long as the crisis lasts.

Some people may not approve all of Mr. Roosevelt's Program, but the country as a whole has been greatly benefited by it.

May I not suggest that the best service each of us can render at this time is to show an unflinching determination to back Mr. Roosevelt's Program to the finish --- uninterrupted --- to the end that America may completely recover and go forward to renewed greatness.

Your vote and influence in my behalf will indicate approval of my record in support of the New Deal from the start, which I will greatly appreciate.

Little estimated that approximately $600 damages were incurred to the Thomas Junior High School, where about three-fourths of the roof was torn away, windows broken, and the walls of one room smashed. School has been discontinued for two weeks while the building is under repair. Two hundred and fifty children are enrolled at this school.

The heaviest part of the wind struck Chilton County in the Baker School community, where the home of J. B. Foshee was wrecked, and serious damage was incurred to the home of Moody Williams; it next swept down in the Mt. Pisgah community, destroying the barn and one room of the home of Brewer Glenn, barns at the homes of Bill Mims, J. R. Holley, Steve Blalock and Jess Edwards. Roofs of several other homes were damaged.

At Montgomery, Gov. B. M. Miller said that the State would offer every possible assistance to the sufferers in the storm areas, and called upon citizen who wished to aid in the relief work to make contributions immediately to their local Red Cross chapters.

He said that, if necessary, he would have the National Guardsmen transport tents, cots, and blankets into the stricken sections, and urged citizens to contribute money to purchase food and clothing for distribution by the Red Cross should the damage of the storm reach major proportions.

Col. Hartley A. Moon, adjutant general, who supervised the distribution of more than 400 tents during the disastrous tornadoes of 1932 in this State, said he was ready to send relief supplies at a moment's notice from the governor.

Reports that the storm had levied a heavy toll at Wadley, in Randolph County, were unverified as all communications within a 25-mile radius were crippled by the high wind and rains. County authorities at LaFayette, in Chambers County, 25 miles southeast of Wadley, said that a heavy rain accompanied by an electric storm had done little damage there. They said they had had no word from Wadley since telephone lines were down.

From Alabama, the storm crossed into Georgia and whipped the North Central part of the State. In the Bethel Camp Ground Community, near Carrollton, a little more than a score of miles to the South and West of Atlanta, Mr. and Mrs. Will Phillips were killed as the tornado blew down their home.

A dozen homes were levelled at McDonough, Ga., and there were reports of wreckage at Jonesboro, Hapeville and Jackson, all in the Atlanta district.

In Atlanta, a deluge of rain fell, flooding the streets in many parts of the city and hailstones as large as lima beans were reported in a suburb. Black clouds enveloped the city just at dark and the wind rose sharply but there was little damage reported there.

Planes in Area Grounded

Airmail and passenger planes were reported grounded throughout the storm area.

Red Cross officials announcel immediate plans to aid the stricken regions.

The storm struck at Meridian about 2:30 p.m., turning a quiet Sunday afternoon into a scene of wreckage. Heavy rains and hail accompanied black clouds. The Calvert family was killed as the storm tore their house apart. Several other homes in the community were damaged, and communication facilities were impaired.

The storm then swept Eastward thru Central Alabama. Apparently cutting a zigzag course, the storms hit other communities, mostly rural.

Keeping on a Northeasterly course, the storm then dipped into Georgia, hammering communities about Atlanta. A score of homes were reported destroyed in surrounding rural communities there, two were killed, and several were injured.

Success favors Dave. He wins the race—also the hand of May Larcombe. They have a son, Bob, who becomes a problem in later life for he favors playing to working, and spends his "dad's" money gambling on the stock market.

The "crash" of 1929 catches Bob. He loses everything—including his girl, Ann Bailey, who has been disgusted with him for some time. Jed, the partner of Dave, sticks by Bob, saves his life on one occasion, and finally inspires him to become the man his dad, and Ann, would like him to be.

Alice John, who plays the part of "Mom" Haines in "These Thirty Years" has played for the Theater Guild, Arthur Hopkins, and Charles Frohman.

recognition in his native county, as well as over the state. He is the son of the late A. C. Smith and is prominently known throughout this section.

He received his secondary education in the public schools of Chilton County, graduating from the Chilton County High School. For several months thereafter he was employed in the First National Bank of Birmingham. Mr. Smith was graduated from the law department of the University of Alabama more than five years ago, and since that time has been engaged in the practice of law in his native county.

He has always been an assidious and constant supporter of the Democratic Party and the principles for which it stands. During recent weeks, Mr. Smith states, many Democrats have urged him to enter the race for Senator from this district, and it is upon the advice of his friends that he has made his announcement.

In commenting on his candidacy, Mr. Smith said, "During the next few weeks my entire attention will be given to matters more important to me and to our citizenship than an active campaign of the Senatorial District. However, it is contemplated that before the primaries, I shall be in position to carry the campaign into every precinct in the three counties. I shall not hesitate to disclose my position with regard to legislation and on political principles in general. Alabama needs some constructive legislation next time. I think that I have sufficient background on such matters as qualify me to represent this district in an effort by the next legislature to place our state government on a sound economical basis."

TRADE WEEK

it was decided to move the date of the trade week up to Saturday, March 17, through Saturday, March 24. It was formerly planned to open the "buying campaign" Saturday, March 3, and continue through Saturday, March 10, but it was explained that this deferment of dates will permit time for merchants and business men over the entire county to become acquainted with the program and to make arrangements to give their cooperation.

Declaring that during the month of March, more money will be placed in the hands of the purchaser than during any single month perhaps in the history of the county, Luther E. Little, president of the Clanton Kiwanis, said the club is sponsoring this trade week with the hope of creating a stimulus for Spring buying, which will result in the employment of more persons. Business men are being asked to employ additional help during this week, thus alleviating to some extent the unemployment conditions in Chilton County.

Figures tabulated by him show that more than $200,000 will be paid into the hands of Chilton Countians during the first ten days of March, which is perhaps manifold any payroll for such a brief period in the history of the county. During March CWA payrolls, county payrolls, teachers' payrolls, payment of the amounts still due farmers in the Cotton Acreage Reduction program of 1933, and the first payment of the rentals for 1934, are expected to be paid. Also approximately forty thousand dollars worth of State warrants for teachers and other educational indebtedness will be received at that time, and it is understood that bids for these have been received.

Too, it is the season of the year, he explained, when farmers will be making arrangements for the year's advances, and will be purchasing much of the necessary equipment and supplies for the production of this year's crop. A committee has been appointed by the Kiwanis Club to acquaint business men of Chilton County with the ideals back of this program and to solicit their cooperation in making it a success.

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

We've always felt just a little sorry for poor old February. It has had many tough breaks. Once the longest month in the year, for ages now it has had to struggle along with 28 days "until Leap Year gives it 29." But we believe now that we have it all figured out—evidently the old Greek gods, (or Romans, which was it?) must have known pretty well what they were doing when they lopped off one of its weeks.

If February had still been running on the old schedule, what a predicament we should have experienced. With one week more until March 1, there wouldn't have been a dozen people in Chilton County but what would have "been urged to run for some political office." It's absolutely astounding how Utopian we are becoming: it is doubtful if history records any time when so many persons were willing to wear the yokes of service.

But we are right proud of ourselves as prognostigators. Long before the first line trenches were filled, we began naming prospective office-seekers—and a check-up shows that more than 90 per cent of those mentioned have qualified. The method we used in selecting these men wasn't really so complicated though—we merely sat down and scribbled off the name of every person we knew in the county; and it is with pride that we see there were only a few we didn't know as well as we thought.

Everything is all set for the semi-finals. All the candidates are qualified—it only remains now to begin the disqualifying process; and in many instances that has long been taken care of.

* * *

Two of Chilton County's outstanding characters are no more except in the memory of their many friends. With the death of the Rev. J. T. Nelson and W. L. Mullins, the county sustained a great loss, which was lessened only by the realization that they were spared long past the average span of life. It has been said that it is not how long a man lives, but how much he lives that counts. These men were fortunate enough to live long, and great enough to live much.

The passing of men of their calibre may well be phrased in this language:

The hands of destiny swing West—
The Flame falters—fades and is no more,
But after the Horizon claims its own
Stars shine out to remind one of a greater
Light gone on before.

Genial Tom McKee, Democratic candidate for tax collector, has been laid up with flu for several days. His friends and supporters have been getting all excited about his withdrawal week before last, but we don't think they need worry about that. It was just one of those little red tape ideas. He is back in the race—for keeps, he avers.

Unless some arrangements can be made to raise the remaining half-month's salary, the Clanton school will be closed next Friday, it was stated.

Prize List To Begin With $50 Cash And Include Many Others

MERCHANTS SHOW FINE COOPERATION

Final plans for putting on Prosperity Trade Week throughout Chilton County have been agreed upon by a committee representing the business men and the Kiwanis Club. As announced previously, the dates for the occasion have been set for the week commencing on Saturday, March 17, and extending through Saturday, March 24.

Participation of every business concern in Chilton County will be sought, in order that the two main purposes of the occasion may be served as generally and fully as possible (1) to stimulate trade by giving the buyers an unusual opportunity to obtain bargains in spring merchandise and (2) to increase employment by the addition of extra sales people for that week.

Every business concern participating will advertise the fact as extensively as the proportions and requirements of the business demands. Beginning on the first day of the sale every store taking part will give tickets for each dollar purchase, which will entitle the buyers of merchandise to share in the distribution of many valuable prizes to be awarded after the sale week is concluded.

A fifty dollar cash grand prize will head the list, and in addition there will be a valuable prize contributed by each and every business house taking part in the promotion of the event. Proper designation of the stores taking part in the sale will be made by display of a suitable sign at a prominent place in the store.

Advertising and publicity for Prosperity Sale week will be done jointly by the Chilton County News and The Union-Banner, both of which newspapers will carry a special edition devoted to this purpose next week. Mr. Marvin W. Marcus, an advertising specialist

"These Thirty Years" Drew Large Crowds

"These Thirty Years" famous picture shown last Friday and Saturday at the Wadesonian Theater under the auspices of the Clanton Motor Company, was an outstanding success, according to reports given the News.

At every showing through the two days the theater was crowded to capacity as the history of the progress of the automobile was unfolded on the screen. Tracing the improvements of the automobile from the inventive spark that was responsible for the conception of the "horseless carriage" to the outstanding motor vehicles of 1934, the picture was one of the most educational screen dramas ever shown in Clanton.

W. I. MULLINS LAID TO REST LAST SUNDAY

Prominent Citizen Succumbs After Putting Up Fight Against Death

W. L Mullins (Uncle Bill) one of Clanton's oldest business men, died Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at his home in Clanton following an illness of three months duration. He was 77 years old.

In his death, Clanton lost one of its cornerstones. Born and reared in Chilton County, he was perhaps the most widely known man in the entire county, having operated a mercantile business here for 44 years. He was founder of the present establishment of Mullins & Moore and was actively connected with its operation until about three months ago, when his illness prevented his continued activity.

Mr. Mullins has been closely affiliated with the progress of Clanton, and many steps in the progress of the Chilton County metropolis may be traced directly to his efforts. It was his father that inagurated the movement to organize the Clanton Baptist church, of which he was a member most of his

APPEAL FOR STORM RELIEF

This appeal is made to the people of Chilton County jointly by the Red Cross, the American Legion, and the Legion Auxiliary, for gifts, donations, and contributions for the relief of about half a dozen families in the area south of Clanton, which was visited by the storm on Sunday, February 25.

Preliminary survey of the storm area has been made under direction of Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, and a check-up has revealed actual and pressing needs in some of the families requiring the attention of relief agencies in order that they may be re-established in comfortable living circumstances.

Appeal is hereby made for donations of children's clothing for boys 3 to 8 years old, and girls 1, 5, 8, and 13 years old; clothing for adults; mattresses; dishes; chairs; quilts; sheets and pillow cases; knives and forks; fruit jars; plow stocks; harrows.

Contributions of money perhaps to the amount of $500 is urgently needed in order to assist about four farmers to repair their damages and replace their farming implements, in order that they may be able to carry on and make a crop this year.

The American Legion and Auxiliary ask for donations of clothing and supplies as suggested above. These donations are to be assembled at Lowe's Store in South Clanton, from where they will be distributed to those in need.

The Red Cross Chapter of Chilton County requests donations of cash, which will go into the relief fund. These donations should be brought or sent to J. Mell Martin, secretary and treasurer of the Chilton County Chapter.

You are requested to give this appeal your consideration and respond in the measure you are able to do. It should be remembered that this request is made for the relief of a number of our citizens, our neighbors, their wives and children, who have no means of securing the bare necessities of life, unless the same are given to them by those of us who are able to spare something.

Damage in the storm was over a rather wide area, and is of greater proportions here in our own county, perhaps, than many of us realize. It is estimated that more than fifty thousand dollars worth of farm property was destroyed within a very few miles of Clanton. We do not hope to replace this loss. But we do hope our people will respond with gifts of money and other things, in order that we may properly care for those who are in distressing circumstances as a result of the storm.

Give us your response now, please. Don't wait to be solicited. Imagine yourself suddenly made helpless and destitute, with all your personal belongings destroyed. You would appreciate prompt and ready response, and so will those in behalf of whom this appeal is made.

W. M. WYATT, Chairman Red Cross.
R. W. LOWE, Commander American Legion.

OLDEST MAN OF COUNTY IS LAID TO REST

Chilton County lost its oldest and one of its most revered citizens last Wednesday afternoon in the death of the Rev. James Thomas Nelson, who January 4, celebrated his 101st. birthday.

Death came to the venerable Baptist minister at his home about 4:30 o'clock following a brief illness. It is believed that his death was hastened by a fall which he received a few weeks ago.

For the past several years the birthday celebrations of this venerable teacher has been an outstanding event in the Chilton County calendar. Thousands annually traveled miles to pay homage to the Rev. Nelson, who devoted more than a half-century to spreading the Gospel teachings.

Although perhaps the oldest person in Alabama, the venerable minister retained an unusually keen memory until his death and was intently interested

STRONG WINDS BRING FEAR TO PEOPLE

Storms Strike Early This Year; Throughout County Storm Pits Are Seen

The Spring storm season seems to have opened a little early this year. Already two tornadoes have swept through this section, incurring high property damage and considerable loss of life and bodily injury to citizens of Central Alabama.

Seventeen lives were taken as a toll in the twister that swept through this section about two weeks ago; and again last Saturday morning, citizens of Chilton County sought safety in storm cellars, when a strong wind struck the Northern section of the county, incurring considerable property damage in the Center Hsll community,, west of Jemison.

Striking about 6:30 o'clock, a wind with great velocity wrecked one room of the home of J. B. Price, and destroyed barns at the homes of Verbon Miller and Burt Fredericks, all in the Center Hill community.

Throughout the county, fresh mounds of clay may be seen, thrown from newly constructed storm pits. Almost every home in some sections of the county is equipped with storm cellars.

These are the men you will have to choose from in the coming Democratic Primaries. They are men whom we take pleasure in commending to the people of this county. We urge our citizens to consider them, their upright characters, and their qualifications for the offices they seek.

Then go into the Democratic Primaries and vote for those who seem best fitted for the various places to be filled, and be ready to carry-on and support the nominees in the general election next fall. We realize that it has not always been customary in Chilton County to elect Democrats for county offices, but it was not so much the custom, until 1932, for the nation to elect a Democratic President. But the people wanted a new deal—they elected Mr. Roosevelt on the Democratic ticket—and the records are clear—they made no mistake. So, let us get in behind these men who have offered their services in this county, now, and be ready to put the nominees in office next fall.

W. I. Mullins

Clanton pauses this week to pay tribute to W. I. Mullins. In his passing, it has lost one of its cornerstones. Much of the progress of the town is due to his efforts; and throughout the county people pause to wipe away a tear in sympathetic memory of some kindness he did for them.

For forty-four years, he served Chilton County as one of its leading merchants—and as a wise and trusted friend and counselor. The memory of his kind deeds will continue to shine like stars, reminding one of a greater light gone on before.

J. T. Nelson

Just a few short weeks after celebrating his 101st. birthday with a host of relatives and friends, the Rev. J. T. Nelson passed on to that land where "We Never Grow Old." It was given to this stalwart minister to see a far greater span of life than is given to most of us. As the years rolled by he was allotted both joy and sorrow—as is the fate of mortal souls—and through it all he preserved an optimistic outlook, a joy in fellowship with his friends and a faith in the final victory of right that is an inspiration to us all.

Start Construction Dollars Plowing

In a recent address, Ben H. Hazen, President of the Oregon League of Building and Loan Associations, pointed out the tremendous importance of a revival of the building industry.

In the state of Oregon, for example, half of the industrial pay checks are issued in connection with the manufacture of lumber, and about half of the industrial working population is dependent for its jobs on the lumber industry. In other states the manufacture of construction materials of one kind or another, plus the jobs that are provided on the spot when a building is erected, account for a proportionately heavy percentage of all wage money in normal times.

The greatest of all construction opportunities, according to Mr. Hazen, is that of modernization of housing. The shortage of homes in the country is reliably estimated at 1,500,000. Valued at $3,000 each, a very moderate figure, their construction would put $4,500,000,000 in the coffers of industry. That much money, spent for labor and essential commodities, would give the greatest possible impetus to recovery.

Intensified work is now being done in an attempt to solve such construction problems as financing, and to get the long-awaited residential boom underway. A start has been made the last few months, and prices are rising. The meaning that, to the wise property owner, is that there never will be a better time than now to build, to modernize, to renovate, and to repair at low cost.

The postal service always seems more efficient around the first of the month, when no envelope containing a bill ever goes astray.

One Year Under a "New Deal"

March 4, 1934, last Sunday, indicated a point twelve months along a new path in American government. The News believes that history will record this year—March 4, 1933 to March 4, 1934—as one of the most significant in the lives of the American people since our independence. True, we have had wars—serious wars—but even in war there is a certain unity of purpose that binds us together as one people, and however dark the clouds may appear, there is a degree of orderliness to our activities so necessary to the maintenance of effectual government.

But twelve months ago the danger came from within. The citizenship of America was rapidly losing faith in America. Gold, that age-old symbol of wealth, was no longer entrusted to the financial institutions of our country. Those who possessed it were hoarding or shipping it abroad. Those able to were afraid to invest money in new enterprises, or even to attempt continued operation of those already established in many instances. Yes, the economic structure of these United States was tottering on its foundation twelve months ago. And the gravest aspect of the whole situation was the tramp, tramp, tramp, of millions of unemployed men—men with families at home suffering for food, clothes and shelter. It was a condition to make the strongest quail with fear, and those with less courage were ready for a leader—and in many instances they would not have questioned a strong leader, whether he carried them onward and upward or into chaos. The American people were not only ready for a change—they were demanding a change. Another deal had to be made.

And then the kindly fates which have watched over this great Western Republic gave the people a "New Deal." Franklin D. Roosevelt was inaugurated President, and as the crisis was critical, so the remedies applied were new and strong. A man was at the helm who could cast aside worn-out precedents and rise magnificently to needs of the present and an eye to the future. The banks were swiftly closed upon a yawning abyss of lost faith, and rapidly re-opened upon a basis of confidence. The economic situation was diagnosed in every field and swift, incisive remedies administered.

The gigantic problem of unemployment was tackled. Civilian Conservation Camps were started, NRA moved into industry, RFC, CWA and other things became a part of the administration activities that the winter of 1933-34 would not be a ghastly repetition of the one before.

No, it was not many months after March 4, 1933, when the people of this country awoke to the fact that we actually had a Leader, a man who understood the situation, a man with courage to administer the remedies, and they gave him allegiance such as they had never before known possible.

It would take too many pages in a newspaper like this to enumerate and discuss all the things which have taken place during twelve months under the "New Deal". But suffice it to say there is a new spirit abroad in the land. The effects of a prolonged period of depression may not be completely obliterated, but hope has taken the place of despair. Men are finding more work, business enterprises are using less red ink. The pendulum is swinging in the right direction. There yet remains work to be done, but we have no doubt that it will be done.

The Chilton County News is proud of this "New Deal", proud of the faith and cooperation our people have extended to it, and glad that we have had some small part in helping to bring it to pass, and especially proud that Chilton County broke a forty-four-year-old precedent in the fall of 1932 and did its share toward inaugurating this administration. A promise was made to remember the "forgotten man" and it fills our hearts to overflowing to see that this promise has been kept, and that this man—so long neglected—has been remembered, not only thruout the width and breadth of this nation of ours, but that he has also been remembered right here in Chilton County.

There is no doubt in our minds, the people will continue to support the administration which has accomplished so much in the past twelve months.

Farmers Who Can Pay

We recently ran across a North Carolina doctor's diagnosis of the farmer's financial troubles which is worth passing along. This was a general practitioner in an average small town who carried the accounts of many farm families on his books, usually making collections yearly when crops were marketed, as is the custom with many.

On January 1 he checked up his delinquent accounts and found that in nearly every case those who had failed to pay were one-crop farmers who made no attempt to raise a variety of products. Then he looked over his paid-up list, which disclosed conditions somewhat like this:

One had a flock of pure-bred chickens, another a flock of sheep, a third had brood sows, others had dairy cows, orchards, vegetables, hay and other food and stock feed, or had been able to market poultry and dairy products, had also been able to pay their doctor's bill. And by the same token had been able to pay other bills, without doubt.

Spring will soon be here. The decisions the farmer makes regarding what he will raise next season will materially affect his condition next fall. Will he profit by the experience of those who have succeeded through diversification, or will he stick to the old poverty-breeding one-crop plan?

His doctor and other creditors will be interested in this question. The farmer should take an interest in it himself.

All Must Pull Together

A recent release of the American Cotton Cooperative Association says: "The A.C.C.A. is owned and controlled by its affiliated associations. It was organized and is operated to assist the cotton farmers, and not for the gain of those who have been selected to conduct its affairs. It cannot be successful unless the State and Regional associations are successful. The State and Regional associations cannot be successful unless the cotton farmer patronizes his organization. . ."

Substitute "wheat," "dairy products," "fruit," or any other crop-name for "cotton" in that quotation and it will still be accurate. A good many farmers haven't discovered as yet that the only way a cooperative can achieve success is by "cooperation!" And that means cooperation all along the line—on the part of the management, of allied groups and, most important of all, the producer himself.

During the latter part of depression the cotton farmers have made definite progress—because of the unceasing work of their cooperative in bringing their story before the government and the general public, and in formulating a program to solve their problems. Other cooperatives have made similar records. They have justified every faith that has been placed in them. Economists and agricultural authorities of all schools believe that the future of the farmer depends on his continued support of the cooperative movement.

D. W. Haskew

I went down to look over the new Chevrolet and had my attention called to the "Knee Wheeling" that appeared to be something new in the automobile line. I got down upon my knees and while looking under the fender I listened with interest to a detailed description of the knee wheeling. I was told that this new addition of the car would take all the bumps and jars out of travel and make a rough road seem like a paved road. I am not in position to say that this claim is true, but I am in position to say that "Knee Wheeling" along the highway that leads up to the City of God will do much toward the removing of problems and difficulties along the way, and will do much toward making the journey smooth and pleasant. If we would learn to use our knees more in Christian travel, the journey would be much finer anl sweeter. Prayer will take much of the roughness out of the journey of life.

I worshipped recently in a church where the pulpit was in bad repair. The stand was shoddy in construction and to make it stand upright braces had been nailed to each side. With all of the braces attached it was then only strong enough to hold up the Bible. I worshipped in another church where the pulpit was in perfect order and preacher and stand were able to stand alone, without braces. It is a fact that some of the pulpits in this country are in bad repair. They are being braced up by University training, by the wealth of the rich and by the dignity of the cultured, but in reality they are just ready to tumble down. It is going to be a sad day when our pulpits are not strong enough to support the Bible of God, and I must confess that there are many such pulpits at this time. In every church there should be strong pulpits provided and behind each one should stand God's man.

I passed down the side walk and saw a man washing a window. There was a soiled spot on the window and the boy on the outside was doing his best to wash off the ugly place. He took a new supply of soap and water and rubbed it on good and then washed it off with great care, but the spot was still on the window. The colored boy finally discovered that the spot was on the inside, and he took his mop and soon had it washed away. Almost every day I find men and women who have an ugly spot on their character, and I see them as they try to wash it off by outside methods. They run around patching up this report and denying that one, but the spot is still there. Hear me, when you have a spot on your character do not deceive yourself by thinking that you can wash those spots off with the process of outside cleansing. The spot is on the inside and there is where you must go. The blood of Jesus Christ alone can wash your heart and make it clean, and this blood has no vistue except on the inside.

A pastor's wife is responsible for this story. Said she, "I was a stranger at the church and seeing the sexton I went to him and asked that he point out to me the room where the meeting was to be held. He instructed me to go back of the auditorium and to a room that carried a big sign: Wash Up, and that was the place." Said this good lady of the parsonage, "I went back there and found the sign as the negro had said, but it was 'Worship' and not 'Wash Up' as the old negro said." After all the darkey was not far wrong. When we go into God's house to worship it is a process of washing up the life. The reason why so many folks are walking about with the soil of the world in their soul is because they never go to the place of worship and they never "Wash Up" their inner life.

During the World War the driver of a big plane discovered signs of a rat on his plane. He was in a mountainous country and could not land. He knew that the rat could give a fatal blow to his ship any minute, and he knowing that the rat could not live in high altitudes, immediately turned his ship upward. Up and up he climbed. When he had gone so high that he could hardly breath himself, he saw the rat as it rushed from its hiding place and fell dead at his feet. It may be that some of you have dangerous secret sins in your soul. They are likely to bring you down any day. Better turn your soul upward. Secret sins can not live in the high altitude of Christian living.

GOOD ROADS PAY

It has long been argued by good roads enthusiasts that the building of permanent highways is the one enterprise on earth that pays its own way. Some recent investigations by the American Automobile Association tend to confirm this idea.

In a recent report that association declares that good roads have reduced the average automobile operation cost from 10 cents a mile to six and a half cents in the last five years.

Besides the saving in gasoline, good roads make possible a great saving in time and in wear and tear on cars and tires, at the same time providing greater comfort and safety.

It seems that the case for improved highways is pretty well established, and even the high gasoline taxes which are imposed in some states are borne without much complaint, when the proceeds are devoted entirely to road building.

Because she accidentally picked up and swallowed a 25-cent piece instead of a headache pill, Josephine Lucius, of Los Angeles, is on a cotton and spinach diet.

CHESTNUT CREEK SINGING SOCIETY MET LAST SUNDAY

Our singing society met last Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. We had a beautiful day and everybody seemed to enjoy the singing fine. We were especially glad to have the visiting singers, and thank you for your splendid help.

Singing was opened by Chairman L. D. Hughes, singing one song, and led in prayer by J. R. Robinson. Directors for the afternoon were as follows: W. M. Devaughn, Paul Hughes, Orvid Hughes, Clayton Miller, J. B. Crew, Floy Devaughn, Hewell Jones, L. T. Grant, O. L. Devaughn, Ralph D. Grant, Pete Wilson, A. O. Boswell, Mr. Bennett and Melton Hughes, all singing from one to two songs each. The Frisky Four sang two songs. A splendid quartet was arranged by Ralph D. Grant which was enjoyed by everybody; also Mr. Ralph Grant sang a solo. The only thing I can say against it is he did not sing but one verse of it.

Pianists for the afternoon were Claudia Hughes, Ralph D. Grant, Bertie Grant, Louanna Jones. Mr. Grant, Mr. W. M. Devaughn, Mr. O. L. Devaughn, Floy Devaughn sang the closing song, and we were dismissed by Rev. J. W. Jones.

Everybody is invited to come back on the first providing we don't call it off for the Easter singing. We will put it in the paper later.

—Louanna Jones, Secretary.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Sunday school Sunday was very well attended, but no B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. Are we going to quit going to B. Y. P. U., Sunday school and preaching at Maple Springs? We once had almost an A No. 1 B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school at this place, but for some reason it has gone down until it's one of the smallest now. Are we going to sit down and do nothing? We better get going or we will be found sitting at the same old place this time next year. We seem to be taking more interest in other churches than we do our own. Cany anyone tell us what is the matter? Come on back now, folks, and let's get our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school to going again and work harder than ever.

There will be a B. Y. P. U. study course to begin at this place next Monday night, March the 12th. We invite everyone who will and can to come and take the course, and after we finish this course maybe our B. Y. P. U. will begin to improve. This course will be taught by our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson. Don't forget the date now.

Mr. R. J. Downs and family had as their Sunday night guests Mrs. Claud Downs and daughter, Annie Pearl.

Mr. Wiley Jones visited in Coopers Sunday.

Messrs. Curtis Jones and Alton Deloach spent a while Friday afternoon with Messrs. Ottis and Oliver Glenn.

Mrs. Arthur Mims had as her guest Sunday afternoon Miss Willie Popwell of Clanton.

Mr. Oliver Glenn spent a while Sunday afternoon with Mr. Erskine Parrish in Friendship community.

Thorsby Institute News

It would be much appreciated if those who have promised money or provisions for the Institute Boarding Department—and have not given yet—would do so as soon as possible.

It will be interesting to the many friends of Hazel Maddox—a Thorsby Institute graduate of the class of 1929—to know that during the past semester she was sixth on the list of Piedmont women attaining high honor standing. She is House Chairman of Commons Hall, is vice-president of the Theta Zeta Phi Literary Society, and is active in Christian Endeavor and Y. W. C. A. She is also President of the Senior Class. Aside from these responsibilities and honors, she is working a part of her way through college. In it all she is showing a fine spirit of co-operation.

Miss Lois Thompson of Piedmont College, according to a recent report, holds first place among the women honor students of the Freshman Class, and second place in the honor list of all women students. Miss Thompson is a graduate of Thorsby Institute in the class of 1933. We quote from the report: "She takes a normal healthy interest in social activities as well as her class room work. Her personality is the sort we like to see cultivated in Piedmont."

On Friday night the Faculty of Thorsby Institute entertained in the auditorium the parents of the students attending the school. Miss Jenkins welcomed the parents in a short speech to which Mrs. Billingsley responded. After this a song was sung. Then Miss Fairbank, who has taught in a school for the deaf, using the faculty as her class, showed how the deaf are taught lip-reading. Mrs. Vinson Sutlive and Mrs. H. R. Maddox sang a duet after which Miss Phillips gave a piano solo and Miss Boring gave a reading. A song closed the interesting program which had been well planned by Mr. Sutlive. After the program Miss McKee and Miss Klingelhoefer took charge of the group games which were very much enjoyed. After the games Miss Leech served refreshments assisted by Misses McKee, Phillips and Mrs. H. R. Maddox.

School will be in session March 10, beginning at 8:15 and closing at 1:00.

March 17 "The Wanderers", a quartette which Gresham Lowery is managing, will give a concert at Thorsby Institute Auditorium. It is sponsored by the Senior Class. Admission will be ten cents for students and those under twelve and twenty cents for all others. The Quartette sang in Chapel Friday morning and was very much enjoyed. In fact, we think it is the best quartette Mr. Lowery has had. The voices harmonized very well. Everyone is urged to come.

On Saturday, March 24, at 7:30 p.m. the faculty and alumni of Thorsby Institute plan to give a one-act play. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance. The plays are both comedies. So, if you want a good laugh, come! The amount of admission will be announced later.

From the night of March 30 through Sunday night, April 1, the young people's Christian Life Conference will be held in the Institute and the Congregational church.

Term examinations will take place March 15 and 16.

THE DEATH OF A VERY PROMINENT MAN

Louisville, Ala., March 5, 1934.

Editor, Chilton County News:

In the passing of W. I. Mullins of Clanton Alabama has lost one of her safest thinkers. Chilton county has lost one of her most worthy citizens. Clanton has lost one of her most progressive business men, and the church one of her most faithful deserving members. Mr. Mullins was a man of exceptional abilities and worth, always giving counsel and commendation that will live through the ages in the hearts of his associates.

God be praised for such a life. There is no doubt about his eternal abode.

A Message To The Voters Of The Sixth Congressional District From Pete B. Jarman, Jr.

To serve my fellow Alabamians, my party and my nation to the best of my ability has even been my keen desire. I, therefore, consider it my duty to take advantage of the opportunity presented by the urgent solicitations of many citizens throughout the Sixth District to run for Congress, thereby making myself available for a wider field of service. Believing that I can and will make you a good Congressman, I announce my candidacy. My platform will follow in due course.

In doing so, I desire to gratefully acknowledge the thousands of voluntary assurances of support which have come to me during the past few months. Would that I could thank each man and woman personally. I am convinced that we have a common tie, a unified purpose that would find mutual expression in a good old hand shake and friendly word of greeting. While it will doubtless be impossible for me to see every voter, I anticipate with much pleasure seeing as many of you as I can during a very active campaign.

My campaign will, of course, be waged upon a high plane.

I pledge my honest and sincere efforts to be YOUR Representative in Washington, rendering allegiance to the whole people of the Sixth District, poor and rich, low and high, without favoritism to any click or group. Your affairs at the Nation's Capitol will be regarded as an avowed public trust, and I will strive earnestly to serve my district, my party, and my nation well.

Many of your substantial citizens, who have urged my candidacy without solicitation, will testify to my qualifications and experience for this very important post of service.

Always feel free, during this campaign as well as in the future, to discuss with me any issue in which you may be interested. Let's talk it over as man to man. Let's work together toward a common purpose, which vitally concerns us all. The people of the great Sixth Congressional District of Alabama, the best section of the world, are entitled to a full realization of, and complete and positive participation in our great President's "New Deal."

Your efforts in my behalf will be deeply appreciated. I want, not only your vote, but your active influence.

TOGETHER WE CANNOT, MUST NOT, AND WILL NOT FAIL.

Sincerely,

PETE B. JARMAN, JR.

RALPH JONES WINS PRAISE FOR UNIQUE WINDOW DISPLAY

The following news clipping will be of interest to the many friends of Ralph Jones, former resident of Clanton:

"One of the most interesting windows in Woodlawn that it has been our pleasure to see lately is the one in Woodlawn Hardware by Ralph Jones. Quite a bit of handwork was necessary to round out the exhibit and we congratulate Mr. Jones on his handiwork.

"The scene is around a colonial home of Southern type with two gardens, one of which has a model of a mule plowing near a barn. The other one is at the other end of model of the farm yard.

"In front of the colonial home grass is growing and a poultry yard is nearby. The arrangement is ideal and the handwork shows much hard work and careful planning."

ALABAMA Power Company, by harnessing falling water, by transforming latent energy in coal into electricity and by constructing a statewide transmission and distribution system, has created taxable wealth where scarcely any existed before.

In 1914, the year the Company placed in operation its first power plant on the Coosa river, its tax bill was only $5000. In 1933 this bill had increased to $2,000,000., which amount is greater than the entire taxes paid into the State Treasury by the Tax Collectors of the 43 counties shown in black on the above state map.

If the Company should be relieved of taxes, the tax bill of every other Alabama taxpayer would have to be increased or the schools and municipal and state governments would have to operate at less cost. Yet this is the effect when privately owned electric systems are replaced by municipally owned systems which thus become non-taxpayers.

Vermont Jr. High School News

The P.-T. A. held its regular meeting last Thursday night. After devotional erercises by r. Johnson, preliminary announcements were made by the President. Following this, Miss Manning explained in detail plans and progress concerning the quilt project. Saturday, March 17, was fixed as the date to hold the quilting party. All those ladies who have pledged to assist in this project and any others who might be interested are requested to meet at the school building at 10 a.m. After the abo announcments, the program committ took charge. Mrs. C. J. Chandler gave a very interesting discussion about Rewards and their subsequent effect on ones success.

Then Mrs. M. L. Williams presented in a ten-minute talk about "The Effect of School Marks on Personality." Both of these talks were very inspirational and it supports the fact that any goal to be attained must offer some inducement to happiness, success. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday night, March 20. Supt. Little was unable to be with us last Thursday due to a previous engagement. He will, however, be with us next time. One hundred and three persons were present at our last meeting, including forty-three parents.

A large number of young men in this community met last Thursday night draft plans for organizing a baseball team for the coming season. They set Tuesday night, March 6, as the night complete final arrangements. At this writing the outcome of the meeting has not been given.

Miss Dorothy Manning, primary instructor, reports a lovely trip to Auburn on last week end to see her brother, who is a student at the Agricultural College.

Mr. Johnson, Miss Grant, and Miss Cagle motored to Selma on Saturd February 24, to witness the third di trict high school basket ball tournament.

Folks! You should drop in sometime and let the Junior Rhythm Band show you how to make music from toy drums, chop sticks, horse shoes, and a bunch of funny looking devices. They'll entertain you de luxe style.

The Liberty Hill Quartette was finally favored with a beautiful night on February 23, and they presented their clever little musical program to a large audience. Cornelius Hand, member of their troupe, gave the crowd a nice bunch of laughs with his comic foolishness. The writer endorses them without reservation for their clean, wholesome entertainment. We hope they can be with us again sometime.

We weer glad to have Mr. B. Lawrence, ex-superintendent of education to drop by for a few minutes visit last week.

All parents of Vermont school are especially urged to look over th child's report cards. They are given out at the end of each month. Please see that your child submits his or her report for customary inspection.

The 260-pound pig will be given away at nine o'clock Saturday morning March 17. This will be just before the ladies quilting party. The quilting party was set back one week in order not to conflict with services at Sardis church.

The faculty spent the past week end at their respective homes.

The Bird Program was rendered last Friday. Stores, poems, songs, reports recitations, all combined, built up a clever program depicting the aesthetic and economic value of our native birds. A number of the school boys brought in numerous nests of the different kinds of our common birds, and an interesting report was given about them. Other students reported on the habits, characteristics, plumage, etc., relative to our varied native birds. We are trying to build up sentiment toward the protection of our birds, rather than let indifference and thoughtlessness lead to their ultimate destruction.

Several play books were ordered last week. Work will begin soon on our Jr. High School student entertainment

SERVICES, CHURCH OF CHRIST

Services at Church of Christ last Lord's Day were encouraging, and we believe each one there was helped spiritually and gained greater strength in hope of accomplishing lasting service for the Saviour of our souls. But we are taking this as one way to erpress further interest in the members who live some distance from Clanton. To those who are providentially hindered say that we miss your presence, associfrom attending every Lord's Day, we ation, and your stimulating influence in our worship. We ask an interest in your prayers, and a memory in your thoughts and good wishes. We remember that all real faithful Christians are fellow-laborers, fellow-citizens, heirs and joint-heirs, and have fellowship with one another in the Kingdom of Heaven, which is the blood-bought institution of Christ our Lord.

To whom it may concern, we say that our creed is the New Testament, and we appreciate the cooperation and concerted action of all the Lord's people in the light of its teaching, believing that the Scriptures furnish the man of God thoroughly unto every good work. (2 Tim. 3:15-17).

Services every Lord's Day, 10 to 12 a.m. — 7 to 8 p.m. Friday night, 7 to 8 p.m. Come. Sincerely,

R. L. HUFFMAN.

OLIVER ABLY REPRESENTING HIS DISTRICT

Route 1, Jemison, Ala.
Editor, Chilton County News:

I was very much interested in Congressman W. B. Oliver's statement in your last week's issue, when he said, "I have no apologies to make for supporting the President's program in its entirety and shall continue to do so as long as the crisis lasts," and then he added, "May I not suggest that the best service each of us can render at this time is to show an unflinching determination to back Mr. Roosevelt's program to the finish, uninterrupted, to the end that America may completely recover and go forward to renewed greatness." I feel like Alabama is being very ably represented with such men as Mr. Oliver, Mr. Black and Mr. Bankhead. Mr. Oliver will get my vote.

Well, Mr. Editor, I find it pretty hard to get some of our local candidates to talk. Especially the Republican side of the fence. When you press down on one of the Republican candidates for sheriff and want to know how he is going to handle the "fragments" of the Prohibition law, about all you can get out of him is, "I'll treat you right." Right here I would like to offer a somewhat solution to our liquor problem: force all the drys to drink until all the present supply of "poison bootleg stuff" is consumed. Of course, a great many would kick, but this would make the pain more equal, and no doubt would help to solve our liquor problem. And, too, this would render it absolutely unnecessary for "Big Breeches" or "Little breeches" to bring any long drawn out political prohibition speeches in the next session of the legislature.

Something has got to be done for more protection to our fish and wild game. I would suggest that we all discard the repeater and automatic and not allow any of the "big boys" to hunt or fish outside of their city limits. Of course a big howl would go up, but I think this would furnish at least some protection to our fish and game. Furthermore, save time on speeches for protection of the fish and wild game.

Since discussing prohibition, protection, etc., will say I think that I need some protection. I got up the other night and making my way across a dark room I got tangled up with an old rocking chair. I came out pretty light —just skinned one of my shins. Some of you know how that hurts; and, owing to the ladies, cannot tell you all I said.

You people that are blessed with electric lights do not know how to sympathize with the ones in the dark. I just thought if I Ihad a law or something that would move the calf of a man's leg in front that would afford him some protection. Of course, these laws might not be practical or workable but I think they would be worth about as much as some we have.

In conclusion, I want it thoroughly understood that I am for all laws that protect anyone's peace, person or property. For God sakes, and for the sake of the public, let us use more "common sense" and "justice" in the execution of some of our laws, especially the prohibition law. I am wholeheartedly in favor of education, organization, cooperation and consolidation.

Respectfully submitted,
S. Y. DORMINEY.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

Foremost in the news from Chilton County High School for this week is news on the Senior Class Memorial. As it was mentioned week before last, the class decided on leaving entrance gate for the southern end of the driveway. The materials for this structure have arrived and bids for the construction were received during the first part of the week and the work is expected to begin sometime during this week. By taking every good opportunity and by hard work, the Senior Class has put a large sum of money into their treasury. So the Senior Class of 1933-34 woll not only leave the entrance gate but will also leave other objects for the beautification of the campus and for the further improvement of the school equipment.

The Student body and the members of the Senior Class extend their sincere regrets and sympathy to Helen and Joe Moore in their recent bereavement.

As it is the annual custom for the Senior Two Class to entertain the Senior Three Class, the Senior Two's, with Miss Margaret Kendrick as class advisor, are laying plans for their annual play. This play will be given in order to raise the necessary funds for the annual Junior-Senior entertainment. Further announcements will be made in the near future.

The response given to the Shakespearean play, "Macbeth" presented at the high school on February 27 by a professional troupe, exceeded the expectations of all. The attendance was large and it is probable that the troupe will return next year with a large number of players. This play was sponsored by the Senior Three Class and they wish to express their appreciation to the Maplesville, Jemison, Thorsby and Isabella communities for their splendid attendance. Other communities were well represented also.

On the Monday before the "Macbeth" play, several members of the Senior Three English Class, who have recently studied Macbeth, presented a brief prevue of the play during the chapel period. The story, the history, and other interesting facts about the play were given in order that those who were not familiar with it could easily understand the play. Taking part on this program were Frances Davis, Maralyn Hardy, Roberta Cochran and Virgil Robinson. Roberta Cochran is to be highly complimented on the excellent manner in which she told the story of this classical drama. Her recitation won the commendations of a number of the teachers and students. Miss Frances Gulledge is the teacher of the English class.

The Senior One Class, with Miss Frances Gulledge as teacher, is to be lauded for their interest in Shakespeare and their splendid program is chapel last Thursday. Students from this class brought before the student body by splendid acting the "Seven Ages of Man." This is a well known piece selected from Shakespeare's, "As You Like It" in which he describes the seven ages that make up a man's life. These seven ages begin with the helpless infant and end with 'second childness and mere oblivion.'

It is pleasing to note that the famous and highly recommended screen play "Little Women" was attended by many of the C. C. H. S. students. As every one knows it was adapted from Louisa May Alcott's book of the same name.

Although the basketball season has been closed, the Chilton team played the local fire department team last Friday night. Both teams played well and laurels are due to the Chilton team for their superb playing. The score was 33 to 31 in favor of the school after the extra period.

Read the story on the front page about our basketball team.

Ever watchful, for an opportunity to broaden the scientific knowledge of his physics, that is Mr. Varnell, our science instructor. While the Ford Company was displaying their "cut-away" chassis here which enables one to see the inside working parts of the car in motion, Mr. Varnell took his physics class to see this. It is in correlation with their study of automobiles, and was a splendid means of allowing them to really see the intricate parts of the automobile which they will study.

Quite a number of students have been absent from school due to measles, inculding the writer, whch explains the absence of "Ink Drops" last week. The Senior Class was sorry to learn that one of their members, Osmond Gleen, suffered small losses during the storms Sunday before last.

"Who Am I?" Yes, they guessed it last week and I have just come out of my hole to atempt another try. Here goes. I am a girl. I am popular among my set. I have dark hair, I am liked for my friendliness and for my school spirit. And I am admired and respected for my intelligence and manners. Who Am I? You're right again. It was John Ezell last week.

A vistor to C. C. H. S. would have his attention drawn to the exhibits on display in the corridor. On tables and on the bulletin boards one would see beautiful examples of booklets, posters, and other work of the students. Novel ideas in colors and form; original ideas in construction, and excellent work are outstanding. These exhibits include booklets and posters on works of Shakespeare made by the Senior One and Senior Two English classes; intricate and accurate drawings from the geometry class; realistic drawings from the biology department; exact and "to the point" drawings from the physics class; and other displays which deserve the highest of praise.

"So They Say." (These articles are the personal expressions of the writer and deal with outside activities of the students.) I wonder if "they" will make candy tomorrow as the crowd did one Friday before when they were "absent" from school. 'Tis amusing how some "young ladies" act so cold when a certain boy, or boys, come around. What fools they are. Keep it up. But it's fine to notice that one has left this "acting" few. It is sincerely hoped that she remains so. If a certain Senior Two only knew. It would be lots better for her. He's innocent but I wouldn't use the adjectives, "poor little." Some want to know if a certain Senior Two went to Prattville a Saturday night or so ago. She surely was disappointed on that same Saturday night but can you blame him?

TRADE WEEK

of wide experience, has been employed by the two newspapers to present the matter to the attention of the merchants and business men. Mr. Marcus will contact every business house in the county, and extend to everyone an opportunity to take part. The two newspapers will carry the message of Prosperity Trade Week into every home in the county.

It is planned to secure a suitable building in Clanton where all prizes and special displays by business concerns will be arranged by Mr. Marcus This place will be open at all business hours during the sale week, where everybody will be invited to visit and see the displays. Similar centers will be proposed for other towns in the county also.

The fact that it is proposed to make the event a county-wide affair is stressed from the very beginning. It is not desired to make it a strictly one-town proposition. The committee felt that every town should participate in the proposition, and push its own trade interests. According to the arrangements, people who trade in any of the towns where merchants are participating will have an equal opportunity to share in all the advantages that are offered through the promotion of sales week.

Every reader of the newspapers is urged to keep a keen eye for the special editions of next week. They will bring you the full and complete message of Prosperity Trade Week, and you can be assured it will be a message that will appeal to your pocket book as you come to consider the matter of buying merchandise for spring. Everything will be included, and you will be interested, whether you consider buying automobiles, groceries, hardware, drugs, farm implements, clothing, shoes, or what-not.

Remember this is not just a scheme to get your dollars. It is a patriotic, whole-hearted, sincere and honest effort of the business people of Chilton County to extend an opportunity for money-saving to the buyers of the county that will be worth-while, and should be appreciated from the standpoint of the buyer who is going to buy and use any sort of merchandise in the next few months.

Firemen Will Play 11th Ave. Methodist

The last basket ball game of the season for the local Firemen will be played at the high school Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock, against the 11th Avenue Methodist team from Birmingham.

Considerable comment is being made by the firemen concerning the small interest shown by the people of Clanton in their games. Small crowds of local people have been evident at each game and the firemen have noticed this. People of Clanton are urged to back their firemen in their sports and should turn out to see this last game.

DEMOCRAT TICKET

of the Isabella High School.

J. C. Pattillo is a life-long resident of Verbena and for many years has been connected as bookkeeper with the business establishment of D.I. Deramus in Verbena. For several years he served as a trustee of the Verbena schools and was a great influence in the promotion and erecting of the Verbena High School building. Too, he has served the people of his community for sometime as a justice of the peace, is a member of the Verbena Masonic Lodge and has served that order as secretary since 1917, and is a former member of the county board of education.

Mr. Payne is a prominent merchant of Maplesville and his friends and acquaintances are numbered by the hundreds in that section of the county. His business experience well qualifies him to render expert service to the cause of education in this county as a member of the Chilton County Board of Education.

Mr. Oden, who began his career as a teacher, has been engaged in farming in the Isabella community for the past fifteen years. A great deal of his time is devoted to the well-being of his community. He rendered great service in the building of the Isabella High School, which is one of the outstanding educational institutions in the county.

In the capacity of a county commissioner, Mr. Oden believes his chance of service to his people and his county will be enlarged. He stands for rigid economy, where it will not result in retrograding the progress of the county.

The Democratic ticket of Chilton County is more complete than it has been in many years. Every office is filled with a candidate and in some instances there are several candidates seeking the same office.

The list of candidates which appears on the editorial page of the News this week shows the Democratic ticket as an exceedingly strong one for the forthcoming elections, with high type men for each office.

in all events that transpired. Despite his near blindness, he kept in close contact with all governmental proceedings, and his wisdom and counsel was sought by many.

Until a few days before his death, he was in exceptionally good physical health, taking charge of various chores about his little home,nestled in an oak grove three miles north of Clanton. It was while bringing wood to mend a fire that he received the fall that is believed to have been responsible for his death.

Born in Butts County, Georgia, the Rev. Nelson removed to Alabama at the early age of 10 years, and for many years made his home in Coosa County, near Weogufka. It was while there that he was ordained to preach the Gospel, and through his efforts the Weogufka Masonic Lodge, of which he was the only surviving charter member, was organized.

He served his country through the Civil War, and was standing within a few feet of Gen. Robert E. Lee when he handed his sword to General Grant at Appomatox, thus bringing to a close the hostilities of four years.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Frances Nelson; sons, W. M. Nelson, Marion Nelson, and one step-son, B. E. Jones, all of Clanton; daughters, Mrs. Martha Taylor, Clanton; Mrs. Georgia Hendricks, Weogufka, and Mrs. Neoma Pate, of Clanton. He is also survived by 130 grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held from the New Salem Baptist church Tsursday afternoon with Masonic honors. The Rev. J. D. Hughes, the Rev. J. W. Jones, and the Rev. W. P. Lowery officiated. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

An autobiography of the venerable minister written shortly before his death will be published in the News next week.

MR. AND MRS. TOM KEMP PARENTS OF FINE GIRL

Eight of the finest, roundest and plumpest little babies you have ever seen, made their arrival at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kemp last Monday night, and Mr. Stork pushed back his hat, wiping the perspiration from his forehead, stood back and viewed a job well done. Mr. and Mrs. Kemp are certainly to be congratulated.

They are the happy parents of a fine bouncing baby girl born Monday night at their home. The News extends heartiest congratulations. At the time we go to press, we did not learn of the name of the little Miss Kemp.

On the same night, Mr. Kemp's cow fondly protected a bright little new calf and one of Mr. Kemp's prize dogs was the proud mother of a litter of pups. So, it is easily understood why Mr. Kemp seems to be the proudest man in town.

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

Simultaneous with the celebration of its sixth anniversary, the Clanton Kiwanis club is sponsoring one of the most gigantic county-wide trade weeks beginning Saturday ever known in this section. Merchants and business men from all sections of the county are joining in this effort to rejuvenate business and celebrate the return of prosperity; and apparently Prosperity has made its return to Chilton County. During this month more money is being placed in the hands of the individual purchaser than during any month in the past decade, according to figures compiled by Luther E. Little, president of the Clanton Kiwanis.

Believing that there is an opportunity to place more of the county's unemployed in local private industry, the Clanton Kiwanis is sponsoring this Prosperity Trade Week in an effort to furnish employment to as many persons as possible on permanent or part-time basis.

The Trade Week is just another of a long list of worthy movements that have been sponsored by this organization during its brief six years of service. It is an organization of which its members, Clanton and Chilton County have a right to be proud.

Politics make strange bedfellows is an old and often quoted adage. Last week a new political racket was unearthed. While Judge McCord told a crowded audtorium of Pell City citizens why he should be elected governor, a light fingered pickpocket was quietly relieving persons of their surplus cash. When apprehended he had on his person some $500. We have always been fortunate in Chilton County. Pocketpicking here never comes until after the election.

In the News this week is a little reprinted story that goes a long way toward explaining the popularity of President Roosevelt. Sylvester Harris, Mississippi negro, when about to lose his farm called the President on long distance, told him the story; now arrangements have been made whereby Sylvester has another chance to pay the indebtedness on his property. In this county not many months ago, little Junior Rutland, of Verbena, had a personal letter from the busy President commending him for digging up one of his three rows of cotton. Later he received a check for $1 from the executive. The President, although the busiest man in the world, remembers the "forgotten man" and is always doing something to help him. His popularity is deserved.

Here's one for your believe it or not. Newt Gray, popular Clanton barber has a cat that when shut up in a room, instead of accepting the imprisonment as fate, merely climbs the door, turns the bolt and is out.

A few issues past, The Man in the Moon made a suggestion that is worthy of comment and commendation, when he suggested that the Chilton County airport be christened Gragg Field. Had it not been for the streneous fight made by Dr. Gragg and a few others, the airport would very likely still be just a dream instead of a reality—and the suggestion of naming the field in his honor was indeed timely.

We are afraid, however, that some failed to recognize the exceptional opportunity offered by the construction of an airport until it was too late to derive the facilities that might have been had if the application could have been presented earlier.

Does this prove that business in Chilton County is on the up and up? Stanley Davis, agent for the Liberty Life Insurance Company, recently received by express a cargo of approved policies. So it seems that somebody must be realizing the advantage of taking care of tomorrow instead of letting tomorrow take care of itself.

Who said that people don't read the county papers? A few issues ago, C. B. Cox, candidates for representative; and T. L. McKee, candidate for tax collector, had inserted a little notice announcing their withdrawal from the race. Apparently everybody in the county read those notices, and C. B. and T. L., since their re-announcement, are having trouble explaining why those notices were run. But take it from us, they are both still in the race—and take it from them, they are in to win.

"When a dog bites a man it isn't news, but when the man turns the tables and bites the dog that is news," has long been a classification under which cub reporters have attempted to measure the happenings of the day in an effort to determine what it is their duty to pass on to the public.

Now we haven't heard anything about a man biting a dog, but when a bag of mixed feed is hauled into court to defend itself against a charge of violating the pure food laws it seems to be pretty much in the same category.

When court sets in Chilton County, March 22, thirty-two bags of mule feed will be among the defendants to line up at the bar of justice to enter pleas to charges of law violations. This feed, which was being sold by a Clanton merchant, is said not to have conformed to the requirements of the pure food laws, thus the case. The peculiarity of the case is that the feed is the defendant, and not the manufacturer.

Following is his letter:

Louisville, Ala., March 5, 1934.

The Editor of the Chilton County News, and the People of Chilton County,
Dear Friends:

In looking over the many interesting features of the present political campaign I have been particularly impressed with the calibre of the new men who are offering their services to the state in varying capacities. We have heard a great deal about the legislative and executive candidates. Now, lest we forget that third very important phase of democracy, let us consider the judiciary.

Judging from the present bewildering condition of state and county governmental affairs it seems that a very great degree of reform is inevitable. Laws must change, services must be

COM. J. M. MIMS DIED MONDAY IN BIRMINGHAM

Venerable County Official Passed Away After A Long Illness

Funeral services for James Monroe Mims, 71, venerable commissioner of Chilton County, who died Monday afternoon at 2:25 o'clock in a Birmingham hospital where he had been undergoing treatment for two weeks, were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock from the Collins Chapel Baptist church of which he was a member. By Dan Smith

Not only does Chilton County High School have a boys basket ball team that they can justly boast of, but there and receives equal praise—the girls' is another organization which deserves basket ball team. With only a year of experience on the courts these girls gained a place of recognition for the C. C. H. S. basket ball team. Deserving a large share in the success of this team is their coach, Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin.

With a well trained and exceedingly capable coach to direct their activiites and with that spirit that is necessary for a winning team this group of girls put forth an effort not in vain

Each game of their eleven-game schedule was played with the vigor and cleanliness that brings forth commendations from everyone. Whether they were the victors or not that same evidence of fine sportsmanship was observed in each player. Excellent playing, laudable school spirit and clean

Now For A Quiet, Fair Primary Campaign

By this time all candidates for nomination for county, district, circuit and state offices have qualified. Now that the list is complete the voters may begin to think definitely about how or rather for whom, they will cast their ballots in the Democratic primary to be held on May 1st.

In the county government there are 11 offices to be filled. These are: Representative, superintendent of education, probate judge, circuit clerk, sheriff, tax collector, tax assessor, two members of the board of education, two members of the commissioners court. For these eleven places there are many announced candidates.

Those who may be given the nomination on May 1st, or in the run-off primary to be held in June, will still have before them the task of winning in the general election in November.

This leads us to say that the campaign to be carried on during the next two months ought to be the quietest and the fairest this county has ever seen. There is absolutely neither occasion nor call for any other kind of campaign.

This is not to say that the coming campaign is not important. It is important. It is going to be one of the most important the county has had in many years. But for that very reason, it ought to be a quiet campaign and it ought to be a fair campaign.

All the offices belong to the people. This matter of nominating candidates and confirming the nominations in a general election is simply the people's way, in a government like ours, of employing those who are to serve the people as public officials. Of course there is some honor to being so employed, if the election to be so employed is secured by fair, honest methods. In the same way there is honor to being employed to serve as president of a bank or manager of a store.

There is very little noise or excitement in the election of a bank president, a bank cashier, the president of a mining company or the manager of a store. The election is considered too important for that.

Where is the man who can say that the election of a probate judge, a sheriff, a representative in the legislature, or any other public official, who will transact the people's business, collect and spend the people's money, keep the people's records, and serve the people in other ways as his office may require, is not important? It is important.

For these and other reasons, the people ought to be permitted by all the circumstances, to make up their minds quietly and deliberately, so that their selections may prove fortunate for all the people. Certainly the selection of men and women to serve the people in these places of honor, ought to be made by fair and honest methods.

Why Farmers Do Not Trade-At-Home

I am a farmer. It is my trade that has made the mail order houses prosper. I can't trade at home because I live in country and there is no store near my home. Must order my own or go in person to a nearby town. To go in person is often a waste of time, so I find it more convenient to order. Mail order companies keep me supplied regularly with their catlogs—local merchants do not. I could often save time by running into town to get an immediate need if I knew who had goods I wanted and the price they sold for. I do not have time to run in and look over town and then perhaps to get what I want. It is convenient for me to go to several towns. Which one should I choose? With no continual effort on the part of the merchants to get my business, I naturally turn to my catalog. I read the Chilton County News regularly. Mr. Merchant, why don't you send your merchandies message to me through the advertising columns of the Chilton County News?

Only a few weeks ago a large number of mail sacks of mail order catalogs were distributed by the Clanton Postoffice. I got mine, and I've already picked out a sizeable order.

Each day a large number of mail order companies ship merchandise to their customers through the local postoffice. Can we stop this?

The County Newspaper

Turning from city newspapers to small town press exchanges that come to the editor's desk is like stepping from the slums, full of vice, into an old-fashioned garden sweet with lavender and thyme and the scent of perennial flowers. The pages of big dailies are so full of murder, theivery, immorality and selfishness that the better news is obscured by these glaring shatterings of the Decalogue. One puts the paper aside with a feeling of depression and heartache that the world is so full of terrible and unhappy things.

Then picking up the papers that record the happenings of the little towns around us one gains renewed faith in life. Here are set forth only that which uplifts a community—the activities of the business men, the church items, the happy social gatherings of the people, the marriages, birth and deaths, farmers' items, and all the thousand and one daily occurences that make up the simple annals of the great common people, who are really the foundation of this broad country of ours.

Smetimes people speak lightly of the country newspaper, but it is one of the most potential and uplifting factors in our national existence.—Christian Science Monitor.

Why Oliver Can't Come Home

From The Tuscaloosa News

The manifold and important duties which are keeping Congressman William B. Oliver in Washington and making it impossible for him to visit the Sixth District at this time in connection with the Congressional campaign for the May 1 primary, are indicated in a communication received by The News from George K. Little, river engineer and manager of the Baker Tow Boat, Sand and Gravel Company here.

Mr. Little recently returned from Washington where he attended a code hearing for the Inland Water Carriers of the Southern Division. He also visited Mr. Oliver's office while there. Mr. Little writes:

Editor, The Tuscaloosa News:

"During my recent visit to Washington I made two calls on Congressman Oliver and his efficient secretary, Mrs. Ruth Barton Foscue.

"Though long after office hours, they were hard at work in the interest of the Sixth District and its people. Even to one familiar with the duties of a congressman and the inside workings of the government departments, it was a revelation to see the number of important matters that are being handled through Mr. Oliver's office.

"A chairman of the sub-committee in charge of the bill covering the $85,000.000 appropriation to the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor Departments, he has obtained its passage through the House and is now steering it through conference. Mr. Roosevelt is taking an active interest in this bill as it involves the condition of all our representatives in foreign lands and also the condition of Labor under the New Deal.

"Mr. Oliver is regarded as one of the most active and influential members of Congress and also as one of the most loyal supporters of the president.

"While I was there Mr. Oliver spoke in Congress on a bill which Mrs. Roosevelt was sponsoring to provide work and vocational training for miners thrown out of employment by the permanent closing down of coal mines.

"He also appeared before Secretary Ickes in regard to several public works projects in the Sixth District, some of which are of vital importance to Tuscaloosa. He conferred with U. S. Army engineers in regard to the pending appropriation for the Warrior and Tombigbee rivers.

"The veterans' claims that are being handled through Mr. Oliver's office by Hunter Burnett form another item of much interest, in addition to a large amount of personal service to many individuals throughout the district. I was told by one familiar with the office that they receive about 200 letters per day from people in the district, mostly about matters that require his personal attention or that of his secretary.

"Through 20 years of service Mr. Oliver has built up an influence and has acquired a knowledge of the needs of this district, that could not be duplicated by a new representative, no matter how great his ability.

"Mr. Oliver is fighting our battles and our country's battles. Shall we allow him to be sniped from behind for supporting the president?

"Yours very truly,"
"G. K. LITTLE"

Poor Strategy

Judge McCord claims he was barred from speaking in the courthouse at Jasper Saturday because the courthouse was controlled by Graves supporters. The charge is denied.

If it is true, the the men who kept Judge McCord from using the public building had a mistaken idea of how to hurt his candidacy. True or untrue, the incident is likely to help Judge McCord more than Mr. Graves.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

And it came to pass that a lad of nine summers was in school with a Christian girl as his teacher. The young fellow becaame enraged with another boy about his own age, and he opened his mouth and profanity rolled out in prolonged streams. The young lady, aghast at what greeted her hearing, rushed to him and after much effort quieted his rage. Then she had him to sit near her desk and talked to him as only a Christian can do. She said unto him, "My boy, where did you learn such language? Did you know that it was wrong to take God's name in vain?" The boy opened his eyes and with an honest confession made reply, "Miss— I did ot mean to be rude. I never thought that it was wrong to curse. My Daddy curses at home and I was being like him." Parents, listen, better have your tongue pulled out by its roots than to have it to take God's name in vain where your children can hear.

An officer in India had a pet lion. One day this officer stretched himself upon his couch and his left hand dropped over the side of the cot. Soon he was sound asleep. Later he was awakened by his pet lion licking his hand. The rough tongue of the brute had caused his hand to bleed and the lion had the taste of warm blood. The officer tried to lift his hand back from its hanging position, but no sooner did he move it than the lion seized it between his teeth and gave a terrible growl. The man knew what it all meant and so he let his hand be motionless in the lion's mouth, but his right hand brought into play his revolver and he shot his pet dead. O how many men and women nurse and train habits and passions that will seize them when they try to pull away. When a bad habit has the taste of warm blood, it is more dangerous than an enraged lion. Better kill such habits, or they will most surely bring you down to ruin.

I was traveling toward Orlando, Fla., and stopped at a filling station to make inquiry as to directions. The man was very courteous, said he, "You will have no trouble in finding the way. To be sure many roads will turn off to the right and to the left, but all you will have to do is to stay on the paved highway." Any man with half intelligence can follow a paved highway. Since then I have been trying to find my way to another City. I have often sought directions to God's Jerusalem. The directions are always so simple, "Just follow the paved highway." The road to heaven is paved with righteousness. Many roads turn to the right and to the left, but the road to heaven is a paved road. No trouble to follow it.

In South East Alabama there was an infidel who had reached the ripe age of four score and six years. He was upon his death bed, after having boasted many a time that he had never said a prayer. A few hours before he breathed his last he was heard to call upon God. A friend asked him why he prayed at that late hour? The dying man replied, "Infidelity will do to live by, but it will not do to die by." The aged man uttered a falsehood when he said that Infidelity would do to live by. It will not do to live by, to say nothing about the question of dying.

Well do I remember those days when I had to take my place in building a ten rail fence around a ten acre field of newly cleared ground. Every panel of that fence had to be ten rails high in order to keep the cattle out of the field. Just one panel four rails high would have made all the other long string of fence worthless. Each panel had to meet requirements or all the panels would be worthless. Many a man thinks that he is a fine fellow and that his character is almost perfect in places, but he has one weak panel. He will get drunk, he will use profanity, he will rove around at night, he will take the advantage in a trade, or he will stretch the truth. He has a good fence but one broken panel. Every panel that surrounds a man's character must be ten rails high, or all the panels are worthless. No man is any stronger than he is at his weakest place. If you want to know what kind of a fence you have around your character examine your weakest panel.

FATHER OF RURAL MAIL

Rural free delivery of mail is now so generally established throughout the country that the farm boy and girl of today take it for granted, and few of them know that its first beginnings were only 36 years ago.

Perry Sanford Heath, a newspaper man who died in 1928 at the age of 69, was the father of rural free delivery. Through his activity in behalf of McKinley's election in 1896, Heath became postmaster general in 1897. With only $30,000 of an unexpanded appropriation for experimental purposes to begin with, he established a few rural routes. The farmers liked the idea and through Heath's persistence Congress was induced to appropriate more and more funds for the extension of the service.

As a direct result of his vision and zeal, the system of rural free delivery, which now serves more than 30,000,000 persons, has become one of the greatest benefits which the government confers upon the public.

Every rural mail box in the land is a modest monument to Perry Heath.

Leadership School Here February 28th

—o—

Thirty-five enthusiastic home demonstration club leaders came to Clanton Wednesday, February 28th, to attend a Leadership School conducted by their Home Demonstration Agent and Miss Dorothy Dean, Clothing Specialist, from Auburn.

In this meeting a demonstration was given on "Planning and Making an Inexpensive Wardrobe." INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

You may make "A" in your studies; you may excel on the athletic field; you may have much popularity; yet there is one seemingly small and unimportant quality that surpasses all others when the "show down" comes. This quality, which has been found lacking recently, has always won out in the long run. No one, whether the most powerful of rulers, the wealthiest of money czars or the most popular man, has ever defeated this one sterling quality. For years and probably for a lifetime the good of this quality may seem absolutely nothing, but, there is one TIME when this fine and noble thing comes FIRST. This quality is HONESTY. It is impossible to find any incident where HONESTY did not reward the person. Also remember that it is NOT too late to be good.

The Senior Three Class and its officers are to be highly complimented on their rapid and surpassing progress. The entrance gate, only part of the planned memorial, is lacking only a few finishing touches of being completed. When the project has been completely finished, work on another memorial will begin. The second project of this large Memorial Plan will be a beautiful and ornamental sun dial with accompanying benches. The Senior Class of this year with John Ezell as president will leave to the school one of the largest projects of any Senior Class. An effort is being made to leave not only one memorial, but also others so that, the Senior Class of 1934 will always linger in the minds of future students as an example to model after.

Again this year Professor Warr has repeated his offer that has created much excitement and interest in the baseball ranks. The first boy to knock the ball over the fence in the fair zones in a game will be presented with a handsome glove of first quality by Prof. Warr. Last year the winner of the prizé was Ted Littlejohn and he will be a leading contender for it this year. Who will get it?

The faculty and student body of C. C. H. S. wish to eypress their appreciation to the officials of the Town of Clanton for allowing them the free use of the town truck to transport shrubbery from Prattville. Thank you, Mayor Smith, and your councilmen.

These nine hundred pieces of shrubbery were expertly planted on the school campus by the boys in Mr. Vaughn's agriculture class. That's a display of fine school spirit.

The ever active and highly successful P.-T. A. of C. C. H. S. observed Father's Night at the school house on Tuesday night of this week. A splendid program was carried out and refreshments served. Our P.-T. A. has done much for our school and the students and teachers are proud to have such an organization to work with. To Mrs. Hugh Jones, the president, and to her fellow members we are greatly indebted for their undying interest in the welfare of the school. Not only do they possess this school spirit, but they have revealed it by their many gifts to the school.

Lady Took Cardui And Got Rid of Pain In Her Side

"Last summer, my health was bad, so I began taking Cardui," writes Mrs. H. E. Slaughter, of Norman, Okla. "My mother had given me Cardui in girlhood, so naturally I turned to it when I felt I needed it. I felt run-down and a general weakness. I had bad, dizzy headaches when everything would seem to dance before my eyes. My right side pained me so much, but since taking Cardui the pain has left me. I have taken several bottles of Cardui and have improved a great deal."

Cardui is sold at drug stores here.

Permanent and Fireproof
Careystone is a permanent roof—first cost is last cost. And it is as fireproof as stone.

Roof Beauty
Careystone is made in five attractive colors. And at no extra cost you can have the "Weather-Age" finish—made only by Carey.

Low Cost...Free Estimate
Careystone costs much less than many roofs which do not approach it in appearance or durability. Let us give you a free estimate on reroofing your home. Call, phone or write.

T. J. Tippett Died Near Whigham, Ga., Feb. 26

J. W. Tippett was called to his brother's bedside at Whigham, Ga., on February 8th. Father, Mother and I stayed two weeks. He suffered with double pneumonia and other complications. ROYSTER'S FERTILIZER
FSR

"I trust my Cotton to Field Tested Fertilizer"

MEN who use Royster's Cotton Fertilizer use it with confidence. They know that there is a difference in fertilizers, just as there is a difference in the quality of cotton and yield. And they have confidence in Royster's because it has been tested right in the cotton field. You can't fool a cotton plant. It requires food that will get it off to a quick, healthy start, feed it evenly throughout the growing period, improve the staple and mature it early.

Don't take any chance when you buy your fertilizer. Remember this: Royster's is made in one quality only—the best. You can pay more or you can pay less, but you cannot buy a better fertilizer for growing cotton.

Royster experts are continually studying cotton, learning all there is to know about fertilizing it. They never stop experimenting and improving. They test every fertilizer in the laboratory, and field-test it in the cotton field. Only refined materials are used to make sure that the purest obtainable grades go into Royster sacks. As a result, we know that Royster Cotton Fertilizer will give you the results you want.

See your Royster agent today and let him know how many tons you need.

organization is the elimination of the mosquito hazards in Clanton by draining swamps which surround the town. Now more than six miles of these swamps have recently been drained by the CWA, doubtless because of the educational programs put on by the Clanton Kiwanis.

Another accomplshment of which the club has a just right to be proud is the Chilton County airport, which was conceived by a Kiwanian, Dr. V. J. Gragg, representing the Kiwanis club, is largely responsible for the realization of this dream of a flying field in Clanton. Various clean-up and health campaigns have been sponsored by the club; and one time thousands of rats met their doom as a result of a rat killing campaign sponsored by the club.

The following have served the club in the capacity of president: C. E. Stapp, Dr. V. J. Gragg, J. Mell Martin, John Hollis, W. M. Wyatt, and Luther E. Lttle.

COOSA BRIDGE

service, those acquainted with existing conditions declare that much risk was necessary in crossing because of the close proximity to the dam.

This road connecting the counties seats of the two counties is approximately fifty miles shorter than any other route which may be traveled.

Sometime ago an effort was made to promote the construction of a bridge at this point, but those interested in the idea declare that it was a failure because of the lack of interest and cooperation on the part of officials in both counties.

It has been estimated by the highway department that the span can be built for approximately $150,000, thirty per cent of whch could be had through an appropriation from the Public Works Administration.

This highway connecting the two counties is already one of the main routes in the State, east and west, and with the construction of a bridge across the river it is believd ethat this would become one of the outstanding routes of travel in Alabama and would mean much to both Chilton and Coosa counties.

altered and indeed, the whole face of human relationship is apt to be changed. In the face of such possible and seemingly inevitable progress, the judiciary takes on a greater importance than is accorded it in normal times for on this branch rests the responsibility of interpreting the peoples rights as asserted in the constitution. Further, on the wisdom of the judges of our courts rests the responsibility of administering justice according to the written law, the common law, and according to plain common sense. With these facts in mind I wish to call your attention to Mr. J. B. Atkinson, who is a candidate for the judgeship of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit.

I have known Mr. Atkinson for a good many years. I saw him begin with a meager education offered in the country schools of the last century and slowly but surely fight his way through the maze of obstacles that surrounded the country youth in those days, finally emerging with a creditable foundation in the fundamentals of law. As I look back on this laborious beginning and recount the privations that are the lot of the man who is forced by reason of adverse economic circumstances to fight his battle alone, I am prone to accord him a greater respect. I like to inquire why should he choose this road when it can lead only to the thickest and longest battle of life. Mr. Atkinson answers this question with a ready zestfulness that carries its own implication of sincerity and suggests, to the careful observer, a composed depth of character uncommon to men. He says, "I took this road realizing that the battle was hard but little caring, for the criterion of my life was then and is now 'Prepare to serve'. I have been dominated by a desire to, first, prepare to serve well as a common citizen; second, I have pointed my whole life toward being ultimately able to serve in an official capacity. I feel that I am now ready to accept that responsibility, not as a man who proposes to possess the seers gift of forecasting future, but as a man who recognizes the lessons of past experience and who is willing to accept them as the wisdom on which to build the institutions of tomorrow. I do not propose to know what tomorrow will bring, but I recognize the road. I see a radiant halo of hope shining in the distance. I pledge that I shall be guided by that light and contribute my part to the endless chain of progress."

The present situation of the state courts and the increased responsibility that the next few years are bound to force upon them combine to make us as citizens deeply concerned in the selection of a man capable of acting wisely in our behalf. Then let us recognize this man who earnestly solicits our permission to serve in the capacity of circuit judge. His wisdom and energy can only mean an honest administration of the office.

I urge that the citizens of Chilton County give Mr. Atkinson their unanimous support.

Yours very truly,
J. F. BONE, Principal.
Louisville High School.

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

It may be foolish to write this column this week. We have a new postmaster and of course being new on the job he may send you a seed catalogue instead of the your longed-for newspaper. But the biggest thing I fear is that he may find time to read this column and begin asking a lot of foolish questions.

But about Billy and the postoffice—he's getting along just fine, I understand. At first he made one or two little errors. He got right absent minded and started clipping some man's daily, but Mr. Bean took the scissors away from him before he absolutely ruined the paper. Mr. Bean is going to stick around for awhile we hear, so just rest easy, you'll get your mail all right for a while anyway.

(Just in case Billy decides to read this:)

Dear Editor:

Knowing that you recognize my outstanding ability (dear subscriber, please don't tell him any better) and now that you've broken into the big money—well, a hint, they say, is enough to the wise. We'll see.

But, Billy, about this postoffice job (Beg pardon, I mean position. The error is just a result of having been a newspaperman so long. As you remember, it's a job up here) just put your shoulder to the wheel—and remember that we are behind you; and if some little business entanglements necessitate you going to Atlanta for a while—well, we'll still be behind you, I hope.

But I want to see you make good, so I'm listing a few don'ts here that might be of invaluable help in getting you started off on the right track:

Don't scribble notes on the backs of other folk's mail.

Don't handle any scissors, or you'll be clipping somebody's newspaper.

Don't jump up and run out of the office like something crazy if you hear a siren. Remember, I'm still on the job and you can read it in next week's paper.

Don't try to sell a man a subscription to the News with every three-cent stamp.

Don't read other people's postcards in an effort to get a news scoop. That's wise stuff when you're a newspaperman but as postmaster—that's bad. (P. S. Just slip me the postcards, I haven't reformed.

Don't forget what I've told you.

Your's as ever for my best interest,
—Victor Norris

But talking about a man that got a job wished off on him. Our sympathy goes out this week to Henry E. Robinson, who has been appointed county commissioner to succeed Com. J. M. Mims, who died last week. With three Republican Commissioners and a Republican Probate Judge to watch up there, Mr. Robinson has got himself about the toughest job going. I'm just afraid they'll make a Republican out of him before election.

To Chilton County readers, the expression "hot air" is not an unfamiliar one, but Cecil Stokes, county manager of the National Re-Employment Service, has a unique system of capitalizing on this product. It was with great effort that I controlled my surprise Monday afternoon when visiting Cecil's office. I heard the hum of an electric fan.

My first thought was of escape, but a quick glance failed to reveal any evidence of violence, so in my delicate way of prying into other folk's affairs for my reader's benefit, I hinted for an explanation of this unseasonable use of kilowatts; so was relieved to find that Cecil's ingenuity had devised this method of circulating the hot air from one office to the other by placing a fan in the transom.

Political guns will soon be popping in Chilton County. Judge Reynolds fired the first shots of his campaign last Saturday afternoon at Verbena.

Judge Leon McCord will tell the folks in Clanton why he should be the next governor of Alabama next Saturday afternoon, when he will speak at the court house.

Frank Dixon was also scheduled to be in Clanton on the same day with the noted Montgomery jurist, but announcement of a change in his plans reached us Tuesday. He will be here Saturday, March 31.

Among the few thrills I experienced this week was a brief conversation Tuesday afternoon with my old friend, Freddie Russell, sports editor of the Nashville Banner, who was enroute to Dothan, where the Nashville baseball club is training.

FATHER OF J. B. TIFFIN DIED TUESDAY AT RED BAY

Edward Tiffin, father of J. B. Tiffin—of the Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company, died Tuesday morning at his home in Red Bay, Alabama, following an extended illness.

Funeral was held Tuesday afternoon and burial was in the Ridge cemetery, near his home. Mr. J. B. Tiffin, of Clanton, left here last week to be with his father during his last days.

JUDGE McCORD TO SPEAK HERE

H. E. ROBINSON APPOINTED COM. FOR THIRD DIST.

Democratic Candidate Named By Gov. Miller To Fill Unexpired Term

Henry E. Robinson, prominent farmer of the Thorsby community, was appointed by Gov. Miller last Thursday to fill the vacancy created by the death of J. M. Mims, who died last week, as county commissioner from the third district.

Mr. Robinson is one of the most prominent farmers in his section of the county and is a lifelong Democrat. His appointment places the first Democrat in the capacity of county commissioner in Chilton County in more than quarter of a century, according to old timers.

The announcement of his candidacy, subject to the Democratic primaries in May and June, for the position to which Mr. Robinson has been appointed marks his first entrance into politics, we understand, and his friends declare that he is a capable man, free from political obligations and are expecting him to render fair and high class service to his constituency.

The unexpired term ends next January.

MEASLES SEEN A MENACE TO CO.'S HEALTH

Estimate Places Number Of Cases In County At Over 500

Chilton County is having one of the worst epidemics of measles in its history, according to information from county physicians, who declare that hundreds of cases have been reported.

It is practically impossible to determine the number of cases of the disease in the county, inasmuch as no public record is available, but estimates from physicians in position to know place the number at perhaps more than 500. In many instances, no physician was called, therefore no record has been made of the case.

Four of the county's schools are being closed this week in an effort to prevent the further spreading of the malady They are: Concord, Refuge, Mt. Pleasant, and Enterprise.

The first victims of the disease were reported about a month ago, and since that time it has spread like wild fire to all parts of the county. The lack of health unit is cited by some physicians as the reason for this rapid spread of the malady, declaring that if the county maintained a health unit and the quarrantine regulations were enforced the disease should have been halted with the first few cases instead of being allowed to spread throughout the county.

CHARLEY COX IS MAN FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Clanton, Ala., March 13, 1934.

Dear Editor:

Will you please spare me a small space in your paper this week, as election day is drawing near. I see the names of some mighty good men this time and I feel like if there ever was a time when we needed good men in office it is now. I think that each and every voter should think who would mean the most for our county and the welfare of man.

There is C. B. Cox out for Representative and I think that he is a man that would mean much to his county. I don't think we could find another man that knows more about our county and what it needs than C. B. does. He is a Chilton County man, has been in business for several years. He is a man of his word. I have fully decided to vote for the man, not the party. Why should I vote for Mr. Cox and ask my children to? Because he is a man that meant much to me and my family. He is a man that any community should be proud of. He has a white man's principles and is a friend to all. When I was well he gave me work, when I was sick he visited me, and if I needed a doctor he got one, if I was in need he helped me, and I think turn about is fair play. I just wish I could give him a job as I truly think he is the man. So, come on voters, and let's help him out and see what he will do. Cast your vote and ask someone else to.

Yours truly,
LAWRENCE PETERS.

CLANTON ELEM. SCHOOL GIVEN EXTRA MONTH

Made Possible by Private Donation; Other Schools Get Seven and Nine

Nine teachers and three-hundred-fifty-seven boys and girls have lighter hearts this week with the assurance that the Clanton Grammar School will continue for another month, instead of closing Tuesday as was the former schedule.

The continuance of the school for an extra month permitting an eight months term instead of the formerly scheduled seven months term, was made possible through the cooperation of the Town council and patrons of the school. An appropriation of a half-months salary was made by the Town and the other half, amounting to $425, was raised by public subscription.

A committee, composed of G.C. Armstrong, W. M. Wyatt, and M. Lande, was in charge of the drive to raise the necessary funds to permit the extra month to the Clanton school. They were enthusiastic in their praise of the cooperation shown by those solicited, declaring that only two business firms in Clanton refused to give donations.

Five elementary schools in the county will be closed Friday, ending seven months terms. County funds were available for six and eight months terms and under a federal appropriation, another month was secured. The schools closing are: Verbena, Jemison, Stanton, Thorsby, and Maplesville. Other elementary schools which were not begun until October, will continue for another month, it was announced.

Elementary schools at Lay Dam and Mitchell Dam will continue through an appropriation from the Alabama Power Company.

Twenty negro schools in the county were closed last Friday, ending a five months term.

Although far below former standards, the educational system in Chilton County is enjoying great improvement over last year, when all schools in the county were closed with three and one-half month terms.

Two Officers Are Now On Night Duty

J. A. Nivens and John W. Browder were appointed night police for Clanton at the regular meeting of the Town Council Tuesday evening.

Both of these men have had experience in law enforcement and members of the Council expressed optimism concerning the success of their appointment.

Mr. Browder, who first came to Clanton in 1918, and for several years was affiliated with the Clanton Motor Company, has been serving as night patrolman since March 6, when W. B. (Uncle Billy) Foshee became ill, dying a few days later.

Mr. Nivens has done special police work for the Town at various times. He was Democratic candidate for sheriff in the last election.

For sometime, it was stated by members of the Council, two patrolmen will be employed for night duty in an effort to lessen the increasing burglaries that have been occuring during recent months, explaining that it is practically impossible for one officer to keep in close touch with the entire town.

Sir Knight Will Again Render Easter Progr'm

In conformance with an annual custom, Chilton County members of the Knights Templar will participate in Easter services at the Clanton Methodist church. The Knights will be in full dress regalia and will have part in the program.

For several years, it has been an annual custom for the Knights Templars to render an Easter program at one of the Clanton churches, alternating from year to year. G. F. Harris is Emminent Commander of the local order.

Three Injured When Auto Tire Blew Out

Three Chilton County youths were slightly injured Saturday night, when the automobile in which they were riding left the road and ran into a ditch near Deatsville, when a rear tire blew out.

They were: Hugh Branch, Alabama Power Company employee at Lay Dam who received a severe cut on his head; Alton Wilder, Maplesville, and Clark Polk, Clanton, son of W. M. Polk, who suffered slight bruses. They were treated by Dr. Warren of Deatsville.

Many Are Attending A. E. A. In Bham.

Luther E. Little, superintendent of education, has annonced that he will not be in his office Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week, as he will be attending the annual meeting of the Alabama Educational association, which is being held in Birmingham.

Schools are also vacated where teachers desire to attend, he stated. Chilton County heretofore has always been well represented at the A. E. A. meetings, and Mr. Little stated that he is urgng all teachers who possibly can to attend the session.

MISS POLLY VARDEN SUFFERS PARALYTIC STROKE MONDAY

Miss Polly Varden suffered a paralytic stroke early Monday morning and is in a serious condition.

The stroke struck Miss Varden when she was going down the steps at her home in West End. She first complained of feeling sleepy and a few minutes later lost complete control of her body.

Womans Dem. Club Heard Good Speaking

The Womans Democratic Club of Chilton County met at the Wilson Hotel at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by the Chairman, Mrs. P. T. Hinkle, who has not missed a single meeting of the club since its organization. A good attendance was reported.

Three addresses were heard. Those speaking were Luther E. Little, superintendent of education, and candidate for re-election; Raymond C. Smith, candidate for state senate; and T. L. McKee, candidate for tax collector.

YOUNG WOMEN'S S. S. CLASS MEETS FRIDAY AFTERNOON

The Homemakers Sunday school class of the Clanton Baptist church meets Friday afternoon, March 23rd, at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. Lee Smith. The regular monthly meeting will be held, followed with the Blues entertaining the Reds with a party. All members are urged to attend.

A STATEMENT

In assuming the duties as editor of the Chilton County News I do so with a sincere appreciation of the kind expressions which have come to me, and an earnest solicitation of a continuation of the cooperation and patronage which the people of this town and this county have seen fit to give the News.

The policies of this paper, to the extent of my direction, shall continue as in the past. I believe that a newspaper to be worthy of the name should serve its community. I think that in the past the News has been of some service to its constituents by supporting those things which are best for our community. I trust that in the future it will also be able to serve its people.

The News will continue to hold high the flag of Democracy, sincerely believing in the principles and traditions of the Democratic party as laid down by great men gone on before, and as exemplified by our great President of today in the "New Deal".

Although I have spent more than eight years of my life in newspaper work, four of which have been with the News, associated with Billy Smith, a large part of my work has been inside the shop, and some of our friends and patrons I have not had the pleasure of meeting. I extend to one and all a cordial invitation to visit the News office at your convenience. I want to know you better that I may be able to serve you better.

Billy Smith will continue as Publisher of the News, and with his advice and your cooperation I believe that we can still merit the support and patronage which have been extended to us in the past. Perhaps I shall make errors and mistakes. If so, they will be honest ones, and I ask your forbearance. I want to make this newspaper an institution of service. Only the future can foretell the outcome, but I pledge to this paper and its constituents my best.

—Vernie Teel.

THREE MORE DAYS OF BIG VALUES LEFT

This Week-End Promises To Bring A Big Increase In Trading

With Saturday, which will bring to a close the Kiwanis Prosperity Trade Week, still three days away, Chilton County merchants and business men are contemplating this week end to make business history in the county.

Featuring some of the most outstanding values ever known in this section, anticipation of an overwhelming business for the remainng three days of the trade week seems to enjoy favorable chances of realization.

Again the business establishments of this county have shown their true colors with unlimited cooperation to make a huge success of this endeavor to promote rejuvination of general business. The Prosperty Sale Week came out of a suggestion by Cecil Stokes, county manager of the National Re-employment Service, and was put into ef-

THOMAS JR. HI GIRLS WINNERS IN CONTESTS

Champion Basketball Team Wins With Sportsmanship and Work

By clean sportsmanship and hard fighting our girls were victorious at the basketball tournament held at Jemison on Saturday, March 17.

The girls have played well throughout the entire season, having lost only one game. Members of the champions team were: Velma Jones, Claris Thornton, Merle Kelley, Marie DeVaughn, Jessie Davis, Louise Moore, and Cenie Belle Duke.

Regardless of the fact that Duke is small in size she occupied an important place on the basketball court. Her alertness and Moore's skill in throwing the ball made them efficient guards.

The center was held by Devaughn and Davis. DeVaughn's speed and Davis' accuracy in placing the ball, enabled them to surpass their opponents in passwork.

Ringing the ball certainly didn't seem to be a difficult task for the forwards—Jones, Thornton and Kelley. They made a score of 33 points in the championship game, while the opposing team scored 14 points. Kelley not only played well as a forward, but rated as a guard also throughout the last half of the game. — Reported.

THORSBY CONGREGATIONALIST CALL PASTOR FROM GEORGIA

At a well attended Church Meeting of recent date members of the Thorsby Congregational Church extended to the Rev. Lawrence L. Stanley of Meansville, Ga., a heartily unanimous call to the pastorate of this church.

This church is very active in service to its community, and has been for a number of years under the leadership of the Rev. J. E. Each, up until his death a short time ago. It has not been learned at this writing if the Rev. Stanley has accepted this call.

Mr. Smith was notified by telegram late Wednesday night of his appointment, effective immediately, and assumed the position Thursday.

He is one of the outstanding Democrats in the county and won wide recognition when serving as Roosevelt's county campaign manager. Chilton County went Democratic the first time in more than 25 years. Help Throttle Depression

The construction industry has been virtually at the zero point—even below the general industral level. Its most important branch, home-building, practically disappeared. Last year it shared but little in the business pick up.

But now the construction index is rising. It isn't going forward at a boom rate, but sound, well-established acceleration is occurring. Much of this is due to governmental building. But private construction is likewise showing a substantial upward trend. Many men have found jobs at good wages—and they are spending an appreciable part of their earnings in improving homes.

An inevitable result is an increase in construction costs. All the basic materials—lumber, cement, roofing, etc, have made substantial gains over the extraordinary lows. But they're still pretty well down in the economic cellar. They're cheaper at this writing than they will be in the future. And the opportunity to build a home at low cost is still to be had.

So far as the home-owner is concerned, building and repairing now is good business—it saves hom money, and gives him something essential at bargain prices. And, when he builds, he is contributing substantially toward speeding recovery. He is giving jobs—he is sending needed dollars through a thousand industries—he is stimulating commerce. That's why an excellent motto is: "Build and repair now—save yourself money and help throttle depression."

Pity The Poor Pedestrian

Pity the poor pedestrian in the great American traffic tangle. Dodging, skipping, coat-tails flying, he continues annually to account for nearly half of all our automobile accident fatalities.

Pity him not only because speeding, carless, brakeless, light-beating motorists cut him down without mercy, invade his street safety zones, and slaughter him as he steps from street cars and busses—but pity him also because his own stupidity remains his unrestrained enemy. He still crosses streets against traffic signals, walks along the wrong side of rural highways with his back to traffic, plays in the street, and is the most flagrant jaywalker in the world. In this last capacity, he crosses between intersections, invites highway murder by coming out from behind parked cars, and makes himself a pot-shot target by crossing diagonally at intersections.

Pity him because last year 13,440 out of a total of 29,900 persons killed in traffic accidents, according to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, were members of his clan. One in three, or 38 per cent, were jaywalkers. The foot traveler is apparently the product of a horse and buggy age who cannot master the rules of a motorized era. His species, as such, may soon be extinct, for his children, happily, are worlds safer. They have learned that playing tag with high-powered cars is a futile game. They cross at designated cross walks, wait for the signal light, and walk on the left-hand side of the road, facing traffic.

Pity the poor pedestrian, but drive reckless, killer-type motorists from the road.

Your Bread And Butter

If you talk to a business man today about problems that are worrying him, nine chances out of ten he will bring up the subject of taxation. He knows that the government must be supported and is anxious and willing to do his part. But he is beginning to question whether too many things are being done in the name of government which are outside the functions of governing and in the realms of business.

The tax question is not yet as personal to the employe as it is to the employer because he has not yet seen his position in the picture as clearly as has the employer.

As a matter of fact, the employe has more at stake than the employer. Take the case of a factory employing ten or a thousand persons. The tax burdens of the employer, local and national, are reaching a point where his earnings, which he would like to spend for expansion, are in many cases absorbed by taxation. Taxes discourage the investor from making improvements that would give employment. Who is the greatest loser here?

If an employer is finally forced to cease operaton, he and his family suffer as one unit in community life. But ten employes or one thousand employes will suffer just as much as he does, by loss of their jobs. Therefore, employes really have a greater interest in conditions that create and maintain employment, than has the employer,

That is why employes have a greater interest today in taxation and legislative questions that encourage or discourage business, than ever before—because jobs become harder to get as opportunities are reduced for successful operation of industry.

Chilton County's Prosperity Trade Week

The Kiwanis Club, the merchants and business men of Clanton and Chilton County are to be highly commended on their cooperation in sponsoring a county-wide Prosperity Trade Week. This event started off with a bang last Saturday and will continue for one week—seven big buying days—ending Saturday, March 24th.

The purpose of this project is two-fold. First, to create more employment. It has been pointed out that if the prosperity in business circles brought about by CWA and other government projects continues private industry must employ more people. A survey made by the NRS Office in this county indicates a fine spirit of cooperation along this line, and the News takes this opportunity to commend those who are "Doing their part."

Second, this Trade Week has for its object the encouraging of more buying. If business improves and employers are able to use more help, customers must buy more goods. Not so long ago we were in a vicious circle of less jobs which created less purchasing power. It is up to us now, under the leadership of the New Deal to reverse this vicious circle and then create more jobs and thus enlarge our purchasing ability.

We believe that Chilton's Prosperity Trade Week is a splendind move in that direction. We are glad that it has received strong support, and we highly commend it to every citizen of the county. It not only is a good thing for business in general, but it offers an exceptional opportunity to every family and every individual to save money.

Chilton Needs Health Unit

With the county overrun with an epidemic om measles, the realization of the urgent need for a county health unit is again forced home.

Throughout Chilton County, hundreds are victims of this spreading malady. This week four schoous are being closed because of the disease.

No doubt several deaths will be the price paid by the county's youth for the neglect of its government in not providing it with this much needed and deserved protection from spreading disease.

If we had a health unit, headed by an efficient and capable physician, this epidemic could have, and likely would have been halted with the first few cases, instead of being allowed to sweep through the entirety of the county to become a menace to the health of hundreds and a hinderance to the continuance of our schools.

The cost for the maintainance of such a service and protection to the citizenship of our county would be very small. With the appropriation available from the State, the cost would be no more than maintainance of one little piece of road.

Measles, like many other diseases, is not often considered serious. However, it should be. Often some malignant ailment may be traced to this disease.

Should the youth of our county be subjected to this dangerous risk for a few paltry dollars, when annually thousands of dollars are being spent for political prestige and gain?

Society Above Crime

It seems faintly ridiculous, at first glance, to read of the elaborate precautions that have been taken at Lima, O., to keep the Dillinger gangsters in jail. Machine gun nests, cordons of national guardsmen, files of special deputies, patrolmen scanning all roads leading into the city—all this seems like a lot of trouble to take just to keep two or three thugs in jail.

But it is trouble that is worth taking, just the same, A little bit more is involved in this case than in the ordinary criminal case.

The Dillinger mob is one that set itself above the law—and its leader, for he time being, has proved too slippery and individual to hold.

No matter what it costs or how much trouble it is, the rest of the gang must be shown that society is strong enough to keep its hands on them and subject them to the orderly processes of law—Selma Times Journal.

Holy Week

The most sigificant period of the Christian year is Holy Week, the week before Easter, beginning with Palm Sunday, which this year falls on March 25th.

Palm Sunday celebrates Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem and the strewing of palm branches in his path by the multitude.

Maundy Thursday commemorates the Last Supper and the washing of the disciples' feet; also Christ's agony in Gethsemane and his betrayal by Judas.

Good Friday represents the day of the crucifixion and is celebrated in Catholic and Anglician churches with great solemnity.

Easten Even is the name given to the entire day of twenty-four hours between Good Friday and Easter, a period for prayer and religious contemplation.

Easter Sunday, the most joyous day of the Christian calendar, commemorates the resurrection, and this year falls on April 1,. In the early history of the church, Easer was observed on various dates by different bodies of Christians, but the Council of Nice in the year 325 fixed it as the first Sunday following the full moon occurring on or next after the vernal equinox, March 21.

Easter Sunday may come as early as March 22 or as late as April 25, and its date governs all ecclesiastical days from Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent, to Trinity Sunday, eight weeks after Easter.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I saw a manly man wearing a blue serge suit that was shiny and slick. I ventured to ask him why he did not treat himself to a new suit of clothes and he hung his head in an embarrassed manner and made this reply: "You know we are buying our home and I am carrying a lot of insurance for Clarra and the children and I can not afford a suit just yet." Just then a stray sunbeam fell across his shoulder and I saw-not a shining serge suit, but a shining armor. He stood up like a knight with a sword by his side. I saw him as he was fighting for his lady. To me he became a Lancelot living and lifting those whom he loved. He had fought for them for twenty years, but he was still fighting. Never look with aversion upon the shining suit of any one, it may be only a shining armor that hides a manly knight, fighting for his lady and his lads.

Not many mornings ago near a Southeastern town, a truck was approaching some school children who were on their way to school. The wheel of the truck ran off and went racing down the road. A sweet little girl was in its path and the wheel struck her a terrific blow and knocking her from the highway she fell into a grass blot all crumbled up and dead. The driver of the truck was heartbroken, but that did not bring the child back to her mother and to her home. Is it not a fact that as we go racing down the highway of life in this fast age, that we are flinging out influences from our life that goes racing down the road to hurt and kill some one along the way. The whiskey seller does not intend to kill, but he releases the wheel that runs over many innocent pedestrians along the way

When the Titantic was going down in mid-ocean, the Californian, a sea-going vessel, saw the rockets going up from the Titantic, but their radio operator was fast asleep and the captain failed to know of the calls for help. The vessel went on its way leaving the hundreds to perish. If that radio operator had been at his post, not many, if any, of the Titatic human cargo would have been lost. That operator slept on while hundreds were going down within reach of him. On this sea of life over which we are traveling, there are people going down on every hand while we sleep. Why not be on the look-out for every call and signal of distress? Awake, Awake, is the cry to be heard in every walk of life.

A customer came into a drug store and presented a bottle to the druggist to be refilled. He read the label and then said to his customer: "I am out of that medicine, but I have some here just as good." I then saw him as he re-filled the bottle, but he never changed the label. The man went away with his bottle saying one thing and containing another. I have always thought that it was best to change the label on a bottle when you change the medicine on the inside. However, I see that going on in church life all the time. Man and women join the church and then label themselves as "Christians," but it is not long before they change the inside of their lives so that they are not Christians, but they never change the label. When we carry the poison of the devil in our hearts, it does not seem just right that we should go around with our "Christian" libel in view.

I saw a beautiful dog in a flower garden. Roses were in bloom and all of the choice plants in the garden were displaying flowers sweet and rare. I watched that dog and he never stopped to admire a flower or to inhale the sweetness of any bloom. On the other hand he walked around and stuck his nose into every form of filth on the yard. That dog and some human beings had actions very much alike. We observe men and women of culture and financial standing who seem to delight in nothing but the filth of life. They are in this world that is filled to the brim with beauty and with God, but they care nothing for these things. They care rove about and stick their nose into everything that carries filth. They care not for churches, they care nothing for Christian influences, but if there is a questionable thing to be pulled off in the community, they are there with their noses buried to their eyes. It is like a dog to hunt the filth in a rose garden.

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is syrup pepsin. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Member N. R. A.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

You parents who have a child in school, are you taking the right amount of interest in his school work? Do you encourage the child to overcome obstacles? Do you commend him when he does excellent work? Do you try to help him find the trouble when his grades fall? If you do all of the preceeding things and more, your child will have no trouble in passing his work. If you do not show interest whatsoever in his work and in his grades, he is not going to do his best. When he comes home with a high grade and runs in to tell you about it, don't just look at and say "uh huh"; don't do that, instead, congratulate him, show him that you are proud of him and I guarantee your child will bring more good grades to show you.

Those students that fail to reach high marks in their grades after an honest effort will find encouragement if they will read "Character" by Emil Ludwig in the March issue of the American Magazine. You who are discouraged because of not attaining high positions in life will find a word of cheer in this article.

School is not in session today and will not be tomorrow since the Alabama Educational Association is holding its annual meeting in Birmingham.

All the teachers of C. C. H. S. will attend the A. E. A. in Birmingham on Thursday and Friday of this week.

In looking through the Alabama School Journal the writer noticed that the teachers of Chilton County are listed among those who have paid their A. E. A. dues. That is true to their character.

The entrance gate at the southern end of the driveway has now been finishd and stands as an unforgetable gift from a progressive and loyal Senior Class to its school. This school is not merely a school but an organization of which its members are proud.

Rings for the members of the Senior Class have arrived and by this time you will see the Seniors proudly displaying their class rings.

The students were entertained on Tuesday morning with a musical program presented by Mrs. Catherine Munday of Stanton. Mrs. Munday's blindness seems not to interfere at all with the pursuit of her musical talent as she not only plays the so-called old favorites but popular music as well.

Reports from the baseball field make the baseball fans of Clanton feel that time at Chilton's games this year will not be wasted. Definite announcements have not been made yet but Coach Searcy is pleased beyond his expectations with the talent available this year.

The school is happy to know that their principal, Mr. L. C. Warr, is serving on several of the important committees in the association this year. This honor was never bestowed upon a man anymore deserving than Mr. Warr. With such educators as our principal on its committees the association will make rapid and safe progress this year.

The Junior Class has selected its play to be presented soon and from everyone who has read it comes just one comment—"One like it? Never before." The play is scheduled for Friday night, April 6. The story and more announcements will be made next week. You may doubt it now but you'll believe it next week when I say it is 'the play'

Not only does our principal attend to the duties as a teacher and business manager of the school but he looks after the welfare of the building as well. The floors of the school have just recently received a dressing of oil. The oil increases the life of the wood and keeps down germs.

Who Am I? You were right, it was Roberta Cochran last week. A fitting description. Another one this week. I am seventeen years old. I am a blonde. Popular with my friends. Well thought of in school. I wear glasses. I go around with a girl whom this description might fit. Who Am I? Now you detective-brained students who is this one?

So It Seems. (These articles are written for the amusement and entertainment of the students and in no way are concerned with their school activities.) Some people are wondering if there is any truth in the "spinning of the bottle."  Some agree that there was some truth in one of the cases.  The writer meant no certain one when he spoke of "the next victim" last week. But will be someone or else a certain unbecoming and disgusting custom will fail.  The writer, for his own benefit, would like to know how many really read this section and want it continued.  When you have a chance just speak to him about it.  I promised you a real surprise soon. How Cardui Helps Women

"Mal-nutrition" means that your body is not getting enough to keep it up, so that what it has to do is not done well. You may not be eating enough to keep up the work of the body, or there may be something wrong that keeps you from getting full value from the food you eat.

Because of mal-nutrition, some women have aches and pains every month. Such pains should not be neglected.

Take Cardui to give you a better appetite, to give you more strength from the food you eat—to build up and increase your feeling of well-being. Aches and pains go away as you build up with the help of Cardui.

IF you want a healthy plant, early maturing, and good staple cotton . . . . .

THEN decide right now to use Royster—the fertilizer that has been field-tested to give the best results with cotton. It took you years to learn what you know about growing cotton. It took us years and years to learn what we know about fertilizing it. Between us, we can make the kind of crop that will bring you real money.

Don't take any chance when you buy your fertilizer. Remember this: Royster's is made in one quality only—the best. You can pay more or you can pay less, but you cannot buy better fertilizer for growing cotton.

Royster experts are continually studying cotton, learning all there is to know about fertilizing it. They never stop experimenting and improving. They test every fertilizer in the laboratory, and field-test it in the cotton field. Only refined materials are used to make sure that the purest obtainable grades go into Royster sacks. As a result we know that Royster Cotton Fertilizer will give you the results you want and to which you are entitled.

See your Royster dealer today and let him know how many tons you need.

FOR BIBB GRAVES FOR GOVERNOR

Editor Chilton County News:

I note, with interest, an article published in the Birmingham News under date in the Birmingham News un- Graves Record as Democrat." In the beginning I wish to state that I am supporting Graves. I am an admirer and friend of Judge McCord and will always hold a warm spot for him for the many kindnesses he has shown me. Knowing him personally as I do I do not think he has the qualifications one should have to be Governor of Alabama.

In his speech at Montgomery on March 17th, he questions Bibb Graves' democracy. I do not believe the Judge has any doubt in his mind about this, and under the circumstances would he have taken the stump for the party after one of the standard bearers (Gov. Miller) had gone over the State knocking him and his administration. It is a joke when McCord speaks of Graves bolting the party in 1930. All the daily papers carried a statement from Graves that he was a democrat and would support the party.

In McCord's statement relative to Graves appointing republicans to office during his administration, it seems that he tries to leave the impression that Graves leans to the republican party. There is no foundation for this statement and is as base as it is baseless. There are a lot of good republicans in this State and Judge McCord is just as anxious for their support as are the other candidates. The Saturday afternoon before Judge McCord announced for Governor, was he (McCord) not in conference with a republican Judge in Clanton, Alabama? Did he (McCord) discuss his campaign with any democrat in Clanton while on this trip.

Judge McCord also spoke of the "Hoodlum" papers distributed on the streets in advance of his speech of March 17, claiming they were full of attacks on his personal character. In his Albertville speech he (McCord) called Graves supporters " a bunch of Hoodlums." This statement coming from him was the beginnng of the "Hoodlum" circulars—sponsored by ex-service men. These circulars gave some facts which seem to hurt.

CLANTON KIWANIS HEAR LITTLE GIRL GIVE POEM

Clanton Kiwanis club celebrated its sixth anniversary at its regular meeting last Thursday night, when a special birthday program was rendered. A delegation from Selma were guests of the club.

Little Mary Frances Atkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson, gave the following poem in the form of a reading:

BILL'S IN TROUBLE

I've got a letter, parson from my son away out west,
An' my ol' heart is as heavy as an anvil in my breast.
To think the boy whose future I had once so proudly planned,
Should wander from the path of right and come to sich an end.
I told him when he left us, only three short years ago.
He'd find hisself aplowing in a mighty crooked row—
He'd miss his father's counsels, an' his mother's prayers also—
But he said the farm was hateful an' he guessed he'd have to go.
His letters come so seldom that I somehow sort of knowed
That Bill was a trompin' on a mighty crooked road;
But never once imagined that he'd bow my head in shame,
An' in the dust's waller his ol' daddy's honored name.
He writes from out in Denver an' the story's mighty short;
I just can't tell his mother, it'll crush her poor ol' heart,
An' so I reckon, parson, you might break the news to her—
Bill's in the legislatur', but he doesn't say what fur.

America - here they are!

To fill the record-breaking nationwide demand, Chevrolet cars are being produced at a record-breaking rate of 4000

CHEVROLET
A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

CHEVROLET factories are breaking records, trying to give America all the cars it wants. 4000 units a day are rolling off the assembly lines. February output was twice that of January. March output, according to present indications, will be three times that of January. More Chevrolets are now being produced than any other make of automobile in the world. And today, Chevrolet is happy to report that all its dealers will soon be in a position to make immediate deliveries.

When you consider how short a time the new Chevrolet has been in production—when you consider, also, that the 1934 car is not last year's model improved, but a basically new automobile, with sweeping changes in design—this production record becomes somewhat of an accomplishment. But, a still greater accomplishment, in our opinion, is the way that these cars have all been produced!

Despite continued nationwide pressure for more and more volume, every car that has left the factories has been built and tested to meet Chevrolet's highest standards of care, precision and quality. The result: When you place your order for a new Chevrolet, you'll not only get a big, rugged "Knee-Action" car—you're also assured of getting a typical Chevrolet car in economy, dependability and long life.

Business Outlook Greatly Improved Says Tire Dealer

Urges Car Owners To Buy Tires Now To Save in Event of Price Rise

"Business is looking better every day, locally and generally, said Dief's Service Station, well known Goodyear dealer, "and reports from over the country certainly are inspiring.

"There is reason to believe that business is now going ahead and upward. Confidence in the outlook seems to have been definitely renewed, after several years of fear. This confidence has been reflected in the cities and on the farms. Statistics show that the income of the agricultural sections of the country today is about 40 per cent over a year ago. Retail figures show that retailers in the first two weeks of February enjoyed a 25 per cent increase over the same period of 1933.

"During the last six weeks, with prices increasing, and freight car loadings, steel production, electric power consumption, employment and payrolls exceeding a year ago by comfortable margins, the new year is away to a healthy start.

"The sincere interest shown in the new car models at the automobile shows over the country, and the actual buying of cars, clearly indicate a substantial upward trend. The automobile factories in Detroit and other cities report heavy orders.

"As the year progresses, government plans and policies should help effect continued improvement, resulting in a total 1934 volume of business considerably above the 1933 figures.

"Naturally with prices in practically all lines advancing, and this applies to rubber, cotton and other materials going into tires, in addition to a recent increase in the wages of tire workers at Goodyear, it is obvious that present tire prices are due for another advance. It means a stroke of economy on the part of the car owner to buy Goodyear tires now. More people ride on Goodyear tires than on any other kind — and there's a mighty good reason for that."

Power Company Is Cleared Of Shoals Charges

Washington, D. C., March 15—What was described as a "Major Scandal" at Muscle Shoals in newspaper articles printed almost a year ago apparently has petered out to nothing, it appeared today.

Huston Thompson, acting as a special government investigator appointed by Roosevelt under the Tennessee Valley Authority act, said today he did not know when he would make his report on investigation of charges made last year. This has been the situation for about six months.

Meanwhile, however, in response to questions asked at a press conference sometime ago, President Roosevelt said that no one had been found guilty of collusion by the investigators. He indicated then that the Thompson report had already been received; but it developed later that Mr. Thompson had not yet done so.

The charges revolved about the operation of the Muscle Shoals hydro-electric plant by the war department, and the sale of power through it to private power companies in Alabama and Tennessee—The Birmingham Post.

A & P To Use Newspapers For Big Coffee Campaigns

A & P is again depending on newspapers to carry its coffee story to the public this spring.

In one of the largest and most concentrated newspaper campaigns ever devoted to coffee, they ar telling the public that "More people drink A & P Coffee than any other coffee because there is no better coffee at any price."

Few people realize the importance of the A & P Coffee business or are aware of that A & P is far and away the greatest coffee merchant in the world. The fact is that A & P Coffee outsells the next nine largest selling brands in America. This tremendous volume and their efficient distributing system through their own stores enables A & P to sell the finest coffees at low prices and keep them fresh in th bean to be ground to order as they are sold. No other national coffee merchant so closely controls the distribution of coffee from plantation to customer.

From the start, A & P has depended on newspapers to help build this great coffee business and will use them to a greater extent than ever this spring. The illustrative motif of the advertising will be built around a beautiful painting by Karl Johnson.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

My Program With Part-time Pupils in The Present Emergency

My part-time class during the present emergency is divided nto two groups. One group s composed of over-age and under-grade boys in school. The other group is composed of boys of fourteen years or more who are not yet established in farming. This may include boys who have finished high school as well as boys who have only completed one or two years in high school or who have never atended school.

There is no special provision made in the curriculm for these boys to take Agriculture, but so often these boys are discouraged by the low grades in which they find themselves and their inability to cope with their much younger rivals, consequently they go home to return no more. This fact in itself has convinced me that it is far more important to teach this type of individual the technique of farming. Usually he has never been out of his county and surely not out of his state. He has never seen very much. What little he does know it is about old beck. So he is bound to follow old beck after leaving school. Why not take him in and advise him as to the vocation he is forced into.

These over-age and under-grade boys come to me for class two days per week for instructions. During the school vacation period, I conduct a part-time class at night. This class is composed of boys of the second group.

Now, the problem of what to teach is based on a survey that must be made in order to get the facts. Each part time pupl is required to make a program of his supervised practice work and the instruction is then based on what each pupil is actually doing or is planning to do.

Other subjects are stressed as related subject matter coming out of his actual work as Arithmetic, English, Civics ete. Shop work—Repair the tools which he uses.

National Negro Health Week was initiated in 1915 by the late Booker T. Washington. Since that time it has become nation-wide.

Did you know that 45 per cent of all deaths among Negroes is preventable; that there are 700,000 Negroes seriously ill all the time; that the annual cost of this illnes is over $100,000,000; that sickness and death cost Negroes over $135,000,000 annually. Because of the above facts, I am asking the Negroes of Chilton County to join in this great movement in order that we might place ourselves on a higher physical basis.

In this movement we are soliciting the aid of homes, schools and churches. Let us start at home by cleaning the house, the yard, barnyard and all the premises thoroughly. Then our attention should be turned to ourselves. Let us be clean, careful and cheerful.

I am hoping that every home in Chilton County will be represented in this health movement.

Remember that our great leader, Booker T. Washington, was thinking for us when we were altogether unthoughtful. In his "Putting the Most Into Life", he reckoned that the life must be well if it will do well. So let us honor him with the fruits of our endeavors.

Charge McCord Denied Court House Explained

Jasper, Ala., March 15, (Special)-The Walker County Bibb Graves Campaign Headquarters, through its Chairman, Dr. H. T. Camp, issued a statement today in explanation of an incident in Jasper, when and where it was charged by Judge McCord that he was denied the use of the County Courthouse there because it was controlled by the Graves supporters.

"It was needless at the time to deny the charge," the statement said, "and is unnecessary now, except for the reason that the McCord forces are trying to make capital out of another one of their campaign canards.

"At the time the courthouse was invaded by the McCord party, hundreds of Walker County farmers were in call-session to discuss President Roosevelt's cotton-reduction plan. The meeting had been called long before the use of the courthouse was sought by McCord. To be exact, the courthouse was engaged by the farmers on February tenth for use on the twenty-fourth.

OUR SHARE of Alabama's Tax Load....

TAXES paid by Alabama Power Company last year into the State Treasury and treasuries of Alabama counties and municipalities were practically ONE THIRD as much as the receipts of the State from ALL ad valorem taxes.

Receipts by the State from ad valorem taxes, according to the last published Comptroller's report, were $6,150,000, while Alabama Power Company's total taxes in Alabama amounted to over $2,000,000.

Taxes paid by Alabama Power Company play a big part in maintenance of governmental functions in our state and in the counties and towns served by this company. They relieve citizens of tax burdens which otherwise would fall far more heavily upon them.

It is also clearly evident that whenever a municipality in Alabama provides itself with an electric, gas or water plant, that the State and its subdivisions lose tax revenue. To the extent that residents in such cities may be relieved of paying taxes to the State and Counties on their city-owned electric, water or gas plants, farmers in rural areas must be burdened with more taxes. It is a pertinent and timely question whether this makes for an equitable distribution of the tax load in our state.

BUSINESS AND EMPLOYMENT BETTER

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

Those who have been lamenting the fact that local politics are uninteresting this year because of the absence of the old-time lambasting and mud-slinging should not feel discouraged. They need only to take a bit of time off and follow the gubernatorial candidates on their rounds through the State. There's no shortage of mud in those boys' ammunition kits. Judging from the complimentary bouquets they are tossing each other, the problem before the voters of Alabama is not to select the best man, but to try to avoid picking the worst.

However, Frank Dixon is away behind on the mud campaign. He might have been a major in the World War, but he isn't even eligible for corporal in this fight. Seems Graves will be able, however, to defend his title of colonel; and Judge McCord has risen far above the rank of private, which he prized in the bout with the Spanish lads. After hearing him paint Bibb a glowing sunset color, we just wonder if it wouldn't be a right good idea to tie the Capitol a bit more substantially to its foundation. On the other hand, the Colonel charges that Judge McCord decides cases in which the welfare of thousands of Alabama school teachers is an issue in the small hours of the night.

We wonder if it could possibly be worked out so that the two old war horses could come to some agreement about the truth of the various accusations and let the public have the benefit of the conference. Then both would have time between now and election to discuss their plans for doing something for poor old Alabama and its overburdened taxpayers.

The editor of the Oneonta Democrat, a candidate himself, has dug up a bit of interesting law pertaining to candidates. He finds that it is a violation of the Corrupt Practice Act, and subject to not more than $500 fine and not more than six months hard labor, to solicit a candidate for public office for a contribution of any kind. This includes asking him to buy a ticket to an entertainment; to contribute to the aid of any person, or organization, or to buy any kind of advertising.

No doubt candidates think this a wonderful law and bemoan the fact that it is not enforced to the letter, but wouldn't it be a grand supplement to this law if candidates were restrained from hounding voters for their support

Does anyone know little Eugene Moore, 12-year-old? If so tell him that the stranger from the Northern city of Indianapolis, who promised to send him some pictures last fall, wants him to know that there are men still who recognize the sanctity of a promise, even when made to a little 12-year-old.

It seems that on a trip through the South several months ago, this stranger promised little Eugene some pictures. He sent them, but they were returned. The stranger wrote the postmaster at Clanton, asking him to make special effort to locate the boy, explaining that he didn't want the lad to think he would break a promise.

By special effort of Rural Carrier [illegible] Armstrong, the lad was located and the pictures were delivered. A promise was kept—a boy's faith remains unscathed.

Statesmen Pay Tribute To Rep. W. B. Oliver

The hundreds of supporters of Rep. W. B. Oliver in Chilton County will learn with much gratitude that the veteran statesman is winning unanimous endorsement in the official circles of Washington, where he is known to be one of President Roosevelt's right hand men.

The following brief dispatch from the Washington Press Service indicates the regard in which he is held by his Colleagues:

"Rep William B. Oliver, Ala., completing 20 years of continuous service in the house, was surprised this week on the floor when more than a dozen testimonials of admiration and friendship inscribed to him by the highest officials in the Roosevelt cabinet and leaders in both houses were placed in the Congressional Record, interrupting the Alabama members, who were managing a major appropriation bill in the House at the time. Rep. Connery, Mass., outstanding Veteran's champion, rose to offer a brief, sincere speech of congratulations to the member on his long service and obtained unanimous consent to insert the statements in the Records. Following Connery's remarks several other members made spontaneous tributes to Mr. Oliver. Among these were Rep. Britten, Illinois, and Fish, New York.

The messages of congratulations came from all sides headed by one from Secretary of State Cordell Hull, and included the Democratic and Republican leaders in the house. An indication of the Alabamian's popularity is shown in the fact the statements came from members representing all parts of the country and diverse points of view on pending legislation. On the Senate side Senator Robinson, Arkansas, joined with a hearty message."

PLANS MAPPED FOR NEW RELIEF PROGRAM

Meeting of Relief and CWA Forces Held Wednes. In Montgomery

An important meeting in which the future of the government emergency and relief programs for Alabama were discussed and plans mapped for the future of the work in this State was held Wednesday in Montgomery.

At the time of this writing it had not been learned just what the plans for the continuance of the work in Chilton County are, nor how many men will be afforded work under the new program.

All CWA officials throughout the State and heads of the county organizations were requested by Thad Holt, director of CWA work in Alabama, to attend the meeting.

Though no definite announcements have been released in regard to the new program, many believe it will be a combination of the relief and the CWA forces into a combined work program.

The CWA program in Chilton County is scheduled to end March 31, according to Armistead Leake, county director.

HIGHLIGHTS OF CORN AND HOG PROGRAM GIVEN

Closing Date For Signing Of Contracts Is Set For April 15th

The time for signing corn-hog contracts closes April 15. I am very anxious that every farmer who can qualify under this program to have an opportunity to sign a contract.

For the benefit of those who would like to get in on the program, I am giving below a few facts.

1. One must have produced an average of at least three litters of pigs for 1932 and 1933.

2. He must have marketed some of the pigs.

In order to get payments under this program.

1 Reduce the pigs grown for market by 25 per cent during 1934.

2. Reduce the corn acreage by 20 per cent for the year 1934.

The Secretary of Agriculture will pay $5.00 per head for the pigs grown in 1934 and thirty cents per bushel for the corn taken out of production under the contract.

Anyone interested in this program should see me and get further details.

He suffered severe injury to his back and one rib was broken. He was reported to be slightly improved Monday.

SUPPORTERS OF GRAVES FOR GOVERNOR TO HAVE RALLY

Plan To Perfect Local Organization To Push Interest Of The Candidacy Of Former Governor Throughout This County

Chilton County supporters of Col. Bibb Graves' candidacy for Governor of Alabama are formulating plans for a "Graves Rally," to be held at the court house in Clanton Friday night, March 30, when a local organization will be perfected and plans formulated for the promotion of his candidacy in this county.

Friends of Colonel Graves declare that his support in Chilton County is expected to outnumber that of both of his opponents. All Graves supporters are urged to attend the rally and aid in the organization of the county club.

Declaring that the former governor is running on his record, his friends in this county are inviting all voters to study the records of the Graves administration and give their support to his re-election.

The exact plans for the establishment of the Chilton County Graves campaign organization was not made public, but it is expected by those who are familiar with the situation that the plans will call for a strenuous campaign of the county between now and election day.

W. B. OLIVER EXPRESSES HIS THANKS TO CHILTON FRIENDS

Popular Congressman From Sixth District Reaffirms His Intention To Stand Firmly By The Program Outlined By Our President

Congressman W. B. Oliver writes this week to thank his many friends in Chilton County for their loyalty and active support in his behalf In last week's issue of the Chilton County News appeared a page advertisement, paid for by the friends of Mr. Oliver in this county, bearing the names of scores of persons in all sections of the county who declared themselves wholeheartedly for his re-election as representative from this district.

Following is Mr. Oliver's letter:

I take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to those of my friends in Chilton County, whose endorsements of my candidacy for reelection to Congress from the Sixth Congrssional District appears in the Chilton County News of March 22, 1934. I am deeply moved by this more than generous tribute to my character and service, because I see in it not only an expression of your warmest friendship, but also a firm resolution to render your active support in my present campaign.

It is gratifying to know that you recognize that, in these momentous days, my duties in Washington preclude the possibility of an extended campaign in my own behalf and that I must necessarily rely upon my friends to place the real issues in this contest before the voters. Your thoughtful assurance of active support, along with that of countless other friends in every county of the District, makes me know that my interests are in capable and friendly hands.

I have this abiding confidence that I can do nothing that will please the good people of Chilton County more than to continue in the future, as I have in the past, to give unqualified support to our great President, who today enjoys so fully the confidence of the American people, irrespective of party lines, because they are convinced of his sincerity, his courage and his sympathy and recognize how earnestly he desires to be helpful to the common man. His program is consecrated to that one great purpose and accords with the Great Apostles injunction, "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good."

Regardless of attacks, here or elsewhere, tending to divert or dissipate my time, attention and energy, I promise to carry out their wishes in lending wholeheartedly my support to the President's Recovery Program,

With renewed assurance of my warmest personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,
W. B. OLIVER.

INFORMATION FOR COTTON PLANS SOON

County Agent Says That The Program In County Is A Success

We have just received our figures on the 1934-35 cotton contracts back from the State Board of Review. It is necessary for us to make some further adjustments in the contracts to get the Board to okay them.

The County Committee is working on the contracts now and within the next few days, we will be in a position to tell the farmers just how many acres he will be allowed to plant and the number he has rented to the government.

Where adjustments have been made on the contract, the farmer will have an opportunity to approve this adjustment. Unless the person who signed the contract in the beginning does approve the adjustment on the contract, it will not be sent to Washington for approval.

This will clear up some misinformation in reference to the program being dead. The program is a success. The Cotton Belt has offered over 15,000,000 acres of cotton land to the Secre-

MEASLES SHOW SLIGHT LET-UP OVER COUNTY

Schools Re-Opened Monday More Than 500 Cases In Entire County

An epidemic of Measles, which has spread throughout Chilton County during the past month is said to have been elleviated to some extent, according to rports from local physicians.

It was estimated that more than 500 have been victims of this malady, and physicians declared that the rapid spread of the disease was largely due to the lack of a county health unit, declaring that if the county had maintained a health unit, headed by a capable physician, the disease could have been controlled with the first few cases of the disease.

The four schools in the county which were closed last week as a result of the epidimic were re-opened Monday but it was not known whether it will be possible to keep these schools open throughout the term.

Of interest to hundreds of friends in Clanton and Chilton County is the marriage last Sunday of Mr. J. A. (Joe) Hester, Jr., and Miss Leola Beard, of Waynesboro, Miss.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride in Waynesboro where her father is a prominent planter. Mrs. Hester is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. [illegible] Beard. Mr. Hester is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hester, of Clanton.

The couple will make their home in Auburn, where Mr. Hester is engaged as an engineer with the U. S. Coast Geodetic Survey.

1934 WILL BE MUCH BETTER ALL AROUND

Roosevelt's Democratic Recovery Program Given Credit For Boost

FIGURES SHOW THAT BUSINESS IS BETTER

Facing the future with an optimism, born of the results of the gigantic Roosevelt recovery program, the merchants and business men of Clanton express anticipation that 1934 will be one of the best business years since the 1929 market slump.

Comparing January, February, and March of this year with the same period of last year, indications are that Chilton County is leaving the depression with all of its sordidness and sadness behind, and is facing a future that glows with promises of renewed hope and better business.

A survey, conducted by the county office of the National Re-employment Service, shows that business in Clanton for the first quarter of 1934 almost doubled the amount for the same period of 1933, according to figures released by Cecil Stokes, manager of the local office.

Though the survey reckons the improved business conditions at 40 per cent over last year, Mr. Stokes stated that the volume in dollars and cents was approximately 90 per cent better than a year ago. The lower average, he explained, is a result of calculating all business firms as equal units, thus reducing the average. The survey also showed that there has been a 11 per cent increase in employment in private business and industry in Clanton, which Mr Stokes laments is not exactly in keeping with the increase volume of business, and urges business men to increase their staffs wherever possible as a contribution to the recovery program, declaring that it is only possible to secure permanent improvement by raising the purchasing power of the working man.

The survey included all business and professional firms in the incorporate limits of the town.

Mr. Stokes stated that his services, and the services of his office are available to all employers, declaring that it is possible for him to give the occupational history of almost any prospective employe in the county.

Teachers Of County Get $47,000 In Bonds

More than forty-seven thousand dollars worth of State 5 per cent educational bonds have been received by the Board of Education of Chilton County and plans are being formulated this week for their liquidation, according to an announcement by Supt. Luther E. Little.

Mr Little stated that bonds lower than a $1,000 denomination have a lower market quotation than larger denominations. The majority of bonds issued to this county are in $50 and $100 denominations, he said, in order that the Board of Education might pass them on to the teachers in the county.

Present quotations list these bonds above 90 per cent, Mr Little stated. Bids have been received for several thousand dollars worth of the securities, and it is expected that many teachers will take this opportunity of cashing them.

Throngs Attend A.E.A. Meet In Birmingham

The meeting of the Alabama Educational association, which was held in Birmingham last week, is reported to have been one of the best and most instructive sessions held in many years. More than 7,000 Alabama teachers and educators attended the three days session.

Chilton County had one of the best representations of any rural county, according to a report from Supt. Luther E. Little. Schools in the county were vacated to permit teachers desiring to attend the convention.

Keep This Money Circulating

Not so many months ago it was common to hear it said that you could not get any money. Money was scarce. Farmers swapped their produce for newspaper subscriptions, groceries, doctors' bills, and other things as best they could. The cry of no money was not groundless then. But last summer things began to make a change. The plow-up program brought in a nice bit of ready cash. The price of cotton and produce began to rise. It was not long before other governmental agencies started releasing money. The RFC, the CWA, etc. have carried back to the consumer many thousands of dollars in Alabama and Chilton County. It appears to us that in no time during the past decade or so, has so much money been released locally.

To the extent that money makes prosperity we should now be having prosperity. But money alone does not make prosperity. That money must be spent: It must be kept in circulation in legitimate channels of industry and commerce if we are to enjoy the fruits which should accrue from having more money in our county.

Our President has made a stupendous effort to restore a real prosperity to us. In truth we have been furnished the money. It is up to us now to keep the thing moving by keeping that money in circulation. Let us build, let us buy, let us hire, let us invest, let us promote those things which will be good for us permanently. By so doing we will furnish employment, dividends will be earned, progress will be on the march. Many dollars have been turned loose in Chilton County recently. It's our duty and privilege to keep them moving and working. In that way alone can they continue to serve us.

A Reasonable Editor

After all is said and done, it must be admitted that the average small town editor is reasonable. He will agree to almost any proposition which seems fair. He will even suggest several propositions and let the other fellow take his choice.

This obliging attitude is well illustrated by an item in the Tribune, published in Altoona, Kan., which says:

"Anyone owing this paper is requested to call and pay at once. Anyone not owing is requested to call and subscribe and begin owing us at once. Anyone we are owing is requested to subscribe for this paper in advance for the full amount of the debt and pay us another year in advance, cash. Anyone who is not owing us and will not do so, is requested to move to North Dakota and make room for someone who will."

Business Indexes Show Rises

For a number of consecutive weeks, standard business indicators have shown advances.

Car-loadings, steel output, electric power production, life insurance sales, construction contracts, the wholesale commodity price—all are up. An encouraging sign is that the advance has not been sporadic and erratic—it has been gradual and is apparently the result of a general strengthening of the nation's economic foundations.

Much remains to be done—industrial convalescence isn't here. But recovery seems to have started.

A philosopher once said that "well-timed silence is more eloquent than speech." Righto. And most silence is well-timed.

Working girls should receive men's wages, according to a feminist orator. Well, some of them attain that goal by getting married.

A health writer avers that "a perfect knee is a wonderfully constructed hinge." During the short skirt era a good many of us noticed that.

Our ape-like attitude with respect to fashions might be used as a strong argument for evolution.

The Great American Gamble

The Travelers Insurance Company has issued a booklet entitled "The Great American Gamble." It consists of an analysis of the automobile accident problem, along with graphic illustrations of the price we pay for allowing carelessness, incompetence and recklessness to run riot on our highways.

Last yar automobiles killed 29,200 people and injured 840,000. The record of fatalities on a per accident basis was 5.9 per cent greater than in 1932. Excessive speed was the main cause of death, closely followed by driving on wrong side of road, carelessness on part of pedestrians, running off the roadway, passing on hills, curves, etc.

Some of the most vivid illustrations in the booklet deal with the potential destructive power of an automobile. A car going 40 miles an hour, for example, is four times as capable of inflicting damage as one going twenty. At 60 miles an hour damage becomes nine times as great. A car maving at this last speed has the same capacity for damage as if it were driven off a building 120 feet high.

To use another illustration, a car going 20 miles an hour occupies 38 feet of roadway in addition to its length. A car going 60 occupies 263 feet stopping distance.

The horror of the automobile accident problem continues to grow. We have safer roads and cars but we have so exaggerated the safety margins that we have actually made them more dangerous. The American highway is a shambles. Every reckless or incompetent driver and every car whch is in a dangerous condition, menaces hundreds of lives.

The Railroad Revolution

Since the development of the steam locomotive, there have been gradual advances in speed, comfort, dependability, efficiency. But no rail transport revolution took place. Then overnight, at it were, we are witnessing revolutionary railroad changes.

The Union Pacific, long a pioneering railroad in opening up new territories and knitting the country closer together, has again led the way. It has produced a streamlined train which marks the greatest step forward in rail travel since the locomotive. Made of aluminum, the train has a top speed of 110 miles an hour. It is air-conditioned and comes close to being silent. Interior furnishings are luxurious. Riding qualities are unexcelled. It is, literally, a cigar-shaped bullet on wheels—with every safety factor built into it. It will revolutionize railroading.

The type of vision that produced such a train as this made the railroad industry great in the beginning by harnessing deserts, roaring rivers and mountains with bands of steel laid through a savage wilderness to connect the two oceans. There has been no letdown of the quality of railroad management in spite of years of the most discouraging experiences—years in which they have been over-regulated, over-taxed, and have had to face subsidized and priviliged competition.

The faith of our people in the railroads is enabling them to come back and give the finest, the fastest, the safest land transportation in the world.

The Blood Of Commerce

The great year in American home-building was 1925. Expenditures totaled the gigantic sum of $2,461,000,000. And 491,000 families were provided with new housing.

The decline started then, and residential building fell off gradually for a few years. In 1930, it went under the billion-dollar mark for the first time since 1921. And in 1933, expenditures dropped to the comparatively microscopic total of $101,000,000—enough to provide for but 26,800 families.

The shock to the nation's economic system caused by the virtual disappearance of the home-building industry, is hard to overestimate. Hundreds of thousands of jobs—both in the actual building of homes and in mines, factories and forests providing building materials—were lost. A thousand industries felt the blow. It was one of the greatest elements in deepening and prolonging depression.

That's why every effort should be exerted to revitalize home-building. By building or repairing now you are making a definite contribution toward bringing back normal times.

We Get What We Pay For

A business man would not send a lawyer to the state capital to appear before the supreme court and pay him only enough to pay for a night's lodging at a hotel. You wouldn't expect that kind of man to render very valuable service.

Yet, we send just that kind of men to Montgomery to make our laws. As in other things we get just about what we pay for.

Men with selfish interest to serve are always available. We believe that the lawmakers should be paid a fixed but reasonable salary, be required to meet once a year, attend to the business of the state and then adjourn, no matter whether one month is required or six months.

Pay them a fixed price to do the job. If they are efficient they will do it in a short time. If they are not it will take them longer but they will get no more pay. And we would have each member furnish his own clerk or stenographer if he wanted one.

We believe that it is just as important that the legislature meet every year as it is that the directors of a big corporaton have frequent meetings. No corporation would think of having a meeting of its directors only once every four years. Any business would go to pieces if it followed such a policy.

The state is just a big corporation and the members of the house and senate are the directors. They tell the governor and other officials what to do.—Oneonta Southern Democrat.

Getting Nothing For Something

In 1902, electric customers numbered 583,000.

At the end of 1933, the number had grown to more than 24,000,000.

This amazing extension of service was largely the result of the elimination of small electric generating stations, serving a handful of customers in a limited area, and their replacement by large fuel and hydro stations which, through interconnection of high tension transmission lines, are able to serve thousands of square miles and millions of persons. Greater volume, as in any other business, lowers the unit cost—and the consequence was a reduction in the average residential rate from 16.2 cents per kilowatt hour to 5.49 cents between 1902 and 1933.

The present drive for municipal ownership threatens all that has been gained in the past. Great inter-connected systems would be broken up, and we would return to the conditions of twenty years ago. Efficiency would enevitably decline. And the hardest hit of all would be the residents of small towns and farmers. The private electric industry is rapidly providing the rural dweller with power as cheaply as it does the city dweller. To furnish this service with small, isolated plants would raise costs, stop the development of rural electrification, and lower standards of service.

The amount the private electric industry pays in taxes now runs from 10 to 15 per cent of its total receipts. In 1933 it paid $225,000,000 to various local, state and national tax collecting agencies. Publicly-owned plants are generally tax exempt and pay nothing. Removing the private systems from the tax rolls would necessisitate higher taxes for all other property. And, in case of operating deficits, which are quite common with small municipal plants, the taxpayers would have to make them up, as they would also have to pay for useless duplication of electric service—getting nothing for something.

The municipal ownership movement is definitely a step backward—both socially and economically. All the political grand-standing in the world can't hide that fact.

I saw a dog enter a room where there was a large looking glass that came down to the floor. The dog walked in front of this glass and to his astonishment he stood with his nose touching the nose of what he thought to be another dog. No sooner had he seen himhelf in the glass than his bristles went up and he prepared for a fight. He saw himself as he really was and he looked so furious and unkind that he was sure that he would have to fight to maintain his honor as a dog. When you feel yourself in a grouch, just step before a mirror and see yourself as others see you. If you should suddenly be confronted by another man looking like you do, you would likely clinch your fist and your teeth and get ready to defend yourself. When our own looks suddenly come before us we are often surprised almost to the fighting point.

I saw a dog strolling around in a flower yard. The roses were blooming in profusion all over the garden. This dog was just a common cur and did not seem to care for roses. He walked and trotted around just like a dog will do and seemed to take delight in touching every filthy thing in reach with his nose. He was just a dog and the finer things of life did not appeal to him. The action of that dog did not make me feel unkindly toward him for I could expect nothing better of a dog in a rose garden. The thing that hurts me is to see human beings down here in this garden of life with the endowments to love the finer things of the world, and yet going around with the low ideals of the dog. This world is none other than God's flower garden and as human beings we should love the beautiful and find our greatest delight in touching only the clean and the good. Sad to know that we have so many human beings who care nothing for the beautiful, but who are like the dog, running around sticking their nose into everything that carries filth.

I heard a noted singer as he entertained a large audience. We saw that the artist was doing his work well, but in every number he strained his voice in a most distressing manner. His hearers suffered with the artist because of the great effort that he had to put forth to meet the demands of the occassion. When this singer bowed himself from the stage a beautiful woman came out. As calm as the rising of the sun, she stood before her audience, and the music came out in perfect ease. Seemingly she put forth no effort but the music flowed in torrents. There is quite a difference in the way people will do the same thing. A duty seems to create agony on the part of some, and, yet others will perform a duty with perfect harmony and ease. To be good with some people is a great effort, but with others it just seems to be an overflow.

A truck passed my home pulling a disabled car. The truck was pulling the car in the direction of the repair shop, but the car was looking down the road toward the place where the injury had been received. That reminded me of a lot of folks being pulled toward heaven by the church. We have the wrecked lives attached to our churches and we are pulling them toward the repair shop, but they take their eyes from the downward way of living. Like the car, they are backing up to God, all the time looking toward the world. Listen to me folks, you will not be able to get into the glory land if you back up to its border. Better turn your vision, your mind and your heart toward the place that you want to reach.

I was in the school room and had a spelling class up before me. I gave out the word "tonsil" and the little girl at the head of the class spelled it correctly. To test them I said "Next". There were nine pupils in the class and the word was spelled nine different ways. After the last one had tried I spelled it from the book, and the girl at the head of the class said, "Teacher, that is the way I spelled that word." I replied, "Yes, and you spelled it right." I was testing out the other eight to see if they were certain about the correct spelling of the word. To know when a thing is right is one of the great needs of today. Our trouble is that we are not certain about very many things. Be sure that you are right and then stick to it.

IN MEMORY

Brother Ward has gone to rest.
His voice we'll hear no more
Til we enter that home so blessed,
Upon the golden shore.
Oh, brother Ward, how we'll miss him
From our fireside at home.
He has left earthly care and sorrow,
To a sweet paradise to roam.
With tearful eyes and aching heart
We speak the last good bye,
But soon we'll meet to never part,
Where pleasures never die.
He was patient, kind and loving,
But our Savior thought it best
To take him to his home in glory
Where the weary all find rest.
Oh, brother Ward, how we'll miss you
As we assemble as of yore,
Your loving voice no more to greet us
As we enter at your door.
Jesus Savior, hear our pleading
Guide us o'er life's fitful sea,
When our earthy work is ended
Take us home in Heaven with Thee.
Farewell, brother Ward, I hope we'll meet you,
On that bright shining shore,
There to be with Jesus forever,
And there to part no more.

THE DEATH OF W. B. FOSHEE

Dear Editor:

Please allow me a small space in your paper to say a few words in regard to a departed friend and neighbor.

On Wednesday morning, March 7th about seven o'clock the death angel visited the home of Bro. W. B. Foshee and took him from his loving family and many friends.

Bro. Foshee was a good husband and father, a good neighbor and citizen. He was a man of few words, but lived a life of service to his fellowman. The writer has never heard a harmful word spoken against Bro. Foshee, a thing worthy of note in the life of anyone. Even as an officer of the laws, he had the friendship and good will of the people.

In his boy-hood days Bro. Foshee made a profession of faith in Christ as his Saviour and we believe he is in a better world awaiting the coming of his family and friends. We all miss him and shall continue to miss him and extend our deep sympathy and prayers to the family in their bereavement.

—A friend and neighbor, G. G. Williams.

IN MEMORY OF JASPER COST

Many hearts were saddened when the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jones on Wednesday, March 14, and carried away our beloved father and grandfather, Mr. Jasper Cost.

He had been sick only a short while when God saw fit to take his beloved soul from our midst. So weep not, dear loved ones, for God is the giver and taker. His will must be done, not ours. All was done for grandfather that loving hands could do for him on earth to save him, but God knew best and carried him away to a brighter and happier world. There is a vacant place in the homes of his children that can never be filled.

Grandfather was loved by everyone who knew him, so be reconciled one and all, for our loss is Heaven's gain.

Grandfather lived to be 74 years of age and left to mourn his loss four daughters, Mrs. J. A. Duncan of Lomax, Mrs. A. W. Jones of Clanton, Mrs. J. A. Jones of Clanton, Mrs. Charles Shaffer of Birmingham; three sons, Mr. J. P. Cost of Hartselle, Ala., Mr. J. E. Cost of Montgomery; twenty-four grandchildren and a host of friends and relatives.

The body was laid to rest in Macedonia cemetary, Thursday, March 15th, at 2 p. m. with Dr. S. J. Ezell officiating with Spigener in charge.

Chevrolet Knee-Action Saved Life Of Driver

Chevrolet's "knee-action" with its consequent contribution to positive steering control is credited with saving the life of H. B. Moore, Indianapolis manufacturers.

In a letter to Chevrolet Motor Company, Mr. Moore, who is president of the H. B. Moore Company in the Indiania capital, makes this statement:

"I wish to say that 'knee-action' saved my life.

"On March 6th on State Road No. 40 near Brownstown, Ill., I was going 70 miles per hour in my new 1934 Chevrolet coupe, when suddenly a truck pulled out on the highway, completely blocking it. To keep from hitting the truck head-on, I had to take the ditch, hitting a ten-inch drain tile, breaking a left rear wheel and blowing out a tire, then made a perfect horseshoe turn on a farmhouse lawn and back across the ditch, coming to a stop on the highway right side up, thanks to 'knee-action'.

"A local boy who witnessed the accident came up to me and said 'Mister, do you know what saved your life?' I asked him what he meant, and he frankly replied 'knee-action'. I readily agreed after he explained why.

"I had entire and complete control of my car, otherwise I would not be alive today."

Mt. Carmel

It is said Henry Ward Beecher was once approached by a horseman who wanted to sell him a good horse. He went to explain that he was a horse that would work anywhere, a good buggy horse, a good saddler. Work on either side of the wagon double or work single. Just a good all round horse, a good team worker.

Mr. Beecher told him he couldn't buy his horse, but would like to have him as a member of his church. This seems to be our need today, more so than ever. Church members who will work anywhere in the church and not kick out of the harness.

Friends there is a work for everyone who tries to be Christians, to do. Let's get busy and see what God wants us to do for him and do it willingly, and realizing the fact that we are improfitable servants in God's sight at our best and we haven't done anything more than our duty when we serve Him as our Lord and Master as he has given us everything that we have and best of all given his Son on that old rugged Cross for our sins that we might be saved from our sins. Do we appreciate this gift? If so we sure are going to try and do something to express our love to God by trying to do His will.

Our little Sunday School seems to be growing. We hope that it will continue so that more may learn of the love of the Savior.

We have decided to have a singing two Sundays in each month beginning next Sunday. Singers from neighboring churches are invited to come sing with us at anytime. Mr. Enzo Klinner was named as the chairman of the singing society. We hope he will be a good leader and believe that he will.

Entertainment at Vermont Junior Hi School

On Next Friday night, March 30, beginning at 7:45 the student body of Vermont Jr. High School will present their variety program, consisting of songs, drills, dialogues, recitations and a highly amusing burlesque debate on the subject of "Resolved that the present calendar should be changed from twelve to thirteen months." This one feature contains more laughs than any ordinary entertainment. Come out and listen to the debating teams unfold a volume of ridiculous arguments as to why or why not the present calendar should be changed. This program will be about one hour and fifty minutes long and is one that the most critical could enjoy. A small admission of 5 and 10 cents will be charged to be used in purchasing curtains for our stage. Remember that next Friday night is the date. Don't miss it, for this will be our final comedy program for this school year.

LEGARE-RENFROE

The following article was clipped from a Pascagoula, Miss., newspaper and is probably of interest to several people residing here:

Mr. John Legare and Mrs. Emma Renfroe, both of Pascagoula, were married last Sunday morning, March 11th, 1934, at the home of Mrs. G. H. Sharp on Buena Vista street, Rev. Dr. Patterson, pastor of the Baptist church officiating.

The bride is from Clanton, Ala., having moved to Pascagoula soms months ago; the groom has been connected with the Palace Pharmacy for the past year. Both have many friends here and in Alabama, who will join us in felicitations.

They will make their home at 1410 Gulf View Boulevard.

MT. PLEASANT

We are indeed glad to say we have reorganized Sunday school, and we want to make this year the best year for Christ. The subject of our lesson for next Sunday is "Putting Christ First." If we would all put Christ first in every walk of life and all through the week as well as Sunday we would learn to love and appreciate our Lord and Master more and more.

Our officers in Sunday school are Mr. W. B. Crowe, Supt.; J. E, Reid, sec.; Leland Powell, adult class teacher; Lee Popwell, advanced; Mrs. J. E. Reid, intermediate; Miss Myrtice Logan, junior, and Mrs. R. M. Foshee, card class teacher.

Among the ones in our community who attended the singing at New Salem Sunday afternoon were Mr. Johnnie Minor, Doil Minor and Emmett Reid.

There are several cases of measles in our community yet. Among them are Mr. Rube Scott and two sons, Junior and Thomas, Francis, Jesse, James and Charles Fox, James Foster Reid, Rason Powell, Marylene Reid and Earl Minor.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilva Foshee visited Mrs. Katie Eiland and Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Fox Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Katie Eiland's brother of Thorsby spent a while with her Sunday afternoon.

We were indeed glad to have Rev. Maurice Hodgens preach for us Sunday. May God's richest blessings ever be with him and help him in his good work.

Don't forget Sunday school next Sunday at 10:00 o'clock. Everybody come and have a well prepared lesson.

We are glad our school has opened again this morning with a fairly good attendance.

IN MEMORY

On Saturday, March 17, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Williams and carried with him their beloved son, Mavis.

Mavis was loved by all who knew him. He always wore a smile. Even in death he seemed to wear a sweet smile.

He leaves to mourn his loss, a mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams, six brothers, J. E., Lomer, Hollis, Delma, Howard and Donald; three sisters, Emmagene Dollie Mae and Olbie V. and a host of friends and relatives.

The remains were laid to rest at Mt. Nebo, Sunday, March 18, at 10:00 o'clock, Martin in charge

Oh, weep not, dear ones, he is gone but is resting peacefully with God, our Savior. Even we can never see his face on earth again, we can see his smile. There is only one thing we can do and that is to trust in God that we will meet him in Heaven some day.

We shoud not weep for him, for God knew best for he called him and said 'come home, dear son' and Mavis went into God's arms joyfully. We know he is resting with God now and for ever more.
pathy to each and every one of his beloved ones. Our prayers is that we will see him in Heaven once more some day. —Written by a friend and schoolmate, Laverta Lea Broadhead.

CHARLIE COX WRITES VIEWS ON NEEDED LEGISLATION

Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton, Ala.

There are three major issues of paramount importance to the citizens of the State of Alabama which must be solved by the next administration. They are problems effecting the entirety of the State's population, thus deserving the greatest possible cooperation between legislative bodies and the people to assure a satisfactory solution.

These issues have to do with the reorganization of the Educational department, road maintainence, and the convict department. The administration of these departments affords the greatest drain on the taxpayers of the State of Alabama.

A solution to these problems is not an impossibility. They can, and must, be solved by the next State administration; and in selecting members to the Legislature, the voters of Alabama should remember that a solution to issues of paramount importance will be a part of the routine duty of the men elected. Remembering this, every voter should give careful consideration that his vote may be cast for a man capable of the job before him.

In regard to the Educational department, my idea is to appoint capable men on an educational committee to study the problems confronting education in this State, draft bills which will offer correction and submit them to the Legislature. I'm frank to say that don't exactly know where the trouble lies, but I know that the educational department must be top-heavy; and if I am selected to represent my county in the next legislative body assembling at the Capitol, I shall fight to place school teachers on the same basis with other State employes so that they will be able to get their pay when other employes of the State are paid.

I'm a bit more familiar with the operation of the Convict department, and I know that if this department is properly supervised it should not be a liability to the taxpayers of Alabama. Later in the campaign I expect to write some letters dealing with my ideas of administration in the Convict department

This department and the Maintainence of roads should be combined. Supervised by trained construction and maintainence men. there is no reason why Alabama's convicts can not build and maintain all the roads in the State, and those prisoners not physically able to do road work can produce enough food for themselves and the road crews and enough feeds for the teams.

A DEAR FRIEND GONE

Pensacola, Fla., March 12, 1934.
Editor, Chilton County NeNws:

In the passing of W. I. Mullins of Clanton I have lost the best friend I had in that county. I have known him for more than fifty years, and to know him was to love him. I know when Mr. Mullins went into business in a little country store at Kincheon. Mr. Mullins was a friend indeed because he was a friend in need. If I went to him for advice he gave it freely. If I went to him for financial help he gave that freely. I am deeply grieved at his passing and will say to the family that I sympathize with them in their trouble.

SAYS VOTE FOR McCORD

(Intended for last week)

Editor, Chilton County News:

A few months ago when the people of this state were looking about for a leader to steer our old ship of state out of the troubled waters of debt, depression and despair into a heaven of calmer seas, we were made glad by the announcement for Governor of Judge Leon McCord.

He is 100 per cent Democrat and has always answered his party's call to battle in time of need. He was always found on the firing line and there was never any question marks attached. We are glad to note his announcement in The Birmingham News that he will speak in Clanton Sat. afternoon, the 24th, and we are sure that he will leave here assured of a large majority of the votes of Chilton County.

Judge McCord's honesty and integrity is as solid as the rock of Gibraltar; his courage unchallagened and his abality unquestioned. If you wish to have economy in goverment, restore the credit of our state, and redeem it's prestige so that we will not have to hang our heads in shame when we say we are from Alabama, then vote for Judge Leon McCord for governor.

—P. H. KNOX, Clanton, Ala.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

Commencement exercises at C.C.H.S. this year will not be lacking in dignity, for the Senior Class voted to use caps and gowns at these impressive and significant services. The use of the caps and gowns eliminates all disorder about what the students will wear. No student will be embarrassed because of the simplicity of his clothes as contrasted with some of the expensive ones that other students would wear. Caps and gowns add not only a touch of dignity that will impress everyone with the meaning of graduation but they assure the fact that there will be uniformity in dress. Many patrons and students of the school believe that it should be made a custom and requirement that the graduating Senior wear caps and gowns. By doing this all the debating and disorder over whether to use caps and gowns would be entirely eliminated.

Chilton plays her first baseball game of this season tomorrow afternoon. The opposing and losing team (we hope) will be Marbury High. The game will be called at 3:15 and the admission for you students will be only ten cents. For outsiders the price will be fifteen cents A large number of the students will be there because our response to the first game will determine the amount of enthusiasm that the "ole nine" will put in their playing. O. K. Chilton, let's begin the baseball season with big victory.

Let's hope that tomorrow Mr. Warr will have to award his prize for the first home run. Come on you "baby" Ruths.

Few people realize what a broad trritory C. C. H. S. really serves. Not many people are awake to the fact that the youth of America today have better opportunities of gaining an education than fifteen years ago. Some amazing discoveries were made the other day in checking over statistics kept at the office of the principal. Did you know that Chilton county high school is patronized by 190 families. That is, there are 190 families who have one or more children attending this school. Do you really stop to think about the size of the territory which this school influences in its many ways At the present time the C. C. H. S. reaches fifteen miles into the county for students.

Boys and girls who live fifteen miles from a school being able to attend school at the expense of the state shows how public education has grown. To be able to be in school during the day and enjoy the atmosphere of their own home that night is what the school buses have given to the youth of today.

Almost fifty per cent of the total number of students enrolled here are students that come to school on school buses. There are 268 students at C. C. H. S. and 108 of these are transported at the expense of the state.

Chilton County High School, its faculty, and its students turn their faces upon Mr. John Hollis with admiration and appreciation. In admiration of his interest in the boy who is striving to make the best of his opportunities and in appreciation of the wonderful offer that he has made to a student or students, of C. C. H. S. Mr. Hollis, superintendent of Mitchell Dam, has invited any Senior boy to pay a visit to the dam as his guest. While there the student will be shown through the plant and the wonders of electricity will be explained to him. Mr. Hollis will also spend a little time in testing the ability of this student in the electrical field. Any Senior boy who has a tendency to turn to electrical engineering or simlar vocation will now have a chance to take a short study under an expert in his field.

" Oh, Min." Yessir, it's on my mind again. Folks the thing that has caused these interruptions in this column is the Junior play which will be presented on the night of April 6. The title of this play is, "He's My Pal." It has a plot that unites mystery with humor; the sly tricks of a schemer with the witty remarks of witty half-wit; the boast of a brave hero with the pleas of a henpecked husband and flavors it all with romance.

Would you sacrifice your best girl for the sake of your best friend? This question and also how a hen-pecked husband gets even with his wife are only at trickling of what is in store for those who are wise and will see "He's My Pal." The characters and the story of this star play will be printed next week. Watch for it.

Who Am I??  Through an error the name of the one week before last was not printed last week. It was Roberta Cochran. And last week "Who Am I" was Helen Moore. Now rack your brains and solve this one.  I am a Senior Three. I am very attractive. I have dark hair. I am wearing two class rings. (That will help you find who I am.) I live in Clanton. I also have a red coat. Now who am I?

"The Scandal Sheet."  It seems that a few people do read this section so I'll continue to write it. But darn if I see what's in it.  So they were just giving her a taste of what she gave when she came to their parties. That's why they acted cold last Friday night. That's what some say.  One half is on one side and the other half is on the other side. What a crowd, what a crowd.  Some think they are on both but—oh well.  It appears that the class rings are changing from fingers of the masculine group to those of the feminine group rather slowly. What's wrong?  How these measles do spread. You can check up on the youngsters. One boy had them; the next day a certain girl had them and then the next day another boy breaks out with them. Someone got a dirty deal.  But notice the preceeding statement is not referring to the writer by any means.  Oranges, oranges, and more oranges. Too many will hurt one.

Mr. John Fennel, a prominent planter of Leighton, Alabama, recommends Arcadian Nitrate of Soda for both cotton and corn. He says:

"I HAVE USED IT FOR THREE YEARS WITH PERFECTLY SATISFACTORY RESULTS; I USED 100 TONS LAST YEAR AND 200 TONS THIS YEAR."

We recommend and sell Arcadian, the American Nitrate of Soda because farmers find they can depend on it. There is none better. It is a quick-acting top-dressing.

Graves Would Not Revive Law Enf. Dept.

Montgomery, Ala., March 26—Colonel Bibb Graves, candidate for Governor, declared here today that when he goes back into the governor's office there will not be any need for re-establishing the old law-enforcement department. "I expect to develop a highway patrol sufficient in both size and efficiency to take care of the enforcement of Alabama's State laws," he said. "When I call a special election at which the people of Alabama will express their wishes regarding the sale of whiskey and the results show that some of the counties prefer to remain dry, these counties will have the full beneft of the hghway patrol and all other protective agencies at my command."

Colonel Graves also said that there are one hundred million dollars available to Alabama in Washington for public improvements and that one of his first efforts will be to go to Washington and get the money. He said that about 80 per cent of the money is available for the development to navagation on the Coosa-Alabama and Tombigbee Rivers and the balance will be applied on other public projects throughout the State.

The Bibb Graves Headquarters here announce that Colonel Graves will speak Monday at Livingston, Tuesday at Carrollton, Wednesday at Fayette, Thursday at Winfield and Friday at Russelville.

To force her daughter, Mrs. Katherine Kahl, to pay 15 months rent totaling $220.50 Mrs. Louise R. Ansbro of Seattle has filed suit in court.

Mt. Pleasant School

The Mt. Pleasant boys basket ball team won the county championship last week. Although part of the regular team was unable to play, the boys came through in grand style. They drew a Bye in the first round and defeated the strong Union Grove five in the semi-finals and won by a forfeit from Thomas Jr. for championship. Coach Glasscock's boys have had a very successful season this year. They have suffered only one defeat at the hands of a Jr. High team, that being to Union Grove the first of the season. Coach Glasscock has a bunch of kids that are trained so well they play like old heads.

An all-county team was chosen. Mt. Pleasant had three men on this team. Vernon Collins center, Coonie Childress guard and Leonard Burnette forward.

So well was the game played between Mt. Pleasant and Union that people thought they were high schools playing. When the game started, the ball tossed in center, up goes Collins, tips the ball to Burnette and to little Earl Melton and through the basket before anyone knew that the game was underway. Those Mt. Pleasant boys were just too good with their sharp shooting and quick passing. Such passwork has not been excelled in this county this year.

We were very sorry Cecil and Julius Traywick, two regular guards, could not play, and also George Chambers, a forward or guard. However, sickness is something we cannot avoid. Coach Glasscock took little Earl Melton and Chester Jones and did those boys fill every demand. Little Earl almost ruined those nets putting them through and Chester just wouldn't let his man shoot.

We must not forget the splendid work of Coonie Childress, who held the high scorer from Union to two points, while he was looping 6 points himself. Vernon Collins gave his mates the tip off every time, although his opponent was taller. He also played good ball on the spot, handling that position like an old head. Did Leonard Burnette get that tip-off and how, and did he plot and shoot, Just ask his opponents! Hubert Dukes also played good ball, being the only sub. used in the tournament by Mt. Pleasant.

The following is the record of games and scores for this year. The first figure is Mt. Pleasant's score, and the last one, her opponent's:

14	UNION GROVE	17
37	CONCORD	10
35	THOMAS, JR.	13
18	CALERA	9
46	CONCORD	18
20	CALERA	19
18	UNION GROVE	17
22	STANTON	18
25	UNION GROVE	11 Tour.
10	THOMAS, JR.	0 For..T.
22	VERMONT	11

JUDGE McCORD

the present system of taxation nothing more than legal robbery, he declared that if he is elected Governor, he will favor reduction of taxes for the farmer and an exemption from taxation for small homes.

Attacking the record of Col. Bibb Graves' administration, Judge McCord avered that the people of Alabama will never allow him another term in the Governor's chair. Charging wanton wastefulness, he said that Graves is wholly responsible for the State's outrage indebtiness. "The farmer, the merchant, the filling station man are all saying, 'He must not go back,'" continued the speaker.

Judge McCord said Graves is now claiming that he left a deficit of only $4,000,000 when he retired in 1931, although the report of Graves' ownly budget commission, issued before he went out of office, estimated that the deficit at the close of his term would be more than $14,000,00. He told the audience that Graves' men are now circulating "scurrilous statements" over the state about him in an effort to prejudice the people and permit Graves and those who held office under him to ride back to power and to the public pay roll again.

"Horace C. Wilkinson of Birmingham is the man who is circulating the untrue statements," said Judge McCord. "He is the man who led the fight against the democratic ticket in 1928 and caused the split in the democratic party. He is the man who supported the independent ticket against the democratic nominees in 1930. He is now seeking to elect Graves so he and his crowd can feast and fill and fatten on the tax payers again."

Relating a story of how the State institution for insanes at Tuscaloosa has saved enough in recent years from its meager appropriation to build $2,000,000 worth of buildings, Judge McCord struck a responsive chord in the minds of his listeners with the query, "Why can't an able-bodied convict be made to support himself?" Present figures show that the State is losing above $75 per year on each convict.

"Under the present system, we are sending young men to hell every day. When you sentence a boy to serve a term in Kilby Prison, or any of the State penal institutions, you are sending that boy to his doom. You are sending him to an institution where he receives master training in crime.

"If I am elected Governor, I shall favor a re-organization of our criminal institutions, where criminals may be segregated according to the degree of their offense, so that young boys will not be thrown with hardened yeggs, and we'll make provisions to help those boys back to respectability."

Declaring that he believes it not only possible to make the convict department pay its own way, but possible to save enough money to create a sinking fund from which small slaries can be paid paroled convicts to work for the State until they have a chance to re-establish themselves with civilization. This will prevent them of necessity breaking a safe the first week they are out of the penitentiary.

Reiterating his assertion that the people of Alabama must be the Governor of Alabama, Judge McCord declared that with the cooperation of the citizens of the State, we will have at least seven months schools and teachers will be paid every month.

Major Frank M. Dixon, another candidate for Governor, will speak in Clanton next Saturday afternoon.

tary of Agriculture. Chilton County will rent about 17,000 acres.

The first rental payments under the 1934-35 cotton reduction agreement were made March 16, when checks totaling $1,609.16 were mailed to thirty-eight cotton producers of Talliafero County, Georgia.

If Chilton County had have had only thirty-eight contracts, we too could have had our contracts to Washington and would probably have been paid before now, but Chilton has 2,575 contracts and it is a big job to get them ready for approval. However, we are working on them every day now and hope to have them ready to go to Washington soon.

So IT SEEMS

By Victor Norris

Chilton County, the last of the sixty-seven counties visited by Major Frank M. Dixon, is now conceding that he is in the race. Judging from the comment heard on the streets, the "New Deal" candidate made quite a ripple here with his simple speech last Saturday. Voters in this county have so long been accustomed to the bull whip type of politics that they are becoming just a bit tired of it. Dixon's speech was free of mud-slinging, which was quite as great an innovation as some of the changes he advocates.

Reference to mud-slinging reminds us of a little incident which occurred in Clanton during the last gubernatorial campaign. Judge Miller had the griddle sizzling down at the high school auditorium. Some listener came back to the courthouse in the middle of the speech and commented that 'Miller is really slaying 'em down yonder.' A bystander, not too well versed in political jargon, rushed down to Martin & Sons with the report that murder was being committed down at the high school. Sam Martin, with siren screaming, made off in a cloud of dust—only to find it was the age-old political game of character-murder.

If some young legislator, who desires to make a name for himself—and incidentally do a great service for his constituents, could devise some method of getting a law written forcing candidates to prove the truth of all charges made by them in their political wrangle, it would be one of the greatest possible contributions to clean government. Under the present licensed lying system, a voter has small chance of determining the qualifications, or character, of any candidate, when his opponent is licensed to go about defaming his character; and often-times on charges far removed from truth.

John Peach, legal adviser to Governor Miller, in a published statement, avers that he has discovered that Alabama's parole system should be reorganized, declaring that 'in many instances political pressure is brought to bear in requests for paroles.

Although Mr. Peach is duelittle credit as a discoverer in this instance, his views indicate wisdom.

Doubtless there has never been a more tragic mis-carriage of justice than that of giving to any one man the power to pardon or parole a state's convict. Those familiar with the system in any state know that in the majority of cases pardons are swapped for political prestige, or granted as political favors—which amounts to the same thing.

There is no more real reason for westing in a governor this power of upsetting legal justice as decreed by the state's courts than there would be for allowing some individual to control the rainfall, or the sun. Governors should not be subjected to such great temptations. Under the present system, there is little reason for having courts. Why not just let the governor try, and sentence, all criminals? In very few cases does more than a few months elapse anyway, before he is required to study all the evidence in an effort to determine whether or not a plea for a pardon should be granted.

Seems that Congress, too, has been guilty recently of a little political maneuvering. A two-thirds majority of those wise counselors saw fit to override the President's veto for the purpose of swinging the veteran vote They were willing to upset the entire budget rather than risk incurring the hostility of the veterans.

It will be remembered that these veterans are the same lads who in '17 and '18 donned the khaki and offered their lives for their country. They were willing to die for the honor of their country.

And today, they are still willing to cooperate for the best interests of that same flag. If the best interests call for a postponement of the bonus, we believe they are still willing and ready to answer the call.

Much credit is due those few who stood for conviction in the face of what many believed dangerous to personal ambitions. Alabama has a right to be proud of Oliver, Bankhead, and McDuffie.

Even the veterans who believe that the overriding of the President's veto was a bid for their vote lost a bit of respect for those voting. Perhaps the one thing that did more to substantiate the public's confidence in President Roosevelt was his stand for a reduction of the soldier pension about a year ago. Everyone, including those effected, hold only admiration for a man with courage enough to risk what others considered political suicide for the common good. It took nerve—such nerve as some members of Congress seem not to possess.

SUPPORT FOR ATKINSON IS SHOWING GAIN

Candidate For Circuit Judge Finds Support Even In Remotest Corners

Following several visits through Elmore and Autauga counties, Hon. J B Atkinson, Chilton county's candidate for Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit composed of the counties of Autauga, Elmore and Chilton states that he is elated over the splendid support he is receiving in all three counties.

Reports from scores of Atkinson supporters in Autauga and Elmore counties declare that he will receive votes from those two counties even in the most remote corners and edges. Voters who up until a few days ago were undecided, have declared themselves for Atkinson after having heard more about him and the splendid record he has made as an attorney and business man, stating that they firmly believe he is the man to fill the bench of Judge of this circuit.

Supporters of Atkinson who have heretofore been silent, have become more and more active in his behalf, One of the outstanding statements heard recently in behalf of Mr. Atkinson was to the effect that "all things considered, we believe that the people of this circuit will do well to elect Atkinson as Circuit Judge. He is capable, just, honest and deserving. He is not connected with any political set-up in either county. He is unquestionably a leader, a man who has been along the hard road of life and has come out full of experience and understanding."

Many other such statements are being heard on every hand and there is no way of knowing the number of "silent supporters" who will remember this man when they mark their ballots in the coming primary.

GRAVES RALLY HELD HERE LAST FRIDAY NIGHT

Plans Discussed For Organizing Graves Clubs In Chilton County

Scores of supporters of Col. Bibb Graves for governor of Alabama staged a county-wide rally at the Chilton County court house in Clanton last Friday night, when three noted speakers met with local supporters of the former governor and discussed the possibility of his candidacy in this county.

The purpose of the meeting was to lay plans for the organization of local Graves for Governor clubs. It is the intention, according to Graves supporters, to organize clubs for women, young men, and senior voters of the county.

L. B. Tipton, of Selma, State chairman of Graves for Governor clubs, was the first speaker on the program at the rally, when he outlined club organization in the various counties over the State, urging local supporters of Graves' candidacy to line up behind the club organization idea.

Judge W. N. Herbert, of Demopolis, was the second speaker on the program, giving a resume of the life of the former governor from his early life through his administration as governor of Alabama.

John Kohn, Montgomery County campaign manager for Colonel Graves, outlined the platforms of both Judge Leon McCord and Maj. Frank M. Dixon, comparing them to the Graves platform.

It has not been learned just what date Colonel Graves will speak in Clanton, but it is expected that he will visit Chilton County during this month.

Cow Affected With Rabies Bites Man

"When a man bites a dog," the age-old barometer by which energetic newspaper reporters have long measured their efforts for readers' appeal, came near fulfillment in Chilton County last week.

A. T. Edwards, of Thorsby R.F.D., didn't bite a dog, in fact he didn't bite anything. What happened was much more dangerous.

While trying to drench a rabies affected cow, he was bitten on the hand and now is taking shots for the prevention of the disease.

New Program Will Help To Place Persons On Self-Sustaining Basis

No definite announcements could be made this week by local agencies of government relief and emergency work regarding the exact provisions of the new program, which is being formulated and is expected to be put into effect within the next thirty days.

Several State-wide meetings of CWA and relief administrators have been held, but the program is still in the process of formulation, it was stated.

The new program, however it is understood, will provide for rehabilition and will encompass to some extent the former programs of both the CWA and relief administration in Chilton County. The local relief unit is to make an investigation of all relief applicants in the county during the next thirty days and map out plans for them to rehabilitate and place themselves on self-sustaining basis. No more cash relief will be available under the new program, it was stated.

SCHOOLS MAY CLOSE ON EIGHT MONTH TERMS

Withdrawal Of Sixty Percent. Of Federal Allocation May Shorten Terms

Educational authorities in Alabama are more puzzled than ever about the continuance of schools since the sixty per cent reduction in the allocation of federal funds made to Alabama recently for the continuance of the state schools.

Supt. Luther E. Little stated this week that he could not make a definite statement regarding the closing dates for schools in Chilton County. He stated that several days ago he received a telegram from Dr A F Harman, State Superintendent of Education, notifying him of the reduction in the federal allocation, but since then, he said he has received notice that there is a possibility that the appropriation may again be increased.

Mr. Little is busy this week planning a schedule for the continued operation of the county's schools and stated that he hopes to announce the definite closing dates within a few days. He stated that he has written principals of all high schools in the county to withhold making definite plans for commencement exercises for another week. Chilton County will be assured of at least eight month terms for the high schools, he continued.

HUNDREDS HEAR DIXON OUTLINE PROGRAM SAT.

Birmingham Candidate Ends Tour Of State With Address At Clanton

Major Frank M. Dixon, candidate for governor, ended a tour of the sixty-seven counties in Alabama with a speech last Saturday afternoon at the courthouse in Clanton, when he outlined his reorganization program to an estimate audience of one thousand persons.

Declaring that Alabama has overslept its rights, continuing along the same age-old lines of expensive government, while states to north, east, and west have been under-going innovation and reorganizing under more efficient and less expensive forms of government, in which the voice of the people rings above the voices of the professional politician.

The simplicity of his appeal was as novel to his listeners as are the many changes which he advocates, but despite the lack of emotional effort to sway his listeners, there was a marked attentiveness throughout the one hour and fifteen minute address.

Although believing that the changes which he advocates are essential to the soundness of good government, and especially at this time, the Birmingham candidate declared his policy will be to let the people choose. If they are satisfied with the expensive and inefficient forms of county government which are

Steady At The Wheel

They came, one and all—railroad chiefs and brotehrhoods of the labor and their representatives, and laid their troubles and their problems before the man in the White House. He listened, consoled, argued and pleaded with these troubled men to put the country ahead of their own private interests.

It is sometimes a severe strain on patriotism to obey the will of the President of the United States. But Franklin Roosevelt wins them over, singly, in groups and in great masses. His is a steady hand at the wheel. What a country, what a leader!

It's good to be part and parcel of this great United States, where there is so much common sense, so much patience, so much in the way of good intention and cooperation.

That's the new story of Washington and the National Capital during these recent days when things have been "cracking". That's also the old, old story of our Nation. It's the greatest country 'neath the sun.

Speed Breeds Death

One of the most serious aspects of the automobile accident problem is a constant increase in the number of fatalities per accident. In 1933, for example, the number injured non-fatally increased 2.2 per cent over 1932—while fatalities jumped 5.9 per cent.

The reason for this is obvious: Excessive speed. It is an incontrovertible maxim that the chance of an accident producing a fatality becomes greater as the speed of cars involved increases. A vivid example of this is provided by comparing last year with 1927. Registrations in 1933 were less than 3 per cent above the 1927 level. The total number of miles driven by passesger cars was little, if any, greater. But there were 17 per cent more deaths.

A recent exhaustive survey produced the fact that excessive speed was responsible for 33 per cent of all automobile deaths. An that term, "excessive speed," needs a definition. There are times when fifteen miles an hour is dangerous and there are times fifty miles an hour is overcautious. Road and weather conditons, the amount of traffic, the experience of the driver, the condition of the car—these factors, rather than a mere speedometer reading, are the tests of safe operating speeds.

Any speed is unsafe if the driver is unable to stop his car in the assured clear distance ahead. Road and weather vary the safety factor.

Study your car and your own capabilities. Discover how soon you can stop at varying speeds. This indispensable in becoming a safe motorist.

Cooperation Or What?

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace advocates that we adopt a middle road between nationalism and internationalism. We would both sell and buy more abroad than we do at present. And an essential of that, as Mr. Wallace pointed out, is that about $25,000,000 acres of first-class agricultural land be retired from production.

Acreage and crop control is the most persistent of agricultural problems now. Every farm economist, every qualified observer, every progressive farmer, knows the need of it. In certain agricultural fields—notably cotton —a large measure of success has been achieved in obtaining it, due to the intensive work of cotton cooperatives whose membership includes a heavy percentage of the farmers of their areas.

Unorganized farmers, each pursuing his own policy irrespective of markets or price levels, are the great obstacles to crop regulations. They continue to produce surpluses that must be thrown into already glutted markets, forcing down prices—and governmental work has made hardly a dent. The way out is through more intensive voluntary cooperation.

Cooperatives are essential to recovery and to prevent government regulations of farms.

Better Homes Ease Financing

In the effort to speed recovery, there can be no greater service to the nation at large than to stimulate private construction—both by creating a wider demand for homes, and by making financing easier.

A start has been made through the Home Loan Banks, toward loosening credit for residential building. Building and loan groups, as the leaders of a number of them have said, should follow. The home-builder himself can help by building a higher-quality structure, both for reasons of economy and comfort, and because the better the home, the more worthy it is of a loan.

Nowadays there is no excuse for building poorly. Methods and materials have been imprved—and depression has actually forwarded progress in this field, due to the need to make sales appeal stronger than ever. The jerry-built home is doomed.

Is a house fire-resistant? Is it rigid in construction? Will maintenance cost be low? Has it the modern conveniences that wise buyers demand? These and similar questions, answered in the affirmative, point the way to better homes for America.

The Greenville, South Carolina, News points out that the railroads of the country now face substantially better business prospects than they did last year, and adds: "It is gratifying, however, to observe that the railroads are not depending merely on improvement in general business —During the last year many of them have taken vigorous steps to make their service more attractive to the shipper."

CWA Closes Out In Chilton

On March 31, 1934, the CWA program in Chilton County came to a close. This federal project, made possible through the efforts of a great Democratic administration, has been a wonderful blessing to the people of this county, and the News feels that a word of tribute should be spoken about its accomplishments.

It would take too much space here to enumerate the various projects which have made up its activities in this county, but suffice it to say that $120,125.93 have been spent in Chilton, and this amount of money has been paid to 1,350 persons. This much money released here at any time would be a big stimulus to business, but coming as it did when our people were short on ready cash, and being distributed to so many different families, and to people who were in need of buying things, it was a blessing indeed.

The CWA was something new, something different, from anything we or any of us have seen before. Never in history has the federal government taken such great concern in the welfare of its people. Never before has the "forgotten man" been so completely remembered.

This program of job-giving came at a time of great need. It has done a splendid work. We believe that, all things considered—especially the immensity of it, and the rapidity with which it was put into effect—it has been administered with a remarkably small amount of waste.

We are sorry to see CWA go—but we knew from the beginning that it was a temporary emergency measure—and as such it has done well. We trust that private enterprise, thus stimulated, will carry on. We understand there is another federal program in the offing, one which leads to a more permanent rehabilitation objective, and we look forward to this with faith that it will prove a blessing to our people because of what the one just closed has accomplished.

Our CCC Camps

A recent news realease coming to our attention is to the effect that a CCC Camp is to be located near Gainesville in Sumter and Greene Counties for the purpose of beginning work on the problem of soil erosion, which reminds us that the President's Civilian Conservation Camps are doing a splendid work, and one which has all the earmarks of permanency.

To begin with these forestry camps gave employment to a great many youths who needed a job. Their families were given part of their wages and thereby relieved a difficult situation.

The boys were given ideal living conditions, the right amount of work and recreation, proper food, and also association with their fellows from different sections of the country. We believe that these things are big factors in developing the right kind of citizens out of our boys in the CCC Camps. Most of them will become more useful men because of this training.

They are taught something worthwhile. The conservation of our forests is a serious matter in America. It will mean something to have young men scattered over the entire country in a few years who will appreciate the importance of conserving this source of wealth, and better still, men who know how to make our woodlands pay dividends.

And now these boys at Gainesville will take up the problem of soil erosion. This, too, is something worthy of thoughtful consideration by our farmers, and when these boys, who study and put into practice the best methods of preventing soil-erosion, come home they will undoubtedly become leaders in their respective communities along these worthwhile lines—all from the wisdom of a great man who has leadership.

Brakes Stop The Wheels; Tires Stop The Car

Rapid development of automobiles and highways during the past few years is causing a sharp challenge to automobile tires, according to reports to Government departments.

The greatly increased power-to-weight ratios in the new automobiles, resulting in much faster acceleration and braking, and the improved non-skid safety highways, with their corrugated and sand-paper finishes, have resulted in much faster tire wear and have stirred automobile tire engineers to renewed activity, the reports indicate.

Because of the constantly increasing number of motor car accidents on the highways and on city streets, government officials are greatly interested in any plans for the reduction of tire wear, and the elimination of unsafe baldheaded and worn out tires from the roads. Engineers have long pointed out that brakes stop the wheels, but that the tires stop the car, and numerous safety tests have shown that the skidding of bald-headed and worn out tires have been responsible for many fatal accidents.

Tires having well defined non-skid treads have been found the safest, with the result that tire engineers are bending every effort to develop tires which will stand up longer under the terrific punishment given them by the improved cars and roads.

Driver's Responsibility

A New York judge the other day called attention to a glaring flaw in the legal machinery which is supposed to protect citizens from financial loss as the result of automobile accidents. His warning was issued after a New Yorker had struck a man and his wife with his auto. The couple sued him and won a judgement for $6,500. The motorist promptly filed a petition in bankruptcy, citing the judgement against him as his only liability and his assets as nothing. As a result, the motorist got off scot free, and the people he had injured were unable to collect a red cent. To the judge, this case stood as a warning of the need for a compulsory liability insurance law; and the judge's viewpoint looks very sound.—Montgomery Journal.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

—o—

And it came to pass that an automobile was given vision and brain power. This car saw a man crawling into the drivers seat under the influence of whiskey and the car opened its mouth and said "Get out of that seat and take your hands off that wheel. I am forced under the law of machinery to go where the man at the wheel orders me to go, and sir, you are in no condition to give orders. Under your guiding hand I may have to strain myself to seventy miles an hour, I may be unable to keep myself on my wheels, I may strike something that will crush my windshield and smash my body, I may be forced to roll and tumble until I kill you and kill others. Get away from that wheel, if you force me to kill or hurt someone, you are just as guilty of murder as the man who takes a gun and shoots to death.' But the drunken man would not listen to the warnings of the car. He climbed into the driver's seat and he placed his hands upon the wheel and his foot upon the gas and the car did the very thing that it warned against.

A man who thought made this statement to me, "If I had the power of making laws I would pass one that would put every man who undertook to drive a car while under the influence of liquor into the gang for two years. I would not allow such offences to be settled with money." Listen to me folks, I had much rather meet a man with a concealed weapon, even with a Gattling gun in his car, than to meet a man driving a car under the influence of whiskey. The man with his weapon is not likely to bother you unless you bother him, but the man driving the car while drunk will kill you whether you bother him or not. It seems that the American mind is determined to loosen up on the whiskey question, and as sure as you live, we have got to tighten up on the laws that will punish the drinking man. If we are real men we can not afford to sit idly by and see whiskey kill its thousands of innocent men and women. There is no more dangerous racketeer abroad in the land than a drunk man sitting at the wheel of an automobile, and we have got to deal with him as such.

A friend of mine was standing with me looking over the shoulders of two champion chess players as they matched wits for the winning game. The man by my side knew the game and as he watched the move of one player he whispered to me, "He has made a bad move." What he said was true for there were only a few more moves until he had lost. I do not claim to be an expert on the game of chess, but I do know something about the game of life. Often do I see young men and young women who make bad moves. They quit going to church and Sunday school, they take up with the dancing, frolicing set, they begin to drink and smoke, they begin to run cars at night and come in after midnight. These are bad moves and in a few years they lose the game of life. Listen to me, just one bad move and you lose.

I saw a cafe keeper as she put flowers on every table and as she beautified the room so as to attract the passerby. Men and women would walk for blocks to patronize this place, not only for the beauty of the place, but also because this cafe keeper had put flowers into her life and face the same as on her tables. Had it ever occurred to you, that you are either making your face and life attractive, or repulsive? We all know people who have nothing but frowns and thorns to present to the passerby. Have you ever crossed the street to keep from meeting such people? On the other hand have you ever gone a block out of your way just to see the face and greet the smile of one whose face and life are adorned with flowers? Blessed is that individual in whose face and heart can always be seen clusters of blooming flowers.

A lady brought home a Prickly Pear from another state, and she planted it in her own yard. Twenty years later the Prickly Pears had taken that place and tenants had moved from that plantation. The plant had so multiplied itself until it had made dangerous the surroundings. I passed it in my car and even some of the thorny leaves clung to my rubber tires. Evil thoughts, like Prickly Pears, will ruin the brain of anyone. Just plant them in your brain and soon they will take possession of your life. Soon they will even make you dangerous for others to approach. Bad thoughts will multiply.

Give Your Corn A Chance

—o—

Often a field of corn, which starts out very promisingly and grows well early in the season, seems to stop altogether just about the time real growth should begin. Every corn grower, some time or other, has experienced this.

Almost without exception the cause of this growth stoppage is the lack of nitrogen available to the plant, it has been explained by agricultural experts. The greatest need for plant food by the corn is just before it starts to form ears. And, therefore, if you hope for a profitable yield, you must feed your land with ample nitrogen.

The use of about 100 to 150 lbs of high quality top-dressing, such as the American Nitrate of Soda, to each acre as side-dressing will make all the difference between crop success and crop failure. The little extra cost for the Nitrate of Soda and for the labor in applying it will be repaid many times in increased yield and improved quali-

Outstanding Options Will Expire May 1st

The following information concern- cotton option contracts, of interest to farmers of this section, has been furnished the News by State NRA Compliance, John D. Petree Director, by S. E. Addicks, Executive Assistant:

Cotton producers holding approximately 14,500 cotton option contracts were reminded today by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration that these options must be exercised by May 1 or the proper arrangements made for an extension. It is estimated that outstanding options are for approximately 90,000 bales of cotton.

According to the terms of the cotton option contract, the option expires unless it is received for execution before May 1, 1934, or unless a formal request is made for an extension. This formal request must be made on a form provided by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration (Form C-5-B) which has been furnished each option holder, and which specifies the conditions under which the option may be extended.

If an extension is obtained by the option holder, it is provided that the purchase price of 6 cents per pound is to be increased at the rate of 40 cents per bale per month or part of a month the contract is carried after May 1, 1934. This is to cover the carrying charges on the cotton.

Vermont Jr. High School News

The Jr. High Concêrt was presented last Friday night to a packed house of enthusiastic parents and friends. Each phase of the program was rendered by the students in a most clever and fitting way and each part was received by a rousing encore from the listeners. The writer wishes to make note of the fact that the conduct and order was as nigh perfect as one would ordinarily ask. This one element was a great inspiration to the youngsters in helping them put over their respective parts The Rhythm Band composed of third and fourth grades and the girls quartet under the direction of Miss Grant, rendered several popular musical numbers, and a number of pupils, under the supervision of Miss Cagle, offered three impressive dialogues, interspersed with two comic recitations, while four of the Junior High girls, under the direction of Mr. Johnson, divided their opinions in a very amusing burlesque on the great subject of international importance; Resolved: That the present calendar should be changed to 13 months. Then concluding the program, eight attractive little girls, dressed in checkered blue and white ginghams dresses, rendered a chorus of songs and drills, to send the audience home in a happy frame of mind.

Proceeds from the door receipts will be used to purchase stage curtains and for the girls Atheletic club.

The first six grades of school enjoyed a cleverly arranged Easter egg hunt on Friday morning.

The entire faculty motored to Birmingham on March 23rd to attend the Alabama Educational association.

Our P. T. A. held its semi-monthly meeting on last Monday night. At this writing no report has been framed as to the number present, business transacted, etc. Our last two meeting dates have been forced to postponement on account of unfavorable weather conditions.

Miss Cagle motored to Montgomery last Saturday with her sister and brothcer-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jean Wyatt.

Mr. Green Thomas, ex-principal of Vermont, paid a visit to our school last Thursday.

The Jr. Three and sixth grade classes met last Monday to complete final arrangements for the graduation exercises which will be held on Friday night, April 20. Plans are in effect to have an outstanding speaker to deliver the graduating address.

There seems to be another outbreak of Measles in our school district, but as we did before, we hope to avoid the closing of school by having exposed students remain at home until danger has passed. School is almost at an end and it would work a great injury to all students if we were forced to dismiss right in the midst of our final preparations for examination and commencement exercises.

We are proud to learn that there is a strong possibility of the schools of Chilton County continuing their full term of seven months even though the Federal Authorities have not granted $2,400,000 which our state schools expected.

The older boys of the community have organized their baseball club and have spent several days recently in leveling and shaping the ball ground. They opened the current season last Saturday afternoon by slugging their way to a 16 to 6 victory over the popular Cotton Mill team of Clanton, this season. Everyone interested in atheletics should get behind the boys and encourage them on to large number of victories against a small number of losses. They need your support if they expect to win.

Supt. Little came out to our school last week with a building committee. They were securing the plans of the ventilating and heating system of our building.

Attendance has been highly satisfactory the past month. We hope no one will be compelled to miss out the remaining two weeks.

COTTON REPORT FOR 1933

According to the official government report furnished the News there were 12,240 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1933, compared with 11,798 from the crop of 1932.

The only low-priced car with fully-enclosed Knee-Action Wheels and what a difference that makes in performance and dependability

Simple as a Shock Absorber!

Chevrolet's "fully-enclosed" Knee-Action is in reality a gigantic "shock absorber," built solidly on to Chevrolet's big, heavy frame, with the front wheel anchored to the "shock absorber" arm. The result: When the front wheel comes in contact with a bump or hole, it rises or falls to absorb the shock.

CHEVROLET

In a Chevrolet, you not only get the gliding ride at its best, you also get several other Knee-Action advantages not found in any other low-priced car! The reason: Chevrolet's Knee-Action is of a very special kind. The patents on it are held exclusively by General Motors. In this construction, the coil spring, which is the heart of the mechanism, is safely and solidly enclosed in a heavy steel housing to keep out dirt and flying stones. What's more, the design of this type is such that the steering mechanism is completely divorced from the spring action, the result being a new and welcome type of shock-proof steering.

Admittedly these "fully-enclosed" Knee-Action wheels are more expensive to produce than other types. But Chevrolet feels that the extra satisfaction thus assured for Chevrolet owners is well worth the extra manufacturing cost. And this same attitude is responsible for the presence of many other "fine-car" features in the new Chevrolet: the large, roomy Fisher body. The new Y-K frame. The cable-controlled brakes. In fact, everything about this automobile reflects Chevrolet's well-known policy: to build the most cars, by building the best cars of low price!

IN MEMORY OF MY AUNT POLLY VARDEN

Our hearts were saddened on March 25, 1934, when my aunt was taken from us to a better world than this. We all should not wish her back again, for we hope she is resting in the arms of Jesus.

Everything on earth was done for her that loving hands could do, but God thought it best to take her to her beautiful home on high. Only those who have felt the strain know how hard it is to give up our loved one. But when death calls us we should all be ready to meet her on a bright, shining shore. Oh, we will miss her around our fireside at home. We also will miss her at church.

How lonely we feel since she has left us. There is a vacant place in our home that can never be filled. Her smile here on earth no more we will see. But, oh, how hard it was to give her up. God help us all to live to meet her in a better world than this. It is sad for us all to part, but the Lord knows best. Her suffering here on earth was terrible. The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. As I said before we all ought to be ready to meet her in a better world than this, for we don't know how soon the time will be for us all to meet up in heaven.

—Written by her niece, Vivian Best.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to the good people for their kindness and sympathy during the sickness and death of our sister, Miss Polly Varden. Especially do we thank Dr. Hayes and also Dr. Ezell for his comforting words to us all. Dr. Hayes did everything in his power to aid her, but God in His wisdom saw fit to take her from our midst. Again we wish to thank each and everyone for their kindness. May God's richest blessings rest upon each and everyone.

AN EASTER PICNIC

There was a large crowd enjoyed an Easter picnic near Kincheon Easter Sunday. They all gathered in a pine grove and played games until the noon hour. Then a bountiful lunch was served. Then they all returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Dobbs. Then more games were played and the Easter eggs were hunted.
